Another big strike on new body or ore altogether was found in the north drift 6east wall which is the main reason for soon advancing the price. The stock today based on the merits of the property and ore in sight is intrinsically worth over one dollar a share and when mill is running should go to $5 is the judgment and honest belief of the president, D. J. Kennedy.

CANADA'S GOOD CREDIT.

London, Dec. 3.—A sharp rise is recorded in Canadian 3½ per cent. in consequence of the placing of Canadian treasury bills, amounting to £2,000,000, on the market. While rumors of a fresh loan have been circulating, the bills have been placed on terms thoroughly favorable to the Dominion Government.

The Standard remarks, that, having regard to the present monetary conditions, it thinks the Canadian Government is to be congratulated, firstly, upon its policy of raising money at the present time in short-term maturities, rather than stock,

Ward System By-Law to go to the People in January

All the members were present except Ald. J. J. Turner, and Mayor Rush occupied the chair.

The minutes of the last regular meeting were read and adopted.

COMMUNICATIONS.

The following communications were received and dealt with:—

From Margaret Blodgett asking that the $20 retained by the city from her late husband's watering contract for improper work be now paid to her as she is need of the money.

From Canadian Machinery asking the city to use their paper for advertising purposes.

From Wm. McKnight, 694 Concession street, applying for position of janitor for the new library.

From Angus McMurchy, solicitor for the C.P.R., enclosing plan for new siding to the Peterborough Hardware Company's new building.

From Collin Gibbs applying for position as caretaker of the new library.

From Henry Best claiming $1000 from the city for land and damages suffered by him through the city expropriating his property for the extension of Aylmer street south. Mr. Best asks $900 for the land and $100 damages.

From James Swanston applying for position of caretaker for the new public library.

From M. C. Tooley and William Snowden applying for a pawn shop license.

From Wm. Snowden applying for a pawn broker's license.

From ratepayers asking for an arc lamp at the corner of Dunlop and Auburn streets.

From the National Sanitarium Association asking the city for aid for the Muskoka Hospital.

From H. L. Beal applying for position of librarian in the new library.

From Mrs. Annie M. Campbell, through Messrs. Dennistoun, Peck & Kerr, asking that her ownership of property west of the water front be considered along with other requests in the same neighborhood.

From W. J. Moher, secretary T.A.S., asking that taxes on their rooms be remitted.

From secretary Board of Trade enclosing copy of resolution passed by the Board of Trade.

From the Board of Health recommending the construction of a sewer on Donegal street from Brock street north to the creek.

From E. J. Greenstreet, Toronto, in reference to abattoirs, cold storage plants, etc.

From Dumble & Johnston requesting that the business assessment of Florence & Sons, be adjusted.

From O'Connell & Gordon notifying the council that Patrick Cranly of Douro, fell off a sidewalk on Roger street, and sustained severe injury on November 1st last. He asks for $1000 damages and gave the city until the 13th before taking proceedings.

A second letter from Messrs. O'Connell & Gordon notified the council that Patrick Cranly of Douro, had died as a result of his injuries sustained on November 1st, by falling off Rogers street. They increased their claim upon the city to $2,000.

From G. W. Hatton claiming $200 damages as result of a runaway on Concession street, owing to the street being in a bad state of repair.

From the City Trust Commission, asking for reasons why the council gave a lease of a portion of the water front lots.

Rev. Father McColl wrote the following letter to the City Council in reference to aid for the poor housed at the House of Providence:—

"We spoke to you some months ago in reference to receiving a grant from the city towards the support of the poor from the city in the House of Providence. A committee from the Charity Board examined into the matter and reported nine as deserving poor. These have been in the House of Providence the whole of this year. Now we shall be greatly obliged if you will give at least a portion of the amount necessary for their maintenance. We think $6 a month for each of them not an exhorbitant sum. We wish to remind you that Toronto and other cities of Ontario give grants to the House of Providence in these cities. Hoping to receive favorable consideration in this matter."

TAX REPORT.

The following report was received by the council from Tax Collector Green:—

To amount on roll	$182,029.12
By amount collected ...	167,324.89
Balance	$ 14,704.25
20 per cent. discount on 1st payment	2,652.59
Balance	$12,951.64
Amount collected and deposited during Nov	$23,122.00

Ald. Duffus and Ald. Morrow moved that the $20 asked for by Mrs. Blodgett be paid.—Carried.

Aldermen Buller and Hicks moved that Father McColl's request be referred to the Finance Committee with power to act.—Carried.

POULTRY ASSOCIATION.

Ald. Metheral said he expected the Finance Committee would recommend that a grant be made to the Poultry Association but none was made.

Ald. Morrow explained that there had been no appropriation made but that every member of the committee favored a grant being made and agreed that early next year the grant would be made.

A number of bylaws were then passed.

Dr. F. L. Robinson's account for $5.75 for damage to a hack was passed by the council.

WARD SYSTEM BYLAW.

Ald. Hicks brought up the matter of the ward system bylaw which it was proposed to submit to the people. He said he did not think it would be advisable to make a change now as the two-year term has not yet been tried. He thought that the present term should be tried out before undoing what the council had gone to so much trouble to get the legislature to grant.

Ald. Morrow very strongly supported this idea as the legislature granted this privilege to Peterborough, and this was the only city in Ontario which has that system, and the legislature is watching what is being done with it.

Ald. Hicks' motion was a tie 5 to 5.

The yeasand nays were taken as follows:—

Yeas—Phelan, Morrow, Gillespie, Duffus, Hicks.

Nays—McIntyre, Metheral, Bradburn, Morgan, Duncan, Buller.

This resulted in the council deciding to submit the bylaw to the people for a vote on the ward system.

The council spent a lot of time on the bylaw arranging for the election in January and it was midnight before they adjourned.

PRINCESS CHANGES HANDS.

Mr. Ernest Hanna Will Conduct a Business Already Popular.

On Saturday a business deal was consummated whereby the Princess theatorium changed proprietorship. This popular place of amusement was opened as a moving picture show some two months ago by Mr. Stanley Coon. On Saturday Mr. Ernest Hanna paid over the purchase price. Mr. Hanna has a large circle of warm personal friends in the city and county and will doubtless enjoy a large patronage at the Princess. Mr Hanna is determined to continue the good name of the Princess and to show no picture or vaudeville that could possibly offend the most fastidious patron. For today there will be a complete change of pictures. The charming little Miss Lilly Loraine, ten years old, will present character songs and dances.

THE WEATHER.

Fair and moderately cold.

Isolation Hospital is to cost City $19,000

Hurrah! The isolation hospital will be submitted to the people in January. The council gave it two readings last night and the amount being asked for is $19,000. If the people carry the bylaw it will be erected early next spring.

Ald. Bradburn moved the first reading of a bylaw for the erection of an isolated hospital to cost $19,000. The council then went into Committee of the Whole Council on the second reading.

This opened up the whole question of the isolation hospital. Ald. Morrow said $19,000 was too much. It ought to be built for $15,000.

Ald. Bradburn showed the council where the money would go to, and he could not see that the building could be put up and equipped for any less.

Ald. Morrow then moved that the amount be $16,000.

Ald. Bradburn suggested that the matter be left over until next year and allow the new council to take it up.

The bylaw, however, carried at $19,000 and it will go to the people. If the people turn it down then the council can build one for $15,000.

Canada to Supply Horses for the Army

London, Dec. 6.—The military correspondent of the Pall Mall Gazette suggests that a Canadian reserve of 50,000 horses, including 5,000 trained remounts for cavalary, to cost $500,000 a year, be established.

Will Start Operations on C.P.R. New Grain Route in the Spring

Lindsay, Dec. 6.—There is every likelihood of the C.P.R. commencing operations on its grain route from Coldwater to the main line next spring. The survey for the route from that point to this town has been filed at the local registry office, and it is understood that the company has decided to tap the main line near Kendry, about five miles from Peterborough. Their original intention to cross the river at Carew's mill will be carried out, and the line will run in an easterly course through Manvers township, touching closely to Bethany.

Will Hear Appeals.

His Honor Judge Huycke has set Tuesday, Dec. 21st as the date for hearing the appeals against the voters' list. There are something over 300 appeals but the local option and License Victuallers' Association will get togwther shortly and fix up their lists so that the judge's labor will be greatly lessened.

VARICOCELE CURED

NO NAMES USED WITHOUT WRITTEN CONSENT.

Confined to His Home for Weeks.

"Heavy work, severe straining and evil habits in youth brought on a double varicocele. When I worked hard the pain would become severe and I was often laid up for a week at a time. My physician told me an operation was my only hope—but I dreaded it. I tried several specialists, but none told it out all they wanted was my money. I commenced to look upon all doctors as fools before they began. One day my boss asked me why I was off work so much and I told him my condition. He advised me to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, as he had taken treatment from them for rupture and knew they were square and skilful. I wrote them and got The New Method Treatment. My progress was somewhat slow and during the first month's treatment I was somewhat discouraged. However, I continued treatment for three months longer and was rewarded with a complete cure. I could only earn $18 a week in a machine shop before treatment, now I am earning $31 and never lose a day. I wish all sufferers know of your valuable treatment."

Heaviness at Pit of the Stomach

A Feeling of Uneasiness Before and After Meals is Quickly Cured With Nerviline.

Nearly everyone gets an occasional attack of indigestion and knows just what that heavy feeling means in the stomach. "I was subject to stomach derangements and my health was seriously hampered on this account. After meals I belched gas, had a wighty sensation in my stomach and over my left side. The first relief I got was from Nerviline—I used it three times a day and was cured. I continue to use Nerviline occasionally, and find it is a wonderful aid to the stomach and digestive organs."

NERVILINE RESTORES WEAK STOMACHS

The above letter comes from Mrs. P. R. Stetson, wife of an important merchant in Brockton, and still further proof of the exceptional power of Nerviline is furnished by A. E. Rossman, the well-known upholsterer of Chester, who writes: "Let everyone with a bad stomach use 'Nerviline,' and I am sure there will be few sufferers left. I used to have cramps, rumbling noises gas on my stomach and severe fits of indigestion. Nerviline was the only remedy that gave me relief, and I found it so entirely satisfactory that I would like to have my letter of recommendation published broadcast in order that others may profit by my experience."

EMIGRATION FROM THE UNITED STATES TO CANADA.

The new territory in Western Canada which the Grand Trunk Pacific is opening up is so attractive to farmers, prospectors and investors in the Western States that Minnesota and other States in the Union interested are organizing through their commercial bodies movements design to counteract the heavy migration that has set in to the north. A meeting of the Minnesota commercial organizations has been called for November 23rd to devise a method whereby some obstructions can be placed in the way of this emigration. The "St. Paul Despatch" of November 10th says that:—

"Considerable interest in the gathering has been manifested by cities in North Dakota, and several requests that they be permitted to be represented have been received. While it was at first proposed settlers from Minnesota, it is now possible that a united effort will be made to keep American farmers this side of the Canadian border. The conference will prepare literature showing the actual land conditions in Minnesota and North Dakota. This literature will be scattered broadcast over the country and special efforts made to see that it reaches the persons who are at present interested in Canadian lands.

It is said that thousands of farmers, who have sold their land in Eastern States, pass through Minnesota annually on their way to Canada. It is thought that if the advantage offered here could be shown to the immigrants a large portion of them would make this their home."

Don't Risk even a penny—until health returns. And I mean just exactly that. I am the one physician who says to the sick, "Try, out of my own pocket, pay for your medicine if it fails to bring you help."

And for 39 years Dr. Sheop's medicines have been used and recommended in every city and hamlet in America. They are positively standard in every community—and everywhere. Then why pay the cash, and at your risk, for poison unwarranted and unproven medicines? Thousands upon thousands have in the past successfully used Dr. Sheop's Restorative.

When the Stomach, Liver or Kidneys or the Heart serves fail, you know how Dr. Sheop's Restorative will bring them back to health again. The best of all, they positively take no money risk whatever. They know that when health fails to return Dr. Sheop will himself gladly pay the druggist for your test. And for they test a full 30 day treatment is freely granted.

PREVENTION OF FIRES.

How to Avoid Them by Taking Proper Precautions.

Avoid matches whose heads readily snap off. Scores of deaths and destroyed homes are traceable to this cause.

Liquid stove polishes of the kind sold by fakers are nearly always dangerous. Furniture polish should be used with great care too.

All cloths used in rubbing polished floors should be burned away from the house. Neither should they be thrown carelessly around at any time, as there is danger of spontaneous combustion.

Cleaning compounds are always dangerous. Never use benzine, gasoline or like fluids in any room where there is artificial light. These oils are extremely volatile, and their fumes catch fire at a great distance, the flames traveling back to the source. Explosions and scattered fire are the result.

Cleaning compounds are always dangerous. Never use benzine, gasoline or like fluids in any room where there is artificial light. These oils are extremely volatile, and their fumes catch fire at a great distance, the flames traveling back to the source. Explosions and scattered fire are the result.

Never drape a mantel near a gas jet or a stove. Be careful that no portieres or curtains are so hung that they can blow against the flame. Many fires are due to such carelessness.

When you retire for the night see that all the doors in the house are closed. Open doors create a draft. Danger from a dumb waiter may be minimized by seeing that it is tightly closed at night.

When open fireplaces are in use the bricks of the hearth should be imbedded in cement and should not rest on wood. Each hearth should have a fine wire screen shield to prevent sparks flying on rugs or carpets.

Bible In Every Known Language.

According to the 105th report of the British and Foreign Bible Society the Bible will soon be printed in every language and dialect known throughout the world. Complete Bibles or portions of the Bible were issued last year in 418 different languages. During the year six new translations were added to the list. Besides these languages there are complete Bibles or portions of the Scriptures made in embossed type for the blind in 31 different languages.

The number of Bibles issued by the society last year was nearly 6,000,000. Of complete Bibles there were 884,-195; New Testaments, 1,116,674, and portions of Scripture, 3,933,842, making a total of 5,934,711.

The colporteurs employed in the work of distribution have an adventurous life. Last year some of them were arrested as spies in Nicaragua, robbed in Burma, stoned in the Philippines and beaten by Moslems in Baluchistan.

Rules on the Clermont.

At the head of regulations for the "North river steamboat" (Clermont) was this paragraph: "The rules which are made for order and neatness in the boat, are not to be abused. Judgment shall be according to the letter of the law. Gentlemen wifhing well to fo public and ufeful and eftablifhment, will fee the propriety of ftrict juftice and the impropriety of the leaft impofition on the purfe or feelings of any individual."

One of the rules on the Clermont read: "It is not permitted for any person to lie down in a birth with their boots or shoes on under a penalty of one dollar and a half and a half dollar for every half hour they may offend against this rule.

Both Correct.

A schoolmaster in Liverpool one day asked the dunce of the school some very simple questions in arithmetic. He was surprised to find that he got the right answers, and when he had finished he said to the boy, "Correct, sit down."

"Now," said the schoolmaster, "see if you have sense enough to ask me some questions."

The boy pondered for a moment and then said, "Please, sir, what would three yards of calico cost if cotton was tuppence a reel?"

"I think you take me for a fool," said the schoolmaster.

"Correct; sit down!" returned the boy.—Liverpool Mercury.

Ancient Houses.

Chimneys were wholly unknown to the ancients, who had to let the smoke of their fires escape through an opening in the roof. Chimneys came into use in the fourteenth century. It was in the same century that glass for windows put in its appearance. At a much later date the home comforts were very scarce. Even in gentlemen's houses the second story—where there happened to be one—was approached from the outside, the walls were bare, without wainscot or plaster, their barrenness being, as a rule, unrelieved by picture or decoration.

House Names In Holland.

A recent traveler in that land of dikes and windmills has been at pains to make notes of the names bestowed by the Dutch merchants upon their country houses. Here are a few examples translated: "Our Contentment," "Joy and Peace," "Leisure and Happiness," "My Desire is Satisfied," "Friends and Quiet," "My Wife and I," "Not So Bad." To say the least, any one of these would seem to indicate more of the genuine sentiment of the householder than can possibly be expressed by the "Belle Vues" and "Cedars" of England.—London Mail.

The Roads of Norway.

A curious feature to travelers in the highroads of Norway is the great number of gates—upward of 10,000 in the whole country—which have to be opened. These gates, which either mark the boundaries of the farms or separate the home fields from the waste lands, constitute a considerable inconvenience and delay to the traveler, who has to stop his vehicle and get down to open them.

GOLD OF GRETNA GREEN

MEMORIES OF SCOTLAND'S GREAT MARRYING GROUND.

Coming Case in Courts Where Alex. Bosville of Yorkshire Challenges Title of Lord Macdonald, Hinges on a Gretna Green Wedding and Revives Old Stories — How Earl of Westmorland Married an Heiress.

Memories of Gretna Green will be revived by a most remarkable passage at arms that will be heard shortly in the Scottish courts. Staid lawyers will have to recount one of the most romantic marriages ever celebrated in that little hamlet on the borders of England and Scotland, and rival legal practitioners will vie with one another in tearing a famous love-story to pieces and putting it together again.

The claimant is Mr. Alexander Bosville of Yorkshire, and he challenges the right of the present Lord Macdonald, who is also known as the "Lord of the Isles," to his peerage and estates. The origin of the dispute goes back for more than a hundred years, for the nineteenth century was very young when the third Lord Macdonald eloped with the daughter of the Duke of Gloucester. They fled to Gretna Green, and were married.

Subsequently, the lady gave birth to a son and a daughter. The daughter eventually became Countess of Hopetoun, and was the great-grandmother of the present Marquis of Linlithgow. A few years passed, and Lady Macdonald became very religious. She looked upon her marriage at Gretna Green with suspicion, and her husband, to please her, agreed to have the ceremony performed again—this time in a recognised church.

The second marriage, however, was said to have rendered the first one illegal; and, consequently, it was a son who was born after the second ceremony who succeeded to the title and estates. In turn, he was succeeded by his son. A brother of the latter is the present holder of the title. Meanwhile, the first son of Lady Macdonald succeeded to large estates in Yorkshire, and took the name of Bosville. He had a son, too, and the claimant to the peerage is the grandson of the disinherited Alexander Macdonald, or Bosville.

What the Scottish Courts have to decide is whether the second marriage made the first one null and void. All the available records of Gretna Green are certain to be dragged into the light of day, and many famous stories of aristocratic couples who preferred to be united by the eccentric priests who officiated in the little hamlet rather than risk an open ceremony amidst friends and enemies will be heard.

That truth is stranger than fiction these records prove. For instance, the story of how the Westmorland family became united with the famous London banking firm, the Childs, reads more like fiction than fact. The head of the firm in those days was an immensely wealthy man, with one daughter, a girl of remarkable beauty.

The Earl of Westmorland fell in love with her, proposed, and was accepted. All seemed well with the young couple, because the earl never thought for a moment that he would be disapproved of by her father, and his amazement was great when, on putting his case before the banker, he received the answer, "Your blood, my lord, is good, but money is better."

But the earl was not to be baulked, and he arranged an elopment. At midnight the pair stepped into a chaise drawn by four horses, and they began to race to Gretna Green, the nobleman having arranged for relays of horses on the way.

At Shap he engaged all the horses available, so that nobody else could secure them. Mr. Child, however, was soon on their track; and, so powerful was his money, that he caught them up while they were changing horses at Heaketh, a place in a forest, between Carlisle and Penrith. In a passion, the banker jumped out, and shot one of the leading horses of the earl's carriage.

Meanwhile, one of the latter's servants ran behind Mr. Child's carriage, and cut the leather which attached the body of the carriage to the springs on which it was dependent. The earl drove on with his three horses, leaving the injured one to its fate; and Mr. Child had no power for before the body of the carriage fell on the frame, and he was compelled to wait for another chaise. Of course, the eloping pair got married at Gretna Green long before the infuriated banker caught them up again.

It was an extraordinary coincidence that the very last marriage of social importance contracted at Gretna Green should have had for one of its principals a granddaughter of the first and Countess of Westmorland referred to above. This was Lady Adela Villiers, daughter of an Earl of Jersey, who was united to Colonel Edgcumbe in 1863. The officer survived until 1899.

In the forthcoming legal battle the surviving registers of the famous old hamlet will be produced; but the most interesting records were destroyed years ago by the daughter of the officiating parson of that day.

In a fit of madness, she set the room which held them on fire, and herself perished in the flames along with the first and greatest register Gretna knew.

Hamlet's Politics.

Lord Esher had an amusing experience on one occasion while speaking for a young politician, fresh from college, in the South of England. The candidate's speech, perhaps, was more than judiciously besprinkled with quotations from "Hamlet." After a long peroration, containing huge chunks of the play, he announced that Lord Esher was prepared to answer any questions. A man stood up. "I can't quite make it out," he remarked "whether he is a tariff reformer or a free trader." "Who?" asked Lord Esher. "The man this speech is about." Puzzled, he again inquired what man he meant. "Hamlet," was the reply.

DECORATIVE SPINACH.

Several New Ways of Serving the Ever Popular Vegetable.

The family dish of spinach can be dressed in more than one original way, which will delight the little people of the household and will give when need be quite a company air to the home table.

One such plan is to mold it quickly on a hot platter into the form of a bird's nest and in the center place three or four hard boiled eggs, which make perhaps the best accompaniment of all.

Or use the nest and fill up with small, whole buttered beets. The red and green combine delightfully, and the flavor of the two vegetables is extremely good in combination. This will not increase the trouble of serving.

Sometimes, too, it can be molded on a square platter into a green bank, from which the scarlet beets, cut across to simulate the petals of I know not what flower, peep out most effectively.

Again, for a guest luncheon select the smallest eggs from the egg basket or ask the grocer to pick out half a dozen tiny ones for you. When these have been hard boiled slice to represent water lilies or daisies (the two blooms are very closely allied in this class of botany) and arrange these floating on a low sea of spinach or growing out from a high hill of the same.

Another way in which it is most delicious is when formed into a round hollow nest or mound, the center of which is filled with a creamy sauce which is eaten with the wholesome herbs, adding much to their savory. The dressing can, if preferred, be tinted green with a little of the spinach stock or juice.

Longfellow's Granddaughter a Nurse.

It is interesting to know that the granddaughter of the poet Longfellow has announced her intention to renounce society life and devote her time to nursing.

She is Miss Delia F. Dana, the daughter of Richard H. Dana and a debutante of this year in Boston society.

Miss Dana attributes her resolve to give up everything and take up this work for others to a chance meeting with Dr. Grenfell, the Labrador explorer and missionary. She met him with friends on the train going from New York to Boston and at that time made her resolve to abandon a purely social life. She will enter the Boston Children's hospital, where she can be of service to the poor and suffering, especially among the little children.

"The quality of mercy is not strained," began the speaker at the meeting of the village branch of the National Hygienic society, whereupon Sister Hankson interrupted with, "Well, then, it ain't sanitary, and we don't want nuthin' t' do with it."—Puck.

Bran Bath Bags.

Take a pound and a half of new bran, three-quarters of a pound of almond meal, eight ounces of powdered orris root and five ounces of shaved castile soap.

Make muslin bags five or six inches square and put in three tablespoonfuls of the mixture. The quantity given above will fill a dozen and a half bags.

The bran bags add delightful refreshment to the bath.

Bill's Sunbonnet

He Thought It Was Kate Who Wore It, but It Wasn't.

By BELLE MANIATES.

Copyright, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.

It was morning in Idaho, and the sun was beaming pleasantly upon Barry Vail as he rode alongside the big irrigating canal that he had been sent to inspect.

"Many settlers on the reservation, Jim?" he asked the foreman.

"They are coming now that they see the canal is a go. The nearest one is Judge Rand. His shack's up yonder. He's in luck. We go right through his ranch."

Judge Rand! Vail wondered if it could be the same man he had known long ago. He concluded it was not possible.

"Which way do I take to his ranch?" he asked.

"He's generally clearing sagebrush this time of day. Follow the canal and you'll likely run on him."

Vail rode on, tilting his sombrero back and humming a love tune. He was in a contemplative mood this morning, and the word "Rand" carried him back to the east, where he had been born and bred, but whose dust he had shaken from his feet five years before. At that time he had been in love with Kate Rand, an imperious, self willed girl. One fateful day she had announced her intention of going to a masquerade in the character and dress of a page. His young, conservative scruples were horrified. He objected, and when she persisted in carrying out her intention his dictatorial attitude moved him to break the engagement. Immediately afterward he secured an appointment as civil engineer in the west. Lately his love affair viewed at long range appeared a very boyish affair.

When he came upon the solitary figure digging doggedly at a resisting root he recognized the man who had come so near being his father-in-law. There were mutual recognitions of pleasure, and then the judge explained that he had been caught in the financial coil of Wall street and had lost all his worldly possessions.

"Just enough left," he said, "to make a payment on 160 acres here, which I shall put to potatoes. The spirit of the west has caught me, Barry, I wouldn't go back into Wall street purgatory for any consideration."

After Vail had related his own experiences and inquired after the fortunes of mutual friends he asked almost stealthily:

"Did Kate come out here with you?"

The judge was silent for a moment. Then he said, with a sigh:

"Can you picture Kate in the primitive life? She had an opportune invitation to accompany some relatives on a trip abroad."

"And you live out here alone?" exclaimed Vail pityingly.

"No. I have my helper, Bill. We are very comfortable—a little shack for a living room and dining room combined, two sleeping tents and an out of door oven—a place for these parts."

But Vail was not listening. His attention was concentrated on a slender figure that was approaching in the distance. The figure was clad in khaki trousers, blue shirt, a red kerchief and a sunbonnet.

"Who in the world is that?" he asked.

The judge turned hastily and looked confused.

"Oh, that's Bill! I want him to go to the next ranch on an errand for me. Excuse me a moment. I will be back."

He hastened toward the sunbonneted figure, and after a moment's conversation the figure turned and went the way from which it had come.

"Your Bill doesn't look equal to much hard work," observed Vail dryly.

"Bill's all right at farm work or housework," assured the judge. "He's wiry, willing, enduring and, best of all, intensely interested in the development of the ranch."

"You see a good many queer sights in Idaho," remarked Vail, "but I'll swear I never saw a man or lad wearing a sunbonnet."

"Bill lost his one and only sombrero in a reckless ride last week. He went to the nearest ranch to buy or borrow one, but the only superfluous headgear it had was this sunbonnet, to which he is quite attached, as he is a little fearful of sunstrokes."

"Well, I must return to the canal. I intend to be neighborly, judge."

"Of course. Let me see. Come over tomorrow to dinner."

Vail chuckled softly as he rode away.

"I wonder if the judge thought he could string me that way. I have a very firm conviction that Bill is Kate, and, remembering my boyish horror of male attire, the judge headed her off. I suppose he thought he had deceived me with his evasive statement about her trip abroad and invited me tomorrow, when he will take pains to have Bill, alias Kate, absent. I know of no reason why we should not meet in friendly fashion. I know I admire her a thousand times more than I ever did for coming out here and wearing any kind of clothes for working purposes. I'll just go over tonight, whether I am welcome or not, and stay to supper. Fancy the sybaritic Kate cooking!"

Late in the afternoon he rode up to the shack, and, as he expected, Bill, clad in feminine attire, was in the doorway. She was a different girl from the handsome, languorous, cynically expressioned Kate her had known. There were the same regular features, the high bred figure, air and poise, but the eyes were full of life, and the mouth curved in almost gentleness. Her pale face was tinted with ruddy gold.

He wondered what his reception would be, remembering the angry sparkle.

"I am very glad to see you, Mr. Vail," she said courteously, with extended hand, as he came up to her.

She instantly took the cue, addressed her as Miss Rand and avoided all allusion and reference to the past. He was glad it was to be this way. He longed to begin acquaintance anew with this womanly Kate.

"You must stay to supper. That's what they call the meal out here. I shall prepare it myself tonight."

"Don't you generally prepare it?" he couldn't help asking.

"No," she said casually. "Bill, the help, cooks, but he is away."

Vail decided to accept the little fiction regarding Bill, and when the judge came home and was informed by his daughter that Bill had been called away for two weeks, which was just the length of time Vail was to be in the vicinity, he never changed expression.

"Ruth," said the judge in reply.

"Ruth!" interrupted Vail in surprise. She smiled.

"Father calls me by my middle name since we came out here. It was my mother's name, and he thinks I am growing to be like her."

After supper, when the judge and Vail had smoked and chatted, a neighbor came to talk planting to the judge.

Barry proposed to Ruth (as he now tried to think of her) that they ride down the course of the canal, and she readily accepted. He remembered how well she used to ride and how well her boyish alimness looked in the saddle. But never in city parks could they have had this glorious canter over the wind swept way on the open plains. They came back in the glory of a western moonlight. When near the shack Barry drew rein.

"Shall we," he asked earnestly, "begin all over again?"

"Yes," she replied in a low tone. "That was what I wanted to ask you to do."

For the next two weeks every moment he could snatch from his work Barry spent at the shack. Feeling that he was depriving the judge of Bill's help, he put in some effective work on the ranch. In his rides, walks and talks with Kate Ruth he felt a sense of intimacy he had never known when with the Kate of olden days.

"Darling," he said impetuously one night after a long silence, "can you forget the past and my boyish superiority? Can you learn to love me again, Kate?"

"Don't!" she cried breathless. "I am not Kate!"

He looked at her in bewilderment.

"I am Kate's younger sister. I was away at school when you knew her, but I used to love to hear about you from father. I didn't know at the first that you mistook me for her. Afterward—well, I was afraid you would not care for me, but you can't have her. She's engaged."

"Dear," he said gently, "I don't want Kate. I want you, whether you are Kate, Ruth or Bill."

"Bill?" she interrupted faintly.

"I knew," he laughed. "Bill's sunbonnet gave him away."

Stream of Life.

Life bears us on like the current of a mighty river. Our boat at first glides down the narrow channel, through the playful murmurings of the little brook and the windings of its grassy borders. The trees shed their blossoms over our young heads; the flowers on the brink seem to offer themselves to our young hands; we are happy in hope, and we grasp eagerly at the beauties around us, but the stream hurries on, and still our hands are empty. Our course in youth and manhood is along a wider and deeper flood, amid objects more striking and magnificent. We are animated by the moving pictures of enjoyment and industry passing before us; we are excited by some short lived disappointment. But our energy and our depression are both in vain. The stream bears us on, and our joys and griefs are alike left behind us.

We may be shipwrecked—we cannot be delayed. Whether rough or smooth the river hastens to its home till the roar of the ocean is in our ears and the tossing of the waves is beneath our feet, and the land lessens from our eyes, and the floods are lifted up around us, and we take our leave of earth and its inhabitants until of our further voyage there is no witness save the infinite and eternal.—Exchange.

Tapioca.

This elegant and delicate starch is the product of a plant that is cultivated very extensively in the Malay peninsula, where its culture is almost entirely in the hands of the Chinese. The tubers of the plant (Manihot utilissima), which weigh on an average from ten to twenty-five pounds, are first scraped and then carefully washed, after which they are reduced to a pulp by being passed between rollers. This pulp is carefully washed and shaken up with abundance of water until the feicula separates and passes through a very fine sieve into a tub placed beneath. The flour so obtained is repeatedly washed and then placed on mats and bleached by exposure to the sun and air. It is finally converted into the pearl tapioca of commerce by being placed in a crude shaped frame covered with canvas. It is slightly moistened and subjected to a rotary motion, by which means it is granulated. It is next dried in the sun and finally over the fire in an iron pan greased with vegetable tallow and is then ready for the market.

The old fashioned way of dosing a weak stomach, or stimulating the Heart or Kidneys is all wrong. Dr. Shoop first pointed out this error. This is why his prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—is directed entirely to the cause of these ailments—the weak inside or controlling nerves. It isn't so difficult, says Dr. Shoop, to strengthen a weak Stomach, Heart, or Kidneys if one controlling or inside nerve. When these nerves fail, then those organs must surely falter. These vital truths are leading druggists everywhere to dispense and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Test it a few days, and real Improvement will promptly and surely follow. Sold by all dealers.

SHOPPING IN MEXICO

Women Get Plenty of Excitement In Making a Purchase.

BARGAINING AS A FINE ART.

The Descent From the Asking Price to the Last Price and From That to the Final Selling Price Works Out Something Like a Farce Comedy.

When a woman goes shopping in the City of Mexico, especially if she speaks Spanish, she gets far more excitement for her money in the course of an afternoon than she could hope to compass in a year's time in America.

In the Spanish and French dry goods houses, where the trade is almost exclusively feminine, the goods are marked with the "asking price," which is a mere mathematical figure of speech, and the first question that the experienced shopper always asks of the salesman is, "What is your last price?"

This "ultimo precio" is generally about 25 per cent less than the selling price with which the goods are tagged. It forms, however, a certain basis from which to start the bargaining, which thereafter is carried on with all the skill and fury that characterize such transactions everywhere throughout Latin America. The woman customer may wish to purchase a few yards of silk, for example. The marked price is, say, $2 a yard, and the "last price" is given as $1.50. The woman will look at the piece she desires with the same unconcerned scorn with which she regards everything else that is shown her. She will disparage it from every point of view and finally ask for something that is not likely to be in stock. At last she will sigh and look about in despair.

"Caramba, but I'm weary with this vain task of endeavoring to find something that I wish in this second class establishment! The prices are far higher than anywhere else, but I try to patronize this place because the proprietors are friends of my husband. Now, that rose silk is not the shade I wish, but I might be able to use it some time if I could buy it at a reasonable price."

The salesman, who has been listening with an assumed air of sympathy, responds with all the flowery eloquence that he can command and with a constant play of rapid gestures, his lighted cigarette in one hand describing a little arc of fire somewhat dimmer than the diamonds he wears on his fingers.

"Senorita, we place at your feet this establishment and all that it contains. It is your house, and you may do with it as you will. But the very last price at which I can offer you this silk is $1.25 a yard. I do this with a fear of losing my position, but with the hope that the proprietors will pardon my audacity when they learn that your husband is one of their personal friends."

"I thank you, senor," responds the shopper. "I appreciate your consideration, but I could not possibly accept the silk as a gift. Nevertheless I would be willing under the circumstances, so that you might make a reasonable profit, to give you 50 cents a yard for two yards."

At this the salesman drops on the floor the stub of the cigarette he has been smoking. This leaves both hands free, and if he is a master of the selling art as known in that country tears come to his eyes and he wrings his hands apparently in the depths of despair and chagrin. The Mexicans dearly love acting and dissimulation of all sorts, and this byplay of the clerk is but a part of the price of the goods. After frenzied ejaculations he puts the price down to $1 a yard, saying that that figure is the "last of the last prices." The lady has been gazing about indifferently and gathers up her pocketbook and other impediments as she rises to depart. As an afterthought and with condescension that amounts almost to pity she remarks:

"Sixty cents—no more. It is my last word. Adios, senor."

"One little moment, senorita. Do not depart in anger. Rather than let you go thus you may have the silk at 90 cents a yard, and I will make up the difference from my own pocket."

The lady hesitates, turns back as if indifferent, yet undecided. Then she again starts toward the door, speaking the phrase of pious farewell which is the Spanish equivalent of a final goodby.

"May you go with God, senor."

She almost has reached the portal when the salesman catches up with her. He has had time to light another cigarette to fortify himself for the final struggle, and, waving this in one hand, he begs her, almost on bended knees, to return and take the silk at 80 cents a yard. She looks languidly upon him. She has concluded that 80 cents would be about the right price and probably the best she can do. Yet she returns undaunted and in the softest of voices breathes the Spanish words which are the equivalent in that tongue for 70 cents. After ten minutes more of firmness on the shopper's part and every aspect of poignant grief by the salesman two yards of silk finally change hands at 75 cents.

The same furious bargaining is the rule in the grocery stores and in the sidewalk markets.—New York Press.

NORTHERN ONTARIO MINE.

Tee Arr 189 are Offering Limited Number of Shares for 45c.

The Tee Arr Mining Company, whose mines are situated in the Montreal River District, Northern Ontario, are offering through Messrs. E. C. Short and F. P. Buchanan of Montreal, a limited amount of stock for sale at 45c. per share, the par value being $1.00. This mining property is said by capable engineers to be the best in the Montreal River District. Assays of ore taken out show up to 17,000 ounces of silver per ton and already $100,000 worth of ore have been blocked out. Active operations were begun by this company on May last, and it will not be very long before ore will be shipped and dividends will be paid. There are many good mining propositions in Northern Ontario but there are none which can excell the Tee Arr. The work already done shows great quantities of valuable ore. So confident are those interested in the property that twelve of the best known business men of Montreal have taken 15,000 shares or more each.

The development work so far consists of surface tranching, some open pit work, two shafts and about 20 feet of drifting from No. 1 shaft at a depth of 61 feet from the collar. Silver has been found in most of the veins foundon the property. The silver shown in veins 1 and 2 alone warrant the thorough development of the property.

Arthur E. Cole, a mining engineer with a great reputation says, "I consider that 'T.R. 189' is an excellent prospect and that your chances of locating pay ore in workable quantities on development are good."

CAPITAL STOCK (Authorized $1,000,000—1,000,000 SHARES OF $1.00 EACH.
700,000 SHARES ISSUED—300,000 IN TREASURY.

Claim "T. R. 189" is stated by competent mining engineers to be undoubtedly the best property in the Montreal River District. It contains 40 acres, mostly hilly, of diabase formation, and is within 2½ miles of transportation.

Active development was begun by the present owners in May last. The necessary buildings for men, horses, tools, powder and stores have been erected. About two miles of surface trenching have been done in the south-east quarter of the property, 14 veins have been uncovered, 8 of them showing silver at or near the surface.

Assays of surface ore have run as high as 12,000 ounces to the ton.

Two shafts have been sunk, No. 1 to a depth of 63 feet, and No. 2 to 62 feet.

Shaft No. 2 opens up a vein from 5 to 14 inches thick, which is improving with depth, and which shows plates and leaves of pure metallic silver embedded in the calcite.

Shaft No. 1 also shows greatly increasing values with depth. At 60 feet the ore is very rich. There are two veins, 8 inches and 2 inches thick, separated by 20 to 26 inches of silver-bearing aplite. At 63 feet a level has been driven along the vein for 20 feet.

The ore taken from this level has been of exceptional richness, running from 8,000 to 17,000 ounces to the ton.

Such large values, obtained so near the surface, are very promising, particularly as at 3 other points along the same vein masses of pure metallic silver have been found directly beneath the soil. There is therefore every reason to believe that this vein will show at other points values equally as large as those where the shaft has been sunk.

Already $100,000 worth of ore has been blocked out.

The large number of veins that have been stripped in the section trenched promises a large tonnage of pay ore when they are developed. Then there is ¾ of the claim not yet trenched which should show equally satisfactory values.

An idea of the excellent returns which Claim "T. R. 189" promises on money invested, can be gained from the fact that, among others, the following gentlemen are each owners of 15,000 shares or more—

HENRY H. LYMAN. F. P. BUCHANAN. S. LICHTENHEIN. T. L. MORRISEY.
ALEX. PRINGLE D. LORNE McGIBBON. JOHN E. HARDMAN. MAJOR MADOCKS.

GUARANTEED INVESTMENT

The Remarkable Offer Made by the Treasury Gold Mining and Milling Company of Fairview, Nevada

Guaranterd by a $1,000,000 Bank

SUPPOSE a million-dollar bank should offer you a gold bond, guaranteeing you against loss in an investment you desired to make, and providing that, whether the investment did or did not prove a profitable one, the bank would pay you back every dollar of your money at the end of twenty years, wouldn't that "look good" to you? And wouldn't you take it?

Wouldn't it look as though the bank itself, as well as the men behind the enterprise that formed the basis of the investment, had absolute confidence in it, and looked upon it as a safe and profitable venture?

Can you figure out any way in which you could possibly lose the money you put into an enterprise with that kind of backing? To be sure, you would run the risk of not receiving interest for that length of time on the amount of your investment, but you would also run the chance of multiplying it many times over in the way of dividends—and that is worth something, isn't it? In other words, you have opportunity to win, and not a single chance to lose.

Now, that is exactly what we, the officers and directors of Treasury Gold Mining and Milling Company, of Reno, Nevada, are offering for a short time to those who wish to take advantage of it; and we make this remarkable offer, first, because we know what we have in the way of a property, and, second, because we need a little more capital to erect a mill upon it and make it an extremely profitable producer in the shortest possible time.

This is the first time, to our personal knowledge, that an offer like this has ever been made with reference to any enterprise of a similar character, here or elsewhere.

Organization, Capitalization and Officers

Treasury Gold Mining and Milling Company is organized under the laws of the State of Nevada, with a capital stock of One Million Dollars ($1,000,000), divided into One Million (1,000,000) shares, of the par value of One Dollar ($1.00 each, full paid and non-assessable, and with no personal liability attaching to the stockholders. The number of shares in the treasury is Four Hundred Thousand (400,000).

The principal office of the company is at No. 336 Mill Street, Reno, Nevada, and the depository of the company is the Nixon National Bank, of the same city.

The officers are as follows: President, D. J. Kennedy, an old resident of Nevada, and one of the best known and most successful mining operators in the state; vice-president, F. W. Thomas, of the firm of John Breuner & Co., one of the largest mercantile establishments in the city; secretary, Donald Fraser, one of the proprietors of the Red Cross Drug Company, of Reno; treasurer, H. L. Burchell, mining operator, and manager of the most prominent of the leading law firms of the state.

Board of directors: D. J. Kennedy, F. W. Thomas, H. L. Burchell; Eugene Kelly, department manager with the Gray, Reid, Wright company, and Donald Fraser.

Location and Character of Properties

The holdings of Treasury Gold Mining and Milling Company include the following valuable properties in the famous Fairview district, in Churchill county, Nevada, reached by a fine wagon road from Fallon, the county seat:

By purchase outright—fully paid for and deed recorded at Fallon—valuable mining estates on both sides of the great Mizpah mine, on both of which properties rich ore has been found.

By purchase—paid for, deeded anh recorded—the Treasdry group of two full claims, amounting to 40 acres, to the north-east of the Mizpah mine, the rich ledge of which we have every reason to believe courses straight through our property for at least 2,000 feet. This we regard as a very valuable holding.

By purchase, an undivided one-half interest in seven claims, containing 100 acres, southwest of the Mizpah, with every indication that the Mizpah vein runs through our ground at least 1,500 feet. The deed for our one-half interest is recorded at Fallon, and we have an option for one year on the other one-half interest.

All the leasing rights and privileges of the Mizpah Milling and Leasing Company on twelve blocks of the celebrated Mizpah mine, for the term of five years. On this property, considerable quantities of fine shipping ore are already opened; drifting has been carried on for some distance on the 100-foot level, while the second level, at 175 feet depth, is now being driven on to catch the same ore body, when shipments will begin.

Values as Shown By Assays

Assays of ores taken from the various properties of the company show the following values:

From Treasury Group at the surface, gold and silver values	$139.50
" " " " " " "	346.80
" " " " " " "	77.42
From Kentucky Group, surface workings, gold and silver values	128.00
" " " " " " "	78.00
From Mizpah shafts, tunnels and upraises, gold and silver values	993.96
" " " " " " "	239.77
" " " " " " "	235.46
" " " " " " "	88.87
" " " " " " "	34.21

From the foregoing tests, it will be seen that, leaving out of the calculation our own extensive properties, all of which contain indications of remarkable richness, we are fully justified in expecting sufficient profits from the operation of our five-year lease on the great Mizpah mine alone, to pay enormous dividends to all our stockholders. But to operate them all, with the greatly increased facilities and equipment we intend to add, should give us a production equaled by few mining properties in the world.

We have already found very rich ore in the shallow workings of our Kentucky group to the west, and of our Treasury group to the east of the Mizpah, and we can see no reason why both of these properties should not prove fully as rich as the famous Mizpah mine itself. We are in a district noted for its immense bodies of gold and silver ores, and where deep workings open up vast treasure vaults of mineral wealth.

Additional Equipment Required

In order to more speedily place these splendid properties among the high class producers of the state, and to combine the maximum of production and profit with the minimum of cost, considerable additional equipment is required.

This includes a standard, modern mill, to reduce our ore to bullion and concentrates at the mine, thus saving the transportation and treatment charges of $20 to $30 a ton on the ore to the Salt Lake smelters. To be sure, the ore is of such a high grade character that there is a good profit in mining and shipping it even at these high rates, but it would be better business to save it and add that much more to the net profits, by treating it at our own mill, which, under the circumstances, thus becomes a necessity. With a 100-ton plant, we should easily be able to treat our ore at an expense not to exceed $2.50 per ton, and by adding another unit to its capacity, can still further reduce the cost, and thus save from $17.50 to $27.50 per ton on transportation anh treating charges alone—quite an item when figuring the net profits.

The first unit capacity of 100 tons daily, of a standard mill, modern in every way, including stamps, amalgamation, fine grinding, concentration and cyaniding, with a sampler in front, so that ore can be purchased from surrounding properties, and general custom work done if desired, will enable us to add one unit after another as may be required with increased development of the ore bodies. By thus adding to the capacity of the mill, we shall be in a position to treat an immense tonnage daily, and pay dividends accordingly.

We will therefore not only effect a great saving of our present expenditures, but earn a handsome revenue, practically all profit, from the large volume of custom work that would be brought to our mill for treatment and reduction.

We also want to sink a capacious double-compartment shaft in to the permanent sulphide zone at once, first, in order to have the ore bodies opened up for the mill, and secondly, to aid in determining the proper methods of treatment; so that we may build a mill adapted to the character of the ores, and capable of giving the largest returns to the company in the extraction of the gold and silver values.

Novel Plan to Secure Funds

Now, we are quite willing to admit that equipment of the character already mentioned, which will put the properties in the best possible working shape, will cost more money than is available at present, unless we accept the alternative of sacrificing a small portion of our special stock, in order to begin operations on a profitable basis at once.

The officers and directors of the company have therefore decided to adopt this method, and, while limiting the sales to but one-fifth of the capitalization, to surround the sale of every share with a positive safeguard against any possible loss.

We do not know that such an offer has ever before been made, and we expect the amount offered to be over-subscribed several times when the terms of the offer are made known.

First, we limit the amount of stock that will be sold, in order to provide the finds for necessary equipment, to Two Hundred Thousand (200,000) shares, and this is to be positively the last as well as the first, allotment that will be sold at the present low price, of 20 cents a share, as we honestly believe the stock will be good for dividends of not less than one dollar per share annually, after we commence treating 100 tons daily at the mill.

Stock Guaranteed

In order to absolutely protect purchasers of these shares against the possibility of a loss, we have made arrangements with the Metropolis Trust and Savings Bank, of San Francisco, one of the strongest financial institutions in the United States, to guarantee every share of stock sold, and to issue to every purchaser a gold bond for the full amount of his investment, each bond being payable in twenty years, whether the mines pay or not. Therefore, even if the mines never paid a dollar—though we expect them to pay millions—the stockholders cannot possibly lose anything except the interest on their investment, while they stand to win fortunes from the amounts they put into these properties.

The shares offered on these unparalleled terms may be paid for either in cash or in five equal monthly payments, and the money derived there from will be used entirely for the further development and equipment of the properties. The shares will also be traded in on both the New York and Boston exchanges the moment we begin shipping and paying dividends.

The elements of industrial safety and of the speculative profits of gold mining under such extremely favorable conditions, are combined in this enterprise to a greater degree than in any other undertaking within our knowledge or experience, and will appeal with irresistible force to all sensible and conservative people as an opportunity without an equal. It is a case of "heads, you win! tails, you cannot lose." If the mines pay as we believe they will bring to every stockholder, in dividends, many times the amount of his investment. If they do not pay, he gets his money back.

By-Law No. . .

A By-Law to authorize the execution of an agreement with the Peterborough Light and Power Company (Limited) for the right to use the streets of the City of Peterborough as therein mentioned.

Passed the day of 19

WHEREAS the Peterborough Light and Power Company (Limited), has applied to the Council of the City of Peterborough for the right to use the streets of the said city for the period of thirty years from the first day of January, 1916, for placing and maintaining poles, wires and other appliances there on for that period, for the purposes of their business as a light and power company and the council and company have agreed on the terms and conditions on which, in the opinion of the council, the said right should be given; which terms and conditions have been reduced to writing and are fully set out herein, and it is necessary that the said terms and conditions and the period for which such right is to be granted should be submitted to the votes of the electors of the municipality in the manner provided in The Consolidated Municipal Act 1903 with respect to by-laws requiring the assent of the electors.

THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF PETERBOROUGH BY THE COUNCIL THEREOF THEREFORE ENACTS AS FOLLOWS:—

1. This by-law shall take effect on the final passing thereof.

2. The Council of the City of Peterborough are hereby authorized to enter into an agreement with the Peterborough Light and Power Company (Limited) in the words and figures following, namely:—

This agreement, made this day of one thousand nine hundred and nine.

BETWEEN—

THE PETERBOROUGH LIGHT AND POWER COMPANY (Limited), (hereinafter called the Company), of the first part:

AND—

THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF PETERBOROUGH, (hereinafter called the Corporation), of the second part:

In this agreement, the word "City" shall mean the City of Peterborough, the word "Council" shall mean the Council of the City of Peterborough, the word "Pole" or "Poles" shall mean and include in addition to poles, wires, guy or stay wires and all appliances and apparatus used in the erection and maintenance of a pole line on the streets and lanes of the said City of Peterborough for stringing wires. The word "Streets" shall mean and include all streets and public lanes in the city. The word "Engineer" shall mean the corporation engineer, or any engineer appointed by the Council. The word "Board" shall mean the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board or any other body hereinafter authorized by the Ontario Legislature to exercise the powers now vested in the said Ontario Railway and Municipal Board. "Commercial Lighting" shall mean and include all light ing for business, trade or manufacturing purposes. "Domestic Lighting" shall mean and include all lighting except commercial or street lighting, and the word Company," shall, unless the context requires a different construct, include the successors and assigns of such company.

Whereas the company has applied to the Corporation for the right to use the streets in the municipality for the period of thirty years from the first day of January, 1910, for the purpose of placing and maintaining poles and wires for transmitting electric current or energy to the customers of the said company and the Council of the Corporation has agreed to grant such request on the terms and conditions hereinafter set out, provided a by-law authorizing the same is duly passed by the ratepayers of the said City authorized to vote thereon.

THIS INDENTURE THEREFORE WITNESSETH that in pursuance of the premises and in consideration of the agreement on behalf of the corporation hereinafter contained, the said company, provided the said by-law is approved of by the ratepayers of the said city voting thereon and is finally passed by the Council hereby covenants and agrees with the corporation as follows:—

1. That the said company will as soon as possible after the execution hereof by the said corporation and before the first day of June, 1910, remove from George street any poles that can in the opinion of the engineer be dispensed with or are not necessary for the present operation of the company's business and will before the said date replace all necessary poles with straight and neat poles of uniform height and size and of as attractive appearance as possible and place same flush with the curb.

2. That the said company in replacing any of said poles or placing any additional poles on the streets will replace place and locate the same in such manner as not to interfere with the existing poles now or then on the streets and will do all work subject to the approval, under the control and to the satisfaction of the engineer or such other person as may be designated by the Council for that purpose and in doing said work will not unnecessarily incumber or obstruct any of the said streets and after any work on same is done will at once restore the said streets to the same condition that they were in before such work was commenced and will not cut, trim, injure or destroy any shade or ornamental trees without the express consent of the Council, nor will they fasten any guy wires to any shade or ornamental tree, and will remove any guy wires now fastened on such trees.

3. That the said company will not place any poles on any of the streets without the written consent of the engineer.

4. That the said company will at its own expense on the written requisition of the Engineer change the location of any poles now or hereafter placed on the said streets, provided however that the Engineer shall not be entitled to require the Company to remove more than five per cent of the then existing poles in any year and no poles shall be required to be removed between the First day of December in any year and the First day of April in any succeeding year.

5. That the said company will permit the said corporation to use any of its poles that the corporation may desire for the purpose of stringing wires thereon for street lighting, fire alarm system or other like corporation purposes (but not for domestic or commercial flighting or power purposes) at such rental as may be mutually agreed on, and if the said rental cannot be agreed on the same shall be fixed by the said board.

6. That the said Company will also upon the written request of the Engineer permit any other Company which now has or may hereafter obtain the right to the use of the streets for placing poles and wires thereon the use of its poles to carry the wires of the said other Company at such rental as may be mutually agreed on and if not mutually agreed on such rental shall be fixed by the said Board, and the said Company will also if the approval of the said Board is first obtained allow more than one Company the use of its poles for the purposes and upon the terms and conditions aforesaid, and the City will endeavour if possible to secure the Company from such other Company or Companies similar privileges.

7. That if the Corporation should hereafter construct or allow the construction of conduits on any of the streets within an area bounded on the north by the north side of McDonnel Street, on the south by the south side of Sherbrooke Street, on the east by the east side of Water Street, and on the west by the west side of Aylmer Street, and should desire to rent the use of same to the Company, the Company will, after the first day of January 1914, rent the use of said conduits from the Corporation at a rental and under such terms and conditions as may be mutually agreed on and if said rental and terms and conditions cannot be mutually agreed on the same shall be fixed by the said Board and the said Company will within twelve months from the granting of such use remove its poles from any streets or parts of streets within said area on which conduits are constructed the use of which conduits are leased to it by the Corporation, and the Company further agrees that when the population of the City of Peterborough reaches 30,000 as shown by the assessment returns that the Company will, if the Board should on application made to it by the Corporation decide that it is reasonable for the Company to be required to do so, and the Corporation desires to rent the same or any of them to the Company, rent the use of any conduits constructed or allowed to be constructed by the Corporation on any other streets or parts of streets, at a rental and on the terms and conditions to be agreed on or fixed in the manner above mentioned and will within twelve months from the granting of such use remove its poles from said streets or parts of streets.

8. That the said Company will in all street work use said materials in good condition the most modern appliances and apparatus designed to ensure freedom from danger or accidents to person and property by reason or on account of the operations of the Company or the transmission of electricity over its system and will keep indemnified and harmless the said Corporation from and against all loss, costs, damages and expenses and from and against all actions, proceedings, claims and demands whatsoever commenced by or arising out of the erection, placing, repairing, operating or maintaining the poles of the Company or in any way connected with, relating to or resulting from the same or the operations of the Company or by reason or on account of any matter or thing done or omitted to be done by the Company or its employees, or by reason of any failure, neglect or omission of the Company or its employees to do or perform anything which the Company is by law or under the provisions of this agreement or any By-law of the Corporation or otherwise required to do or perform or because of any negligence or of any omission or commission on the part of the Company or its employees in the erection, placing, repairing, operating or maintenance of such poles or the transmission of electricity thereon, however the same may be caused or occur.

9. That the Company will pay to the Corporation for the balance of the said term of thirty years, commencing from the termination of the existing street lighting agreement between the parties hereto on the first day of January 1914, the following sums per year for the poles erected and maintained by it, namely, for the first 200 poles the sum of $1.40 per pole and for each additional pole over 200, the sum of 50 cents per pole, and the same shall be paid so long as such poles remain on the streets whether used or not, (provided however that the said Company shall pay at least a minimum price of four hundred dollars per year), such annual sums to be payable to the Treasurer of the Corporation in equal quarterly payments on the last days of the months of March, June, September and December in each year, the first payment to be made on the thirty-first day of March 1914 and the Company shall in the mean time up to the said first day of January 1914, continue to pay the rental payable under the said existing agreement.

10. That the said Company at the expiration of the said term of Thirty years for which the said Company is to have the right to use the streets for the purposes aforesaid, will on demand of the Corporation remove its poles from all or any of the said streets and will after such removal repair and make good any damage or injury to the streets caused by such removal—and at the expiration of the said term of Thirty years the right or authority given to the Company to erect or maintain poles on any of the streets shall absolutely cease unless such time is extended by the By-law of the Corporation and in event of the refusal or neglect of the said Company to remove the said poles the same may be removed by an officer of the Corporation and the cost of such removal shall be paid by the said Company.

11. That the said Company will during the said term supply and instal meters and transformers for installations up to fifteen horse power, free of charge to those customers using same and will not charge for the use of said meters or transformers.

12. That the said Company will during the said term charge rates to customers not exceeding the following, subject to the provision hereinafter set out.

(a) For Domestic Lighting, ten cents per one thousand watts, and will allow a discount of thirty per cent if payment is made within ten days from the mailing or delivery to the customer of the account provided that the minimum net rates per year shall not be less than nine dollars.

(b) For Commercial Lighting, twelve and one-half cents per one thousand watts, and will allow a discount of twenty per cent if payment is made within ten days from the mailing or delivery to the customer of the account or a flat rate of four dollars per year on the basis of a sixteen candle power lamp and a proportionate rate for lamps of less or more candle power of twenty-five cents per year per candle power and will allow in all cases where a flat rate is charged a discount of twenty-five per cent if payment is made within ten days from the mailing or delivery to the customer of the account.

(c) For power purposes with a twenty-four hour service; for from 1 to 4 horse power $60.00 per year, or at the same rate as the ordinary domestic lighting meter rate, at the option of the customer.

For from 5 to 9 horse power $30.00 per year or 3 cents per horse power hour.

For from 10 to 19 horse power $25.00 per year or two cents per horse power hour.

For 20 horse power or over $20.00 per year or 1½ cents per horse power hour.

The quantity of power to be measured at the point the Company's wires enter the premises of the customer, and the above mentioned prices for power are only to apply to power generated within the City of Peterborough, which power shall amount to at least 2000 Horse Power for manufacturing purposes, exclusive of power used by the Quaker Oats Company or its successors.

13. AND IT IS HEREBY PROVIDED that such rates shall remain in force until the first day of January 1915 and shall not thereafter be increased by the Company during the term hereby granted, but it is hereby further agreed by the said Company that if reduced rates cannot be mutually agreed on for the five years of said term commencing with the first day of January 1915 that the Corporation shall be at liberty to make an application to the said Board for a reduction in any or all of said rates for the five years commencing with the said first day of January 1915, and that the said Board shall have full power and authority to reduce the rates to be charged for the said ensuing five years, and the said Company agrees that the rates so agreed upon or fixed shall be the rates to be charged and paid as then of the rates above mentioned until the expiration of the said term hereby granted, unless re-adjusted as hereinafter mentioned or by agreement between the parties hereto; it being agreed between the Company and the Corporation that for each ensuing five year term, commencing with the first day of January in the years 1920, 1925, 1930 and 1935, either the said Corporation or Company shall be at liberty to make application to the said Board for re-adjustment of all or any of the said rates for such ensuing five year term, provided such application is made prior to the fifteenth day of April, in any of the years 1920, 1925, 1930 and 1935 respectively, and that the said Board shall have full power and authority to re-adjust the said rates provided however that none of said rates shall be increased or made higher than the rates provided for and fixed in the twelfth clause of this agreement and that the rates so agreed on or fixed shall be the rates to be charged and paid until the end of the term hereby granted, unless further re-adjusted as above provided, and the said Company hereby agrees and undertakes to obey, abide by and carry out any order or direction of the said Board, in respect to said rates.

14. And the said Company hereby in consideration hereof further convenants, agrees and undertakes with the said Corporation that nothing herein contained nor the granting or enjoyment of the rights hereby conferred shall be deemed or taken to limit, interfere with or affect the rights of the Corporation in any respect nor any rights or privileges which it now has or may hereafter acquire or have conferred on it to generate, transmit deliver, sell, rent, lease, use, supply, sell and distribute electrical power or energy for any purpose nor to limit, interfere with or affect the control of the streets by the Corporation under the Municipal Act or any By-laws thereunder now in force or hereafter passed or entered into with regard to the placing of poles on the streets nor the right of the said Corporation to place poles on the streets or to engage in Municipal, Domestic and Commercial Lighting or the supply of electricity for lighting, power and other purposes nor the right to grant to any person or Company the right or license to use the said streets for any purpose within the authority of the Corporation and no delay dealing, or acquiescence on the part of the Corporation shall be deemed or taken to have the effect of limiting, interfering with or in any way altering any rights or privileges which the Corporation has hereunder or now has or may hereafter acquire or have conferred on it, nor of conferring any right to the use of the streets by the Company after the right to do so has expired under the terms hereof, but this clause shall not be deemed to affect the rights hereby granted to the Company for and during the term hereby provided for.

15. And the said Company hereby in consideration hereof further covenants, agrees and undertakes with the Corporation that should the Corporation hereafter purchase or take proceedings under any Act then in force to acquire the works and property of the Company or any part or parts thereof that in determining the price to be paid therefor, either by arbitration or otherwise, nothing shall be taken into account or allowed to the Company for prospective profits or because of the granting to or enjoyment by the Company of the rights or any of the rights hereby granted or conferred on the Company.

16. And it hereby further agreed by and between the parties hereto that in any case, where under the terms hereof, any question, matter or thing may be referred to and determined by the Board that the said question, matter or thing may, at the option and will of the Council, be determined by arbitration under the provisions of The Arbitration Act and that the arbitrator or arbitrators appointed to hear and determine the said question matter or thing, and undertaking the reference, shall have and exercise the same powers and authorities as are herein conferred on the said Board and that the Company shall and will conform to, abide by and carry out any award, decision, direction or order from time to time made by the arbitrator or arbitrators in all respects and in as full and ample a manner as if the same was made by and was a direction or order of the Board, under the terms hereof; and this Agreement to submit any such question, matter or thing, to arbitration, shall, if and as soon as the said Council exercises its option to have the same so referred to arbitration instead of to the said Board and passes a resolution to that effect, be deemed and taken in each case, as it may arise, to be a submission under the provisions of The Arbitration Act of the said question, matter or thing and all the provisions of the said Act applicable thereto shall apply to any such submission, arbitration and award or other decision or direction of the said Arbitrator or Arbitrators.

17. AND THIS INDENTURE FURTHER WITNESSETH that the said Corporation in pursuance and consideration of the premises hereby agrees with the said Company, that provided the said Company performs, fulfils and keeps the covenants and agreements herein contained on its part to be observed, performed and kept, and strictly observes the terms and conditions herein contained, that the Company may for a period of thirty years from the first day of January 1910, use the said streets for the purpose of placing and maintaining in, upon, over or under the same, poles, wires and other appliances necessary for the transmission thereby of electric current or energy for its operations as a lighting and power Company, provided, and so long only as the same are placed and maintained according to the provisions hereof.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties hereto have hereunto caused their respective Corporate Seals to be affixed, attested by the hands of their proper officials."

3. The Mayor and Clerk are authorized to execute the said agreement in duplicate under their hands and the Corporate Seal provided the same is executed by the said Peterborough Light and Power Company (Limited) either prior to or at the time it is executed on behalf of the Corporation.

4. The votes of the electors of the said City of Peterborough will be taken on this By-Law on the third day of January 1910 being the same day as the next annual election of the Municipal Council for the said City is being held and the polls will be held at the same hour on said day, at the same places and by the same Deputy Returning Officers and Poll Clerks as are appointed and fixed for the said Municipal Election.

5. The fourth day of January 1910 at the hour of twelve o'clock noon, and the City Clerk's Office are hereby fixed as the time when and the place where the Clerk will sum up the number of votes given for and against the by-law.

6. The thirty-first day of December 1909 and the hour of twelve o'clock noon, and the Office of the City Clerk are hereby fixed as the time and place for the appointment of persons to attend at the various polling places and at the final summing up of the votes by the Clerk respectively, on behalf of the persons interested in and promoting or opposing the passing of the By-Law respectively.

Mayor.

Clerk.

NOTICE

The notice that the foregoing is a true copy of a proposed By-law which has been taken into consideration and which will be finally passed by the Council of the City of Peterborough (in the event of the assent of the electors being obtained thereto) after one month from the first publication hereof in the Morning Times newspaper, the date of which first publication is the seventh day of December, 1909, and that at the hour, day and places therein fixed for taking the votes of the electors the polls will be held.

Stingy Men Take Heed!

Crosby had always been inclined to conservatism in household expenses, especially in the matter of his wife's dress bills. His wife went so far as to say that he was penurious.

She had been in need of a new boa for a long time, and after she hinted that her happiness would never be quite complete till she had one, he at last consented to make the purchase. She went into a store and picked out two, one of which was a cheap imitation affair, and the other a fine expensive one. Taking them to his office before going home, he changed the price marks, the expensive tag on the cheap boa and vice versa.

His wife examined them for a long time very seriously indeed, and then said: "Now, dear, the expensive boa is a beauty, and it is very good of you to allow me my choice. Some women would take it without a word; but really I don't think we can afford the more costly one, and besides, dear, I think the cheap one the more stylish, too. Why, Cros, dear, what's the matter? Are you ill?"

But dear old Cros had made his getaway into the night where he could kick himself as hard as he felt he deserved. But what he would like to know is this: Did his wife happen on the more expensive boa by pure accident, or——

Are Tall Men Stupid?

Dr. I. Popper, an eminent German physician, has been making some interesting observations regarding the stature of individuals and the relation that exists between height and talent and genius. The doctor finds that not only persons with considerable talent but the geniuses of the world have all been and are of medium size or less.

Among statesmen he points out Atilla, Cromwell, Frederick II., Napoleon, Gambetta, Thiers—all of whom were of very small stature. Jesus Christ, too, the doctor says, according to the Talmud, was built in small proportions; so was Paul. Among the great artists the short men were Raphael, Michael Angelo, Titian, Leonardo da Vinci, and Mensel.

Wills In Ancient Greece.

Wills were introduced into Athens by Solon, though in many other parts of Greece they were discountenanced. Diogenes Laertius gives copies of the wills of several celebrated men, such as Plato, Aristotle and others. Before Solon's law no man was allowed to make a will, the wealth of the deceased belonging in certain proportions to the members of his family, and even after Solon only an Athenian citizen had the privilege of bequest, the estates of both slaves and foreigners being confiscated for the use of the public.

MENACE OF ICEBERGS.

One Danger of Sea Against Which Wireless Is of Little Avail.

The fear of icebergs has been partly removed in recent years by wireless telegraphy, but their presence on the seas is still menacing enough to cause anxiety.

The Government every summer and fall makes out an iceberg guide. When some ship reports an iceberg in a certain latitude and longitude a little red dot is placed on the iceberg chart.

It is drifting in a southerly direction, and allowances are made for so many miles of advance every twenty-four hours. So the red dot is moved slowly forward. But adverse winds, seas and currents may change the course of the berg, and this sort of reckoning may prove all wrong.

Later another ship reports the same or another iceberg in a different place, says Harper's Weekly. More red dots appear on the chart, and as the season advances the danger points increase. These charts are issued as warnings to mariners. Ships sailing in certain northern latitudes must study the location of the icebergs, and for the sake of safety the captains provide themselves with duplicates of the charts.

Icebergs are dangerous obstructions to navigation on clear, dark nights as well as in times of fog. They carry no lights, and they cannot be detected in the dark until close upon a ship.

Experienced sea captains possess a certain instinct for detecting the presence of icebergs. Some captains claim that they can smell an iceberg miles away. Something in the atmosphere warns them of the danger, and they double the watch and reduce speed until out of the danger zone. Then, again, when near an iceberg the air grows suddenly cold and chilly, and sometimes there is a drop of several degrees in the temperature.

Many unaccounted disappearances of ships and steamers are attributed to collisions with icebergs, ships and all on board going to the bottom without so much as a remnant left to tell the tale.

What He Wouldn't Take.

The bartender grasped the man next the stove by the shoulder and shook him until he was awake.

"Here, Zeph," he told him, "you'd better go out and get some fresh air. It'll do you good."

Zeph merely grunted, drunkenly, and huddled back in his chair. The bartender tried it again with like result.

"You won't get out, won't you?" he roared angrily. Seizing the unfortunate Zeph by the collar and the seat of the trousers, he escorted him forcibly to the alley. "Get out there in the air and brace up," was his advice.

"Y' kin put me out if y' like, but" —Zeph straightened up with drunken dignity—"ye can't make me take no air, durn ye."

Too Near the Throne.

In the seventies of the last century the artist, Anton von Werner, was appointed to perpetuate the German imperial proclamation. He first made a sketch to submit to the old Emperor William. In this the various personages were grouped in the same order as during the ceremony at Versailles. William I. standing on a raised platform, with Bismarck at his left on a lower step and on his right the crown prince, whom the artist had represented with one foot on the upper level. The emperor examined the sketch and at once noted the position of the Crown Prince Frederick. He frowned, took his pencil and made a thick, rapid stroke through his son's right leg. "Not yet," said he.

An Odd Way to Fish.

The natives of Tutuila, one of the islands of Oceania, have a peculiar method of catching fish. At a given signal all the inhabitants of the village assemble on the seashore to the number of about 200 persons, each one carrying a branch of the cocoa palm. With these in their hands they plunge into the water and swim a certain distance from the shore, when they turn, forming a compact semicircle, each one holding his palm perpendicular in the water, thus making a sort of sieve. The leader of the party then gives a signal, and the fishers all approach the seashore gradually in perfect order, driving before them a multitude of fishes that are cast on the sands and killed with sticks.

An Elephant's Courtesy.

At the conclusion of a children's performance at Old Meldrum an elephant proceeded along a narrow road with a pail in its trunk for the purpose of procuring water from a pump. A little girl chanced to get in the animal's way, and, the road being only wide enough to accommodate his substantial body, the elephant laid down the pail, picked up the child with his trunk and gently lifted her to a place of safety, afterward resuming his journey to the pump for the water.—Westminster Gazette.

He Lived There All Right.

An anxious father got wind of the rumor that his son was leading rather a convivial life at college. But the son strenuously denied the charge in letters to his father. Still unsatisfied, the father made an unexpected visit to his son's lodging place and, giving the bell a manly pull, was met by a grim faced landlady, who seemed to know what was coming.

"Does Mr. James Smith live here?" asked the father.

"He does," replied the landlady. "Bring him right in."

The Bird of Death.

Only one specimen of venomous bird is known to the student of ornithological oddities—the Rpir M'Doob, or "Bird of Death," a feathered paradox of New Guinea. Persons bitten by the creature are seized by maddening pains, which rapidly extend to every part of the body. Loss of sight, convulsions, and lockjaw are symptoms which follow in rapid succession.

Need More Room.

It is understood that W. J. Hopwood & Sons, wholesale manufacturers' agents, corner Water and Simcoe streets, have plans on foot to enlarge their premises. It is probable that they will take over the premises now occupied by M. T. Butcher. Improvements to the building are also contemplated.

Ministerial Association.

The Ministerial Association held a regular meeting at the Y.M.C.A. yesterday morning with President Rev. E. A. Pearson in the chair. The feature of the meeting was a paper by Rev. J. R. Webb on Dr. Strong's book, "The Challenge of the Cities," which deals with the economic and social side of the city from the standpoint of the institutional church. It was a very interesting paper and elicited considerable discussion.

Wolf Hunters.

John A. Bate of Kippawa, near Mattawa, Ont., is the party to write to if any first-class rifle shot is desirous of joining the American and Canadian sportsmen who go north in January, February and March after the grey-coated but elusive deer-slayers. Wolf shooting has superseded all other forms of sport for the first-class rifle shot and as it means a bounty, a good shot can pay his expenses and secure renown at one and the same time. A small bore high-powdered rifle is used.

Lots of Deer.

While the past deer hunting season was generally considered to be one of the worst in years, the same gunaways that were deserted six or seven weeks ago are now well worn by large numbers of the antlered monarchs. Mr. O. Hunter, who has been repairing a number of dams in the vicinity of Gull and Bottle Lakes, states that they are now very plentiful and he has seen them crossing in numbers below the dam in Gull Lake. It will not give the hunters any satisfaction to know that the deer are numerous now that the season is closed. The question is where did they go? for several of the Peterborough parties made their headquarters at Gull and Bottle Lakes.

Catarrh Cannot be Cured.

New Explosive.

Mr. Wes. Oliver of Gelert, who has invented a new form of explosive, was in the city yesterday on business, and incidentally tested the explosive qualities of the new powder under an electric spark. Mr. Frank Fairen had secured a quantity of the powder a few weeks ago and tested it this morning with a spark in the vicinity of the waterworks dam. The result was entirely satisfactory. This explosive is of a grayish color, resembling cement. It is not discharged by concussion, and in that respect is an improvement on dynamite. It is exploded equally well by a fuse or electric spark, and Mr. Oliver expects to realize well from his invention. It is learned that the explosive will be given a trial by Bishop & Buchanan in the work at the new dam at Burleigh Falls.

The last regular meeting of the Board of Education for this year will be held this evening at 7.45 o'clock.

THE TELEPHONE AT CHRISTMAS

THERE is no need for you to be worn out by holiday preparations if you make good use of your telephone.

The Bell telephone companies have found that just before Christmas the number of daily connections is the highest for the year. The telephone has become a necessity of the holiday season, because without it most people would not have time to do what they have planned.

Christmas cheer extends beyond the city limits, and the universal Bell System helps to carry it throughout the land.

Routine Business at Board of Education

Board Met in Regular Session Last Night and Transacted Final Business of the Year

The last regular meeting of the Board of Education for 1909 was held last night in the Dominion Bank board room. The Otonabee Power Company met with an accident and there were no lights in the regular place of meeting. Only routine business was to be transacted last night.

Owing to the absence of Chairman L. M. Hayes, K.C., Dr. Morrison was elected to the chair. Those present were Messrs. Mason, Ackerman, Fair, Hill, Crane, Nelson.

The minutes of the last regular meeting were read and adopted.

COMMUNICATIONS.

The following communications were received;—

From John Hughes applying for position of caretaker of Ashburnham school.

Joseph Crowe, Wm. Maxwell and W. Hedge, also applied.

Joseph Ball, caretaker of Ashburnham school sent in his resignation to take effect December 31.

From F. W. Wright, St. Thomas, notifying board of annual meeting of the O.E.A. in Toronto in March.

From Miss Jean A. Jackson, asking to be relieved of her duties as teacher in Public schools during the month of January.

COMMITTEES.

The following committees presented reports as follows:—

COMMITTEE OF APPOINTMENTS.

To the Chairman and Members of the Board of Education;—

Gentlemen, —Your Committee on Appointments beg leave to report and recommend as follows;

As instructed your committee advertised for a specialist for the Collegiate Institute to teach English and History with the classical option and after careful consideration recommend that Mr. G. A. Ferguson of Perth be appointed, at the minimum salary of $1400 Duties to to commence January 3rd next.

Your committee also advertised for a teacher to fill the vacancy on the Public school staff caused by the resignation of Miss Dawson, and recommended that Miss Mirtie M. Caldwell of Arnprior, be appointed to the position at the minimum salary of $400. Duties to commence January 3rd next. Miss Cadwell is the holder of a second-class professional certificate, and is highly recommended.

Regarding the matter of the disposition of the special Government grant, based on the qualification and teaching experience of teachers, which was referred to this committee, we recommend that as requested by the department this grant be paid to the teachers entitled to receive the same, and that the secretary-treasurer be authorized to issue cheques therefore in accordance with a detailed report to be submitted by the inspector, but in view of the fact that the payment of this grant was not included in this year's estimates, we recommend that the same be not paid until January next.

The policy of this board has always been to deal fairly and liberally with its teachers, as the best means of showing its appreciation of the good work being done by them.

SUPERVISION.

The Chairman and Members of the Board of Education:—

Gentleman, — Your Supervision Committee beg leave to report that the request of the Nicholls Hospital for the use of the Domestic Science room for instruction in dietetics be granted, providing that the hospital board defray all necessary expenses in connection with the same.

On motion of Messrs. Hill and Mason Mr. Ball's resignation as caretaker of Ashburnham school be accepted and that the Committee on Appointments have power to select his successor.

Inspector Mowatt on behalf of the teachers of the city, asked the Board of Education to allow the teachers a holiday on Monday, January 3 as if they had to start work on that day they would be obliged to leave home, at least those out of town on New Year's Day. Other cities granted this favor and the local teachers would greatly appreciate it.

Several members agreed with this, and Mr. Hill and Mr. Nelson moved that the schools reopen on January 4th.

Mr. W. H. Hill said he had heard that the soft coal being used in the schools was not of much use. He asked the chairman of the Property Committee about it.

Mr. Nelson said that none of the members of the board were experts on coal. Still there was considerable dissatisfaction among the janitors. He thought that the board should wait until spring and then determine whether the coal was what was contracted for or not.

Mr. Fair said that there was a lot of dissatisfaction and he said that the coal he saw was not what the board had ordered. There was too much small stuff in it.

The board decided that Wolstenholm be paid $1200 on account and that the balance be held until the Property Committee looks into matter fully.

The coal this year bought by the board is 48c. per ton cheaper.

Mr. Nelson moved that a room in the old Collegiate Institute building be painted. Mr. Mason seconded it and it carried.

Notice

Notice is hereby given that a Court will be held, pursuant to The Ontario Voters' Lists Act, by His Honor the Judge of the County Court of the County of Peterborough at the Court House, Peterborough, on the twenty-first day of December, at eleven o'clock in the forenoon, to hear and determine complaints of errors and omissions in the Voters' List of the Municipality of the City of Peterborough for 1910.

Dated at Peterborough the 4th day of December, 1909.

Clerk of the City of Peterborough.

T. D. McGregor's Business Wiped Out by Fire Yesterday Afternoon

The Blaze Was Discovered by a Citizen Who Was Passing the Store.

Loss Partly Covered by Insurance

Started at the Rear of the Front Show Room—Cause of Fire is Unknown.

Peterborough was visited yesterday afternoon by another big fire which wiped out of existence the business of T. D. MacGregor on George street, formerly known as MacGregor & Reid. The damage will amount to about $9000, divided as follows:—Stock, valued at $10,000, damaged to the extent of $7000; building $7000, to contents in Mr. MacGregor's residence upstairs $1,000. Mr. MacGregor is thus the heaviest loser. He had his goods partly covered by insurance.

The fire was in the beginning a peculiar one. Several citizens were eye witnesses and as their stories agree it appears to be pretty reliable At first a couple of ladies and a young man who were passing, were attracted by a peculiar light in the back part of the show room on the ground floor. At first they thought it was a new kind of lamp with which an experiment was being tried but suddenly the whole front of the store was filled with fire and great volumes of smoke poured out into the street. The young man opened the store door and shouted fire and then ran to O'Shea's hotel and sent a telephone message to the fire hall. In the meantime Arthur Metheral saw the smoke and pulled box 23, and it was that alarm the firemen got. When the firemen arrived the whole of the store was blazing furiously and the heat was so great that the big plate glass windows began to crack and crumble to the sidewalk. In quick order several streams of water were playing on the blaze from both front and rear. The fire, however, rushed up the open stairway to the second and third flats and left a trail of destruction behind. The water was played on the second floor and the firemen had a hard fight for over an hour but under the direction of Chief Howard they succeeded in controlling the blaze and did not for a moment allow it to get away from them. Except the premises occupied no damage was done unless a little resulted from water.

A prominent business man was standing across the road at the time and saw the start. He said that at first the blaze was only a small light like that of a lamp but suddenly there was, what appeared to him an explosion of gasoline or some such material.

Mr. MacGregor was alone in charge of the store and he stated that he had just stepped into the rear of his store to see his employes who were cutting pipe in the back yard and when he returned the place was filled with fire and smoke He said he had no idea what caused the fire and that he had no gasoline on the premises.

The blaze was witnessed by a big crowd of citizens. It happened just at 4.20 in the afternoon when a crowd of people are on the streets and it was out and the firemen back to the hall at a quarter to six. That is pretty quick work for such a big blaze. Had the fire started an hour or so later when the heavy wind got up an entirely different story would be told this morning.

"PILLS LIKE A FILE.

So Harsh and Drastic are Many Pills as to Seriously Injure the Health.

In a letter written from his home in Valencia, Mr. Marsh Selwyn does service to thousands by drawing attention to the injuries inflicted upon delicate people by drastic purgative tive pills.

"For a long time I suffered from constipation. This condition compelled the use of pills. Like many another, I made the unwise choice of using pills that were lightning in their activity. I began to be filled with intestinal disturbances, constant rumblings, gas in the bowels and dirrhoea. I grew pale and emaciated. Then the doctor told me drastic irritating pills had caused catarrh of the bowels, an almost incurable disease. Explaining my situation to a friend, he advised a trial of Dr. Hamilton's Pills. I speedily experienced the healing and curative effect they exerted on the stomach, liver and bowels. The intestines, freed from irritating drugs, rapidly regained natural tone, the bowels acted as if nature and not Dr. Hamilton's Pills were at work. I knowit willbe of value to thousands to know that a pill as mild and curative as Dr. Hamilton's is available to the ailing."

For bowel disorders, sick headache constipation, liver and stomach derangement, there is no pill so invariably sure to cure as Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Refuse a substitute. Sold in 25c. boxes. all dealers, or the Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

Stovaine Anaesthesia Used in 10 Operations in Local Hospitals

Of late there has been a great deal written in medical journals and the general press about the new discovery known as "Stovaine Anaesthesia," which is a new anaesthetic and will soon take the place of all other anaesthetics. Altogether about 5000 operations have been performed under it and now it is down to a science and is being commonly used.

In Peterborough Stovaine is being used in operations in the hospitals and nearly all of these operations have been witnessed by outside doctors. During the past three months some ten very successful operations have been performed here under the Stovaine anaesthia, among the most important of these are:—

A local business man whose leg was amputated at the hip. He made a very raoid recovery.

Another was the removing of a cancer from the abdom of a local woman.

A growth from another patient's hip was removed.

The Italian whose leg was broken recently at the new water works dam was set under Stovaine.

All of these cases have proved thoroughly satisfactory. All of which goes to show that Peterborough doctors are up to date and keep abreast of the times.

Stovaine is used by injecting a solution into the back of a patient. The effect of this is that all feeling below the point of injection is rendered free from pain and the operation is performed without the patient feeling any pain. At the same time the patient remains conscious and may watch the operation. An additional advantage is that there are no bad effects afterwards, such as sickness, etc. So far most of the cases in which Stovaine is used were those where the patient cannot stand chloroform or other anaesthetics owing to advanced age or weak hearts. It is expected that in the near future Stovaine will be quite commonly used here as many of the leading doctors are greatly interested in it.

Not Seeking a Tariff War but the United States is Prepared

President in His Message to Congress Intimates no Intention of Applying Maximum to Canada

THE PRESIDENT'S SPEECH.

1. That there is no intention on the part of the executive to apply the maximum tariff to Canada or any other country,

2. That all fisheries and boundaries disputes between Great Britain and Canada are being satisfactorily settled.

3. That the United States is at peace with all the world, except Zelaya, of Nicaragua.

4. That the army will be reduced and the navy reorganized.

5. That the post office deficit should be partly recovered by the increase of postage on newspapers.

6. That the white slave traffic be combated and the anniversary of the emancipation of the black slaves be celebrated.

7. That views regarding trust laws will be embodied in a special notice

8. That generally speaking the country is in a high state of prosperity, and there is every reason to believe that we are on the eve of a substantial business expansion.

Washington, Dec. 7.— President Taft's message to the sixty-fifth Congress of the United States was read in both Houses today.

At the outset the President remarked that:

"The relations of the United States with all foreign governments have continued from the normal basis of amity and good understanding, and are very generally satisfactory."

Referring at some length to the successful arbitration of differences between Great Britain and the United States regarding fisheries around the North Atlantic the President said.

"The American rights under the fisheries article of the Treaty of 1818 have been a cause of difference between the United States and Great Britain for nearly seventy years. The interests involved are of great importance to the American fishing industry, and the final settlement of the controversy will remove a source of constant irritation and complaint This is the first case involving such great international questions which has been submitted to the Permanent Court of Arbitration at The Hague.

A Great Birth Record at Nairn Centre, Ont

Nairn Centre, Ont., Dec. 7.—It is evident that race suicide is not fashionable in Algoma. The wife of Mr. George Thurlow of this place, has given birth to three children within the past eleven months, two of them being twins. Mr. and Mrs. Thurlow have been married seven years and have nine children among them being three pairs of twins. Mr. Thurlow, the proud father, is the district constable at Nairn Center.

Prince Must Pay Cash for Rich Bride

London, Dec. 7.—English friends of Prince Miguel De Braganza, who, according to Buda-Pestg reports, is being sued for $1,000,000 by a syndicate of money lenders, who financed him in his successful quest for the hand of Miss Anita Stewart, of New York, the daughter of Mrs. James Henry Smith, "Silent" Smith, said today that the prince had admitted his indebtedness to the syndicate in the sum of $100,000, plus a usurious interest. He laughlingly told his friends that since his marriage he was prepared to pay off his indebtedness, the total of which he figured would amount to $150,000. He denied that he was under agreement to pay the syndicate a percentage of the settlement, which is believed to have been $1,000,000.

The prince looked upon his financial entanglement as a joke and was perfectly frank in acknowledging that he had no ready money when he set out to marry Miss Stewart.

Woman Stabbed to Death in Detroit

Detroit, Dec. 7.—Mrs. Frank M. Dickerson, aged 49 years, was found stabbed to death last night in a doorway of a combined store and flat building at 494 Baker street, and her husband charged with her death is in Grace Hospital, probably dying from self-inflicted knife wounds.

About four months ago Mrs. Dickerson left her husband on account of his alleged cruelties and secured employment in a bakery at the Baker street address. Late last night a neighbor returning home discovered the woman's body in the doorway. She had been stabbed twice in the neck and once in the breast.

Later the police found Dickerson in bed at his home. According to the police, he had stabbed himself in the abdomen and had also swallowed carbolic acid. The officers say that he admitted killing his wife.

Hundreds were Killed Zelaya was Victorious

New Orleans, La., Dec. 7.—A despatch from Managua, via wireless to Port Limon, Costa Rica, received here today, says that Gen. Vasquez, heading a decided victory in an engagement north of Rama.

Two hundred were killed in the battle, the despatch says.

The fighting, it is said, was hand-to-hand.

Christmas Holly is Scarce

The supply of the festive holly, as essential to Christmas cheer as roast turkey and cranberry sauce, is reported short from some parts of the man who placed an early order is getting shipments as per contract, and the retailer is not yet feeling the shortage, or the user any increased price over last year. It is the open order that will probably suffer, and the price may soar as soon as rumors are confirmed.

Accordingto reports received from Delaware, Maryland, and South Carolina, first-class holly will be hard to get. Several car loads have already arrived in the city, and the quality so far reported is good.

The supply of English mistletoe is also suffering from a mild season, but the quality is of the best grade, with an abundance of perfect berries. The price,as yet, is uniform, with the previous season.

JUNIOR O. H. A.

Collegiate Will Have Team Entered This Year.

Now that a Lindsay junior hockey team in the O.H.A. is a surety, the Collegiate Institute Athletic Association will go ahead with their plans and will enter a team in the junior O. H. A. ranks, at the same time withdrawing their team from the City League, which they entered at the annual meeting. The Chieftains will, however, remain in the City League and will have the advantage of using a number of their members who are students at the Collegiate Institute. The arrangements will benefit both teams.

Husband Ill in bed Wife burned to Crisp

Sherbrooke, Que., Dec. 7.— Mrs. Laramee, of Eastman, was frightfully burned last night through the explosion of a lamp. Her clothing caught fire and before it could be subdued part of her body was literally burned to a crisp. She was being brought to Sherbrooke Hospital, but died on board the train. When the accident happened her husband was sick in bed, and could not render assistance.

Black Hand Gang Coming to America

Geneva, Dec. 7.—The police today confirmed the report of a wholesale exodus of members of the Black Hand, who mean to find a new field of operations in America. It developed, also, that no less than sixty of the characters, of whom forty have been expelled from Switzerland are making their way by circuitous routes to the United States.

These men formerly were part of the gang of 2000 Italians employed in the construction of the Loetschberg tunnel through the Bernier Alps. This scene of industry became a hotbed of Black Handers, forty of whom are now in custody awaiting trial on charges of blackmail, assault and murder.

Bride and Groom Waited Three Hours for Preacher

A minister at Fenelon Falls had a "marriage experience" the other day which caused a lot of mirth in the village and gave him an anxious afternoon.

A man and a maid residing not a hundred miles from Fenelon Falls, came to him to arrange for the tieing of the nuptial knot. They left the license with the reverend gentleman and told him the appointed time was three o'clock on a certain afternoon a few days later. They then returned to their homes.

By a coincidence a family living in the village of Fenelon Falls bore the same name as the bride-to-be and not unnaturally, the minister made a mistake and thought he was to marry a Fenelon Falls young couple. He accordingly walked down to the house where he thought the marriage was to take place and astonished the family when his purpose was made known. Explanation followed, however, and a much-perturbed and surprised minister hurried back to his home. No it couldnot have been a dream, he thought, for he had the marriage certificate. The thought of this document gave him an inspiration and he walked down to an issuer of marriage licenses. There he gleaned the information that the parties lived somewhere in the country surrounding. This was rather vague and the now excited clergyman wandered around the village until by good luck he ran across a couple going to the particular wedding. "Better late than never" looked a good motto to him and he got his horse and followed.

Meanwhile thereat a farce at the home where the wedding was to be. Where has the minister gone? was on every tongue. One proposition that the bride and groom should drive to Coboconk and there get the knot tied was knocked on the head because the Fenelon Falls minister had the license in his possion. Finally it was decided to wait and their patience was rewarded when the belated minister arrived at about six o'clock, nearly three hours late.

The party was sitting down for supper when the minister walked in, but the ceremony was happily performed a little later after explanations had been made. The joke is on the sky pilot.

Lame back comes on suddenly and is extremely painful. It is caused by rheumatism of the muscles. Quick relief is afforded by applying Chamberlain's Liniment.

RUPTURE

Its Danger. Its Treatment.

How many are suffering from a rupture and yet fail to properly treat themselves!

They, in fact, believe that a rupture is a disease without gravity.

Unfortunately, THEY ARE MISTAKEN! And, too often, terrible accidents occur, sometimes causing death!

Rupture is in fact one of the most DANGEROUS infirmities known.

Not to mention the annoyances and the inconveniences it creates and of the pains it frequently causes, two grave dangers are to be guarded against.

If the rupture is not maintained, or wrongly maintained which is just as bad, it will most CERTAINLY increase slowly or suddenly, until it reaches FEARFUL proportions.

Then, it will mean for the patient: an impossibility to work and even to move; it will make all his body weak and if he is young he will become as an old person or an invalid.

The other danger is more terrible yet; in an unexpected manner and without any warning, the rupture is pinched and it strangles; the digestion is suddenly blocked and it means fearful death within 24 hours.

It is thus extremely imprudent to neglect a rupture because it means at any moment the danger of sudden death.

Unfortunately it is not with the usual trade trusses that one may be protected; it often occurs, on the contrary, that these apparatus do more harm than good.

It is only by a perfected scientific system that one may be made free from all fear and insure life and health.

So, I cannot too strongly recommend to my readers the Method and the Apparatus of Mr. A. Claverie the world renowned specialist who upon the numerous requests received from patients and doctors of this country has decided to send us his son to benefit the Canadians suffering from Rupture with the marvellous advantages of his system.

Hundreds of thousands of patients who were leading a miserable life of pain and fear have recovered strength youth and quietude by using the Claverie system.

It is thus a rare chance which all the ruptured people of this district will eagerly grasp, by going to see Mr. A. Claverie when he passes through Peterborough,as it will mean for them the end of their sufferings and the beginning of a new life.

Dr. NAMY.

Mr. Andrew Claverie will be in Peterborough at the Oriental Hotel on Wednesday the 15th of December and Thursday the 16th. He will receive from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M. and from 6 P. M. to 9 P. M.

All advice given free. Absolute secrecy.

Special attention for ladies.

That there are cheats and frauds in plenty everybody knows; but it is seldom that any large business house is guilty of them, no matter what line of trade it follows. There can be no permanent success of any kind based on dishonesty or deception. There never was and never will be. The man who try that are simply fools and soon come to grief—as they deserve.

Heaviness at Pit of the Stomach

A Feeling of Uneasiness Before and After Meals is Quickly Cured With Nerviline.

Nearly everyone gets an occasional attack of indigestion and knows just what that heavy feeling means in the stomach. "I was subject to stomach derangements and my health was seriously hampered on this account. After meals I belched gas, had a wighty sensation in my stomach and over my left side. The first relief I got was from Nerviline—I used it three times a day and was cured. I continue to use Nerviline occasionally, and find it is a wonderful aid to the stomach and digestive organs."

NERVILINE RESTORES WEAK STOMACHS

The above letter comes from Mrs. P. R. Stetson, wife of an important merchant in Brockton, and still further proof of the exceptional power of Nerviline is furnished by A. E. Rossman, the well-known upholsterer of Chester, who writes: "Let everyone with a bad stomach use 'Nerviline,' and I am sure there will be few sufferers left. I used to have cramps, rumbling noises gas on my stomach and severe fits of indigestion. Nerviline was the only remedy that gave me relief, and I found it so entirely satisfactory that I would like to have my letter of recommendation published broadcast in order that others may profit by my experience."

THE MORNING TIMES

The only morning daily newspaper published between Toronto and Ottawa, and is largely read throughout Eastern Ontario.

The Times will be sent to subscribers in the district at 25 cents per month, and to outside points at $3 per year, strictly in advance.

Strangers visiting Peterborough are cordially invited to make their headquarters at the office of The Herald and Weekly Times, where they will be furnished with writing materials, if needed.

The Times is a member of the Associated Press, and receives telegraphic news each morning up to four o'clock.

WHO MAY VOTE.

The Ontario Local Option law provides that a local option by-law before being finally passed, must be approved "by the electors of the municipality" in which it is to take effect.

The courts have definitely decided that the words "electors of the municipality" are to be construed as meaning such persons in a municipality as would be entitled to vote in the election for members of the municipal council.

A municipal elector must be a British subject not less than twenty-one years of age. His name must be on part one or part two of the voter's list of the municipality as finally revised by the county judge. The last revised list is used in the voting.

An unmarried woman, either a spinster or a widow, may have her name on the list and may vote if she is otherwise possessed of the necessary qualifications.

A voter must be qualified in respect of property, either as an owner, a tenant, or a farmer's son, or must be assessed and pay taxes on an income of not less than $400.

The property on which an owner or an occupant qualifies as a voter, must be rated on the last revised assessment roll as having at least the following valuation:

In cities..... ....$400.00
In towns not over 3,000..... 300.00
In townships or villages..... 100.00

If two persons are on the assessment roll as joint owners they may both vote provided the value of the property is twice as much as would entitle one person to vote. Similarly three or more joint owners may vote on the same property if its value is sufficient.

If, however, persons are jointly assessed for property not large enough to give each of them a vote, then none of them can vote.

A person assessed as an owner may vote whether he lives in the municipality or not, but a person assessed as an occupant cannot vote unless he lives in the municipality.

If a married man is not assessed himself as an owner or occupant, he may vote upon property so assessed in his wife's name, if of sufficient value.

A person assessed as a farmer's son may vote along with his father or mother, provided that the property is assessed for an amount sufficient to allow of two votes upon it, so with one or more farmer's sons.

A person assessed as owner, and a person assessed as occupant may both be on the voter's list in respect of a property assessed at only enough to give one person a vote.

No person is entitled to vote unless he has the requisite qualifications, and also has his name upon the voters' lists.

When a cold becomes settled in the system, it will take several days' treatment to cure it, and the best remedy to use is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It will cure quicker than any other, and also leaves the system in a natural and healthy condition.

LABOR IN AFRICA.

Recruiting Workers Among Natives a Hazardous Position.

The labor agent—the recruiting sergeant of commercialism—leads an ordinary enough life in other cities, but in Africa the work takes on the charm of adventure. For on the "dark continent," the labor agent's work, which consists of recruiting natives for work in the mines, has to be done in the remote districts often hundreds of miles away from any white settlement. Then it is that the agent has to literally take his life in his own hands.

"Up to 10 years ago," says Stanley P. Hyatt, who has served many years as labor agent for the big diamond mines of Kimberley and elsewhere, "a good many labor agents, even in nominally British territories, were little more than slave raiders. I have met them going out with a dozen armed 'police,' whose business it was to surprise a village after nightfall and capture all the likely looking men. In the Portuguese colonies the raids were carried out on an even larger scale by regular uniformed troops, though latterly the ugly temper of the natives themselves has made the business a risky one. I remember well an alarm in one of the big vilages, when within a couple of minutes there were over a hundred sturdy savages, armed with long bows and poisoned arrows, crouching in the jungle just beyond the huts waiting for the raiders.

"On another occasion some Portuguese native soldiers tried to exploit what was to them a new district. I saw them going down, but never heard of their coming back, although I had a camp a few miles away. Months after I learned the story of their fate. They passed through a number of tiny, poverty stricken villages, where they found no one but women, though everywhere they were told of the big kralls on ahead down to the southwest, and so they tramped on, right into the deadly thorn jungle, where the m'chopi, the 'archers,' or 'bushman,' are, and the archers killed them to the last man. It was a grim trick to play, but the old chief who told me the story chuckled over it. To him it evidently had a humorous side."

Rack For Postcards.

For holding collections of postcards girls who are interested in amateur carpentering and cabinetmaking or, to use the more modern phrase, in manual training are now making very useful and at the same time ornamental racks which hold a large number of cards and keep those from different sections of the country separated. The racks are made of wood and have three bars at each side and two bars on the bottom. At the ends are square pieces of wood hollowed out at the bottom to form two ornamental feet stepped out at the top to make a more ornamental line and with oval holes cut in the center near the top, which form handles, by which the rack may be lifted. There are spaces cut in these solid wooden ends, through which the side and bottom bars are slipped. The two upper side bars are perforated with round holes at regular intervals. Through these perforations slender brass bars are slipped, and it is these brass bars which separate the different groups of cards.

The Vogue of the Farthing.

Farthings were not, at one time, regarded so contemptuously as they are by most people to-day.

Since the Budget perturbed publicans and brewers, the retailers of beer in many places have experienced some difficulty in levying the extra farthing for the half pint on poor people's drinks, because of the aversion in which the smallest coin in the realm is held by the masses of our day.

But in the fourteenth century the London innkeeper was compelled, by order of the Lord Mayor, to supply farthing's-worths of drink to any customer who asked to be served therewith.

John Northampton was the chief magistrate who made the ordinance; and he enforced consideration for the farthing on the baker also, who was obliged to make farthing's-worths of bread to the poor. The priest, too, was not allowed to charge more than a farthing for a mass to his humble flock.

Supplies of farthings were obtainable at the London Guildhall, and, furthermore, if change could not be given by innkeeper or baker, any customer was privileged to take his drink or his bread, and leave without paying.

IF SICK--WHY PAY

Unless Health First Returns.

Here is what should and can be done!

Now you would not willingly pay for food that you could not possibly digest.

Then why pay for medicine until that medicine proves its value to your personal needs?

Why not, knowing what Dr. Shoop's Restorative can do for the sick, pay it to do that very thing—make sick people well?

Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a medicine which is helping many thousands of sick people to get well.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative is the only prescription that "Dr. Shoop's Restorative is absolutely free if it fails". Let others do the same—if you have confidence in it.

If you need more strength, more vitality, more vigor or more vim, use my Restorative a few days and note the pleasing improvement.

When the Stomach, Heart, or Kidneys are weak, then test Dr. Shoop's Restorative. If you have the Stomach nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys, for that is wrong. You need to assist Nature with nerve tides in medicine. The books below will tell you how I am successful.

Those books also tell of a tiny hidden "nerve," no larger than a silken thread. They tell how that nerve, until it fails, controls power to the Heart its power, its tone, its nerve-force, its action, or its pulse.

Those books will open up new and helpful ideas to those who are not well. They tell how stomach, and kidneys may lose their health or power to act. They tell how the Restorative was discovered, and of those whom it has helped. They tell why I can offer it on such liberal terms. And they tell why I can afford to say, "Take no chance on a medicine whose maker dare not bank on it just as I do by this remarkable offer".

So write me today for the coupon.

I have executed hundreds of responsible druggists in nearly every community to bear my guarantee to the sick.

But write me first for the coupon.

All druggists sell Dr. Shoop's Restorative. But all are not authorized by me to give the $1 day trial. So drop me a line, or send the coupon, and I will send you my book and direct you to the druggist who can supply you.

A postal will do.

Besides, you are free to consult me as you would your home physician. My advice and the book may save your life. Write me.

Perhaps a word or two from my self about my methods may help you. I have helped thousands upon thousands of sick people to get well. I have helped them when they were discouraged, when they had spent their last dollar, when they had given up hope. Let me help you. Write me. Dr. Shoop, Box 5, Racine, Wis.

TOLD OF GRETNA GREEN

MEMORIES OF SCOTLAND'S GREAT MARRYING GROUND.

Coming Case in Courts Where Alex. Bosville of Yorkshire Challenges Title of Lord Macdonald, Hinges on a Gretna Green Wedding and Revives Old Stories—How Earl of Westmoreland Married an Heiress.

Memories of Gretna Green will be revived by a most remarkable peerage claim that will be heard shortly in the Scottish courts. Staid lawyers will have to recount one of the most romantic marriages ever celebrated in that little hamlet on the borders of England and Scotland, and rival legal luminaries will vie with one another in tearing a famous love-story to pieces and putting it together again.

The claimant is Mr. Alexander Bosville of Yorkshire, and he challenges the right of the present Lord Macdonald, who is also known as the "Lord of the Isles," to his peerage and estates. The origin of the dispute goes back far more than a hundred years, for the nineteenth century was very young when the third Lord Macdonald eloped with the daughter of the Duke of Gloucester. They fled to Gretna Green, and were married.

Subsequently, the lady gave birth to a son and a daughter. The daughter eventually became Countess of Hopetoun, and was the great-grandmother of the present Marquis of [illegible]. A few years passed, and Lady Macdonald became very religious. She looked upon her marriage at Gretna Green with suspicion, and her husband, to please her, agreed to have the ceremony performed again—this time in a recognized church.

The second marriage, however, was said to have rendered the first one illegal; and, consequently, it was a son who was born after the second ceremony who succeeded to the title and estates. In turn, he was succeeded by his son. A brother of the latter is the present holder of the title. Meanwhile, the first son of Lady Macdonald succeeded to large estates in Yorkshire, and took the name of Bosville. He had a son, too, and the claimant to the peerage is the grandson of the disinherited Alexander Macdonald, or Bosville.

What the Scottish Courts have to decide is whether the second marriage made the first one null and void. All the available records of Gretna Green are certain to be dragged into the light of day, and many famous stories of aristocratic couples who preferred to be united by the eccentric priests who officiated in the little hamlet rather than risk an open ceremony amidst friends and enemies will be heard.

That truth is stranger than fiction these records prove. For instance, the story of how the Westmorland family became united with the famous London banking firm, the Childs, reads more like fiction than fact. The head of the firm in those days was an immensely wealthy man, with one daughter, a girl of remarkable beauty.

The Earl of Westmorland fell in love with her, proposed, and was accepted. All seemed well with the young couple, because the earl never thought for a moment that he would be disapproved of by her father, and his amazement was great when, on putting his case before the banker, he received the answer, "Your blood, my lord, is good, but money is better."

But the earl was not to be baulked, and he arranged an elopment. At midnight the pair stepped into a chaise drawn by four horses, and they began to race to Gretna Green, the nobleman having arranged for relays of horses on the way.

At Shap he engaged all the horses available, so that nobody else could secure them. Mr. Child, however, was soon on their track; and, so powerful was his money, that he caught them up while they were changing horses at Hesketh, a place in a forest, between Carlisle and Penrith. In a passion, the banker jumped out, and shot one of the leading horses of the earl's carriage.

Meanwhile, one of the latter's servants ran behind Mr. Child's carriage, and cut the leather which attached the body of the carriage to the springs on which it was dependent. The earl drove on with his three horses, leaving the injured one to its fate; and Mr. Child had not gone far before the body of the carriage fell on the frame, and he was compelled to wait for another chaise. Of course, the eloping pair got married at Gretna Green long before the infuriated banker caught them up again.

It was an extraordinary coincidence that the very last marriage of social importance contracted at Gretna Green should have had for one of its principals a granddaughter of the Earl and Countess of Westmorland referred to above. This was Lady Adela Villiers, daughter of an Earl of Jersey, who was united to Colonel Dawkins in 1898. The other survivor of 1840 [illegible].

In the forthcoming legal battle the surviving registers of the famous old hamlet will be produced; but the most interesting records were destroyed years ago by the daughter of the officiating parson of that day.

In a fit of madness, she cut the cords which held them on fire, and herself perished in the flames along with the first and greatest register Gretna knew.

Hamlet's Politics.

Lord Esher had an amusing experience on one occasion while speaking for a young politician, fresh from college, in the South of England. The candidate's speech, perforce, was more than judiciously besprinkled with quotations from "Hamlet." After a fine peroration, containing huge chunks of the play, he announced that Lord Esher was prepared to answer any questions. A man stood up. "I can't quite make it out," he remarked "whether he is a tariff reformer or a free trader." "Who?" asked Lord Esher. "The man this speech is about." Puzzled, he again inquired what man he meant. "Hamlet," was the reply.

DECORATIVE SPINACH.

Several New Ways of Serving the Ever Popular Vegetable.

The family dish of spinach can be dressed in more than one original way, which will delight the little people of the household and will give when need be quite a company air to the home table.

One such plan is to mold it quickly on a hot platter into the form of a bird's nest and in the center place three or four hard boiled eggs, which make perhaps the best accompaniment of all.

Or use the nest and fill up with small, whole bettered beets. The red and green combine delightfully, and the flavor of the two vegetables is extremely good in combination. This will not increase the trouble of serving.

Sometimes, too, it can be molded on a square platter into a green bank, from which the scarlet beets, cut across to simulate the petals of I know not what flower, peep out most effectively.

Again, for a guest luncheon select the smallest eggs from the egg basket or ask the grocer to pick out half a dozen tiny ones for you. When these have been hard boiled slice to represent water lilies or daisies (the two blooms are very closely allied in this class of botany) and arrange these floating on a low sea of spinach or growing out from a high hill of the same.

Another way to which it is most delicious is when formed into a round hollow nest or mound, the center of which is filled with a creamy sauce which is eaten with the wholesome herbs, adding much to their suavity. The dressing can, if preferred, be tinted green with a little of the spinach stock or juice.

Longfellow's Granddaughter a Nurse.

It is interesting to know that the granddaughter of the poet Longfellow has announced her intention to renounce society life and devote her time to nursing.

She is Miss Delia F. Dana, the daughter of Richard H. Dana and a debutante of this year in Boston society.

Miss Dana attributes her resolve to give up everything and take up this work for others to a chance meeting with Dr. Grenfell, the Labrador explorer and missionary. She met him with friends on the train going from New York to Boston and at that time made her resolve to abandon a purely social life. She will enter the Boston Children's hospital, where she can be of service to the poor and suffering, especially among the little children.

"The quality of mercy is not strained,'" began the speaker at the meeting of the village branch of the National Hygienic society, whereupon Sister Hankson interrupted with, "Well, then, it ain't sanitary, and we don't want nuthin' t' do with it."—Puck.

Bran Bath Bags.

Take a pound and a half of new bran, three-quarters of a pound of almond meal, eight ounces of powdered orris root and five ounces of shaved castile soap.

Make muslin bags five or six inches square and put in three tablespoonfuls of the mixture. The quantity given above will fill a dozen and a half bags.

The bran bags add delightful refreshment to the bath.

Prevention, the new Candy Cold Cure Tablets, are said by druggists to have four special specific advantages over all other remedies for a cold. Bill's Sunbonnet

He Thought It Was Kate Who Wore It, but It Wasn't.

By BELLE MANIATES.

Copyright, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.

It was morning in Idaho, and the sun was beaming pleasantly upon Barry Vail as he rode alongside the big irrigating canal that he had been sent to inspect.

"Many settlers on the reservation, Jim?" he asked the foreman.

"They are coming now that they see the canal is a go. The nearest one is Judge Rand. His shack's up yonder. He's in luck. We go right through his ranch."

Judge Rand! Vail wondered if it could be the same man he had known long ago. He concluded it was not possible.

"Which way do I take to his ranch?" he asked.

"He's generally clearing sagebrush this time of day. Follow the canal and you'll likely run on him."

Vail rode on, tilting his sombrero back and humming a love tune. He was in a contemplative mood this morning, and the word "Rand" carried him back to the east, where he had been born and bred, but whose dust he had shaken from his feet five years before. At that time he had been in love with Kate Rand, an imperious, self willed girl. One fateful day she had announced her intention of going to a masquerade in the character and dress of a page. His young, conservative scruples were horrified. He objected, and when she persisted in carrying out her intention his dictatorial attitude moved him to break the engagement. Immediately afterward he secured an appointment as civil engineer in the west. Lately his love affair viewed at long range appeared a very boyish affair.

When he came upon the solitary figure digging doggedly at a resisting root he recognized the man who had come so near being his father-in-law. There were mutual recognitions of pleasure, and then the judge explained that he had been caught in the financial coil of Wall street and had lost all his worldly possessions.

"Just enough left," he said, "to make a payment on 160 acres here, which I shall put to potatoes. The spirit of the west has caught me, Barry. I wouldn't go back into Wall street purgatory for any consideration."

After Vail had related his own experiences and inquired after the fortunes of mutual friends he asked almost sheepishly:

"Did Kate come out here with you?"

The judge was silent for a moment. Then he said, with a sigh:

"Can you picture Kate in the primitive life? She had an opportune invitation to accompany some relatives on a trip abroad."

"And you live out here alone?" exclaimed Vail pityingly.

"No. I have my helper, Bill. We are very comfortable—a little shack for a living room and dining room combined, two sleeping tents and an out of door oven—a place for these parts."

But Vail was not listening. His attention was concentrated on a slender figure that was approaching in the distance. The figure was clad in khaki trousers, blue shirt, a red kerchief and a sunbonnet.

"Who in the world is that?" he asked.

The judge turned hastily and looked confused.

"Oh, that's Bill! I want him to go to the next ranch on an errand for me. Excuse me a moment. I will be back."

He hastened toward the sunbonneted figure, and after a moment's conversation the figure turned and went the way from which it had come.

"Your Bill doesn't look equal to much hard work," observed Vail dryly.

"Bill's all right at farm work or housework," assured the judge. "He's wiry, willing, enduring and, best of all, intensely interested in the development of the ranch."

"You see a good many queer sights in Idaho," remarked Vail, "but I'll swear I never saw a man or lad wearing a sunbonnet."

"Bill lost his one and only sombrero in a reckless ride last week. He went to the nearest ranch to buy or borrow one, but the only superfluous headgear it had was this sunbonnet, to which he is quite attached, as he is a little fearful of sunstroke."

"Well, I must return to the canal. I intend to be neighborly, judge."

"Of course. Let me see. Come over tomorrow to dinner."

Vail chuckled softly as he rode away.

"I wonder if the judge thought he could string me that way. I have a very firm conviction that Bill is Kate, and, remembering my boyish horror of male attire, the judge headed her off. I suppose he thought he had deceived me with his evasive statement about her trip abroad and invited me tomorrow, when he will take pains to have Bill, alias Kate, absent. I know of no reason why we should not meet in friendly fashion. I know I admire her a thousand times more than I ever did for coming out here and wearing any kind of clothes for working purposes. I'll just go over tonight, whether I am welcome or not, and stay to supper. Fancy the sybarite Kate cooking!"

Late in the afternoon he rode up to the shack, and, as he expected, Bill, clad in feminine attire, was in the doorway. She was a different girl from the handsome, imperious, cynically experienced Kate he had known. There were the same regular features, the high bred figure, air and poise, but the eyes were full of life, and the mouth curved in almost girlishness. Her pale face was tinted with ruddy gold.

He wondered what his reception would be, remembering the angry parting.

"I am very glad to see you, Mr. Vail," she said courteously, with outstretched hand, as he came up to her.

He hurriedly took the cue, addressed her as Miss Rand and avoided all allusions and references to the past. He was afraid it was to be this way. He plunged to begin acquaintance anew with this womanly Kate.

"You must stay to supper. That's what they call the meal out here. I shall prepare it myself tonight."

"Don't you generally prepare it?" he couldn't help asking.

"No," she said casually. "Bill, the help, cooks, but he is away."

Vail decided to accept the little fiction regarding Bill, and when the judge came home and was informed by his daughter that Bill had been called away for two weeks, which was just the length of time Vail was to be in the vicinity, he never changed expression.

"Ruth," said the judge in reply.

"Ruth!" interrupted Vail in surprise. She smiled.

"Father calls me by my middle name since we came out here. It was my mother's name, and he thinks I am growing to be like her."

After supper, when the judge and Vail had smoked and chatted, a neighbor came to talk planting to the judge.

Barry proposed to Ruth as he now liked to think of her that they ride down the course of the canal, and she readily accepted. He remembered how well she used to ride and how well her boyish slimness looked in the saddle. But never in city parks could they have had this glorious canter over the wind swept way on the open plains. They came back in the glory of a western moonlight. When near the shack Barry drew rein.

"Shall we," he asked earnestly, "begin all over again?"

"Yes," she replied in a low tone. "That was what I wanted to ask you to do."

For the next two weeks every moment he could snatch from his work Barry spent at the shack. Feeling that he was depriving the judge of Bill's help, he put in some effective work on the ranch. In his rides, walks and talks with Kate Ruth he felt a sense of intimacy he had never known when with the Kate of olden days.

"Darling," he said impetuously one night after a long silence, "can you forget the past and my boyish superiority? Can you learn to love me again, Kate?"

"Don't!" she cried breathless. "I am not Kate!"

He looked at her in bewilderment.

"I am Kate's younger sister. I was away at school when you knew her, but I used to love to hear about you from father. I didn't know at the first that you mistook me for her. Afterward—well, I was afraid you would not care for me, but you can't have her. She's engaged."

"Dear," he said gently, "I don't want Kate. I want you, whether you are Kate, Ruth or Bill."

"Bill?" she interrupted faintly.

"I knew," he laughed. "Bill's sunbonnet gave him away."

Stream of Life.

Life bears us on like the current of a mighty river. Our boat at first glides down the narrow channel, through the playful murmurings of the little brook and the windings of its grassy borders. The trees shed their blossoms over our young heads; the flowers on the brink seem to offer themselves to our young hands; we are happy in hope, and we grasp eagerly at the beauties around us, but the stream hurries on, and still our hands are empty. Our course in youth and manhood is along a wider and deeper flood, amid objects more striking and magnificent. We are animated by the moving pictures of enjoyment and industry passing before us; we are excited by some short lived disappointment. But our energy and our depression are both in vain. The stream bears us on, and our joys and griefs are alike left behind us.

We may be shipwrecked—we cannot be delayed. Whether rough or smooth the river hastens to its home till the roar of the ocean is in our ears and the tossing of the waves is beneath our feet, and the land lessens from our eyes, and the floods are lifted up around us, and we take our leave of earth and its inhabitants until of our further voyage there is no witness save the infinite and eternal.—Exchange.

Tapioca.

This elegant and delicate starch is the product of a plant that is cultivated very extensively in the Malay peninsula, where its culture is almost entirely in the hands of the Chinese. The tubers of the plant (Manihot utilissima), which weigh on an average from ten to twenty-five pounds, are first scraped and then carefully washed, after which they are reduced to a pulp by being passed between rollers. This pulp is carefully washed and shaken up with abundance of water until the fecula separates and passes through a very fine sieve into a tub placed beneath. The flour so obtained is repeatedly washed and then placed on mats and bleached by exposure to the sun and air. It is finally converted into the pearl tapioca of commerce by being placed in a crude shaped frame covered with canvas. It is slightly moistened and subjected to a rotary motion, by which means it is granulated. It is next dried in the sun and finally over the fire in an iron pan greased with vegetable tallow and is then ready for the market.

The old fashioned way of doing a weak stomach, or Stimulating the Heart or Kidneys is all wrong. Dr. Shoop first pointed out this error. This is why his prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—is directed entirely to the cause of these ailments—the weak inside or controlling nerves. It isn't so difficult, says Dr. Shoop, to strengthen a weak Stomach, Heart, or Kidneys if one controlling or inside nerve. When these nerves fail, then these organs must surely falter. These vital truths are leading druggists everywhere to discuss and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Test it a few days, and real improvement will promptly and surely follow. Sold by all dealers.

SHOPPING IN MEXICO

Women Get Plenty of Excitement In Making a Purchase.

BARGAINING AS A FINE ART.

The Descent From the Asking Price to the Last Price and From That to the Final Selling Price Works Out Something Like a Farce Comedy.

When a woman goes shopping in the City of Mexico, especially if she speaks Spanish, she gets far more excitement for her money to the course of an afternoon than she could hope to compass in a year's time in America.

In the Spanish and French dry goods houses, where the trade is almost exclusively feminine, the goods are marked with the "asking price," which is a mere mathematical figure of speech, and the first question that the experienced shopper always asks of the salesman is, "What is your last price?"

This "ultimo precio" is generally about 25 per cent less than the selling price with which the goods are tagged. It forms, however, a certain basis from which to start the bargaining, which thereafter is carried on with all the skill and fury that characterize such transactions everywhere throughout Latin America. The woman customer may wish to purchase a few yards of silk, for example. The marked price is, say, $2 a yard, and the "last price" is given as $1.50. The woman will look at the piece she desires with the same unconcerned scorn with which she regards everything else that is shown her. She will disparage it from every point of view and finally ask for something that is not likely to be in stock. At last she will sigh and look about in despair.

"Caramba, but I'm weary with this vain task of endeavoring to find something that I wish in this second class establishment! The prices are far higher than anywhere else, but I try to patronize this place because the proprietors are friends of my husband. Now, that rose silk is not the shade I wish, but I might be able to use it some time if I could buy it at a reasonable price."

The salesman, who has been listening with an assumed air of sympathy, responds with all the flowery eloquence that he can command and with a constant play of rapid gestures, his lighted cigarette in one hand describing a little arc of fire somewhat dimmer than the diamonds he wears on his fingers.

"Senorita, we place at your feet this establishment and all that it contains. It is your house, and you may do with it as you will. But the very last price at which I can offer you this silk is $1.25 a yard. I do this with a fear of losing my position, but with the hope that the proprietors will pardon my audacity when they learn that your husband is one of their personal friends."

"I thank you, senor," responds the shopper. "I appreciate your consideration, but I could not possibly accept the silk as a gift. Nevertheless I would be willing under the circumstances, so that you might make a reasonable profit, to give you 50 cents a yard for two yards."

At this the salesman drops on the floor the stub of the cigarette he has been smoking. This leaves both hands free, and if he is a master of the selling art as known in that country tears come to his eyes and he wrings his hands apparently in the depths of despair and chagrin. The Mexicans dearly love acting and dissimulation of all sorts, and this byplay of the clerk is but a part of the price of the goods. After frenzied ejaculations he puts the price down to $1 a yard, saying that that figure is the "last of the last prices." The lady has been gazing about indifferently and gathers up her pocketbook and other impediments as she rises to depart. As an afterthought and with condescension that amounts almost to pity she remarks:

"Sixty cents—no more. It is my last word. Adios, senor."

"One little moment, senorita. Do not depart in anger. Rather than let you go thus you may have the silk at 80 cents a yard, and I will make up the difference from my own pocket."

The lady hesitates, turns back as if indifferent, yet undecided. Then she again starts toward the door, speaking the phrase of pious farewell which is the Spanish equivalent of a final good-by.

"May you go with God, senor."

She almost has reached the portal when the salesman catches up with her. He has had time to light another cigarette to fortify himself for the final struggle, and, waving this in one hand, he begs her, almost on bended knees, to return and take the silk at 80 cents a yard. She looks languidly upon him. She has concluded that 80 cents would be about the right price and probably the best she can do. Yet she returns undecided and in the softest of voices breathes the Spanish words which are the equivalent in that tongue for 70 cents. After ten minutes more of firmness on the shopper's part and every aspect of poignant grief by the salesman two yards of silk finally change hands at 75 cents.

The same furious bargaining is the rule in the grocery stores and in the sidewalk markets.—New York Press.

His Taste.

"Why does Julia feel that she must have a long coat at once?"

"Her husband has bought her a dress."—Harper's Bazar.

Simple diet is best, for many dishes bring many diseases.—Pliny.

THE DIFFERENCE.

In one respect Canada and the United States differ notably in consideration of matters naval. The entire opposition to an active naval policy, in the United States, comes from the middle west, from the great Mississippi States, which being far from either ocean, consequently have to be bridged with waterways and various other local improvements in order that the Atlantic and Pacific States may have their way in carrying out an active naval propaganda. Whereas in Canada, the most profound, or at any rate the noisiest enthusiasm, for a comprehensive scheme of naval defence comes from Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. Canada's West is more in tone with its eastern provinces than are the similar stretches of country in the republic to the south.

CAPITAL STOCK (Authorized $1,000,000—1,000,000 SHARES OF $1.00 EACH.
700,000 SHARES ISSUED—300,000 IN TREASURY.

Claim "T. R. 189" is stated by competent mining engineers to be undoubtedly the best property in the Montreal River District. It contains 40 acres, mostly hilly, of diabase formation, and is within 2½ miles of transportation.

Active development was begun by the present owners in May last. The necessary buildings for men, horses, tools, powder and stores have been erected. About two miles of surface trenching have been done in the south-east quarter of the property, 14 veins have been uncovered, 8 of them showing silver at or near the surface.

Assays of surface ore have run as high as 12,000 ounces to the ton.

Two shafts have been sunk, No. 1 to a depth of 63 feet, and No. 2 to 62 feet.

Shaft No. 2 opens up a vein from 5 to 14 inches thick, which is improving with depth, and which shows plates and leaves of pure metallic silver embedded in the calcite.

Shaft No. 1 also shows greatly increasing values with depth. At 60 feet the ore is very rich. There are two veins, 8 inches and 2 inches thick, separated by 20 to 26 inches of silver-bearing aplite. At 63 feet a level has been driven along the vein for 20 feet.

The ore taken from this level has been of exceptional richness, running from 8,000 to 17,000 ounces to the ton.

Such large values, obtained so near the surface, are very promising, particularly as at 3 other points along the same vein masses of pure metallic silver have been found directly beneath the soil. There is therefore every reason to believe that this vein will show at other points values equally as large as those where the shaft has been sunk.

Already $100,000 worth of ore has been blocked out.

The large number of veins that have been stripped in the section trenched promises a large tonnage of pay ore when they are developed. Then there is ¾ of the claim not yet trenched which should show equally satisfactory values.

An idea of the excellent returns which Claim "T. R. 189" promises on money invested, can be gained from the fact that, among others, the following gentlemen are each owners of 15,000 shares or more—

HENRY H. LYMAN. F. P. BUCHANAN. S. LICHTENHEIN. T. L. MORRISEY.
ALEX. PRINGLE D. LORNE McGIBBON. JOHN E. HARDMAN. MAJOR MADOCKS.

HUNTER STREET, PETERBOROUGH

Synopsis of Canadian Northwest Land Regulations.

ANY PERSON WHO IS THE sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead half in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any Dominion Lands Agency (but not Sub-agency), on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

Duties—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, solely owned and occupied by him, or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may purchase a homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.

GUARANTEED INVESTMENT

Guaranterd by a $1,000,000 Bank

SUPPOSE a million-dollar bank should offer you a gold bond, guaranteeing you against loss in an investment you desired to make, and providing that, whether the investment did or did not prove a profitable one, the bank would pay you back every dollar of your money at the end of twenty years, wouldn't that "look good" to you? And wouldn't you take it?

Wouldn't it look as though the bank itself, as well as the men behind the enterprise that formed the basis of the investment, had absolute confidence in it, and looked upon it as a safe and profitable venture?

Can you figure out any way in which you could possibly lose the money you put into an enterprise with that kind of backing? To be sure, you would run the risk of not receiving interest for that length of time on the amount of your investment, but you would also run the chance of multiplying it many times over in the way of dividends—and that is worth something, isn't it? In other words, you have opportunity to win, and not a single chance to lose.

Now, that is exactly what we, the officers and directors of Treasury Gold Mining and Milling Company, of Reno, Nevada, are offering for a short time to those who wish to take advantage of it; and we make this remarkable offer, first, because we know what we have in the way of a property, and, second, because we need a little more capital to erect a mill upon it and make it an extremely profitable producer in the shortest possible time.

This is the first time, to our personal knowledge, that an offer like this has ever been made with reference to any enterprise of a similar character, here or elsewhere.

Organization, Capitalization and Officers

Treasury Gold Mining and Milling Company is organized under the laws of the State of Nevada, with a capital stock of One Million Dollars ($1,000,000), divided into One Million (1,000,000) shares, of the par value of One Dollar ($1.00 each, full paid and non-assessable, and with no personal liability attaching to the stockholders. The number of shares in the treasury is Four Hundred Thousand (400,000).

The principal office of the company is at No. 336 Mill Street, Reno, Nevada, and the depository of the company is the Nixon National Bank, of the same city.

The officers are as follows: President, D. J. Kennedy, an old resident of Nevada, and one of the best known and most successful mining operators in the state; vice-president, F. W. Thomas, of the firm of John Breuner & Co., one of the largest mercantile establishments in the city; secretary, Donald Fraser, one of the proprietors of the Red Cross Drug Company, of Reno; treasurer, H. L. Burchell, mining operator, and manager of the most prominent of the leading law firms of the state.

Board of directors: D. J. Kennedy, F. W. Thomas, H. L. Burchell; Eugene Kelly, department manager with the Gray, Reid, Wright company, and Donald Fraser.

Location and Character of Properties

The holdings of Treasury Gold Mining and Milling Company include the following valuable properties in the famous Fairview district, in Churchill county, Nevada, reached by a fine wagon road from Fallon, the county seat:

By purchase outright—fully paid for and deed recorded at Fallon—valuable mining estates on both sides of the great Mixpah mine, on both of which properties rich ore has been found.

By purchase—paid for, deeded and recorded—the Treasury group of two full claims, amounting to 40 acres, to the north-east of the Mixpah mine, the rich ledge of which we have every reason to believe courses straight through our property for at least 2,000 feet. This we regard as a very valuable holding.

By purchase, an undivided one-half interest in seven claims, containing 100 acres, southwest of the Mixpah, with every indication that the Mixpah vein runs through our ground at least 1,500 feet. The deed for our one-half interest is recorded at Fallon, and we have an option for one year on the other one-half interest.

All the leasing rights and privileges of the Mixpah Milling and Leasing Company on twelve blocks of the celebrated Mixpah mine, for the term of five years. On this property, considerable quantities of fine shipping ore are already opened; drifting has been carried on for some distance on the 100-foot level, while the second level, at 175 feet depth, is now being driven on to catch the same ore body, when shipments will begin.

Values as Shown By Assays

Assays of ores taken from the various properties of the company show the following values:

From Treasury Group at the surface, gold and silver values	$139.50
" " " " " " " " " " " "	346.80
" " " " " " " " " " " "	77.42
From Kentucky Group, surface workings, gold and silver values	128.00
" " " " " " " " " " " "	78.00
From Mixpah shafts, tunnels and upraises, gold and silver values	993.95
" " " " " " " " " " " "	239.77
" " " " " " " " " " " "	235.46
" " " " " " " " " " " "	88.87
" " " " " " " " " " " "	34.21

From the foregoing tests, it will be seen that, leaving out of the calculation our own extensive properties, all of which contain indications of remarkable richness, we are fully justified in expecting sufficient profits from the operation of our five-year lease on the great Mixpah mine alone, to pay enormous dividends to all our stockholders. But to operate them all, with the greatly increased facilities and equipment we intend to add, should give us a production equaled by few mining properties in the world.

We have already found very rich ore in the shallow workings of our Kentucky group to the west, and of our Treasury group to the east of the Mixpah, and we can see no reason why both of these properties should not prove fully as rich as the famous Mixpah mine itself. We are in a district noted for its immense bodies of gold and silver ores, and where deep workings open up vast treasure vaults of mineral wealth.

Additional Equipment Required

In order to more speedily place these splendid properties among the high class producers of the state, and to combine the maximum of production and profit with the minimum of cost, considerable additional equipment is required.

This includes a standard, modern mill, to reduce our ore to bullion and concentrates at the mine, thus saving the transportation and treatment charges of $20 to $30 a ton on the ore to the Salt Lake smelters. To be sure, the ore is of such a high grade character that there is a good profit in mining and shipping it even at these high rates, but it would be better business to save it and add that much more to the net profits, by treating it at our own mill, which, under the circumstances, thus becomes a necessity. With a 100-ton plant, we should easily be able to treat our ore at an expense not to exceed $2.50 per ton, and by adding another unit to its capacity, can still further reduce the cost, and thus save from $17.50 to $27.50 per ton on transportation and treating charges alone—quite an item when figuring the net profits.

The first unit capacity of 100 tons daily, of a standard mill, modern in every way, including stamps, amalgamation, fine grinding, concentration and cyaniding, with a sampler in front, so that ore can be purchased from surrounding properties, and general custom work done if desired, will enable us to add one unit after another as may be required with increased development of the ore bodies. By thus adding to the capacity of the mill, we shall be in a position to treat an immense tonnage daily, and pay dividends accordingly.

We will therefore not only effect a great saving of our present expenditures, but earn a handsome revenue, practically all profit, from the large volume of custom work that would be brought to our mill for treatment and reduction.

We also want to sink a capacious double-compartment shaft in to the permanent sulphide zone at once, first, in order to have the ore bodies opened up for the mill, and secondly, to aid in determining the proper methods of treatment; so that we may build a mill adapted to the character of the ores, and capable of giving the largest returns to the company in the extraction of the gold and silver values.

Novel Plan to Secure Funds

Now, we are quite willing to admit that equipment of the character already mentioned, which will put the properties in the best possible working shape, will cost more money than is available at present, unless we accept the alternative of sacrificing a small portion of our special stock, in order to begin operations on a profitable basis at once.

The officers and directors of the company have therefore decided to adopt this method, and, while limiting the sales to but one-fifth of the capitalization, to surround the sale of every share with a positive safeguard against any possible loss.

We do not know that such an offer has ever before been made, and we expect the amount offered to be over-subscribed several times when the terms of the offer are made known.

First, we limit the amount of stock that will be sold, in order to provide the finds for necessary equipment, to Two Hundred Thousand (200,000) shares, and this is to be positively the last as well as the first, allotment that will be sold at the present low price, of 20 cents a share, as we honestly believe the stock will be good for dividends of not less than one dollar per share annually, after we commence treating 100 tons daily at the mill.

Stock Guaranteed

In order to absolutely protect purchasers of these shares against the possibility of a loss, we have made arrangements with the Metropolis Trust and Savings Bank, of San Francisco, one of the strongest financial institutions in the United States, to guarantee every share of stock sold, and to issue to every purchaser a gold bond for the full amount of his investment, such bond being payable in twenty years, whether the mines pay or not. Therefore, even if the mines never paid a dollar—though we expect them to pay millions—the stockholders cannot possibly lose anything except the interest on their investment, while they stand to win fortunes from the amounts they put into these properties.

The shares offered on these unparalleled terms may be paid for either in cash or in five equal monthly payments, and the money derived from them will be used entirely for the further development and equipment of the properties. The shares will also be traded in on both the New York and Boston exchanges the moment we begin shipping and paying dividends.

The elements of industrial safety and of the speculative profits of gold mining under such extremely favorable conditions, are combined in this enterprise to a greater degree than in any other undertaking within our knowledge or experience, and will appeal with irresistible force to all sensible and conservative people as an opportunity without an equal. It is a case of "heads, you win! tails, you cannot lose." If the mines pay as we believe they will bring to every stockholder, in dividends, many times the amount of his investment. If they do not pay, he gets his money back.

JUDICIAL SALE

of the assets of the

Peterborough Shovel and Tool Company

LIMITED.

PURSUANT to an order of the High Court of Justice made by His Honor E. C. S. Huycke, Local Master of the High Court of Justice at Peterborough, in the matter of the Winding up of the Peterborough Shovel and Tool Company, Limited, sealed tenders will be received, addressed to the said Local Master at his Chambers, Court House, Peterborough, Canada, and marked "Tender re The Peterborough Shovel and Tool Company, Limited" up to two o'clock in the afternoon

ON THE 14TH DAY OF DECEMBER 1909.

For the purchase of the following assets of the said Company:—

Parcel No. 1—Real Estate and Buildings:

The factory site in the City of Peterborough comprises a Block of land centrally located containing about two acres. The buildings have been erected for a matter of only a few years—are adapted to any class of manufacture and consist of a one-storey brick factory 68 ft by 160 ft. 6 in., a brick store-room adjoining the factory 66 ft by 99 ft both fronting on Stewart Street; brick warehouse one and one-half storeys high, 39 ft. 11 in. by 114 ft. 9 in. facing Rink Street; frame pickling house 18 ft. 6 in. by 18 ft. 4 in. and frame oil house 10 ft. 3 in. by 14 ft. 10 in. with two oil tanks located in the centre of the lot.

The shipping facilities are good—there being sidings and switches connecting with the Grand Trunk Railway and the Canadian Pacific Railway Company. The advantages of the City of Peterborough as a manufacturing centre affording, as it does, ample electrical power at reasonable rates and practically unexcelled shipping facilities are so well known that no comments are necessary.

A plan of the buildings may be seen at the offices of the Liquidator.

Parcel No. 2—Machinery and Equipment:

The machinery and equipment consist of machines and tools such as are required for the manufacture of shovels, spades etc., and are in good working order.

Parcel No. 3—Raw Material, Goods in Process of Manufacture and in Goods Manufactured:

An inventory may be inspected at the Offices of The Trusts and Guaranteed Company, Limited, or at the works in Peterborough.

Tenders will be received for any one or more of such parcels.

TERMS OF SALE:—Ten per cent with tender and balance within ten days after acceptance thereof, without interest. The tenders will be opened and considered at the Chambers of His Honor E. C. S. Huycke, Local Master of the High Court of Justice, at Peterborough, on the said 14th day of December 1909, when all tenderers may be present or represented.

Tenders must be accompanied by a marked cheque, payable to the order of the Liquidator, for 10 per cent of the amount of tender, which will be returned if the tender should not be accepted. The highest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

The conditions of sale are the standing conditions of the Court, as far as applicable.

The purchaser shall search the title at his own expense, and the vendors shall not be required to furnish any abstract or produce any deeds, declarations or other evidence of title, except those in their possession.

The purchaser shall have ten days in which to make any objections or requisitions in respect of the title, and in case the purchaser shall make any objections or requisitions which the vendors shall from any cause be unable or unwilling to answer, the vendors may at any time rescind the sale. In that case the purchaser shall be entitled to a return of the deposit, without interest, costs or compensation.

Further particulars may be had on application to the Liquidator,

The Hospital for COLLEGE ST., TORONTO. Sick Children

THIS APPEAL IS TO YOU!

REMEMBER That Every Sick Child in Ontario Whose Parents Cannot Afford to Pay for Treatment is Treated Free.

The Hospital for Sick Children had last year in its cots and beds 1,155 patients—283 of these were from 207 places in the Province. Sixty-five per cent. were children of poor people who could not afford to pay.

TWO CLUB FOOT CASES IN PLASTER.

Since its organization the Institution has treated 15,615 children; 11,536 of these unable to pay and were treated free.

If you know of any child in your neighborhood who is sick or has any deformity send the name of the parent to the Secretary.

The Hospital for Sick Children is not a local but a great Provincial Charity for the sick child of the poor in any part of Ontario has same claim upon its help as the child who lives within the shadow of its walls in Toronto.

There were 69 cases of Club Foot treated in the Hospital last year and 67 had perfect correction.

UP THE GIANT'S TOOTH.

Young Woman Describes Hardships in Mountain Climbing.

Climbing mountains does not seem to be an agreeable recreation, to judge from the experiences of Mme. Stella Croissant, who has just ascended the Giant's Tooth, one of the loftiest peaks of the Alps. She had the pleasure of writing her name on the Mantle of the Virgin, which crowns the peak, but what other satisfaction she derived from the exploit is not clear.

Mme. Croissant is a young woman only twenty-two years of age, but her youthful vigor seems to have failed to make the rigors of mountain climbing a pleasure. She tells of muscles strained to the breaking point, limbs almost dislocated, cold, fatigue and the horrors of the guide, for "the guide in the high mountains is king. You must obey him and smile, whatever happens." The party crept over slopes of soft snow, placing their feet in the footsteps of the guide and trying to make themselves as light as possible, for they knew that if they dislodged the snow they would be swept to the bottom of the abyss. They were suspended among the crags "like spiders in their webs." Once Mme. Croissant let go of the rope by which she was drawing herself up to a ledge and hung like a package over the void. She was not afraid, she said, but could hear the guide swearing.

The ascent took a couple of days, and after such strenuous labors the climbers might be expected to indulge in a little rest. "But where rest?" asks Mme. Croissant. "The summit is narrow and bristling with jagged points, and one is cold there. One freezes in the most absolute sense of the word. The wind found no obstacles except ourselves, and how it plays with such obstacles! If you consider how cold it must be in those altitudes where one suffers from the rarefaction of the air you will realize how the wind penetrated the meshes of my sweater and made my clothes freeze to my skin. The guide was right when he told me to put on several undervests. So we emptied a flask of eau de vie and said farewell to the summit."

The descent seems to have been as disagreeable as the ascent. It was horribly cold, and, when the party reached a place where it was possible to rest and eat, the guide hurried them on before the pangs of hunger were half satisfied. All had been fasting since daybreak, and it was then 3 o'clock, but they were behind time, the guide said, and the shades of night must not find them in the high mountain.

There was nothing to do but to obey the guide, so the party moved on in silence. "My feet moved automatically," said Mme. Croissant. "I climbed. I jumped, with only my eyes living in my whole body. I went on thus, I don't know how long, until my strength failed completely and I fainted. They gave me water and spirits. After an instant I revived, and, taking the arm of the guide, I went off at a mad pace. I have the same memory of that stage of the journey as one might have of a delirium. My movements had the strange sureness of the somnambulist walking on the edge of a roof. My foot did not stumble or slip. I went, I went. It was a vertigo, a dance of the bones broken on the rocks of ice."
—New York Tribune.

Arctic Mary.

Mary Coonie, a full blooded Eskimo, is the Croesus of the arctic circle. Mary cannot read, cannot even write her own name, but that doesn't matter, for she makes so much money that she can afford to hire a private secretary, who is an Englishman and a graduate of Oxford and fully qualified to attend to all clerical and executive details for her. But the gift of management is Mrs. Coonie's and that sagacious daring which most great money makers have. One by one she has acquired a number of rich mining claims, and in others she has an interest, acquired by "grub staking" the discoverers. She is sole owner of a valuable freight carrying business and the largest private reindeer herd in the world. Two thousand of these animals, worth $100 each, bear Mary Coonie's brand, and, besides, she has young herds that will bring her a rich harvest some day.

Monkey Eating Eagle.

A monkey eating eagle from the Philippines, the first specimen ever captured alive, has taken up residence at the London zoological gardens. As he sits on a stump in his large cage, blinking gray eyes at his new surroundings and with the long crest of dirty brown feathers on the top of his head rumpled as though he had been running his fingers through his hair, he looks ridiculously like a rather worried human being. He has the largest beak in the eagle house—a black, savage looking hook an inch deep. His body is dark brown, with breast feathers of a dirty cream color. His full name is Pithecophaga jefferyi, or Jeffery's monkey eating eagle. He was captured by means of snares set around the body of a young pig. He will have to abandon his penchant for monkeys in favor of a diet of chickens and ducks.

Novel Lock For Cars.

Thomas E. Flint of East Syracuse has invented a lock which he believes will stop freight car burglaries everywhere and make him a rich man. The device is novel. It is self locking, and to open the door of the car air must be forced into the lock by means of a small hand pump. The lock is so constructed that only pumps specially constructed will fit. The inventor's plan is that pumps be distributed with freight agents of the railroads.—Syracuse Post-Standard.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

Stingy Men Less Rebuff.

Crosby had always been inclined to conservatism in household expenses, especially in the matter of his wife's dress bills. His wife went so far as to say that he was penurious.

She had been in need of a new boa for a long time, and after she hinted that her happiness would never be quite complete till she had one, he at last consented to make the purchase. He went into a store and picked out two, one of which was a cheap imitation affair, and the other a fine expensive one. Taking them to his office before going home, he exchanged the price marks, the expensive tag on the cheap boa and vice versa.

His wife examined them for a long time very seriously indeed, and then said: "Now, dear, the expensive boa is a beauty, and it is very good of you to allow me my choice. Some women would take it without a word; but really I don't think we can afford the more costly one, and besides, dear, I think the cheap one the more stylish, too. Why, Cros, dear, what's the matter? Are you ill?"

But dear old Cros had made his getaway into the night where he could kick himself as hard as he felt he deserved. But what he would like to know is this: Did his wife happen on the more expensive boa by pure accident, or——

Are Tall Men Stupid?

Dr. I. Popper, an eminent German physician, has been making some interesting observations regarding the stature of individuals and the relation that exists between height and mental and genius. The doctor finds that not only persons with considerable talent but the geniuses of the world have all been and are of medium size or less.

Among statesmen he points out Abraham, Cromwell, Frederick II., Napoleon, Gambetta, Thiers—all of whom were of very small stature. Jesus Christ, too, the doctor says, according to the Talmud, was built in small proportions; so was Paul. Among the great artists the short men were Raphael, Michael Angelo, Titian, Leonardo da Vinci, and Mensel.

Wills In Ancient Greece.

Wills were introduced into Athens by Solon, though in many other parts of Greece they were discountenanced. Diogenes Laertius gives copies of the wills of several celebrated men, such as Plato, Aristotle and others. Before Solon's law no man was allowed to devise a will, the wealth of the deceased belonging in certain proportions to the members of his family, and even after Solon only an Athenian citizen had the privilege of bequeathing the estates of both slaves and foreigners being confiscated for the use of the public.

RACED WITH A KING.

Alfonso Was Persistent, and His Opponent Was Courteous.

Of the many residents of Baltimore who passed last summer in Europe probably none attained the distinction of Mr. Samuel C. Rowland, vice president of the International Trust company, who, while motoring in Spain, met King Alfonso of the land of Cervantes. In fact, he met the king three times.

The meetings occurred on the road from Biarritz to San Sebastian and, although interesting, were brief. The first time the king passed Mr. Rowland, then Mr. Rowland passed the king, and finally Alfonso passed Mr. Rowland. They did not speak as they passed by.

Asked yesterday to recite the details of his auto race with the monarch, Mr. Rowland smiled and said:

"I'm a little dubious of this king business," and Mr. Rowland democratically. "First there's the danger of international complications, and then there's lese majesty to be considered."

"Your autos were going in the same direction?" was suggested.

"Yes," assented Mr. Rowland.

"And which was ahead?"

"Well, we were ahead at first, but the king passed us. Then somehow we began to gain on him. Whether my son Harvey, who was driving, opened the throttle a little I am hardly prepared to say. At all events, we gained on him slowly and finally passed him."

"And then?"

"Most persistent king I ever saw," said Mr. Rowland seriously. "In the following mile his machine touched the ground only three times by actual count, and then he passed us."

"And who was ahead at the finish?"

"Well, noblesse oblige, you know, and we let Alfonso keep the lead."—Baltimore Sun.

Invention of the Automobile.

No one man can be said to have invented the automobile, says the Boston Globe. The machine as it is today is the product of many minds in many countries. Horseless vehicles date back almost to the time when steam became a motive power, and as long ago as 1802 Richard Trevithick, an Englishman, constructed a machine which made a trip of ninety miles over country roads. In 1883 Delamare-Debouteville and Malandin of Paris invented a tricycle propelled by compressed gas and a year later used petroleum for generating power. Pinhard and Levassar were the first to invent a really practical petroleum motor. This was in 1890, since which time the development of the various types of road motors has been rapid. Electricity as a motive power for road machines was first used in the early eighties, but it was not until about 1898 that it began to be looked upon as a rival of petroleum. Of late years gasoline and steam motors have been extensively used.

Removable Clock Dials.

An improvement in clock dials which makes repairing much more convenient has been designed by a New York man. This dial is made in two parts, which slide through grooves at the sides and meet in the middle of the face. Their action is absolutely independent of the hands, and the sections may be removed with ease without first taking off the hands, as was necessary formerly. Such a contrivance not only makes less work for the clock man when repairs are necessary, but because of the ease with which the face is removed and the works reached many a man will be able to make his own repairs where he would otherwise have hesitated to attempt it. Most clocks are adjusted from the back, but the difficulty often lies in a front part, which is difficult to reach from the rear, even by an expert on timepieces. With a clock that opens both back and front every bit of mechanism is conveniently accessible.—Chicago News.

Metal Cutting With Oxygen.

A recent improvement in the method of cutting metals by a jet of oxygen consists in keeping the metal around the place where the jet operates in a state of incandescence. This does away with the former trouble caused by the presence of iron oxide and by constant manipulation of the jet. Plates of steel twelve inches thick can be cut by the jet. In one recent case a slab of steel eight inches thick was cut into strips three-quarters of an inch wide, and the width of the cut made by the jet was only about a quarter of an inch. Circular cuts can be made, and instead of penetrating straight down from the face of the plate the cut can be made bevel.

A Two Ton Crystal.

Near Fang San, a low mountain some ten miles to the west of Haichow, a huge piece of crystal was recently unearthed. It is said to weigh 3,000 catties, is over four feet in diameter and five feet long. This is the second large crystal found at this place within two months. The crystal is a sort of flint. It is used in the making of Chinese spectacles and brings large prices. It is said that the owners were offered $25,000 for the piece.—Shanghai Times.

To Relieve Sore Throat.

At this season of the year, when sore throats, laryngitis and similar complaints are very prevalent in London, it may interest your readers to know of a very simple remedy which is recommended by the celebrated Dr. Pauvel of Paris. He recommends a gargle of ordinary tea before going out in the morning and, if possible, on returning at night.—London Standard.

IN SOCIETY

The Times will be pleased to receive notices of Weddings, Social Events, Personal Announcements, which will be published in this column free of charge

Mrs. Masson of Campbellford, is spending the winter months with Miss Smith and Miss Rowe at 567 George street.

Mrs. J. S. Knapman, 604 George street, will receive on Thursday afternoon from four to seven and afterwards on the first Thursday of the month.

Mr. Joseph Thomas left with his family on the midnight C.P.R. express last night for Montreal, whence they will sail for the old country, and to their former home in Leeds. Mr. Thomas has been a motorman in the employ of the Street Railway Company, practically since the first car was set in motion, and has many friends on the line who will regret his depparture. He was also a member of the Salvation Army Band, playing a cornet. His absence will be felt by the band of the local corps. Mr. Thomas has been consistent member of the Army since his arrival in Peterborough, and his friends join in wishing him bon voyage and a successful future.

Dr. R. W. Bell, medical inspector for the Provincial Board of Health, Toronto, was in the city yesterday and gave The Times a call. The doctor has had a busy season having personally looked after several outbreaks of smallpox and other contagious diseases during the past few months in various parts of the Province. In Cobalt as everyone knows the typhoid epidemic assumed a very serious stage hundreds of people being stricken with the scourge and many deaths occurred. On Dr. Bell's arrival there he found the town in a most unsanitary condition. Scores of wells were closed and every means taken to purify the place which was only accomplished after ardous work. Following this the disease was got under control.

RACING CIRCUIT.

Peterborough is on the List for Ice Racing.

Canadian Sportsman; in this country the owners of trotters and pacers have for many years raced their horses on the ice with marked effects arising therefrom, and many horses that afterwards became famous on turf made their first leaves on the cracking ice. In contests against there is a strong prejudice against winners racing for fourteen thousand in this it is more a case of "sour grapes" than legitimate objection, for the opponents of ice racing are mostly located at points where there is no ice and they are, therefore, unfamiliar with the merits of the winter sport that is fast becoming extremely popular in this country.

During the coming winter there will be meetings at many prominent places in this country. The season opens in this city, when the Toronto Driving Club will put on a three-day's meeting, Dec. 25-29, and Jan. 1st. Then comes Port Perry, Lindsay, Peterborough and Ottawa in the order named, which with the number of other places where ice races will be held in Ontario make a chain of racing points attractive enough to the owners of light harness horses.

ARMS WERE BROKEN

G.T.R. Brakeman Fell of a Car and Was Injured.

Melville Parsell, a brakeman on the Grand Trunk Railway, received painful injuries Monday night about ten o'clock as a result of falling from the top of a freight car to the hard ground. The accident occurred at Keene. The young man was walking along the top of a number of cars of a freight train without using a lantern. At the end of one car he tripped and lost his balance, and in his fall sustained a broken nose, a dislocation of the right wrist, and both arms were broken. He was brought to this city and taken to Nicholls Hospital in the Dan Spence ambulance, and his injuries were attended to by Dr. McClellan. Reports from the hospital last night state that his condition is as favorable as might be expected under the circumstances.

Baptist Missions in Canadian North West

Rev. Dr. Daniels, field secretary in Ontario and Quebec, for the Western Canada missions, addressed a fair-sized crowd on the work of the Baptist Church in the missionary line in the far western provinces. The speaker has spent several years in the West and he is well acquainted with the work being done out there. His work at the present time takes him to all parts of Ontario and Quebec.

The address of Rev. Dr. Daniels last night dealt with the difficulties and the encouragements in connection with the work. The difficulties arising from the fact that the country is so large and the incoming settlers are scattered so far away from the main railroad lines that there is a demand for a great many new missions, and it is hard to secure men to fill the posts. Then the foreign element is so large that it is difficult to secure men who can speak their languages.

Some of the encouragements, however, are, that the majority of the settlers are from the British Isles, and the United States and they are already practically Canadians. Even in the work among the foreigners there is the encouragement that they are greatly taken with the country and are doing well. They are a contented people and will soon come to love the country. They are also very ambitious for their children, realizing that they must become enlightened and like Canadians in order to do well here. This helps a great deal in the work among them.

The Baptist Church is doing a big work among the foreigners and the home church is taking a much deeper interest in it and are subscribing more liberally towards it.

The Government is Pleased with President Taft's Message

Ottawa, Dec. 8.—With President Taft's message to Congress, in so far as it relates to affairs between Canada and the United States, satisfaction is expressed in political circles here. The president's pronouncement was awaited with considerable interest here, and it is felt that there is nothing in it which justifies the assumption that there is to be a tariff war. It is stated authoritatively that the government is gratified at what it considers to be the broad manner in which the President has discussed the administration of the maximum clause of the American tariff. Mr. Taft's statement that the term "unduly discriminates," gives the President great latitude in determining what really constitutes such undue preference is officially stated to be exactly the interpretation given the law by members of the government in Ottawa. In political circles the message in the terms delivered is regarded as making much easier Mr. Fielding's pronouncement on the budget on Tuesday. Had the president's attitude been of a more menacing character it would doubtless have exercised an influence on the character of the Finance Minister's budget deliverance.

PEANUT POLITICS.

At Monday night's council meeting there was a display of peanut politics rarely seen in this or any other city council. When Ald. McIntyre moved his motion to establish a permanent assessor's office and to appoint Thos. McGrath at the head of that office with a yearly salary he endeavored to create a precedent that would soon mean ruin to municipal government in Peterborough. The mover of that motion can put forth but one excuse for his action, and that is to curry political favor with a certain class of ratepayers, and thus strengthen his depleted ranks before polling day on January 3rd. Ald. McIntyre was vigorously supported by Ald. Morgan a possible candidate for the mayoralty and he has exactly the same reason. He even openly admitted that he had always opposed Mr. McGrath when the council selected the assessors in the past.

We have no objection to Mr. McGrath nor to his appointment to office. We acknowledge, that through his long experience as assessor he has developed qualities that fit him for such an office. But, when aldermen, who are seeking sufferage from the people as aldermen or mayor, stoop to the practices of professional politicians it is time to hunt for a change in the system of government. If an alderman cannot be re-elected on his own personal record, without the assistance of last minute patronage, then it is better for the city that those men be left at home to look after their own business.

Where the big kick comes in is that not once during all the eleven months past has there been a word spoken in the council or committee of the establishment of an assessment department with a permanent head. But, just a day or two before the last meeting of a dying council, pressure is brought to bear, and then, the marrow in the back melts and the weaklings rush to the council meeting with a demand that Mr. Thos. McGrath be appointed permanent assessor. It is altogether too thin and it is bringing municipal politics down to too low a standard.

There is a proper time to do everything and there is a proper way to do it. A permanent assessor may be a good thing. Mr. McGrath may be the best man for the job, but the change is too radical for a council that has only three weeks more to exist, to undertake. Some of the aldermen showed much better judgment when they referred the matter to a committee. That committee met last night and their decision will be found in another column.

HOUSE FOR WORKINGMEN.

Edison's Latest Gift to Mankind a Success.

New York, Dec. 8.—Mr. Thos. A. Edison has completed models for pouring cement houses for workingmen, costing only a few hundred dollars.

"I am very anxious to pour my first house, but it is slow work making the moulds with only one machine. The first set of moulds will cost about $100,000.

"When I have finished, anybody who makes $10 a week can live in one of those houses. They will be solid, warm, antiseptic, sanitary and comfortable. They'll be earthquake proof, too. Why those houses will break up the whole Socialist party. The Socialists won't have a leg to stand on when I've got a few miles of those houses built and occupied by families now living in tenements. Any man who dares to preach Socialistic doctrines then will be mobbed. They'll revolutionize the whole social structure and bring about better living and better conditions than were ever before thought possible.

When molds are completed they will be bolted together so as to form a steel house with hollow walls from the roof to the cellar floor. There will be openings in the top into which the liquid cement will be poured.

The most wonderful part of Mr. Edison's invention is the character of the liquid cement. It has been demonstrative and proved by exhaustive tests at the laboratory that he has produced a mixture that has all the characteristics of a liquid, flows readily and fills all intersecties and openings, and that during this flow the heavier aggregates can be held in suspension, so that they are distributed evenly throughout the mass.

Thos. B. McGrath Recommended as the Permanent Assessor

His Salary to be $700 a Year and to Devote All His Time to the Assessment Work—Harry W. Thompson to be Assistant Assessor at $400 Per Year

The following is the motion passed by the special committee re the appointment of a permanent assessor:—

That T. B. McGrath be appointed assessor at a salary of $700 a year, and W. H. Thompson assistant assessor at a salary of $400 a year, to date from Jan. 1st, 1910, the assessor to give his whole time to the work or such other work as the council may direct and the assistant to give time to the work of assessing from February 1st each year till the work of making the assessment for the year is completed, and the assessment rolls returned to the city clerk, the assessor and the assistant to sign the rolls before they are returned.

Thos. B. McGrath has been recommended by the committee to be appointed permanent assessor, and Harry W. Thompson as assistant assessor permanently. The combined salaries to amount to $1100, the same as last year. Mr. McGrath will get $700 for all his time during the twelve months and Mr. Thompson $400 for his time for about eight months.

The special committee appointed on Monday night to look into the matter referred to in Ald. McIntyre's motion and the letter sent to the council by Mr. Thos. McGrath, met last night and prepared a report for the council at a special session to be called in the near future.

Those present were:—Mayor Rush, Aldermen Hicks, Morgan, Duffus and Gillespie. The chairman of the committee, Ald. McIntyre, was absent.

Mayor Rush was appointed to the chair, and he read a letter from Mr. W. H. Thompson, who was one of the assessors last year, stating that he would be willing to act as assistant assessor next year at a salary of $400.

City Clerk Armstrong gave the committee some information in regards to the duties of assessors.

Ald. Hicks said that his idea was to appoint two men. He had always favored that plan and also that the city appoint the assistant. He then moved that two men be appointed, one as assessor, and one as assistant. The assistant to start work about February 1st until October 1st. Ald. Morgan seconded it.

Ald. Gillespie asked if the committee was prepared to make the appointment at this time and not leave it over until next year?

Aldermen Morgan, Hicks and Duffus said yes they were.

Ald. Gillespie said he would much rather see the matter go over to next year's council as it was the work of that council. He felt that by appointing the official permanently now was creating a debt for next year's council to bear and they would have nothing to say about it.

Ald. Gillespie, however, was the big minority.

The committee then decided that the two be appointed McGrath as assessor at a salary of $700 and Thompson as assistant at $400.

City Clerk Armstrong suggested that the committee make it very clear what is meant, viz., whether McGrath is to be responsible for the assessment or whether the assistant is to be equally responsible. If the assistant is not to be responsible then he should be assistant to the assessorinstead of assistant assessor.

Ald. Gillespie drew attention to the fact that Mr. Thompson's time on duty should be closely stated so that he could not be called upon to work the whole year.

It was decided that the assessor should put in his whole time and that the assistant begin duties on February 1st, and continue until the assessment rolls are returned to the city clerk.

The committee decided that both men should be held responsible for the assessment of the city and that both sign the rolls.

Mr. McGrath's duties will begin on January 1st, 1910, if the council adopts the report.

The motions were all ready to put through when Ald. Duffus asked "How about the salary for Mr. McGrath for an entire year."

It was suggested that he be paid more than $700 for his services. The majority of the committee, however, felt sure that the proposition would not pass the council if it was to cost the city any more than last year so that the salaries were left as they were.

The city clerk then drafted a motion including all the above decisions and it was carried.

CURED CONSTIPATION QUICKLY.

Tells of a Remedy That is Safe for Young and Old, for All Stomach and Bowel Troubles.

Writing from his home in Barcelona, Mr. Frederick G. Mayer states: "I think no one ever suffered as severely from constipation as I did for near,y six months. So many serious symptoms were developing as a consequence of this evil condition of the system, that I realized I must find a remedy. The strong pills of various kinds I tried seemed after their first effects were over to mak their first effects were over to make me far worse and I did not know which way to turn for relief. I saw Dr. Hamilton's Pills advertised, and the first box used satisfied me I found a true remedy. Instead of griping by undue setivity, Dr. Hamilton's Pills acted as naturally as if physic had not been taken. I never had to increase the dose, and, indeed, within a month I reduced it and when the system finally acted of its own accord as a result of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, I took a dose twice a week obly, just to make sure the old condition would not come back.

No otherremedy cures constipation and biliousness so easily or safely as Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they are an ideal family remedy for all diseases of the stomach, liver and bowels. Sold in 25c. boxes, all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

Record Price Paid for Hockey Players Renfrew Pays $2,500

Ottawa, Ont., Dec. 8.—Officers of the Renfrew Club made today what they claim will be a successful effort to break up the Ottawa Stanley cup team. The men the Renfrew club is after are; Fred Taylor, covepoint; Fred Lake, point; Marty Walsh, center; and Albert Kerr, left wing. They have offered all four $2,500 for the season, with two year contracts, calling for a like amount next winter. Then, in addition, they have guaranteed the quartet jobs at Renfrew worth $1,200 per year. A Renfrew officer came to town with Kerr and Walsh last evening, and this morning they cornered Lake and Taylor. They have offered to deposit $2,500 in any of the local banks the minute the players sign their contracts for two years. Renfrew men, in fact, are willing to go as high as $3,000 in order to strengthen up their team, and make it strong enough to win the Stanley Cup.

The Ottawa officers claim to have closed with all four, but the players say they have signed no agreements, and that they are free lances. They have arranged to have a meeting with the team committee of the Ottawa Hockey Club this afternoon, when they will insist on better terms.

Taylor, Walsh, Kerr and Lake, stated this morning that they had decided to accept Renfrew's terms, but that they intended giving the Ottawa's another chance before leaving The Ottawa club, on the other hand, state that they will offer no increases to any of the men, and that they may go to Renfrew should they choose to do so. Lake and Taylor have good positions here, and Kerr and Walsh were to have stepped into new jobs this morning.

George Martel is doing all the negotiating for the Renfrew club, while M. J. O'Brien and James Barnet are putting up the money. The Ottawas now expect to lose at least three of their men, and have closed with Kenny Mallen, Bruce Ridpath, and two or three others

Three O.H.A. Teams for the Classic City

Stratford, Dec. 8.—The announcement that Stratford will have three teams in the O.H.A., senior, intermediate, and junior, will indeed be a surprise to the hockey fans throughout the city. But such in effect was the decision reached at a meeting of the hockey executive held last night.

The executive felt that there was ample material in the city for three teams. Robert MacNichol has been appointed manager of the senior, and the duty of getting out the junior will also develove upon his shoulders.

The matter of grouping was discussed, but no decision was arrived at, the matter being left in the hands of the president. With three teams on the move hockey enthusiasts will surely have enough to keep them on the go this winter.

The meeting of the O.H.A. Executive on Monday, Dec. 13, will be awaited with interest. The grouping takes place at this meeting.

This Date in History

1600—Marriage of Henry IV. of England and Mary de Medici.
1608—John Milton, English poet, born. Died Nov. 8, 1674.
1830—The first locomotive built in the United States was finished and tested at the foundry at West Point, N.Y.

Will Hear Appeals.

His Honor Judge Huycke has set Tuesday, Dec. 21st as the date for hearing the appeals against the voters' list. There are something over 300 appeals but the local option and License Victuallers' Association will get togwther shortly and fix up their lists so that the judge's labor will be greatly lessened.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

Tom Longboat and Billy Sherring will run a ten-mile race at the Brock street Roller Rink, Saturday night, 11th inst., for a purse. The winner takes all. The race starts at 9.30. Admission 25c, with privilege of skating or not.

Mrs. Magann of Campbellford, is spending the winter months with Miss Smith and Miss Rowe at 357 George street.

Municipal Notes

NEWS OF BATTLE.

Among the new men likely to be in the field for aldermen are B. Laster and W. J. Johnston, ex-alderman. On nomination day, however, there will no doubt be several others consent to take up the city's burden.

GOOD MEN WANTED.

For everything that is done wrong for everything that has not been done at all, and for every dollar that was not spent to the best advantage by the council last year, the citizens are too blame entirely. They elected the aldermen and they defeated those who were defeated. If a change is desired now is the time to get the candidates out.

HE MAY RUN.

Ald. Wm. Buller, chairman of the Fire, Water & Light Committee may yet be in the field for the mayoralty fight. If he stands the man who defeats him will have to go a faster clip than he ever did before. Ald. Buller has been a first-class alderman and has shown excellent qualities for the mayor's position and back of it all he is immensely popular with all classes.

FORGOT THEIR SUPPER.

On Monday night about half-past eleven the aldermen voted that a supper be ordered for all hands when the council adjourned. The vote was unanimous, but when the business was all over the city fathers forgot all about their supper and hurried home. There has not been one feed been one bun feed at the expense of the city or aldermen all this year.

MAY DROP OUT.

So far Ald. Metheral is the only alderman who has said that he would not be in the field again on January 3rd. He, however, has not finally decided.

England Must Wake from Her Lethargy

Earl Roberts Urged England to Awaken from Its State of Lethargy and Consider a Serious Problem

London, Dec. 8.—Vivid pictures of England's helplessness to prevent a foreign invasion by hostile airships were painted today before the United Service Institute by Lord Roberts and Major Frederick Baden Powell, brother of Gen. Baden Powell of Boer war fame.

Earl Roberts, who presided, urged England to wake from its state of lethargy and consider the problem now demanding the attention of all civilized nations. He declared that if the English people recognized how grave the danger and how unprepared to meet with other nations they were, so far as aerial navigation is concerned there would be a simultaneous demand that the War Office spend any amount of money to meet the situation.

Cobourg Young Man Killed by a Street Car in Toronto

Toronto, Dec. 8.—With his head crushed beyond recognition a man who was later identified as Gordon Holmbeck, was pulled from under the wheels of a south-bound car in Yonge street at 1.15 today.

He was rushed to St. Michael's Hospital with all possible speed, but died before he reached there.

STOPPED CAR QUICKLY.

The man was crossing the street near Agnes, from west to east, and got directly in front of the car. The motorman did not see him, and the front of the car struck him on the left side, throwing him in front of it on the tracks. The motorman did his utmost, and so nearly did he succeed to stopping his car that the front wheels did not pass completely over his head. His head was, however, terribly crushed and mangled.

Policeman Macdonald, who was on duty near the corner, saw what had happened, and rushed to the man's assistance. The car was backed slowly, and Macdonald pulled the still living body from under the car. The last spark of life went out before St. Michael's Hospital was reached, and the ambulance drove at once to the morgue.

IN HIS POCKETS.

In the dead man's pockets were found several postal cards addressed to Gordon Holmbeck, 97 Scollard street. He was evidently agent for an accident insurance company. One of the cards was from the dead man of the cards was from the dead man's mother, who evidently lives in Cobourg. "Be sure to take care of yourself," the card said.

In the dead man's clothes, as he lies at the morgue, his watch was still ticking, uninjured, but a lead pencil was snapped in two by the force of his fall.

DUE TO CLOUD OF DUST.

Mr. J. S. Ruston of Ontario St., saw the accident, and told a reporter what he thought was the cause of the accident.

"I think it was purely and simply due to the dusty condition of the streets," Mr. Ruston said. "In front of the car as it came down the street, a cloud of dust rose in a whirl, and I think it confused both the motorman and the man who was killed. He did not seem to see the car at all."

Shrubb willing to Meet Longboat at 20 Miles

Toronto, Dec. 8. — "Sol Mintz, Longboat's manager, seems to have a lot to say about the 20-mile race at Buffalo," said Alf. Shrubb today. "He says I want 15 or 18 miles. Now, I am ready to run Longboat the 20 miles. It is only up to Sol Mintz to wire and tell Charlie Murray of Buffalo, that Longboat will run. Then I think terms will be arranged, and when it is arranged I am satisfied that I will win.

"I don't consider that the runners had a fair chance in the race at the Island. Too many spectators were near the track and did not give the proper freedom. Tell Sol Mintz to go ahead and fix up the 20-mile race. Mr. Murray will give my reply to him."

The Quebec Bridge a Great Task---Will Employ 3,000 Men

Quebec, Que., Dec. 7.—Preliminary work for the reconstruction of the Quebec bridge was started today when some one hundred men were put to work around the approaches about three miles from the city for the building of crib-work workshops, boarding houses, and the laying of tracks for the freighting of supplies necessitated for the demolishing of the old piers and construction of new ones.

Over 3,000 men will be employed in the spring.

MORE NEW LIGHTS.

The Fire, Water & Light Committee held a short session last night when they fixed up a few lights for Ashburnham, and one for the Margaret Cox Home.

Ald. Morgan moved that the are lamp on Concession street be taken down and five incandescent lamps be erected. Ald. Hicks seconded the motion and it carried.

The Margaret Cox Home authorities requested the city to put an electric lamp in front of their premises near the railway track. The matter was left with the chairman with power to act.

The chairman was also authorized to look after the arc lamp asked for at the corner of Auburn and Dunlop streets.

EARACHE, TOOTHACHE!

To Cure the Pain in Ten Seconds and Get Instant Relief, Nothing Equals

NERVILINE.

Fifty years ago Nerviline was used from coast to coast and in thousands of houses this trusty liniment served the entire family, cured all their minor ills and kept the doctor's bill small. Today Nerviline still holds first rank in Canada among pain relieving remedies—scarcely a home you can find that doesn't use it.

TESTIMONIAL NO. 4398

From Port Hope, Ont., Mr. W. T. Greenaway of the Guide newspaper staff, writes: "For 20 years we have used Nerviline in our home, and not for the world would we be without it. As a remedy for all pain, earache, cramps, headache and disordered stomach, I know of no preparation so useful and quick to relieve as Nerviline."

Let every mother give Nerviline a trial; it's good for children, good for old folks—you can rub it on as a liniment or take it internally.

Wherever there is pain, Nerviline will cure it. Refuse anything but Nerviline, 25c. per bottle, five for $1.00, all dealers or the Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

THE GOVERNMENT ANNUITIES PLAN.

According to the first official report upon the Annuities post office scheme, put forth by the Dominion Government last session, the public is not embracing the scheme with any great avidity. During its first seven months' existence, 288 contracts were issued, the amounts contracted for aggregating $65,022.80, at an initial purchase rate of $206,410. The entrance of the Postal Department upon the business of the life underwriters, is avowedly in the interests of the poorer classes to whom an annuity of $250, after the age of 55 years has been reached, is of vital importance. No doubt if the Department could launch its scheme with anything like success, it would assist in the promotion of thrift, where that is most desirable. It might also help to settle down our factory, and other workpeople, who, to tell the truth, are rather given to saving at the present time. The surprising extent of the operations of the ill-managed and to business men compromising York County Loan and Savings Co., which is still in process of enforced liquidation, shows the readiness of the working class to invest part of its earnings. Possibly the commission of a third of one per cent upon moneys forwarded, is not sufficiently high to convert local postal officials into good canvassers for the Government scheme. Surely, it cannot be that the toilers do not trust the Government.

If Sick

Don't risk even one single penny!

And I will tell you why I say this.

It is because every package of Dr. Shoop's medicine is absolutely free if it fails.

No one need risk even one single penny.

Just think what this means to the suffering sick!

No risk, my friends, nothing whatever to lose. Health first returns, for 10 full days, and without the risk of a single penny, you can use either of my two famous remedies—Dr. Shoop's Restorative or Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy.

Then why take any chance whatever?

Why purchase any medicine whose maker dare not back it just as I do by this remarkable offer?

My No trip or penny to me. has made Dr. Shoop's Restorative the very great success it is to-day. The very first dose tells. We take no chance when we do it.

Dr. Shoop's medicines have become thoroughly standardized all over America. And I have received hundreds and hundreds of grateful letters from [illegible] every where to accept my offer. Others have followed directly after reading my offer. Sometimes with the sick—and this entire risk is mine alone.

Just write me first for an order.

I have no agent in almost every community—but all druggists are not authorized to grant this 10 day test.

So drop me a line, please—and then save all disappointment and delay.

Nothing, you see, for me to consult me by letter as you would your doctor. [illegible] Only—if you do write me, please tell me which of my two remedies you think you need. Perhaps a word or two from you will cause me some study in your case. I have had 30 years of success in treating the sick by my private correspondence or personal advice plan.

Before the bridge will open up new and unlimited fields to you, I say full of my 25 years experience at the bedside of the sick in forming this plan. All physical weakness and ailments are the result of some form of nerve starvation. Your stomach, liver, kidneys, heart, lungs, bowels, bladder or nerves. Most chronic invalids suffer from combined nerve starvation of numerous organs. Before the bridge will open up to full. Before Dr. Shoop's Restorative or Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy can and will benefit you you must have enough nerve force left to digest the power of medicine to do its work. My best effort is merely worth a single penny to you. So write me to-day, while it is fresh in your mind. To-morrow never comes. Dr. Shoop, Box 33, Racine, Wis.

A LADY'S MEMOIRS.

Countess of Cardigan's Book Causes a Sensation.

No book of recent years has created such a sensation in London as the "Recollections" of the Countess of Cardigan, which have just been published. It is the main topic of conversation in the boudoirs of Mayfair and the West end clubs. It has been characterised as a "volume of blazing indiscretions," and consternation reigns among the elite on account of her ladyship's very frank revelations concerning members of their families. There is no attempt to disguise names, and the annoyance and pain which have been caused by the piquant character of the stories told by the countess have led to many protests against the manner in which she has raised the veil and exposed the immoralities and wickedness of "high society."

"I repeat emphatically," says a writer in The World, "that this is a shameless book. I cannot conceive that the authorities are so feeble and so indifferent as to permit of this book remaining on sale. I call upon them instantly to withdraw it from circulation."

Meantime, while the storm of indignation is raging, the countess has retired into the country to enjoy the sensation she has caused. As a matter of fact, it was her original intention, it is said, to make the book even more outspoken than it is. In the heyday of her charms she counted among her followers royal as well as aristocratic admirers. From these she received countless love-letters, which she treasures as souvenirs of bygone triumphs. It was her intention, so the report goes, to include in her book facsimiles of billets-doux from high-born personages, some of whom are still living. When an inkling of her proposal leaked out, however, strong representations were made to the countess from very high quarters, and in the end she consented to omit certain epistles.

Here are some tit-bits from a book which will be talked about for a long time.

The countess resided in Mayfair at a time when, as she wittily puts it, "Society was composed of brilliant men and witty women, beauties and ladies, who held sway without puffing paragraphs in the newspapers."

On one occasion the countess stayed with Lord and Lady Wilton at Melton Mowbray. His lordship's free and easy life had gained for him the epithet of "The Wicked Earl." One Sunday the countess and Lady Wilton went to church, unaccompanied by his lord-ship.

"I saw the clerk look at us as we entered the church," says the countess, "and he evidently noticed Lord Wilton's absence; but I was not prepared for what followed. The vicar duly commenced, 'When the wicked —,' but he was stopped by the clerk, who turned to him and, looking across at Lord Wilton's vacant seat, said, in a loud voice: 'Please, sir, his lordship's not come yet.'"

On the journey back to town the countess travelled with the old Duchess of Cambridge. "Directly the train started the duchess opened a large hamper and took out a German sausage, which she devoured with great relish, cutting slices off it with a silver knife, with which she transferred them to her mouth." In one case chapter a story is told of Lord Ward, who had very curly hair, which could never be induced to lie smoothly on his head. One day his valet went into his master's bedroom and saw him sitting in his bath with his hat on. He thought his lordship had gone mad and promptly left, although Lord Ward only wore his hat to try and keep his rebellious curls in order.

There is an amusing story, too, concerning Lord Ernest Bruce, who had a great weakness for leave-taking. "He always loved to speed the parting guest," says the countess, "and invariably went through the same ceremony whenever he said good-bye. This consisted of kissing everybody, and then, with a great show of generosity, he would present the porter with sixpence." The countess had invited a small party for a yachting cruise, which included his lordship's son, Robert Bruce. "When old Lord Ernest was preparing to say good-bye to us, Robert called out, 'Now, father, kiss the porter and give me the sixpence' greatly to Lord Ernest's annoyance."

A Stranger Lord.

Judge George F. Lawton, of the Probate Court, London, Eng., related a story the other day of a minister who was spending his Sabbatical year traveling abroad. Arriving in London, he made every effort to get an intimate view of the two branches of Parliament in session. Of course, no stranger is allowed on the floor of the House of Lords, but the minister, not knowing this, and with the usual amount of American push, tried to make his way in. There is a rule, however, that servants of the various lords may be admitted to speak to their masters. Seeing the minister walking boldly in, the doorkeeper asked:

"What Lord," repeated the astonished man. "The Lord Jehovah!"

For a moment the doorkeeper hesitated and then admitted him. Turning to the assistant standing near, he said,

"He must mean one of those poor Scotch lairds.

The Dramas of Mincing Lane.

It was only after eleven years of futile knocking at theatrical managers' doors with rolls of manuscript that Mr. Alfred Sutro, who would appear [illegible] another success at the Garrick in London with "Making a Gentleman," got his foot on the first rung of the ladder of theatrical fame. At one time he worked in an office in Mincing Lane, and says that those [illegible] of his were of immense value to him. "There are dramas in Mincing Lane," to quote his own words, "as thrilling as any that have been placed upon the stage." Mr. Sutro is a brother-in-law of Mr. Rufus Isaacs, K.C., and a distant kinsman of the Sutro who drove the famous Sutro Tunnel through the Nevada mountain, and thus made himself a millionaire.

Wolf Hunters.

John A. Hope of Kippawa, near Mattawa, Ont., is the party to write to if any first-class rifle shot is desirous of joining the American and Canadian sportsmen who go north in January, February and March after the grey-coated but elusive deer-slayers. Wolf shooting has superseded all other forms of sport for the first-class rifle shot and as it means a bounty, a good shot can pay his expenses and secure renown at one an d the same time. A small bore high-powdered rifle is used.

WASHING HOUSE PLANTS.

How to Keep Them Healthy and Free From Insects.

If after taking flowers into the house you discover the troublesome meal bugs, aphis, the torment of chrysanthemum; green flies and tiny red spiders, begin at once to kill them. The overwhelming development of these pests can be stopped only by using some strong solution that will kill the insects and destroy the eggs. If a small camel's hair brush is dipped into alcohol and the haunts of these pests are washed out with the solution, followed with a tobacco suds wash, clean plants will be insured. Do not permit this water to run into the earth, for alcohol will kill some plants. Have a piece of oilcloth, cut a hole in the centre and slit one side to the edge. This can be wrapped around the plant to prevent the water going into the crock. This is also an excellent method when cleaning flowers in the kitchen sink, for the dirt does not overflow when the crock is protected with the oilcloth covering.

The red spider can be killed with pure water, but this process requires that the entire plant be immersed. This is easily done, and the water should be changed a number of times. Do not leave one plant untouched, but clean all at the same time. Just a few insects will increase rapidly in numbers, and the aphis to-day would be a past generation to-morrow, so the accumulation of these little pests should be fought from the time flowers are taken into the house. No flower collects insects more rapidly than ivy. The fragile leaves and stems are alive with them, for which reason ivy should be kept out of the collection of rare plants. Flowers with large leaves should be washed. Buy a small soft brush and keep it for the purpose of washing the flower leaves. It cleans under the leaves and between the stems and stock.

IVY FOR HOME DECORATION.

How to Grow the English and German Varieties With Ease.

For a growing green which is beautifully decorative in the home in winter there is nothing more satisfactory than ivy. There are so many artistic ways of arranging the ivy, and the English variety particularly is so hardy that it cannot fail to grow. Artists have painted it and poets sung of it—the romantic ivy green.

With a pot containing the ivy standing on a table, floor or shelf the creeping branches may be trained in any direction about the room. Have the vine clamber up the window casing, and the green and leafy screen through which you can look out upon a wintry landscape will make it seem less bleak. Stand the jar containing the ivy on a bracket shelf at one end of the mantel and let it wander, with skillful training, up over mantel and walls, stray tendrils drooping gracefully over pictures and the like.

Ivy may be trained over the archway which divides rooms, and no portieres will be needed. There is also the more delicate German ivy, which requires gentler handling. It will grow effectively without soil. I saw one growing in a large bowl of water—the kind of glass bowl used for small aquaria. The ivy grew over the sides of the bowl, festooning itself in tangled masses of vivid green, which gave a living beauty to the whole room.—Suburban Life.

No Influence.

During a municipal election in a town in the west of Scotland a young lady who was canvassing in behalf of one of the candidates called at a house, the door of which was opened by the good wife.

"I have called to solicit your vote on behalf of Mr. ——," said the young lady.

"But it's not me that's got the vote. It's ma man," replied the woman.

"Yes," said the young lady, "but I thought you might perhaps use your influence with him."

"Me influoence him?" said the good wife. "I hiv nae influoence wi' him. Only this morning I ask't him to wash the floor afore he went out, and he wadna dae it."

Quits.

A little girl was in the habit of calling "stretchers." Her auntie told her she could never believe her and, to warn her, related the tale of the boy who called "Wolf, wolf!" and how the wolf really did come one day and ate up all her sheep.

"Ate the sheep?" asked the child.

"Yes."

"All of them?"

"Yes; all of them," answered her auntie.

"Well," said the little one, "I don't believe you, and you don't believe me. So there!"

Woman's Preparation For the Street.

Nearly every man knows that it takes the average woman two hours to dress for the street, and they seem hurried at that, but few men know just why such preparations take so long. For the enlightenment of the latter is the explanation in boiled down form as given by an authoritative person:

Fitting on dress, forty minutes; buttoning same, ten minutes; arranging hair, twenty-five minutes; touching up face, fifteen minutes; setting hat, twenty minutes; mirror contemplation, ten minutes.

In Doubt.

"Prisoner," said the court, sternly, "are you guilty or not guilty?"

"Now, judge," answered the defendant confidentially, "we's bof been th'oo dis here kin' o' business befo', an' you knows jes' as well as I does dar ain' no use o' me tryin' to answer dat kin' o' question tell de trial's over an' I finds out whether I's been lucky or not."

She Did.

"Didn't some idiot propose to you before our marriage?"

"Certainly."

"Then you ought to have married him."

"That's just what I did."

Bran Bath Bags.

Take a pound and a half of new bran, three-quarters of a pound of almond meal, eight ounces of powdered orris root and five ounces of shaved castile soap.

Make muslin bags five or six inches square and put in three tablespoonfuls of the mixture. The quantity given above will fill a dozen and a half bags.

The bran bags add delightful refreshment to the bath.

What He Wouldn't Take.

The bartender grasped the man next the stove by the shoulder and shook him until he was awake.

"Here, Zeph," he told him, "you'd better go out and get some fresh air. It'll do you good."

Zeph merely grunted, drunkenly, and huddled back in his chair. The bartender tried it again with like result.

"You won't get out, won't you?" he roared angrily. Seizing the unfortunate Zeph by the collar and the seat of the trousers, he escorted him forcibly to the alley. "Get out there in the air and brace up," was his advice.

"Ye kin put me out if y' like, but"—Zeph straightened up with drunken dignity—"ye can't make me take no air, durn ye."

Too Near the Throne.

In the seventies of the last century the artist, Anton von Werner, was appointed to perpetuate the German imperial proclamation. He first made a sketch to submit to the old Emperor William. In this the various personages were grouped in the same order as during the ceremony at Versailles. William I. standing on a raised platform, with Bismarck at his left on a lower step and on his right the crown prince, whom the artist had represented with one foot on the upper level. The emperor examined the sketch and at once noted the position of the Crown Prince Frederick. He frowned, took his pencil and made a thick, rapid stroke through his son's right leg. "Not yet," said he.

An Odd Way to Fish.

The natives of Tutuila, one of the islands of Oceania, have a peculiar method of catching fish. At a given signal all the inhabitants of the village assemble on the seashore to the number of about 200 persons, each one carrying a branch of the cocoa palm. With these in their hands they plunge into the water and swim a certain distance from the shore, when they turn, forming a compact semicircle, each one holding his palm perpendicular in the water, thus making a sort of sieve. The leader of the party then gives a signal, and the fishers all approach the seashore gradually in perfect order, driving before them a multitude of fishes that are cast on the sands and killed with sticks.

An Elephant's Courtesy.

At the conclusion of a children's performance at Old Meldrum an elephant proceeded along a narrow road with a pail in its trunk for the purpose of procuring water from a pump. A little girl chanced to get in the animal's way, and, the road being only wide enough to accommodate his substantial body, the elephant laid down the pail, picked up the child with his trunk and gently lifted her to a place of safety, afterward resuming his journey to the pump for the water.—Westminster Gazette.

He Lived There All Right.

An anxious father got wind of the rumor that his son was leading rather a convivial life at college. But the son strenuously denied the charge in letters to his father. Still unsatisfied, the father made an unexpected visit to his son's lodging place and, giving the bell a manly pull, was met by a grim faced landlady, who seemed to know what was coming.

"Does Mr. James Smith live here?" asked the father.

"He does," replied the landlady. "Bring him right in."

The Bird of Death.

Only one specimen of venomous bird is known to the student of ornithological oddities—the Rpir N'Death, or "Bird of Death," a feathered parelox of New Guinea. Persons bitten by the creature are seized by maddening pains, which rapidly extend to every part of the body. Loss of sight, convulsions, and lockjaw are symptoms which follow in rapid succession.

Prevention, the new Candy Cold Cure Tablets, are said by druggists to have been special agents advertised over all other remedies for a cold. First—They contain no Quinine nothing harsh or sickening. Second—They give almost instant relief. Third—Pleasant to the taste, like candy. Fourth—A large box—25 Prevention—at 25 cents. Also fine for feverish children. Sold by all dealers.

A Special In Fine Arts

The "Stunner" Was a Surprise to the Two Students.

By JANE OSBORN.

Copyright, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.

Stanton Thorpe and his chum, Kid Walker, were walking rapidly across the campus, absorbed in their own importance. It was the first day of their senior year. Stanton was class president, and the Kid was his right hand man.

A tall, striking girl passed rapidly by. Stanton was interested at once and not a little surprised when he saw the girl smile back at his companion, who pulled off his cap with undisguised satisfaction.

"Who's your friend, KM?" he asked when they were well out of hearing.

"Why, that's Marjory King. I told you about her. She's the girl I met at the house party last summer; made an awful hit with the fellows there. Isn't she a stunner, though?"

"Marjory King." mused the other thoughtfully.

"Isn't she a stunner?' And the Kid gave his friend a thump on the arm to force an answer.

"Oh, she's a stunner, all right, if that's what you want to know. Say, she isn't a freshman, is she?"

The KM laughed. "Well, not exactly. She's registered as a special in fine arts. I shouldn't wonder if she was rather oldish myself."

"How old, say?" queried Stanton, whose interest was thoroughly roused.

The Kid's voice was lowered. "Twenty-three," he ventured cautiously.

His companion whistled. "Well, I'm as old as that myself." His eyes had followed her to the other side of the campus. "Say, Kid, she is a stunner. Shouldn't much mind coeducation if they were all like that."

The next day the two boys were making their way from one of the engineering buildings to their dormitory.

"Say, Kid," said Stanton after several minutes' silence, "what's she taking?"

The other smiled gleefully. "She? Oh, she's a special in fine arts, which means anything at all, doesn't it? Why?"

"Well, it's this way," explained Stanton, trying to hide an unexpected feeling of embarrassment. "I was thinking that we'd get better acquainted and kind of gain time on the other fellows if we were to take some work with her."

This plan met with his chum's entire approval, so they turned their steps away from the dormitory toward the dean's office.

Their first task was to see Marjory King's schedule, and the second was to induce the dean to allow them to make a change in their own course of study. The first was easy enough, for as class officers the boys were allowed to have access to the students' records.

"Just want to look at a few of the fellows' time cards," said Stanton to the registrar as he fumbled through the K's in a large card catalogue. He made a few notes from the desired card and returned to his friend, who was seated at the table.

He spoke in subdued tones: "Advanced Italian conversation, art of dressmaking, scientific cooking, study of the child mind and elementary philology. The first we aren't qualified for, the next two aren't open to men, child mind I won't take, so it's got to be the last."

"What is philology, anyway?" asked the Kid.

"Blessed if I know. It's one of Professor Brown's deadliest, but it's perfectly all right."

"Well, let's take it then."

So it was that Stanton Thorpe and Kid Walker, engineers, took up the study of languages under the celebrated Dr. Brown and—a fact of much greater importance—became in a few months the undisputed claimants to the friendship of Marjory King.

As time went on and Marjory was seen more and more with Stanton and the Kid and less with the other boys people began to talk. She apparently found their companionship agreeable, but no one, not even the two lucky seniors themselves, could decide which one she preferred. The rivalry—intense though it was—only cemented their friendship, and they never dreamed of concealing from each other their growing fondness for the girl.

"There's no use joking about it, Kid," said Stanton toward the end of the college year. "I mean business. What's the use of a boy like you getting silly over a girl like Marjory King?"

"Perhaps there isn't any," said the other frankly, "but I'm going to stick it out. It seems sometimes as if she treated me with a little more—more interest than she does you."

Stanton laughed. "That's where you're dead wrong, old man. By the way, last philology exam is going to be pretty stiff for the poor girl. It's a shame she ever took the course with a fossil like Brown. But I imagine I can help her out with my notes. You know I haven't missed a lecture, and I've full reports on all the outside readings. I have offered to let her have my notebook for a week before the exam, and I told her I'd coach her up all I could."

"That's a good move, all right," said the Kid, looking with admiration at his friend. "I wonder why I never think of those things."

"Oh, well, she isn't going to marry me just on account of that."

"Isn't going to what?"

"Well, I never put it that way before, but of course I intend to propose to her. I told you I was in dead earnest."

"Oh, I suppose I will, too, in the course of time. I never happened to think about that part of it before."

"I tell you frankly," said Stanton deliberately, "I intend to ask her a few days before commencement, some time after this beastly old exam is off."

"She'll hear from me about the same time, then, and I bet you money I'll win out."

So it was agreed between them that Stanton should coach Marjory as he had promised to and that as soon as the marks of the examination were posted the next morning he should make his proposal, asking her to defer her answer until later in the day. In the course of the morning the Kid should make his plea, and that night they would know their fate.

The two boys approached the important day with ever increasing excitement. The strain of senior examinations seemed as nothing compared with the uncertainty of not knowing the state of Marjory King's affections. She seemed to take a keen relish in keeping them in suspense, and a word of encouragement to one was always followed by a radiant smile upon the other.

The day at last arrived, and KM Walker saw his chum depart upon his important errand. "I don't wish you luck, old man," he said, "but here's my hand." And the two boys separated with a warmer feeling of friendship for each other than they had ever known before.

A large crowd of students had already gathered around the bulletin board when the Kid sauntered up with pretended indifference to see the result of the philology examination. He craned his neck over the crowd. That name at the head of the list was enough—"M. King, 99 per cent." He felt a sudden sense of defeat. Stanton had coached her, and she had come out at the head of the list. He pushed his way aimlessly away from the others.

Suddenly he came upon his chum walking slowly toward him.

"I ought to have known you'd win her," said Stanton.

The Kid's happiness was tinged with deep pity for his friend.

"Have you asked her?"

"Yes. She told me that she was never so surprised in her life; said she was just about to accept some one else. You're a lucky boy, Kid Walker."

"How did she know that I was going to propose?" stammered the Kid. "But I'd better not keep her waiting any longer."

He was detained by the voice of a classmate: "Hello, Kid. Heard the news?"

"No. What news?"

"Philology Brown's going to be married."

"Is he? It's about time." The Kid was not in the least interested.

"Here they come!" called one of the boys a few feet away. "Here's a rousing cheer, boys. Are you ready?"

"R-r-o-w-n! Rip! Rah! Ree! King! King! King!" came the shout of twenty voices.

Kid Walker was completely dazed. He looked up to see Professor Brown walking rapidly by, with Marjory King smiling at his side. His eyes met Stanton's.

"Isn't she a s[illegible]r?" asked an enthusiastic onlooker.

Stanton smiled grimly at the Kid. "Oh, she's a stunner, all right, if that's what you want to know."

Why Water Quenches Thirst.

Thirst, a word of Anglo-Saxon origin and akin to the Latin torreo and our torrid or parched, describes a peculiar sensation of dryness and heat located in the tongue and throat. Artificial thirst may be produced by the passage of a current of air over the mucous membrane of these parts, but normal thirst is the consequence of a lack of liquid in the system. The agony of extreme thirst is due to the fact that all the tissues sympathize in this distress. It is then as a refreshing relief that a supply of water comes to thirsting lips, replacing what has been lost, cooling the parched palate and rapidly removing the craving which has depressed the system. In short, water quenches thirst just because it supplies what at the moment is wanting and is most eagerly desired, so that Solomon could properly compare the gift of "cold waters to a thirsty soul" to the advent of good news. Thirst is to some extent appeased by the injection of water into the blood or body, though no fluid touches the part to which the sensation is referred.

The Salvation Army's Name.

The adoption of the name "Salvation Army" came about in a curiously unpremeditated way, writes Commander Eva Booth in Van Norden's Magazine. As the head of the new movement Mr. Booth had gathered around him men who were as one with him and acted as his secretaries. One day he was walking up and down his study, dictating, when he used these words:

"The Christian mission is a volunteer army."

He paused in his dictation and looked thoughtfully over the shoulder of his secretary at the written line, took up the pen, scored out the word "volunteer" and wrote above it "salvation" and went on dictating. This was the first time the word was used, and it made such an impression that it began insensibly to be thought as an appropriate name for the mission. It grew upon the imagination of men. They liked it—liked it so well that they finally adopted it.

Larry Was Prepared.

"Well, Larry," said the genial manufacturer, "I hear that you are much interested in aerial sports these days."

"Yes, sor," responded the coachman with the big volume under his arm; "that is why I bought this book."

"Ah! You want to learn how to go up in an airship?"

The old fashioned way of doing a weak stomach, or diseases of the Heart or Kidneys is all wrong. Dr. Shoop first pointed out this error. This is why his prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—is directed entirely to the cause of these ailments—the weak inside or controlling nerves. It isn't so difficult, says Dr. Shoop, to strengthen a weak Stomach, Heart, or Kidneys if one controlling or inside nerve. When these nerves fail, then these organs must surely falter. These vital truths are teaching druggists everywhere to discontinue and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Test it a few days, and real improvement will promptly and surely follow. A TRIBUTE TO GENIUS.

Envoys of Many Nations Honor Mrs. Julia Ward Howe.

Mrs. Julia Ward Howe stirred a brilliant assemblage in the Metropolitan Opera House, in New York city, during the Hudson-Fulton celebration by reading the poem composed by her and dedicated to the occasion which brought together the envoys of many nations.

Although Mrs. Howe is more than ninety years old, the poem and her recitation showed that she is still mentally and physically vigorous.

She stood alone in the center of the stage, and when she began to read her poem in a firm, clear voice the great gathering also stood.

The tribute which her hearers paid to Mrs. Howe was impressive. Although the applause was deafening, there was a certain note of reverence and respect, and there were tears in the eyes of the aged woman when she acknowledged the homage of great men of many nations.

Here is Mrs. Howe's poem:

FULTON.

By JULIA WARD HOWE.

(From Collier's. Reprinted by permission.)

A river flashing like a gem,
Crowned with a mountain diadem,
Invites an unaccustomed guest
To launch his shallop on her crest,
A pilgrim whose exploring mind
Must leave his tardy pace behind—
"My bark creeps slow; the world is vast.
How shall its space be overpassed?"

Responsive to his cry appears
A visionary, young in years,
Commissioned with prophetic brain
The mystic problem to explain—
"Where fire and water closest blend,
There find a servant and a friend."

Yet many a moon must wax and wane,
With sleepless nights and days of pain,
Pleading a monarch's court before,
Shrewd projectiles and study sore,
Ere on the silver tide shall float,
Swifter than thought, young Fulton's boat.

And not alone for Hudson's stream
Avails the magic power of steam.
Blessings of unimagined worth
Its speed shall carry round the earth.
Knowledge shall on its pinions fly,
Nor land nor race in darkness lie.
Commerce her hoards shall freely bring
To many an urgent summoning.
And Want and Wealth in sundered lands
Shall closely clasp redeeming hands.
While master minds new gospels span.
The holy brotherhood of man.

Rest, Fulton, in thine honored grave,
Remembered with the wise and brave.
Thy message visits every sea,
Herald of benefits to be.
So nearly may our world relate
The mighty movements of her fate,
So Doom and Dangers wide apart
Appeal to every human heart.

And, as one sun doth compass all
That shall arise or may befall,
One flat on creation's night
Bestowed the blessed boon of light,
So shall all life one promise fill
For Freedom, Justice and Good Will.

Mary Harriman a Country Girl.

Mary Harriman, daughter of the late E. H. Harriman, has as keen an instinct for guarding the cents as her father demonstrated in his business career. As the manager of the 30,000 acre farm in Arden, N. Y., she works with an eye to profit. The responsibility of the farm is not new to her. For several years she practically held control, her father seldom interfering and then doing little more than offering a suggestion. Harriman was proud of his daughter's talent for management. They were a familiar sight driving together over the farm, Harriman, as a rule, holding the reins over one of his fast trotters. Miss Harriman cares more for her farm than for society. She is essentially a country girl. Society never has attracted her, and there is little likelihood it will gain her interest now. She is a keen judge of a horse and seldom gets the worst of a trade.

A Nervous Face.

Do not neglect the nervous face. When a child grimaces or twitches there is trouble ahead. The sooner it is taken in hand the less probability there will be of chronic grimacing or, worse yet, St. Vitus' dance. Frequently this twitching begins when the child is very young; sometimes it arises from older people foolishly laughing at the little one's contortions, and they are kept up until they become a nervous affection.

Do Not Use Creosote.

Creosote should never be put into a hollow tooth for toothache. It relieves the pain, but in time destroys the substance of the tooth. Leave creosote to expert use.

THE DIFFERENCE.

In one respect Canada and the United States differ notably in consideration of western naval. The entire opposition to an active naval policy, in the United States, comes from the middle west, from the great Mississippi States, which being far from either ocean consequently have to be filled with waterways and various other local improvements in order that the Atlantic and Pacific States may have their way in carrying out an active naval programme. Whereas in Canada, the most profound, or at any rate the noisiest enthusiasm, for a comprehensive scheme of naval defence comes from Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. Canada's West is more in tune with its eastern provinces than are the similar stretches of country in the republic to the south.

CAPITAL STOCK (Authorized $1,000,000—1,000,000 SHARES OF $1.00 EACH.
700,000 SHARES ISSUED—300,000 IN TREASURY.

Claim "T. R. 189" is stated by competent mining engineers to be undoubtedly the best property in the Montreal River District. It contains 40 acres, mostly hilly, of diabase formation, and is within 2½ miles of transportation.

Active development was begun by the present owners in May last. The necessary buildings for men, horses, tools, powder and stores have been erected. About two miles of surface trenching have been done in the south-east quarter of the property, 14 veins have been uncovered, 8 of them showing silver at or near the surface.

Assays of surface ore have run as high as 12,000 ounces to the ton.

Two shafts have been sunk, No. 1 to a depth of 63 feet, and No. 2 to 62 feet.

Shaft No. 2 opens up a vein from 5 to 14 inches thick, which is improving with depth, and which shows plates and leaves of pure metallic silver embedded in the calcite.

Shaft No. 1 also shows greatly increasing values with depth. At 60 feet the ore is very rich. There are two veins, 8 inches and 2 inches thick, separated by 20 to 26 inches of silver-bearing aplite. At 63 feet a level has been driven along the vein for 20 feet.

The ore taken from this level has been of exceptional richness, running from 8,000 to 17,000 ounces to the ton.

Such large values, obtained so near the surface, are very promising, particularly as at 3 other points along the same vein masses of pure metallic silver have been found directly beneath the soil. There is therefore every reason to believe that this vein will show at other points values equally as large as those where the shaft has been sunk.

Already $100,000 worth of ore has been blocked out.

The large number of veins that have been stripped in the section trenched promises a large tonnage of pay ore when they are developed. Then there is ¾ of the claim not yet trenched which should show equally satisfactory values.

An idea of the excellent returns which Claim "T. R. 189" promises on money invested, can be gained from the fact that, among others, the following gentlemen are each owners of 15,000 shares or more—

HENRY H. LYMAN. — F. P. BUCHANAN. — S. LICHTENHEIN. — T. L. MORRISEY.
ALEX. PRINGLE — D. LORNE McGIBBON. — JOHN E. HARDMAN. — MAJOR MADOCKS.
S. A. McMURTRY. — C. E. GAULT. — SHIRLEY OGILVIE. — W. H. WALSH.

Samples of ore can be seen at the offices of the undersigned.

GUARANTEED INVESTMENT

Guaranterd by a $1,000,000 Bank

SUPPOSE a million-dollar bank should offer you a gold bond, guaranteeing you against loss in an investment you desired to make, and providing that, whether the investment did or did not prove a profitable one, the bank would pay you back every dollar of your money at the end of twenty years, wouldn't that "look good" to you? And wouldn't you take it?

Wouldn't it look as though the bank itself, as well as the men behind the enterprise that formed the basis of the investment, had absolute confidence in it, and looked upon it as a safe and profitable venture?

Can you figure out any way in which you could possibly lose the money you put into an enterprise with that kind of backing? To be sure, you would run the risk of not receiving interest for that length of time on the amount of your investment, but you would also run the chance of multiplying it many times over in the way of dividends—and that is worth something, isn't it? In other words, you have opportunity to win, and not a single chance to lose.

Now, that is exactly what we, the officers and directors of Treasury Gold Mining and Milling Company, of Reno, Nevada, are offering for a short time to those who wish to take advantage of it; and we make this remarkable offer, first, because we know what we have in the way of a property, and, second, because we need a little more capital to erect a mill upon it and make it an extremely profitable producer in the shortest possible time.

This is the first time, to our personal knowledge, that an offer like this has ever been made with reference to any enterprise of a similar character, here or elsewhere.

Organization, Capitalization and Officers

Treasury Gold Mining and Milling Company is organized under the laws of the State of Nevada, with a capital stock of One Million Dollars ($1,000,000), divided into One Million (1,000,000) shares, of the par value of One Dollar ($1.00 each, full paid and non-assessable, and with no personal liability attaching to the stockholders. The number of shares in the treasury is Four Hundred Thousand (400,000).

The principal office of the company is at No. 336 Mill Street, Reno, Nevada, and the depository of the company is the Nixon National Bank, of the same city.

The officers are as follows: President, D. J. Kennedy, an old resident of Nevada, and one of the best known and most successful mining operators in the state; vice-president, F. W. Thomas, of the firm of John Breuner & Co., one of the largest mercantile establishments in the city; secretary, Donald Fraser, one of the proprietors of the Red Cross Drug Company, of Reno; treasurer, H. L. Burchell, mining operator, and manager of the most prominent of the leading law firms of the state.

Board of directors: D. J. Kennedy, F. W. Thomas, H. L. Burchell; Eugene Kelly, department manager with the Gray, Reid, Wright company, and Donald Fraser.

Location and Character of Properties

The holdings of Treasury Gold Mining and Milling Company include the following valuable properties in the famous Fairview district, in Churchill county, Nevada, reached by a fine wagon road from Fallon, the county seat:

By purchase outright—fully paid for and deed recorded at Fallon—valuable mining estates on both sides of the great Mizpah mine, on both of which properties rich ore has been found.

By purchase—paid for, deeded and recorded—the Treasury group of two full claims, amounting to 40 acres, to the north-east of the Mizpah mine, the rich lodge of which we have every reason to believe courses straight through our property for at least 2,000 feet. This we regard as a very valuable holding.

By purchase, an undivided one-half interest in seven claims, containing 100 acres, southwest of the Mizpah, with every indication that the Mizpah vein runs through our ground at least 1,500 feet. The deed for our one-half interest is recorded at Fallon, and we have an option for one year on the other one-half interest.

All the leasing rights and privileges of the Mizpah Milling and Leasing Company on twelve blocks of the celebrated Mizpah mine, for the term of five years. On this property, considerable quantities of fine shipping ore are already opened; drifting has been carried on for some distance on the 100-foot level, while the second level, at 175 feet depth, is now being driven on to catch the same ore body, when shipments will begin.

Values as Shown By Assays

Assays of ores taken from the various properties of the company show the following values:

From Treasury Group at the surface, gold and silver values	$139.50
" " " " " " " " " "	340.80
" " " " " " " " " "	77.42
From Kentucky Group, surface workings, gold and silver values	128.00
" " " " " " " " " "	78.00
From Mizpah shafts, tunnels and upraises, gold and silver values	993.95
" " " " " " " " " "	239.77
" " " " " " " " " "	235.46
" " " " " " " " " "	68.87
" " " " " " " " " "	34.21

From the foregoing tests, it will be seen that, leaving out of the calculation our own extensive properties, all of which contain indications of remarkable richness, we are fully justified in expecting sufficient profits from the operation of our five-year lease on the great Mizpah mine alone, to pay enormous dividends to all our stockholders. But to operate them all, with the greatly increased facilities and equipment we intend to add, should give us a production equaled by few mining properties in the world.

We have already found very rich ore in the shallow workings of our Kentucky group to the west, and of our Treasury group to the east of the Mizpah, and we can see no reason why both of these properties should not prove fully as rich as the famous Mizpah mine itself. We are in a district noted for its immense bodies of gold and silver ores, and where deep workings open up vast treasure vaults of mineral wealth.

Additional Equipment Required

In order to more speedily place these splendid properties among the high class producers of the state, and to combine the maximum of production and profit with the minimum of cost, considerable additional equipment is required.

This includes a standard, modern mill, to reduce our ore to bullion and concentrates at the mine, thus saving the transportation and treatment charges of $20 to $30 a ton on the ore to the Salt Lake smelters. To be sure, the ore is of such a high grade character that there is a good profit in mining and shipping it even at these high rates, but it would be better business to save it and add that much more to the net profits, by treating it at our own mills, which, under the circumstances, thus becomes a necessity. With a 100-ton plant, we should easily be able to treat our ore at an expense not to exceed $2.50 per ton, and by adding another unit to its capacity, can still further reduce the cost, and thus save from $17.50 to $27.50 per ton on transportation and treating charges alone—quite an item when figuring the net profits.

The first unit capacity of 100 tons daily, of a standard mill, modern in every way, including stamps, amalgamation, fine grinding, concentration and cyaniding, with a sampler in front, so that ore can be purchased from surrounding properties, and general custom work done if desired, will enable us to add one unit after another as may be required with increased development of the ore bodies. By thus adding to the capacity of the mill, we shall be in a position to treat an immense tonnage daily, and pay dividends accordingly.

We will therefore not only effect a great saving of our present expenditures, but earn a handsome revenue, practically all profit, from the large volume of custom work that would be brought to our mill for treatment and reduction.

We also want to sink a capacious double-compartment shaft in to the permanent sulphide zone at once, first, in order to have the ore bodies opened up for the mill, and secondly, to aid in determining the proper methods of treatment; so that we may build a mill adapted to the character of the ores, and capable of giving the largest returns to the company in the extraction of the gold and silver values.

Novel Plan to Secure Funds

Now, we are quite willing to admit that equipment of the character already mentioned, which will put the properties in the best possible working shape, will cost more money than is available at present, unless we accept the alternative of sacrificing a small portion of our special stock, in order to begin operations on a profitable basis at once.

The officers and directors of the company have therefore decided to adopt this method, and, while limiting the sales to but one-fifth of the capitalization, to surround the sale of every share with a positive safeguard against any possible loss.

We do not know that such an offer has ever before been made, and we expect the amount offered to be over-subscribed several times when the terms of the offer are made known.

First, we limit the amount of stock that will be sold, in order to provide the finds for necessary equipment, to Two Hundred Thousand (200,000) shares, and this is to be positively the last as well as the first, allotment that will be sold at the present low price, of 20 cents a share, as we honestly believe the stock will be good for dividends of not less than one dollar per share annually, after we commence treating 100 tons daily at the mill.

Stock Guaranteed

In order to absolutely protect purchasers of these shares against the possibility of a loss, we have made arrangements with the Metropolis Trust and Savings Bank, of San Francisco, one of the strongest financial institutions in the United States, to guarantee every share of stock sold, and to issue to every purchaser a gold bond for the full amount of his investment, such bond being payable in twenty years, whether the mines pay or not. Therefore, even if the mines never paid a dollar—though we expect them to pay millions—the stockholders cannot possibly lose anything except the interest on their investment, while they stand to win fortunes from the amounts they put into these properties.

The shares offered on these unparalleled terms may be paid for either in cash or in five equal monthly payments, and the money derived there from will be used entirely for the further development and equipment of the properties. The shares will also be traded in on both the New York and Boston exchanges the moment we begin shipping and paying dividends.

The elements of industrial safety and of the speculative profits of gold mining under such extremely favorable conditions, are combined in this enterprise to a greater degree than in any other undertaking within our knowledge or experience, and will appeal with irresistible force to all sensible and conservative people as an opportunity without an equal. It is a case of "heads, you win! tails, you cannot lose." If the mines pay as we believe they will bring to every stockholder, in dividends, many times the amount of his investment. If they do not pay, he gets his money back.

ARRANGING ROSES.

Differently Shaped Bowls Require Individual Treatment.

To amateurs and especially beginners the arrangement of flowers in bowls often proves a somewhat difficult task, and it requires almost a born instinct, so to speak, to be able to accomplish this work satisfactorily. Just watch two persons at this seemingly easy and pleasant task. To one the blossoms appear to stand and stay just where they are wanted, while with the other decorator no amount of coaxing or effort produces the required effect, and the exclamation is heard, "I can't make them go right." Of course different shaped bowls require individual treatment in the same way as different flowers, and this must be thought out beforehand to insure success. Some persons are of the opinion that the best way of filling bowls is to cut the stems of the roses or whatever flowers are used quite short, so that by using a large number they will support one another, like a country scraggy. This, however, is not giving the flowers any chance of showing their beauty, nor does it reflect any credit on the arranger. The two must work in harmony to secure the best effect. This is illustrated in the cut given herewith. A large, clear glass bowl is used, filled with the beautiful Mrs. John Laing roses and arranged to show to the best advantage. Some firm red stalks with plenty of thorns are laid across the inside of the bowl, forming a network of stalks; then the roses, each one separately, are placed in the network of stalks, the lower ones first and the tall ones last. By this means a charming effect can be obtained, and the reflection of the rose red stalks in the water adds greatly to the finished appearance of the bowl of roses. It is very pleasing to the eye to see a close quantity of stalks filling up the base of the bowl, and it is quite unnecessary to use flower supports for the roses, as is sometimes done, for the arrangement mentioned above is not only sufficient for the purpose, but far more artistic and satisfactory.

A CLEVER ROSE STUDY.

SUFFRAGETTES LOSING.

English Editor Declares It Is Mainly Due to Lack of Decency.

Thousands of supporters of the cause of woman suffrage have been lost, says Mowbray Bell, editor of The London Times, because of the militant tactics of the suffragettes.

"They have displayed a shocking lack of decency," he declares. "Why, look at the time when they forced themselves into Asquith's house uninvited and while they were holding his hand demanded 'votes for women.'

"A friend of mine from New Zealand was at the press conference some time ago. Both of us had been long champions of the woman's right to vote. 'Women suffrage in New Zealand is a good thing,' he told me, 'but I never could support it here. We do not have this kind of woman in New Zealand.'

"It is the militant tactics of the English leaders that have hurt the cause, there is no doubt of that. Those women have labored unceasingly to prove that woman is unfit to be trusted with the suffrage. All the men who were friendly to their cause at first have become disgusted and the suffrage movement in Great Britain to-day has lost greatly in numbers and is not anywhere near as strong as it was a year ago.

"I don't know how a scheme of limited franchise could be worked out, but if I could have my way I think I would let only the women who did not want to vote have the franchise, and those who were insisting on it would have to go without. I think that would limit the franchise to the sensible women all right.

"Then there are the troubles of the poor policemen in protecting anti-suffragette windows from suffragette bricks and flatirons and the difficulty the Government had in treating suffragette prisoners. It has been suggested that it would be a good thing to shave their heads, the way they shave men prisoners, for a woman would sooner part with most anything than her hair. That would be depriving them of one of their chief assets, but I don't know — I don't know — I fear they would find a shaven head just right to fit a halo."

Coughs that are tight, or distressing tickling coughs, get quick and certain help from Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. On this account Druggists everywhere are favoring Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. And it is entirely free from Opium, Chloroform, or any other stupefying drug. The tender leaves of a harmless lung-healing mountainsous shrub give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy its curative properties. Those leaves have the power to calm the most distressing Cough, and to soothe, and heal the most sensitive bronchial membranes. Mothers should, for safety's sake alone, always demand Dr. Shoop's. THE BISHOP STAYED.

He Risked a Row, but Didn't Have to Leave His Bed.

The bishop of a southern diocese was once making a missionary journey through Arkansas and the Indian Territory, and on his arrival at Natchez he said to the landlord of a hotel, "I have been traveling for a week, day and night, in a mail wagon, and I want a comfortable room."

"Sorry," said the landlord, "but I don't believe there's a vacant room in Natchez. There's a horse race, a Methodist conference and a political convention in the city, and every house is full up. The only thing I can give you is a shakedown." Then, observing the bishop's tired face, he added: "The best room in my house is rented to a noted gambler, who usually remains out all night and seldom gets in before breakfast. If you will take the risk you shall have his room, but if he should come in there'll be a row, I'll promise you that."

The bishop decided to take the risk. About 4 o'clock in the morning the gambler returned and promptly shook the bishop by the arm.

"Get out of here or I'll put you out!" he shouted.

The bishop, the gentlest of men, raised himself on one elbow so that it brought the muscles of his arm into full relief.

"My friend," he began quietly, "before you put me out will you have the kindness to feel of my arm?"

The gambler put his hand on the bishop's arm.

"Stranger," he then said respectfully, "you can stay."—Youth's Companion.

KEENLY INTERESTED.

Lincoln's Question After the Committeemen Had Finished.

Just after the second battle of Bull Run the Boston chamber of commerce decided that President Lincoln was not prosecuting the war with enough celerity to conserve the interests of business, and so it appointed a committee to go to Washington and remonstrate with him upon his dilatory tactics. The committee was headed by Mr. Pierce.

"We found," he said, "a man who looked as if he had lost all the friends he ever had in the world, who invited us to take seats and inquired our business. As I was the spokesman, I opened our case, and as I proceeded the president's face relaxed. By and by he smiled and betrayed actual interest, and by the time I concluded he was almost in a broad grin. After I had finished he inquired if that was all I had to say, and on my saying that I thought it was he asked if some of the other gentlemen wouldn't like to say something. They replied that they thought I had fully covered the case. And then," continued Mr. Pierce, "what do you suppose this solemn man did? Well, he just moved his chair over to mine, smoothed his trousers down over his knee, then reached over and patted mine down, too, and looked at me with a queer look, which none of us will ever forget, he said, 'Mr. Pierce, did you ever notice what a remarkable thing is an ear?'

"What did we do? We grabbed our hats and took the first train for Boston and we never dared to report."—Ladies' Home Journal.

The Carbuncle.

Certain gems to which the ancients attributed fabulous properties were in reality useless. They served it was believed, to drive away serpents or dragons which might have been enchanted by magic. They bore them constantly about their heads and laid them down only at meeting and drinking. It was also supposed that the carbuncle emitted light in darkness and that the thickest clothing could not stop its rays. Without all the exaggeration of such legends it was believed for a long time that rubies contained luminous rays. The truth is that they have double refraction and send out the red rays with unequaled brilliancy. Traversed in a vacuum by an electric current, they are illuminated with a red fire of extreme intensity. The greatest heat does not change their form or their color.

Old Days on the Stage.

I have known a dress coat handed from one to another in the wings several times during a performance. It was a current idea that white cotton stockings assumed the appearance of silk from the front by making a heavy line of white chalk on the shin bone. A white tie was easily made from a strip of note paper, and even a shirt front could be managed from highly glazed note paper. White cotton gloves were de rigueur in place of the more expensive kid ones. A comedian, having no black stockings, once blacked his legs. After the show he asked the stage manager, "Do we play this piece again?" "Yes; next week." "Oh, then I need not wash my legs!"—From "Ramblings of an Old Mummer," by Russell Cranford.

Might Have Been Worse.

"Poor b'ye!" exclaimed O'Hara, condoling with Cassidy, who had been injured by a blast. "'Tis tough luck to bar yer hand blowed off."

"Och! Faith, it might 'ave bin worse," replied Cassidy. "Suppose it had me week's wages in it at the toime."

MASSACHUSETTS ELECTION.

Boston, Mass., Dec. 8.—Keen interest has been aroused in the city elections in Massachusetts today by the active campaign of the prohibition forces of the State to make as many cities "dry" as possible. Fourteen of the leading cities of the State vote on the liquor issue today, and a week hence nearly all of the remaining cities of the State will vote on the question.

MODERN PEKIN.

Chinese Capital Now Brilliant With Electric Lights at Night.

Modern Pekin, China's great capital, has its telegraphs and telephones. Every official and prominent business man now has his own 'phone. The service is under the Government board of Communication, and it is good. A few years ago the city had no street lamps, but candles placed inside a wooden framework backed with white paper. It was impossible to walk the streets after dark without a servant and lantern, and the night life of the people was confined to their homes. At that time a story was current in the foreign quarters that the Government appropriated $80,000 a year for lighting the city, and that this sum was distributed as follows: The official in charge of the matter took $40,000 as his squeeze and the other $40,000 was handed over to his chief lieutenant, who pocketed $30,000 and gave the balance to a third man, who made a similar division. The distribution went on until the sum was at last reduced to a few copper cash, which were given to coolies to buy oil and wicks to be placed in saucer-like lamps. They set the lamps on the streets, where the beggars drank up the oil, and that was the end of the light appropriation.

However this may be, no real light was furnished until the new Pekin was created. To-day the city looks most beautiful at night. Its long, wide streets shine with incandescent globes. There are thousands of lights about the gates of the palaces and on those which go through the walls. There are many street lamps, and one can find his way anywhere at any hour of the evening. The new electric light plant stands close to the wall of the Tartar city, and its smokestack is visible for miles over the country. In addition there is a plant which lights the palace, and for obvious reasons the legation city has a plant of its own.

Coloring a Meerschaum Pipe.

Ordinarily a meerschaum pipe is boiled for coloring in a preparation of wax, which is absorbed, and a thin coating of wax is held on the surface of the pipe and made to take a high polish. Under the wax is retained the oil of tobacco, which is absorbed by the pipe, and its hue grows darker in proportion to the tobacco used.

A meerschaum pipe at first should be smoked very slowly, and before a second bowlful is lighted the pipe should cool off. This is to keep the wax as far up the bowl as possible, and rapid smoking will overheat, drying the wax off and leaving the pipe dry and raw.

A new pipe should never be smoked outdoors in extremely cold weather. Fill the pipe and [illegible] about one-third, or to the [illegible] which you wish color. Leave the remainder of the tobacco in the pipe and do not empty or disturb it for several weeks, or until the desired color is obtained. When smoking put fresh tobacco on the top and smoke to the same level.

When once burned the pipe cannot be satisfactorily colored unless the burned portion is removed and the surface again treated by the process by which meerschaum is prepared.

The coloring is produced by the action of the smoke upon the oils and wax which are superficially on the exterior of the pipe and are applied in the same process of manufacture.

Europe's Highest Village.

"The highest village in Europe" is the inscription on a postcard which shows a group of wooden cottages on a bleak hill, with no sign of vegetation in sight and having as a background a range of ice covered mountains. The name of the place is Cuneaz, in the Canton Wallis. It lies 2,047 meters above the sea level. "Where Monte Rosa raises its gigantic head into the clouds." The village consists of four families, and the last census gives it a population of twenty-six. "The storms of spring and fall and the snows of the winter months," says the sender of the card, "make life a dreary one, and still the people look happy, and doubtless they are so."

Old Time Butterscotch.

Put three pounds of light brown sugar in an enameled kettle with three-fourths of a pound of butter. Place over a moderate fire to melt; let it boil until thick, stirring all the while to prevent scorching. Take the kettle from the fire and pour the boiling hot liquid into buttered tins or upon a large flat meat platter. When stiff enough mark off into big squares, and when cold break these apart and wrap each square in wax paper. Butterscotch carefully made will keep for months. It improves with age.

Easily Explained.

An illiterate Polish servant girl thought to conceal her ignorance of the rudiments by always taking her prayer book with her when she attended services, although she knew all the prayers at heart. One day another girl looked over her shoulder and remarked in a surprised tone:

"Why, what's the matter? You're holding your book upside down!"

"Oh, that's all right," answered the other, quite unembarrassed. "I always read that way. I'm left handed."

Man's Future.

A man is a bundle of relations, a knot of roots, whose flowers and fruitage is the world. All his faculties refer to natures out of him. All his functions predict the world he is to inhabit; as the fins of the fish foreshow that water exists, or the wings of an eagle in the egg presuppose a medium of light and air. Insulate and you destroy him. He cannot live without a world.—Emerson.

A Walking Hotel.

After a visit to a famous entomologist whose wonderful microscopes have proved that there is always some living being to be found preying on the least of the minutest creatures last even an English writer turned to him and said:

"I came here believing myself to be an individual. I leave knowing myself to be a community."

HIS LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

How Murphy Succeeded in Having a Good Time.

One of the soldiers at Fort Washington, on the Potomac, was recently given leave of absence the morning after pay day. When his leave expired he didn't appear. The papers recorded, however, that he had been very busy, the range of his activities being comprehended under the title of "plain drunk." He was brought at last before the commander for sentence, and the following dialogue is recorded:

"Well, Murphy, you look as if you had had a severe engagement."

"Yes, sur."

"Have you any money left?"

"No, sur."

"You had $35 when you left the fort, didn't you?"

"Yes, sur."

"What did you do with it?"

"Well, sur, I was walking along, and I met a friend, and we went into a place and spint $8. Thin we come out, and I met another friend, and we spint $8 more, and thin I come out, and we met another friend, and we spint $8 more, and thin we come out, and we met another bunch of friends, and I spint $8 more, and thin I comes home."

"But, Murphy, that makes only $32. What did you do with the other $3?"

Murphy thought. Then he shook his head slowly and said:

"I dunno, colonel. I reckon I must have squandered that money foolishly."—Life.

The Veteran Had Him.

"Were you ever in prison?" demanded the prosecuting attorney insinuatingly.

"Yes, sir," admitted the gray headed witness for the defense.

"Aha, I thought so!" And what for, may I ask?"

"Assault with intent to kill."

"And how long were you in prison?"

"Until I escaped, sir."

The prosecutor turned triumphantly to the gentlemen of the jury.

"So, gentlemen," he said, "we have here as the chief witness for the defense an ex-convict and fugitive from justice, by his own confession!"

He turned again to the witness. "When and where were you in prison, sir?" he sneered.

The old man straightened up and spoke in a strong, clear voice:

"I was captured, sir, at the battle of Fort Harris on Sept. 29, 1864, and sent to Libby prison, Richmond. I effected my escape while being transferred to Salisbury, N. C. As to"—

But that was already more than the prosecutor wanted to know.—Everybody's Magazine.

Not in Her Set.

"Why should we be so anxious to communicate with Mars?" asked Mrs. Cumrox.

Too Fancy.

"They tell me your village fire company is getting fancy these days?" interrogated the starch drummer.

"Too blamed fancy," grumbled the citizen of Bacon Ridge. "They've even got open work hose, and that's the reason they can't put out any fires, by gum!"—Chicago News.

By-Law No. . .

A By-Law to provide for borrowing the sum of $19,000 for building and equipping an Isolation Hospital in the City of Peterborough.

Passed the day of 19

WHEREAS an Isolation Hospital is required in the City of Peterborough for the treatment of contagious diseases and it has been estimated that it will require the sum of $19,000 to pay for the erection and equipment thereof and it is necessary for the purpose of enabling the Council to raise the said amount to pass this By-Law to be submitted to the voter of the duly qualified electors to authorise the borrowing of the said sum for the purposes aforesaid, which sum of $19,000 is the amount of the debt intended to be created by this By-Law.

AND WHEREAS in order to raise the said sum of $19,000 it will be necessary to issue the debentures of the Corporation of the City of Peterborough for the said amount.

AND WHEREAS the amount of the whole ratepable property of the Municipality according to the last revised assessment roll being for the year 1910 is the sum of $8,630,533 and the amount of the existing debenture debt of the Municipality, exclusive of local improvement debts payable by local special rates but including the debt of $312,000 incurred for the purchase and improvement of the waterworks is the sum of $921,985.07 and there is no part of the principal or interest in arrear.

AND WHEREAS it will require the sum of $987.50 to be raised annually for a period of twenty years, the currency of the debentures to be issued under and by virtue of this By-Law to pay the interest of the said debt, and the sum of $630.66 to be raised annually during the said period for providing a sinking fund for the payment of the same at the maturity thereof such last mentioned sum being sufficient with the estimated interest on the investment thereof to discharge the said debt when the same becomes due, making in all the sum of $1,445.56 to be raised annually as aforesaid by special rate on the whole ratepable property of the Municipality.

THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF PETERBOROUGH BY THE COUNCIL THEREOF THEREFORE ENACTS AS FOLLOWS :—

1. This By-Law shall take effect on the final passing thereof.

2. It shall be lawful for the Council of the said City of Peterborough to borrow the sum of $19,000 and to issue the debentures of the said Corporation for the said sum, such debentures to be sealed with the Corporate Seal of the City of Peterborough and to be signed by the Mayor and Treasurer and countersigned by the Secretary of the Peterborough City Trust and to be made payable within twenty years after the issue thereof, and to bear interest at the rate of four and one-quarter per centum per annum payable half-yearly on the thirtieth day of June and the thirty-first day of December in each year and to have the coupons attached thereto for the payment of such interest; such debentures as to principal and interest to be payable at the Office of the Secretary of the Peterborough City Trust in the City of Peterborough or at such other place as the said Council may by resolution direct.

3. There shall be raised and levied during each year of the currency of the said debentures by a special rate upon all the ratepable property of the Municipality, the sum of $987.50 for payment of the interest on the said debt, and the sum of $630.66 as a sinking fund for the payment of the said debt at the maturity thereof making together the sum of $1,445.56 to be raised annually as aforesaid.

4. The proceeds of the said debentures when sold or so much thereof as may be required for that purpose shall be applied for paying for the erection and equipment of said Isolation Hospital.

5. The votes of the electors of the City of Peterborough qualified to vote upon By-Laws for creating debts shall be taken upon this By-Law on the same day as the annual elections for the Municipal Council for the year 1910 and the polls will be held during the same hours, at the same places and by the same Deputy Returning Officers and Poll Clerks as are appointed and fixed for the said Annual Municipal elections.

6. The fourth day of January 1910 at the hour of twelve o'clock noon and the City Clerk's Office are hereby fixed as the time when and the place where the Clerk will sum up the number of votes given for and against the By-Law.

7. The 31st day of December 1909 and the hour of twelve o'clock noon and the office of the City Clerk are hereby fixed as the time and place for the appointment of persons to attend at the various polling places and at the final summing up of the votes by the Clerk respectively, on behalf of the persons interested in and promoting or opposing the passing of the By-Law respectively.

Mayor.

Clerk.

NOTICE

Take notice that the foregoing is a true copy of a proposed By-Law which has been taken into consideration and which will be finally passed by the Council of the City of Peterborough (in the event of the assent of the electors being obtained thereto) after one month from the first publication hereof in The Morning Times newspaper, the date of which first publication is the ninth day of December, 1909, and that at the hour, day and place therein fixed for taking the votes of the electors the polls will be held.

And further take notice that the name of any leaseholder, who does not at least ten days before the day in the said proposed By-Law appointed for taking the vote thereon, file in my office a Statutory Declaration proving that he or his wife is the holder of a lease, which under the provisions of section 358 of the Consolidated Municipal Act, 1903, entitles him to vote for or against the said proposed By-Law, shall not be placed on the Voters' List for such voting.

Outside Alarm.

The fire brigade was called to the home of Mr. Thomas Burrette, near the Exhibition Grounds, just outside the city limits yesterday morning, about eleven o'clock. Some kindling wood at the rear of the kitchen stove took fire and made quite a blaze. Before it was put out the wall was somewhat badly burned. However, it was extinguished without the assistance of the firemen.

Annual Dance.

Invitations were yesterday issued for the fifth annual at-home in aid of the Labrador Medical Mission to be held in the Conservatory of Music Hall. The ball this occasion will be held on the evening of January 3rd, 1910, at 9 o'clock. The Reception Committee is composed of Mrs. J. A. Aylmer, Mrs. Peter Campbell, Mrs. Cyril Currier, Mrs. J. H. Eastwood, Mrs. R. R. Hall, Mrs. J. T. I. Halliday, Mrs. James Hamilton, Mrs. L. M. Hayes, Mrs. J. R. Stratton, Mrs. W. R. Travers, Mrs. D. Hughes-Charles, president, and L. Cross, hon. sec.

Children and Matches.

Children playing with matches in the home of Mr. Grey, at the corner of London and Downie streets, caused quite an excitement yesterday morning, and had it not been for the timely action of some of the neighbors a serious fire would undoubtedly have been reported. The children were alone in the house, both Mr. and Mrs. Grey being away at the time. When the youngsters saw that the matches had started some of the furniture burning they hurried to their next door neighbor, who, with the assistance of the brigade, extinguished the blaze with a pail of water.

Made a Grant.

The Ladies' Aid Society of Charlotte street church held a "Birthday Party and Thimble Tea" in the Sunday school room Tuesday afternoon from four to seven o'clock and it was a most successful luncheon. There was a large turnout and as complete arrangements had been made a most enjoyable time was spent. Music was furnished by Misses Reid, Pringle and Campbell.

At a business meeting of the society held earlier in the afternoon a grant of $25 was made to the local option fund.

OBITUARY.

Walter Renwick.

Keene, Dec. 8.—The death occurred Saturday evening, Dec. 4th, at the advanced age of eigthy-three, of one of the oldest residents of the township in the person of the late Walter Renwick. The deceased had been ill for a number of years and has been confined to his bed for a long time. Mr. Renwick spent practically all his life in Otonabee, his father being one of the pioneer settlers. He was a member of the Presbyterian church, and in politics a staunch Liberal. His wife predeceased him by several years. He leaves four sons, Walter, Zacharah and John of Otonabee, and William, of Oregon, U.S.A., and one daughter, Mrs. Hugh McFarlane, Otonabee.

The funeral was held from the late residence, Tuesday afternoon and was largely attended, evidencing the deep esteem in which the deceased was held in the community.

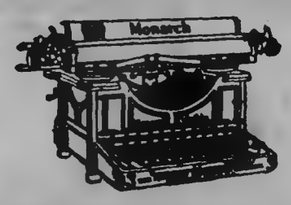
Rev. D.D. McDonald conducted the funeral ceremony both at the house and grave. Interment took place in Keene cemetery.

ENGINEER OVERCOME.

Too Much Coal Gas in Belleville Round House.

Engineer Orville Lemoy of the Belleville train, had an unpleasant experience yesterday morning. After entering the round house at Belleville to put his engine in readiness for the run to this city, he became affected by the gas, a large amount of which had accumulated during the night, owing to the building being shut up as a result of the cold weather. He was taken out to the cold air, but it was some time before he was able to resume his work, and he had not entirely recovered from the effects of his experience of the morning when the return run was made from this city in the afternoon.

AN ALL PURPOSE TYPEWRITER



Every business requires a typewriter that writes all the office detail, letters, card records, special monthly or yearly reports, invoices and statements, this and that—everything.

There is but one machine that will do such work—one with a wide carriage.

But no typewriter with a long carriage that shifts up and down for capital letters is fitted for such duties. There is too much strain, two much wasted energy.

The MONARCH VISIBLE, with its new and common sense way of printing capitals, with its light, rigid, swiftly running carriage, is the ideal machine.

It's the best and most economical long carriage typewriter made.

If we had your address we would send you convincing literature.

BOOK MADE TOWNS.

Holiday Resorts That Owe Their Popularity to Authors.

The most remarkable example of a book made town is Biskra, the oasis in the Sahara that Robert Hichens idealized under the name of Beni Mora in his novel of "The Garden of Allah."

Biskra, quite unknown in the past, is now, thanks to Mr. Hichens, a fashionable winter resort. It is rather odd that all the world should know that Biskra was meant by Beni Mora in "The Garden of Allah." There is a Beni Mora near Biskra, a kind of swamp, with a few clay huts and a palm or two sticking up out of the mud, but Biskra itself is never mentioned in the book.

Ilfracombe, the north Devon watering place, owes its renown to Charles Kingsley, who in his novel of "Westward Ho!" praises it.

Two other Devon watering places, Lynton and Lynmouth, are book made. Blackmore's novel of "Lorna Doone" first drew the public to them.

Pierri Loti in "Pecheur d'Islande" described very beautifully the Breton seaport of Paimpol. Many persons in consequence have visited Paimpol in the hope of passing the summer there. Vain hope! Paimpol, with its muddy, smelly tidal river, is not quite an ideal holiday resort.—Exchange.

EXPENSIVE STEAK.

Ten Pounds of Beef That Sold For $48 a Pound.

The highest price ever paid for beefsteak so far as is known was at Circle City, Alaska. The first beefsteak that ever reached that town sold for $48 a pound, according to the newspapers of the time.

There were ten pounds of the steak, which was shipped 250 miles to Circle City.

When the owner of the precious bit of meat reached the camp the miners turned out in a body to see it. It was placed on exhibition and attracted as much attention as an elephant. Every body wanted a piece of it, and the prices offered were such as would have resulted in a mining camp quarrel if it had not been decided to raffle the steak off for the benefit of a hospital which Bishop Rowe was trying to establish for the miners at Circle City.

Bids were started at $5 a pound and rose briskly to $35. Finally in order to avoid complications it was decided to sell tickets at prices from 50 cents to $2.50 for the privilege of drawing for a slice. After $480 worth of tickets had been sold the drawing began, and to the relief of those in charge of the sale no trouble resulted.

Sin Eaters.

"Sin eaters" of the old days, like "mutes" of quite recent times, were hired performers at funerals. In consideration of sixpence in money, a bowl of beer and a crust of bread these sires, as they were called—"long, lean, ugly, lamentable rascals"—would by eating over the body take upon themselves all the sins of the deceased and so free him from afterward walking the earth as a ghost, so that his soul might rest in peace. This custom prevailed all over Wales and the adjoining English counties and was observed even down to 1698. The usage is said to have arisen from a mistaken interpretation of Hosea iv, 8, "They eat up the sin of my people." The more likely origin of this strange custom is the Levitical scapegoat. A much later remnant of this obtained at Amersden, Oxfordshire, where, after every funeral a cake and a flagon of ale were brought to the minister in the church porch.—London Standard.

J. O. Walsh & Company, 1 Madison av., New York :—

The Taxi-Service Company was organized under the laws of New Jersey, in February, 1909, to take over the business of William H. Seaich Company, which operated taxicabs and horse drawn vehicles at the Waldorf-Astoria, Holland House, Hotel Walcott, Netville and Manhattan Hotels. The William H. Seaich Company had been operated for over 40 years as a high grade livery business.

In April, 1909, this company took over the Hexter Taxameter Cab Company, which operate taxicabs at the Grand Hotel, Ballet aire, Healy's Restaurant (Corner 66th street and Columbus avenue) and the Marseille.

The company has :—

30 Sefton Taxicabs.
60 American Locomotive Taxicabs.
2 American Locomotive Touring Cars.
75 Horses.
200 Horse drawn Vehicles

of different styles, suitable to operation of this business.

The company leases from Mr. W. H. Seaich one of the finest garages and livery stables in the city of New York. It is located at 143 East 51st street. It is a six story and basement, brick, iron and cement building, thoroughly equipped for the care and repair of both motor and horse drawn vehicles.

I enclose you herewith a statement showing the capitalization, dividends, gross earnings and expenses of the company for eight and one-half months of its operation, from February 15 to October 1, 1909. I also enclose you a list of the stands at which we are now operating.

The company has paid since its organization dividends at the rate of 7 per cent per annum, or 1¾ per cent. quarterly, on its preferred stock, which is cumulative and preferred both as to assets and dividends.

The Company has paid on its common stock 4 per cent per annum, or 1 per cent. quarterly since its organization, payable February 15, May 15, August 15 and November 15. The depreciation which we have charged to operating expenses is sufficiently large to replace all of the cabs within four years from the date of their purchase. The Company has not as yet had the benefit of the best part of the year's business, owing to the fact that the summer months are always dull in this line of business, due to the absence from the city of a great number of people who ordinarily use cabs. Also the better weather which prevails during the summer decreases the business to a certain extent.

The Company has not yet received the benefit of its full equipment, as a considerable amount has not as yet been delivered. I conservatively estimate that the operation of this additional equipment will add 40 to 50 per cent to the net earnings.

Yours very truly,
(Signed) HARLAN W. WHIPPLE, President.

The following report, rendered by William Dilley & Company, Certified Public Accountants, of 55 Congress St., Boston, Mass., shows the condition of the Company on November 10, 1909.

Mr. H. W. Whipple, President,
Taxi-Service Company,
334 Fifth Avenue, City.

Dear Sir:—

I have compiled the following statement of the Taxi-Service Company of New Jersey and certify the same as correct :—

ASSETS.

EQUIPMENT, consisting of taxicabs, touring cars, horses, carriages, harnesses,	$1,835,412.48
CAPITAL STOCK TAXI-SERVICE COMPANY OF NEW YORK at par	10,000.00
ACCOUNTS RECEIVABLE (GOOD) and CASH	60,260.85
Total	$1,905,695.33

LIABILITIES.

MORTGAGE BONDS, Men on a part of the equipment	$60,000.00
ACCOUNTS PAYABLE	616.70
CAPITAL STOCK PREFERRED, outstanding and entitled to dividends	750,000.00
CAPITAL STOCK COMMON, outstanding and entitled to dividends	1,100,000.00
SURPLUS	95,178.25
Total	$1,905,695.33

The company has received in net profits from operating $60,336.42 since the commencement of business, February 15, 1909, to October 31, 1909.

It has paid two dividends out of earnings, the first being $19,464.58, which was at the rate of 7 per cent. on Preferred and 4 per cent on Common, and the second was $21,857.50, being at the same rates.

Yours very truly,
(Signed) WM. DILLON,
Certified Public Accountants.

From the above report it will be seen that this Company, which has been in operation only eight and one-half months, has made a very remarkable showing, and with approximately only one-half of its equipment in operation. The Company operates Taxicabs from the best stands in New York city, which are as follows :—

If a Thousand People

Told you that a certain thing had done them world's of good, mentally and physically, wouldn't you feel it worth while to investigate the matter thoroughly to find out how it might affect you ?

We have received thousands of testimonials from people who have voluntarily written us of the benefit derived from quitting coffee and using

POSTUM

The majority of these people had no idea that coffee caused their headaches, stomach troubles, bad nerves, etc. etc., until after the change—often at the suggestion of a friend who knew about Postum—Then they understood.

Ask a friend if coffee agrees and if the aches and ails come from coffee—investigate !

DIDN'T KNOW

That Coffee was Causing Her Trouble

So common is the use of coffee as a beverage, many do not know that it is the cause of many obscure ails which are often attributed to other things.

The easiest way to find out for oneself is to quit the coffee for a while, at least, and note results. A Virginia lady found out in this way, and also learned of a new beverage that is wholesome as well as pleasant to drink! She writes :

"I am 40 years old and all my life, up to a year and a half ago, I had been a coffee drinker. About ten years ago, I had dydpepsia so bad that often the coffee I drank would sour on my stomach and I could not retain it.

"Severe headaches and heart weakness made me feel sometimes as though I were about to die. After drinking a cup or two of hot coffee, not knowing it was harmful, my heart would go like a clock without a pendulum. At other times it would almost stop and I was so nervous I did not like to be alone, and the pity of it all was, I did not know that coffee was causing the trouble.

"Reading in the papers that many persons were relieved of such ailments by leaving off coffee and drinking Postum I got my husband to bring home a package. We made it according to directions and I liked the first cup. Its rich snappy flavour was delicious.

"I have been using Postum about eighteen months and to my great joy, digestion is good, my nerves and heart are all right. In fact, I am a well woman once more, thanks to Postum."

Cosgrave's Beer

Words of praise have ever prevailed in advertising "copy." That a producer should wax enthusiastic over his own wares is but human. But it's the praise of the consumer that counts—and it is to a discriminating and critical public that "Cosgrave's" refers you

It is safe to say that no product, of any kind enjoys a more enviable reputation than does this same Cosgrave Beer of Toronto in markets where it is offered

Its self-evident honesty of purpose, purity, brilliancy, body, and every other attribute that goes to make a perfect beer are ever in evidence.

Rev. Sam Small Displays Rhetorical Ability in St Andrew's Church

The Rev. Dr. Sam Small in a wonderfully graphic picture showed how the civilization of the ancient nations of the earth had failed— and failed because the words of the Golden Rule were not known. What was possible to the great and mighty nations is as possible to the younger nations of this age.

There are many great evils and perils that threaten the life and development of the city and nation.

The spirit of irreverance, blasphemy and profanity.

"In my travels in your Province during the last month," said Dr. Small "I have been amazed, surprised—happily surprised—at the great change that has taken place during the last fifteen years.'

"When in your Province at that time it was necessary to denounce the shocking profanity that one was compelled to listen to in stations, hotels and on the streets, but the change is very noticeable and for that you ought to be proud..

The first great peril is that of

A growing spirit of popular national infidelity.

That infidelity that meets in the legislative halls and tolerates laws that give license to all forms of selfishness.

That manifests itself in municipal life when those in power grant privileges, and take share in things that destroy the peace and prosperity of the people in the city.

What are these things?

1. The Sabbath Day violated with impunity and receiving no protection from inroads made by greed. The law of the seventh day rest is written in man's very constitution.

There is no valid excuse for a man to use profanity.

The third great peril is:

ORGANIZED LIQUOR TRAFFIC.

Fourteen years ago in Kingston I noticed a picture which I purchased and I prize it so. It was the old negro and at his knee was the golden-haired white girl, and as he had been telling her the story of slavery, she looked up and asked, "What is Slavery?" So I look to the time when the same question will be asked regarding strong drink.

There are four degrees;

1. The Sheep Degree—Innocent, sheepish; when the devil pulls the wool over the eyes.

2. The Monkey Degree—Funny, imitative, tricky.

3. The Lion Degree—Raving, mad, brutally, beastly indulgence, fierce.

4. The Hog Degree—He wallows in the mire.

The fourth peril is;

The problem of foreign immigration.

Our nation is a nation of immigrants. We are all of Anglo-Saxon stock. We are having a hard time in the United States in trying to bring back our civilization to its former purity and righteousness.

In Canada take time by the forelock. You are doing that now, and if you watch carefully in building well and wisely the proper foundations you will never know the agonies of recovering the power you have lost.

The lecture throughout was listened to with the closest attention and delight.

It is Feared that Fifteen Men were Burned or were Drowned

The Freighter Clarion Burned and the Captain and Twelve Men in Peril.

Twenty of Crew were Rescued

Two of the Crew Drowned—The Fate of the Other Members is Unknown.

Buffalo, Dec. 9.—The W. C. Richardson, a big steel freighter, sank early today at a point five miles up the lake from Buffalo harbor, and five members of the crew went down with the ship. The remainder of the crew of 20 were rescued by the steamer Paine, which, with the Richardson had anchored off Waverly Shoal over night fearing to enter the harbor because of the prevailing storm.

THE CLARION BURNED.

Cleveland, O., Dec. 9.—Two men lost their lives and the fate of thirteen others is unknown as a result of the burning of the steamer Clarion, near Point Pelee, in Lake Erie early today. Six members of the crew were taken from the Clarion by the steamer L. C. Hanna and brought here and then rushed by train to the Buffalo headquarters of the Anchair Line Co., the owners of the Clarion. According to the hurried tale all attempted to leave the Clarion as soon as it was ascertained that she could not be saved. Capt E. J. Bell of Ogdensburg, N.Y., and twelve other members of the crew took to the life boat. They left without food, and it is feared that they may either starve or freeze to death before rescued, even if they escape being drowned, for high seas are running on the lake, owing to the recent storm

Hon. Seaborn Wright is Coming to Peterborough

Hon. Searborn Wright is one of the ablest lawyers, most distinguished legislators and eloquent orators of Georgia and the South. He is a gentlemen of independent wealth, a son of the old aristocracy and yet is most widely known as "The People's Champion" of his state, having the confidence of the masses of both white and colored citizenry. He was the leader in the Georgia Legislature, who successfully handled the passage of the present State prohibition statute. It is expected that he will be the prohibition candidate for president of the United States in the campaign of 1912.

Hon. Seaborn Wright will address a Peterborough audience in St. Paul's Presbyterian church on Tuesday night, next, Dec. 14th at eight o'clock. The Rev. Dr. Pidgeon of Vancouver, will preside at that meeting.

The Pope Desires a United States Legation

Rome, Dec. 9.—From a source of unquestioned reliability today your correspondent learns that Pope Pius X. is extremely anxious to establish a legation at the Vatican, and has commissioned Cardinal Vincent Vannutelli to negotiate with Ambassador John G. A. Leishman to this end.

The Pope, it is said, has requested Mgr. Falconi, the apostolic delegate to the United States, to have Cardinal Gibbons enlist Archbishops Farley, of New York; Ireland, of St. Paul; O'Connell, of Boston; and Glennon of St. Louis, in support of the plan. In the event that the plan succeeds it is believed that the chances of all these archbishops being raised to the cardinalate will be greatly enchanced.

Cardinal Vannutelli asked Ambassador Leishmann to inform his government of the Pope's desires. The ambassador promised to do so, but refused personally to either support or oppose the measure.

Mr. Leishman was seen at the embassy today, but he refused to comment on the report which comes to your correspondent from close personal friend of Cardinal Vannutelli.

It has long been known that the Pope desires a closer diplomatic relation between the Vatican and the United States, but the proposal to establish a U.S. delegation at the Vatican has caused great surprise.

Mad Dog Scare at Galt---Will Kill All Dogs Running at Large

Galt, Ont., Dec. 9.—While it was in the act of savagely attacking a young girl on the Preston road last evening, John Beemer, a lineman of the Bell Telephone Company, clubbed to death a mad dog. That the animal was mad is a statement borne out by over a score of persons who had unenviable experiences of its presence in the town yesterday. But to confirm this opinion or otherwise the head of the brute was promptly cut off by the police, and expressed to Dr. J. R. Rutherford, Veterinary General, Biological Department, Ottawa.

The whole community awaits with suspense the outcome of the expert examination for hydrophobia, for there are at least ten persons bitten more or less seriously, besides other dogs and cattle—to what number nobody knows.

Thus far the names of the victims learned are:

Mr. Hugh McCulloch, jr., of the Goldie and McCulloch Co., whom the dog attacked as he was on his way from his residence to the office. He was bitten on the hand. The wound was promptly dressed, but it is understood Mr. McCulloch will take no chances, but at once undergo treatment at the Pasteur Institute, New York.

Charles, son of John Smith, coachman for R. O. McCulloch. This little boy's hand was badly lacerated. The father clubbed the dog, and afterwards vainly pursued it with a club.

Albert McKeown, Bert Sinclair, Wm. Jones, Miss Connell, of the Getty and Scott Co.; a Preston man named Koehler, a farmer on the stone road named Harris; Mr. Pearce organist of Central Presbyterian church, and others.

Mr. Pearce kicked the dog when it sprang at him, snapping, but had not the heart to kill it outright, as he fancied it was only a dog in an ugly temper. The dog appeared near Dickson Park and flew at a group of little ones in front of Jones' store Mr. Jones went for the beast with a club, and it ran after biting his boy. The police were not notified until late, when the whole force armed sent out to hunt the mad dog, which headed north. At Hunter's Corners, Conductor Coleman of the G. P. and H., says he saw the dog fighting with another and he stopped the car to let a girl passenger alight. The brute attacked the girl, whereupon the conductor called to the line man, who quickly despatched it.

SECURED CAPTAINS' PAPERS.

Messrs. S. R. Pearson and W. Copperwaithe Pass Examination.

The many friends of Capt. S. R. Pearson of the Otonabee Navigation Company, will be pleased to learn that he has succeeded in passing the Masters and Mates' examination at Toronto, and has received Masters' papers. The examination took place Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday last and out of 19 candidates only two were successful, the other being Capt. Copperwaithe, of this city, also on the staff of the Otonabee Navigation Company.

Capt. Geo. D. Frewer, also of the O.N.C., deserves considerable credit owing to the fact that the Toronto Nautical School of which he conducts in winter, prepared the successful candidates for examination

COURSE IN JUDGING.

Arrangements are practically completed for holding a three days course in stock, grain and seed judging in Peterborough this winter. The probable dates are Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, January 24 25 and 26. The stock judging will be done in the building at the corner of Water and Brock streets, occupied by Mr. Fitzgerald. Another place will likely be secured for the grain and seed judging. Meetings at which agricultural subjects will be discussed will be held in the evenings. It is expected that there will be a large enrolment from the farmers of the surrounding country. The arrangements are in charge of Mr. H. C. Duff, B

Margaret Cox Home Scene of Successful Sale of Fancy Work

There was a large and select gathering at the Margaret Cox Home for Girls yesterday afternoon and evening. The occasion was the first sale of work by the girls ever held in that institute and the proceeds were for the purpose of purchasing an organ for the hall. The affair was a big success and there is little doubt but that the efforts of the girls who owe so much to the Margaret Cox Home and the Barnardo institutions will be rewarded with a sufficient sum to pay for the organ.

The display of the fancy work was made in the new hall recently completed and there was an immense number of articles in all kiinds of fancy work, including burnt work, photography, etc., all of which was done by the girls who have been in the Home and are now scattered all over the Province, as well as by the girls who are now in the Home. Besides sending in saleable articles a large number of the girls paid a visit to the old Home and took part in the sale.

The different kinds of work were placed in different booths and in this way the whole space of the new hall was taken up. At one end was a tea room very comfortably furnished and this was largely patronized by the visitors. The candy booth also attracted many. As a matter of fact all the booths were well patronized, and very little if anything was left unsold.

The sale was formally opened by his worship Mayor Rush, who read an address very appropriate to the occasion. He referred to the wonderful work accomplished by the late Dr. Barnardo and that is still being carried on under the same system. He referred to the generosity of Senator Cox, who has given the property in Peterborough for the Home, and who has done so much for the Home. His worship also expressed his pleasure that such an institution was located here and wished it all success in the future.

Miss Elliott, the new matron, at the Home, having succeeded Miss Pearse, was very active in welcoming the many visitors and she was ably assisted by the efficient staff under her.

Two very pretty little girls belonging to the Home presented Mrs. Rush with a bouquet of flowers. Besides the substantial sum received from the sale Senator Geo. A. Cox and a large number of local business men sent substantial cheques as an expression of their sympathy in the work of the Barnardo Home.

Have Right to Pump in Food---A duty to Protect Prisoners

London, Dec. 9.—The Suffragettes' cause received a hard blow today when Lord Chief Justice Alverstone, in the King's Bench Court, dismissed the damage suit of Mrs. Marie Leigh a leading Suffragette, against Home Secretary Gladstone, who issued the order for the forcible feeding of the defendant and other Suffragettes who were imprisoned in the Birmingham jail.

The justice declares that the Crown officials are not only entitled to use whatever means may be necessary to protect the lives of prisoners, but that it is their duty to do so.

Mrs. Leigh has also brought a dam age suit against the jail officials, but today's decision foreshadows the dismissal of the suit. The decision was joyously received by English politicians, who think it will have a tendency to check the aggressiveness of the Suffragettes in the coming general election.

The case aroused the greatest interest, and the court room was packed. One of the first results will probably be the end of the "hunger strike" that imprisoned Suffragettes have inaugurated to hasten their release from prison.

MANY SPECIAL PRIZES.

Are Being Offered for the Peterborough Poultry Show.

The prize list of the 2nd annual Peterborough Poultry Association's show, to be held on the 4th, 5th and 6th of January, is a big one, embracing 79 classes.

A feature of the list is the large number of substantial special prizes offered. There are no less that 60 of these, and they include a silver cup and other attractive cash prizes.

A prize list may be obtained from the secretary, Mr. John R. Eastwood, at the Royal Bank, Hunter street.

TOM LONGBOAT.

and

BILLY SHERRING.

Tom Longboat and Billy Sherring will run a ten-mile race at the Brock street Roller Rink on Saturday night, 11th inst., for a purse The winner takes all. Race starts at 9.30. Admission 25c., with privilege of skating or not.

Winnipeg Has a Cold Dip---31 Below Zero

Winnipeg, Dec. 9.— Frozen noses, ears, and finger tips, with woeful tales of burst water pipes this morning indicated that the first real cold snap of the season had come.

At 9 o'clock the mercury stood at 31 below zero, three points below last night's minimum temperature, and with the prospects of being colder still, owing to the stiffish north wind.

Winnipeg folk of all classes are however, not to be caught napping by Jack Frost, and probably very little real distress exists. In fact, though it is yet early to judge, with much building still in progress, it appears that unemployment is below normal for this season.

The effects of the severe frost were severely felt by the telegraph companies, for wherever wires were tight ly strung they were liable to contract by the intense cold beyond the breaking point.

$100 Paid for a Single Bird at Guelph Poultry Show by Farmers

Guelph, Dec. 9.—"None better," This was the comment of Mr. James Tucker, of Concord, Michigan, when speaking af the poultry exhibit, over which for the third successive year he has acted as judge. Mr. Tucker is one of the best, perhaps the best, poultry judge on the continent. He has worked at all the big shows from Denver to New York, and his statement ol approval means a great deal.

The Barred Rocks, of which Massachusetts is the home, is the only class on exhibition, Mr. Tucker affirms, which was excelled at the Madison Square Gardens and Boston big shows.

In every other class the birds exhibtedhere compare favorably.

"In Rhode Island Reds," exclaimed the judge, "those shown here have everything beaten that I ever saw. This year's fair is away ahead of anything ever held in Guelph before."

This poultry exhibit is one of the most attractive in the buildings. It appears, moreover, that it is to have the desired effect of improving the class of birds owned by the Ontario Agricultural Farm. They are buying at prices which seem enormous.

Speaking of the poultry last night, the Hon. J. S. Duff, Minister of Agricultural, said: "This afternoon a Black Minorca was bought by a Perth County farmer for $40. I saw some pay $100 for a single bird. In all more than $1,500 was spent and the best of it is that it was expended by the Ontario farmer, not by American fanciers at the show.

Mr. Baptie Won 18 Prizes with 19 Birds

Mr. Jas. Baptie of Springville, honorary president of the Peterborough Poultry Association, entered 19 birds at the Guelph Poultry Show and secured 18 prizes. The Guelph show is open to the world, and it is gratifying to learn that a resident of Peterborough County has made such a splendid showing in competition with all comers. Mr. Baptie is only one of many Puterborough poultry breeders who raise nothing but the best birds. The birds entered by Mr. Baptie at the Guelph show, will be on exhibition at Peterborough's poultry snow next January.

Longboat and Sherring Meet in 10 Mile Race

For the first time Tom Longboat will be seen in a race in Peterborough on Saturday night when he and Billy Sherring will go ten miles at the Brock street rink. Neither of these men need any introduction to the sporting element of this city, or to those who follow athletics at all. Both men have won honors abroad and both have brought credit to the Canadian athletes. The race will start at 9.30 o'clock so that the clerks in the store can get out to see it as well as everyone else, and there should be a bumper house.

Alf. Shrubb, the Englishman, who is famous as a race winner, is waiting for a race with either Longboat or Sherring, and Saturday night's race will probably determine which runner is to get on with Shrubb first.

There will be roller skating and also a three-mile race on rollers between two local artists. It looks like a big night of sport.

THE WEATHER.

Strong north-west winds and very cold.

FIREMEN'S QUARTERS.

New Furniture to be Purchased for the Men's Comfort.

The firemen's quarters at the new hall are about to be greatly improved by the addition of some new furniture which will add much to the comfort of the men and make their lives more pleasant while off duty and hanging around the hall waiting for an alarm. The chairman of the Fire, Water & Light Committee, and one or two of his committee will make the purchases today which will include a box case for the dormatory, twelve arm chairs, six easy leather covered chairs and two leather covered couches. It is expected that the cost will amount to $150. It will be money well spent, however, as the men have very few comforts there now.

WARM TIMES

There has been some very warm times in the police court the past couple of weeks owing to charges of breach of the liquor license law. Out of those cases have developed two perjury charges and another is threatened. The counsel for the defence, the chief of police and the police magistrate have had several lively tilts. As a result of the whole affair the citizens generally are pretty well disgusted and the prevailing opinion is that a good shaking up is needed. Perjury is a very serious offence, although it is becoming rather a common one. The evidence in the recent cases has been quite contrary and the witnesses have been equally positive on both sides, thus leaving no room for error upon the part of these witnesses. It is clear perjury has been committed by someone, and if there is any desire to stamp it out a better opportunity to start could not be provided.

CHAPS, COLD SORES AND ROUGH RED SKIN

Zam-Buk will give you speedy relief. It works while you sleep. Apply it to the sore places just before retiring and by morning it will have done its healing work.

Cold cracks are highly dangerous as well as painful. The air is full of germs, and cold cracks simply invite them to invade the system. Once having gained a lodgment they may then produce inflammation, gatherings, or even blood poisoning. Besides there is all the pain! Zam-Buk is highly antiseptic. Kills the disease germs, stops the pain, and heals. Fifty cents per box, all Stores and Druggists, or post-free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, upon receipt of price. HABIT'S CHAIN

Certain Habits Unconsciously Formed and Hard to Break.

An ingenious philosopher estimates that the amount of will power necessary to break a life-long habit would, if it could be transformed, lift a weight of many tons.

It sometimes requires a higher degree of heroism to break the chains of a pernicious habit than to lead a forlorn hope in a bloody battle. A lady writes from an Indiana town:

"From my earliest childhood I was a lover of coffee. Before I was out of my teens I was a miserable dyspeptic suffering terribly at times with my stomach.

"I was convinced that it was coffee that was causing the trouble and yet I could not deny myself a cup for breakfast. At the age of 36 I was in very poor health, indeed. My sister told me I was in danger of becoming a coffee drunkard.

"But I never could give up drinking coffee for breakfast although it kept me constantly ill, until I tried Postum. I learned to make it properly according to directions, and now we can hardly do without Postum for breakfast and care nothing at all for coffee.

"I am no longer troubled with dyspepsia, do not have spells of suffering with my stomach that used to trouble me so when I drank coffee."

Look in pkgs. for the little book, "The Road to Wellville." "There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

WIND ON THE STOMACH.

A Well-Known Westerner Tells of Suffering, Misery and Pain That He Cured With "Nerviline."

"A few weeks ago I ate some green vegetables and some fruits that was not quite ripe. It first brought on a fit of indigestion, but unfortunately it developed into hissoughs, accompanied by nausea and cramps. I was dreadfully ill for two days—my head ached and throbbed, I beleched gas continually, and I was unable to sleep at night. A neighbor happened in to see me and urged me to try Nerviline. Well, I wouldn't have believed that any preparation could help so quickly. I took half a teaspoonful of Nerviline in hot sweetened water, and my stomach felt better at once. I used Nerviline several times, and was completely restored."

NERVILINE STRENGTHENS WEAK STOMACHS

The above is from a letter written by G. E. Braun, a well-known stockman and farmer near Lethbridge, Alta. Mr. Braun's favorable opinion of the high merit of Nerviline is shared by thousands of Canadians who have proved Nerviline is simply a marvel for cramps, diarrhoea, flatulence, nausea and stomach disorders. Safe to use, guaranteed to cure—you can make no mistake in keeping Nerviline for your family remedy. Large 15c. bottles, five for $1.00 Sold everywhere, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

What "Consols" Are?

The "man (or woman) in the street" often has but a hazy idea of "Consols," as would be shown by the notion disclosed in evidence only the other day at a London police court, when a thriftily-minded young person explained that she expected that £15 invested therein would yield her 10s. in the £ interest. She but agreed with the elder Weller of immortal memory. Dickens' lovers will well remember Sam Weller's scorn upon discovering that his father supposed "reduced counsels" to be alive. Of course, the word "consols" is an abbreviation in connection with Government funds. In 1751 certain varieties of stock, forming part of our National Debt, were consolidated into one fund under the name of "Consolidated Annuities." The term "Consols," it may be mentioned, has been extended for convenience to various other Government securities.

A Miserly Parson.

Rev. Morgan Jones, a sadly miserly man, was once curate-in-charge at Blewbury. He died worth $200,000, but some curious stories are given of his economy. It is said he wrote his sermons on pieces of paper torn from the walls, and was obliged to lie in bed while his one shirt was being washed.

On one occasion, when walking in the fields he saw an old scare-crow surmounted with a hat, the brim of which was sound. Jones seized the hat, and, tearing the tattered brim from his own, replaced it by that of the scare-crow. It is doubtful if his hat was improved by the change. His coat, of many tatters, is still in existence, and is kept in remembrance by photographs which are sold in the neighborhood.—Art Journal.

Get Well First

Don't risk even a penny—until health first returns.

And I mean just exactly that.

I ask the poor physician who says to the sick "I will, out of my own pocket, pay for your meal, since it fails to bring you health."

Find for 30 years Dr. Shoop's medicines have been used and recommended in every city and hamlet in America. They are positively stocked and in every community—and everywhere. Then why pay the sick, and at your risk, for other unproved and unspeakable medicines? Thousands upon thousands have in the past successfully used Dr. Shoop's Restorative. When the stomach nerves, or the heart or kidney nerves fail, these sick ones know how quickly Dr. Shoop's Restorative will bring them back to health again. But best of all, they positively take no money risk whatever. They know that when health fails to return Dr. Shoop will himself gladly pay the druggist for that test. And for that test a full 30 day treatment is freely granted. Just write me first for an order. This will save delay and disappointment.

All druggists sell Dr. Shoop's Restorative and Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy, but all are not stocked to give the 30 day test. So drop me a line first—now, I have mentioned an honest and reasonable thing. Then for an absolute test, at my risk, every penny of which I will pay, you may write to me. Then when well and strong again you will surely open your purse and hand to them who are not well. Then you will be free to consult no fancy you would your own physician. My advice and the book I offer are entirely without cost.

Then

Perhaps a word or two from me will clear up some serious ailment I have helped thousands upon thousands by my private prescriptions—perhaps my advice for you is entirely worth your simple address. My book, too, is worth your while, while you have it handy. I'm mailed for tomorrow never comes. Dr. Shoop, Box 12, Racine, Wis.

A LADY'S MEMOIRS.

Countess of Cardigan's Book Causes a Sensation.

No book of recent years has created such a sensation in London as the "Recollections" of the Countess of Cardigan, which have just been published. It is the main topic of conversation in the boudoirs of Mayfair and the West end clubs. It has been characterized as a "volume of blazing indiscretions," and consternation reigns among the elite on account of her ladyship's very frank revelations concerning members of their families. There is no attempt to disguise names, and the annoyance and pain which have been caused by the piquant character of the stories told by the countess have led to many protests against the manner in which she has raised the veil and exposed the immoralities and wickedness of "high society."

"I repeat emphatically," says a writer in The World, "that this is a shameless book. I cannot conceive that the authorities are so feeble and so indifferent as to permit of this book remaining on sale. I call upon them instantly to withdraw it from circulation."

Meantime, while the storm of indignation is raging, the countess has retired into the country to enjoy the sensation she has caused. As a matter of fact, it was her original intention, it is said, to make the book even more outspoken than it is. In the heyday of her charms she counted among her followers royal as well as aristocratic admirers. From these she received countless love-letters, which she treasures as souvenirs of bygone triumphs. It was her intention, so the report goes, to include in her book facsimiles of billets-doux from high-born personages, some of whom are still living. When an inkling of her proposal leaked out, however, strong representations were made to the countess from very high quarters, and in the end she consented to omit certain epistles.

Here are some tit-bits from a book which will be talked about for a long time.

The countess resided in Mayfair at a time when, as she wittily puts it, "Society was composed of brilliant men and witty women, beauties and dandies, who held sway without puffing paragraphs in the newspapers."

On one occasion the countess stayed with Lord and Lady Wilton at Melton Mowbray. His lordship's free and easy life had gained for him the sobriquet of "The Wicked Earl." One Sunday the countess and Lady Wilton went to church, unaccompanied by his lordship.

"I saw the clerk look at us as we entered the church," says the countess, "and he evidently noticed Lord Wilton's absence; but I was not prepared for what followed. The vicar duly commenced, 'When the wicked —,' but he was stopped by the clerk, who turned to him and, looking across at Lord Wilton's vacant seat, said, in a loud voice, 'Please, sir, his lordship's not come yet.'"

On the journey back to town the countess traveled with the old Duchess of Cambridge. "Directly the train started the duchess opened a large reticule and took out a German sausage, which she devoured with great relish, cutting slices off it with a silver knife, with which she transferred them to her mouth." In the same chapter a story is told of Lord Ward, who had very curly hair, which could never be induced to lie smoothly on his head. One day his valet went into his master's bedroom and saw him sitting in his bath with his hat on. He thought his lordship had gone mad and promptly left, although Lord Ward only wore his hat to try and keep his rebellious curls in order.

There is an amusing story, too, concerning Lord Ernest Bruce, who had a great weakness for leave-takings. "He always loved to speed the parting guest," says the countess, "and invariably went through the same ceremony whenever he said good-bye. This consisted of kissing everybody, and then, with a great show of generosity, he would present the porter with sixpence." The countess had invited a small party for a yachting cruise, which included his lordship's son, Robert Bruce. "When old Lord Ernest was preparing to say good-bye to us, Robert called out, 'Now, father, kiss the porter and give me the sixpence,' greatly to Lord Ernest's annoyance."

A Stranger Lord.

Judge George F. Lawton, of the Probate Court, London, Eng., related a story the other day of a minister who was spending his Sabbatical year traveling abroad. Arriving in London, he made every effort to get an intimate view of the two branches of Parliament in session. Of course, no stranger is allowed on the floor of the House of Lords, but the minister, not knowing this, and with the usual amount of American push, tried to make his way in. There is a rule, however, that servants of the various lords may be admitted to speak to their masters. Seeing the minister walking boldly in, the doorkeeper asked:

"What Lord," repeated the astonished man. "The Lord Jehovah!"

For a moment the doorkeeper hesitated and then admitted him. Turning to the assistant standing near, he said:

"He must mean one of those poor Scotch lairds.

The Dramas of Mincing Lane.

It was only after eleven years of futile knocking at theatrical managers' doors with rolls of manuscript that Mr. Alfred Sutro, who would appear to have scored another success at the Garrick in London with "Making a Gentleman," got his foot on the first rung of the ladder of theatrical fame. At one time he worked in an office in Mincing Lane, and says that those City experiences of his were of immense value to him. "There are dramas in Mincing Lane," to quote his own words, "as thrilling as any that have been placed upon the stage." Mr. Sutro is a brother-in-law of Mr. Rufus Isaacs, K.C., and a distant kinsman of the Sutro who drove the famous Sutro Tunnel through the Nevada mountain, and thus made himself a millionaire.

Wolf Hunters.

John A. Hope of Kippawa, near Mattawa, Ont., is the party to write to if any first-class rifle shot is desirous of joining the American and Canadian sportsmen who go north in January, February and March after the grey-coated but elusive deer-slayers. Wolf shooting has superseded all other forms of sport for the first-class rifle shot and as it means a bounty, a good shot can pay his expenses and secure revenue at one an d the same time. A small bore high-powdered rifle is used.

WASHING HOUSE PLANTS.

How to Keep Them Healthy and Free From Insects.

If after taking flowers into the house you discover the troublesome meal bugs, aphis, the torment of chrysanthemum; green flies and tiny red spiders, begin at once to kill them. The overwhelming development of these pests can be stopped only by using some strong solution that will kill the insects and destroy the eggs. If a small camel's hair brush is dipped into alcohol and the haunts of these pests are washed out with the solution, followed with a tobacco suds wash, clean plants will be insured. Do not permit this water to run into the earth, for alcohol will kill some plants. Have a piece of oilcloth, cut a hole in the centre and slit one side to the edge. This can be wrapped around the plant to prevent the water going into the crock. This is also an excellent method when cleaning flowers in the kitchen sink, for the dirt does not overflow when the crock is protected with the oilcloth covering.

The red spider can be killed with pure water, but this process requires that the entire plant be immersed. This is easily done, and the water should be changed a number of times. Do not leave one plant untouched, but clean all at the same time. Just a few insects will increase rapidly in numbers, and the aphis to-day would be a past generation to-morrow, so the accumulation of these little pests should be fought from the time flowers are taken into the house. No flower collects insects more rapidly than ivy. The fragile leaves and stems are alive with them, for which reason ivy should be kept out of the collection of rare plants. Flowers with large leaves should be washed. Buy a small soft brush and keep it for the purpose of washing the flower leaves. It cleans under the leaves and between the stems and stock.

IVY FOR HOME DECORATION.

How to Grow the English and German Varieties With Ease.

For a growing green which is beautifully decorative in the home in winter there is nothing more satisfactory than ivy. There are so many artistic ways of arranging the ivy, and the English variety particularly is so hardy that it cannot fail to grow. Artists have painted it and poets sung of it—the romantic ivy green.

With a pot containing the ivy standing on a table, floor or shelf the creeping branches may be trained in any direction about the room. Have the vine clamber up the window casing, and the green and leafy screen through which you can look out upon a wintry landscape will make it seem less bleak. Stand the jar containing the ivy on a bracket shelf at one end of the mantel and let it wander, with skillful training, up over mantel and walls, stray tendrils drooping gracefully over pictures and the like.

Ivy may be trained over the archway which divides rooms, and no portieres will be needed. There is also the more delicate German ivy, which requires gentler handling. It will grow effectively without soil. I saw one growing in a large bowl of water—the kind of glass bowl used for small aquaria. The ivy grew over the sides of the bowl, festooning itself in tangled masses of vivid green, which gave a living beauty to the whole room.—Suburban Life.

No Influence.

During a municipal election in a town in the west of Scotland a young lady, who was canvassing in behalf of one of the candidates called at a house, the door of which was opened by the good wife.

"I have called to solicit your vote on behalf of Mr. ——," said the young lady.

"But it's not me that's got the vote. It's ma man," replied the woman.

"Yes," said the young lady, "but I thought you might perhaps use your influence with him."

"Me influence him?" said the good wife. "I hiv nae influence wi' him. Only this morning I ask't him to wash the floor afore he went out, and he wadna dae it."

Quits.

A little girl was in the habit of selling "stretchers." Her auntie told her she could never believe her and, to warn her, related the tale of the boy who called "Wolf, wolf!" and how the wolf really did come one day and ate up all her sheep.

"Ate the sheep?" asked the child.

"Yes."

"All of them?"

"Yes; all of them," answered her auntie.

"Well," said the little one, "I don't believe you, and you don't believe me. So there!"

Woman's Preparation For the Street.

Nearly every man knows that it takes the average woman two hours to dress for the street, and they seem hurried at that, but few men know just why such preparations take so long. For the enlightenment of the latter is the explanation in boiled down form as given by an authoritative person:

Fitting on dress, forty minutes; buttoning same, ten minutes; arranging hair, twenty-five minutes; touching up face, fifteen minutes; setting hat, twenty minutes; mirror contemplation, ten minutes.

In Doubt.

"Prisoner," said the court, sternly, "are you guilty or not guilty?"

"Now, jedge," answered the defendant confidentially, "we's bof been th'oo dis here kin' o' business befo', an' you knows jes' as well as I does dar ain' no use o' me tryin' to answer dat kin' o' question tell de trial's over an' I finds out whether I's been lucky or not."

She Did.

"Didn't some idiot propose to you before our marriage?"

"Certainly."

"Then you ought to have married him."

"That's just what I did."

Bran Bath Bags.

Take a pound and a half of new bran, three-quarters of a pound of almond meal, eight ounces of powdered orris root and five ounces of shaved castile soap.

Make muslin bags five or six inches square and put in three tablespoonfuls of the mixture. The quantity given above will fill a dozen and a half bags.

The bran bags add delightful refreshment to the bath.

What He Wouldn't Take.

The bartender grasped the man next the stove by the shoulder and shook him until he was awake.

"Here, Zeph," he told him, "you'd better go out and get some fresh air. It'll do you good."

Zeph merely grunted, drunkenly, and huddled back in his chair. The bartender tried it again with like result.

"You won't get out, won't you?" he roared angrily. Seizing the unfortunate Zeph by the collar and the seat of the trousers, he escorted him forcibly to the alley. "Get out there in the air and brace up," was his advice.

"Y' kin put me out if y' like, but" —Zeph straightened up with drunken dignity—"ye can't make me take no air, durn ye."

Too Near the Throne.

In the seventies of the last century the artist, Anton von Werner, was appointed to perpetuate the German imperial proclamation. He first made a sketch to submit to the old Emperor William. In this the various personages were grouped in the same order as during the ceremony at Versailles. William I. standing on a raised platform, with Bismarck at his left on a lower step and on his right the crown prince, whom the artist had represented with one foot on the upper level. The emperor examined the sketch and at once noted the position of the Crown Prince Frederick. He frowned, took his pencil and made a thick, rapid stroke through his son's right leg. "Not yet," said he.

An Odd Way to Fish.

The natives of Tutuila, one of the islands of Oceania, have a peculiar method of catching fish. At a given signal all the inhabitants of the village assemble on the seashore to the number of about 200 persons, each one carrying a branch of the cocoa palm. With these in their hands they plunge into the water and swim a certain distance from the shore, when they turn, forming a compact semicircle, each one holding his palm perpendicular in the water, thus making a sort of sieve. The leader of the party then gives a signal, and the fishers all approach the seashore gradually in perfect order, driving before them a multitude of fishes that are cast on the sands and killed with sticks.

An Elephant's Courtesy.

At the conclusion of a children's performance at Old Meldrum an elephant proceeded along a narrow road with a pail in its trunk for the purpose of procuring water from a pump. A little girl chanced to get in the animal's way, and, the road being only wide enough to accommodate his substantial body, the elephant laid down the pail, picked up the child with his trunk and gently lifted her to a place of safety, afterward resuming his journey to the pump for the water.—Westminster Gazette.

He Lived There All Right.

An anxious father got wind of the rumor that his son was leading rather a convivial life at college. But the son strenuously denied the charge in letters to his father. Still unsatisfied, the father made an unexpected visit to his son's lodging place and, giving the bell a manly pull, was met by a grim faced landlady, who seemed to know what was coming.

"Does Mr. James Smith live here?" asked the father.

"He does," replied the landlady. "Bring him right in."

The Bird of Death.

Only one specimen of venemous bird is known to the student of ornithological oddities—the Epic M'Death, or "Bird of Death," a feathered paradox of New Guinea. Persons bitten by the creature are seized by maddening pains, which rapidly extend to every part of the body. Loss of sight, convulsions, and lockjaw are symptoms which follow in rapid succession.

Prevention, the new Candy Cold Cure Tablets, are said by druggists to have four special specific advantages over all other remedies for a cold. First—They contain no Quinine nothing harsh or sickening. Second—They give almost instant relief. Third—Pleasant to the taste, like candy. Fourth—A large box—25 Preventics—at 25 cents. Also fine for feverish children. Sold by all dealers.

A Special In Fine Arts

The "Stunner" Was a Surprise to the Two Students.

By JANE OSBORN.

Copyright, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.

Stanton Thorpe and his chum, Kid Walker, were walking rapidly across the campus, absorbed in their own importance. It was the first day of their senior year. Stanton was class president and the Kid was his right hand man.

A tall, striking girl passed rapidly by. Stanton was interested at once and not a little surprised when he saw the girl smile back at his companion, who pulled off his cap with unfeigned satisfaction.

"Who's your friend, Kid?" he asked when they were well out of hearing.

"Why, that's Marjory King. I told you about her. She's the girl I met at the house party last summer; made an awful hit with the fellows there. Isn't she a stunner, though?"

"Marjory King," mused the other thoughtfully.

"Isn't she a stunner?" And the Kid gave his friend a thump on the arm to force an answer.

"Oh, she's a stunner, all right, if that's what you want to know. Say, she isn't a freshman, is she?"

The Kid laughed. "Well, not exactly. She's registered as a special in fine arts. I shouldn't wonder if she was rather oldish myself."

"How old, say?" queried Stanton, whose interest was thoroughly roused.

The Kid's voice was lowered. "Twenty-three," he ventured cautiously.

His companion whistled. "Well, I'm as old as that myself." His eyes had followed her to the other side of the campus. "Say, Kid, she is a stunner. Shouldn't much mind coeducation if they were all like that."

The next day the two boys were making their way from one of the engineering buildings to their dormitory.

"Say, Kid," said Stanton after several minutes' silence, "what's she taking?"

The other smiled gleefully. "She? Oh, she's a special in fine arts, which means anything at all, doesn't it? Why?"

"Well, it's this way," explained Stanton, trying to hide an unexpected feeling of embarrassment. "I was thinking that we'd get better acquainted if we could kind of gain time on the other fellows if we were to take some work with her."

The plan met with his chum's entire approval, so they turned their steps away from the dormitory toward the dean's office.

Their first task was to see Marjory King's schedule, and the second was to induce the dean to allow them to make a change in their own course of study. The first was easy enough, for as class officers the boys were allowed to have access to the students' records.

"Just want to look at a few of the fellows' time cards," said Stanton to the registrar as he fumbled through the K's in a large card catalogue. He made a few notes from the desired card and returned to his friend, who was seated at the table.

He spoke in subdued tones: "Advanced Italian conversation, art of dressmaking, scientific cooking, study of the child mind and elementary philology. The first we aren't qualified for, the next two aren't open to men, child mind I won't take, so it's got to be the last."

"What is philology, anyway?" asked the Kid.

"Blessed if I know. It's one of Professor Brown's deadliest, but it's perfectly all right."

"Well, let's take it then."

So it was that Stanton Thorpe and Kid Walker, engineers, took up the study of languages under the celebrated Dr. Brown and—a fact of much greater importance—became in a few months the undisputed claimants to the friendship of Marjory King.

As time went on and Marjory was seen more and more with Stanton and the Kid and less with the other boys people began to talk. She apparently found their companionship agreeable, but no one, not even the two lucky owners themselves, could decide which one she preferred. The rivalry—intense though it was—only cemented their friendship, and they never dreamed of concealing from each other their growing fondness for the girl.

"There's no use joking about it, Kid," said Stanton toward the end of the college year. "I mean business. What's the use of a boy like you getting silly over a girl like Marjory King?"

"Perhaps there isn't any," said the other frankly, "but I'm going to stick it out. It seems sometimes as if she treated me with a little more—more interest than she does you."

Stanton laughed. "That's where you're dead wrong, old man. By the way, that philology exam is going to be pretty stiff for the poor girl. It's a shame she ever took the course with a fossil like Brown. But I imagine I can help her out with my notes. You know I haven't missed a lecture, and I've full reports on all the outside readings. I have offered to let her have my notebook for a week before the exam, and I told her I'd coach her up all I could."

"That's a good move, all right," said the Kid, looking with admiration at his friend. "I wonder why I never think of those things."

"Oh, well, she isn't going to marry me just on account of that."

"Isn't going to what?"

"Well, I never put it that way before, but of course I intend to propose to her. I told you I was in dead earnest."

"Oh, I suppose I will, too, in the course of time. I never happened to think about that part of it before."

"I tell you frankly," said Stanton determinedly, "I intend to ask her a few days before commencement, some time after this beastly old exam is off."

"She'll hear from me about the same time, and I bet you money I'll get an—"

So it was agreed between them that Stanton should coach Marjory as he had promised to and that as soon as the marks of the examination were posted the next morning he should make his proposal, asking her to defer her answer until later in the day. In the course of the morning the Kid should make his plea, and that night they would know their fate.

The two boys approached the important day with ever increasing excitement. The strain of senior examinations seemed as nothing compared with the uncertainty of not knowing the state of Marjory King's affections. She seemed to take a keen relish in keeping them in suspense, and a word of encouragement to one was always followed by a radiant smile upon the other.

The day at last arrived, and Kid Walker saw his chum depart upon his important errand. "I don't wish you luck, old man," he said, "but here's my hand." And the two boys separated with a warmer feeling of friendship for each other than they had ever known before.

A large crowd of students had already gathered around the bulletin board when the Kid sauntered up with pretended indifference to see the result of the philology examination. He craned his neck over the crowd. That name at the head of the list was enough—"M. King, 99 per cent." He felt a sudden sense of defeat. Stanton had coached her, and she had come out at the head of the list. He pushed his way aimlessly away from the others.

Suddenly he came upon his chum walking slowly toward him.

"I ought to have known you'd win her," said Stanton.

The Kid's happiness was tinged with deep pity for his friend.

"Have you asked her?"

"Yes. She told me that she was never so surprised in her life; said she was just about to accept some one else. You're a lucky boy, Kid Walker."

"How did she know that I was going to propose?" stammered the Kid. "But I'd better not keep her waiting any longer."

He was detained by the voice of a classmate: "Hello, Kid. Heard the news?"

"No. What news?"

"Philology Brown's going to be married."

"Is he? It's about time." The Kid was not in the least interested.

"Here they come!" called one of the boys a few feet away. "Here's a rousing cheer, boys. Are you ready?"

"R-r-o-w-n! Rip! Rah! Rah! Rah! King! King! King!" came the shout of twenty voices.

Kid Walker was completely dazed. He looked up to see Professor Brown walking rapidly by, with Marjory King smiling at his side. His eyes met Stanton's.

"Isn't she a stunner?" asked an enthusiastic onlooker.

Stanton smiled grimly at the Kid. "Oh, she's a stunner, all right, if that's what you want to know."

Why Water Quenches Thirst.

Thirst, a word of Anglo-Saxon origin and akin to the Latin torreo and dar torrid or parched, describes a peculiar sensation of dryness and heat located in the tongue and throat. Artificial thirst may be produced by the passage of a current of air over the mucous membrane of these parts, but normal thirst is the consequence of a lack of liquid in the system. The agony of extreme thirst is due to the fact that all the tissues sympathize in this distress. It is then as a refreshing relief that a supply of water comes to thirsting lips, replacing what has been lost, cooling the parched palate and rapidly removing the craving which has depressed the system. In short, water quenches thirst just because it supplies what at the moment is wanting and is most eagerly desired, so that Solomon could properly compare the gift of "cold waters to a thirsty soul" to the advent of good news. Thirst is to some extent appeased by the injection of water into the blood or body, though no fluid touches the part to which the sensation is referred.

The Salvation Army's Name.

The adoption of the name "Salvation Army" came about in a curiously unpremeditated way, writes Commander Eva Booth in Van Norden's Magazine. As the head of the new movement Mr. Booth had gathered around him men who were as one with him and acted as his secretaries. One day he was walking up and down his study, dictating, when he used these words:

"The Christian mission is a volunteer army."

He paused in his dictation and looked thoughtfully over the shoulder of his secretary at the written line, took up the pen, scored out the word "volunteer" and wrote above it "salvation" and went on dictating. This was the first time the word was used, and it made such an impression that it began insensibly to be thought as an appropriate name for the mission. It grew upon the imagination of men. They liked it—liked it so well that they finally adopted it.

Larry Was Prepared.

"Well, Larry," said the genial manufacturer, "I hear that you are much interested in aerial sports these days."

"Yes, sor," responded the coachman with the big volume under his arm; "that is why I bought this book."

"Ah! You want to learn how to go up in an airship?"

"No; I want to learn how to come down. That is why I bought 'The Descent of Man,' sor."—Detroit Free Press.

The old fashioned way of dosing a weak stomach, or stimulating the Heart or Kidneys is all wrong. Dr. Shoop first pointed out this error. This is why his prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—is directed entirely to the cause of these ailments—the weak inside or controlling nerves. It isn't so difficult, says Dr. Shoop, to strengthen a weak Stomach, Heart, or Kidneys if one controlling or inside nerve. When these nerves fail, then those organs must surely falter. These vital truths are leading druggists everywhere to dispense and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Test it a few days, and real improvement will promptly and surely follow. Sold by all dealers.

Woman's World

A TRIBUTE TO GENIUS.

Envoys of Many Nations Honor Mrs. Julia Ward Howe.

Mrs. Julia Ward Howe stirred a brilliant assemblage in the Metropolitan Opera House, in New York city, during the Hudson-Fulton celebration by reading the poem composed by her and dedicated to the occasion which brought together the envoys of many nations.

Although Mrs. Howe is more than ninety years old, the poem and her recitation showed that she is still mentally and physically vigorous.

She stood alone in the center of the stage, and when she began to read her poem in a firm, clear voice the great gathering also stood.

The tribute which her hearers paid to Mrs. Howe was impressive. Although the applause was deafening, there was a certain note of reverence and respect, and there were tears in the eyes of the aged woman when she acknowledged the homage of great men of many nations.

MRS. JULIA WARD HOWE, AGED NINETY.

Here is Mrs. Howe's poem:

FULTON.

By JULIA WARD HOWE.

(From Collier's. Reprinted by permission.)

A river flashing like a gem,
Crowned with a mountain diadem,
Invites an unaccustomed guest
To launch his shallop on her crest,
A pilgrim whose exploring mind
Must leave his tardy pace behind—
"My bark creeps slow; the world is vast.
How shall its space be overpassed?"

Responsive to his cry appears
A visionary, young in years,
Commissioned with prophetic brain
The mystic problem to explain—
"Where fire and water closest blend,
There find a servant and a friend."

Yet many a moon must wax and wane,
With sleepless nights and days of pain,
Pleading a monarch's court before,
Shrewd processes and study sore,
Ere on the silver tide shall float,
Swifter than thought, young Fulton's boat.

And not alone for Hudson's stream
Availa the magic power of steam.
Blessings of unimagined worth
Its speed shall carry round the earth.
Knowledge shall on its pinions fly,
Nor land nor race in darkness lie.
Commerce her boards shall freely bring
To many an urgent summoning,
And Want and Wealth in sundered lands
Shall closely clasp redeeming hands,
While master minds new gospels span,
The holy brotherhood of man.

Rest, Fulton, in thine honored grave.
Remembered with the wise and brave.
Thy message visits every sea,
Herald of benefits to be.
So nearly may our world relate
The mighty movements of her fate,
So Doom and Dangers wide apart
Appeal to every human heart.

And, as one sun doth compass all
That shall arise or may befall,
One flat on creation's night
Bestowed the blessed boon of Light,
So shall all life one promise fill
For Freedom, Justice and Good Will.

Mary Harriman a Country Girl.

Mary Harriman, daughter of the late E. H. Harriman, has as keen an instinct for guarding the cents as her father demonstrated in his business career. As the manager of the 30,000 acre farm in Arden, N. Y., she works with an eye to profit. The responsibility of the farm is not new to her. For several years she practically held control, her father seldom interfering and then doing little more than offering a suggestion. Harriman was proud of his daughter's talent for management. They were a familiar sight driving together over the farm, Harriman, as a rule, holding the reins over one of his fast trotters. Miss Harriman cares more for her farm than for society. She is essentially a country girl. Society never has attracted her, and there is little likelihood it will gain her interest now. She is a keen judge of a horse and seldom gets the worst of a trade.

A Nervous Face.

Do not neglect the nervous face. When a child grimaces or twitches there is trouble ahead. The sooner it is taken in hand the less probability there will be of chronic grimacing or, worse yet, St. Vitus' dance. Frequently this twitching begins when the child is very young; sometimes it arises from older people foolishly laughing at the little one's contortions, and they are kept up until they become a nervous affection.

Do Not Use Creosote.

Creosote should never be put into a hollow tooth for toothache. It relieves the pain, but in time destroys the substance of the tooth. Leave creosote to expert use.

THE DIFFERENCE.

In one respect Canada and the United States differ notably in consideration of matters naval. The entire opposition to an active naval policy in the United States comes from the middle west, from the great Mississippi States, which being far from either ocean consequently have to be bribed with waterways and various other local inducements in order that the Atlantic and Pacific States may have their way in carrying out an active naval programme. Whereas in Canada, the most prudential, or at any rate the safest, undertaking for a comprehensive scheme of naval defence comes from Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. Canada's West is more in tone with its eastern provinces than are the similar stretches of country in the republic to the south.

CAPITAL STOCK (Authorized $1,000,000—1,000,000 SHARES OF $1.00 EACH.
700,000 SHARES ISSUED—300,000 IN TREASURY.

Claim "T. R. 189" is stated by competent mining engineers to be undoubtedly the best property in the Montreal River District. It contains 40 acres, mostly hilly, of diabase formation, and is within 2½ miles of transportation.

Active development was begun by the present owners in May last. The necessary buildings for men, horses, tools, powder and stores have been erected. About two miles of surface trenching have been done in the south-east quarter of the property, 14 veins have been uncovered, 8 of them showing silver at or near the surface.

Assays of surface ore have run as high as 12,000 ounces to the ton.

Two shafts have been sunk, No. 1 to a depth of 63 feet, and No. 2 to 62 feet.

Shaft No. 2 opens up a vein from 5 to 14 inches thick, which is improving with depth, and which shows plates and leaves of pure metallic silver embedded in the calcite.

Shaft No. 1 also shows greatly increasing values with depth. At 60 feet the ore is very rich. There are two veins, 8 inches and 2 inches thick, separated by 20 to 26 inches of silver-bearing aplite. At 63 feet a level has been driven along the vein for 20 feet.

The ore taken from this level has been of exceptional richness, running from 8,000 to 17,000 ounces to the ton.

Such large values, obtained so near the surface, are very promising, particularly as at 3 other points along the same vein masses of pure metallic silver have been found directly beneath the soil. There is therefore every reason to believe that this vein will show at other points values equally as large as those where the shaft has been sunk.

Already $100,000 worth of ore has been blocked out.

The large number of veins that have been stripped in the section trenched promises a large tonnage of pay ore when they are developed. Then there is ¾ of the claim not yet trenched which should show equally satisfactory values.

An idea of the excellent returns which Claim "T. R. 189" promises on money invested, can be gained from the fact that, among others, the following gentlemen are each owners of 15,000 shares or more—

HENRY H. LYMAN. — F. P. BUCHANAN. — S. LICHTENHEIN. — T. L. MORRISEY.
ALEX. PRINGLE — D. LORNE McGIBBON. — JOHN E. HARDMAN. — MAJOR MADOCKS.
S. A. McMURTRY. — C. E. GAULT. — SHIRLEY OGILVIE. — W. H. WALSH.

The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother, or sister of an intending homesteader.

Duties—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, solely owned and occupied by him, or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may buy a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.

GUARANTEED INVESTMENT

Guaranterd by a $1,000,000 Bank

SUPPOSE a million-dollar bank should offer you a gold bond, guaranteeing you against loss in an investment you desired to make, and providing that, whether the investment did or did not prove a profitable one, the bank would pay you back every dollar of your money at the end of twenty years, wouldn't that "look good" to you? And wouldn't you take it?

Wouldn't it look as though the bank itself, as well as the men behind the enterprise that formed the basis of the investment, had absolute confidence in it, and looked upon it as a safe and profitable venture?

Can you figure out any way in which you could possibly lose the money you put into an enterprise with that kind of backing? To be sure, you would run the risk of not receiving interest for that length of time on the amount of your investment, but you would also run the chance of multiplying it many times over in the way of dividends—and that is worth something, isn't it? In other words, you have opportunity to win, and not a single chance to lose.

Now, that is exactly what we, the officers and directors of Treasury Gold Mining and Milling Company, of Reno, Nevada, are offering for a short time to those who wish to take advantage of it; and we make this remarkable offer, first, because we know what we have in the way of a property, and, second, because we need a little more capital to erect a mill upon it and make it an extremely profitable producer in the shortest possible time.

This is the first time, to our personal knowledge, that an offer like this has ever been made with reference to any enterprise of a similar character, here or elsewhere.

Organization, Capitalization and Officers

Treasury Gold Mining and Milling Company is organized under the laws of the State of Nevada, with a capital stock of One Million Dollars ($1,000,000), divided into One Million (1,000,000) shares, of the par value of One Dollar ($1.00 each, full paid and non-assessable, and with no personal liability attaching to the stockholders. The number of shares in the treasury is Four Hundred Thousand (400,000).

The principal office of the company is at No. 336 Mill Street, Reno, Nevada, and the depository of the company is the Nixon National Bank, of the same city.

The officers are as follows: President, D. J. Kennedy, an old resident of Nevada, and one of the best known and most successful mining operators in the state; vice-president, F. W. Thomas, of the firm of John Breuner & Co., one of the largest mercantile establishments in the city; secretary, Donald Fraser, one of the proprietors of the Red Cross Drug Company, of Reno; treasurer, H. L. Burchell, mining operator, and manager of the most prominent of the leading law firms of the state.

Board of directors: D. J. Kennedy, F. W. Thomas, H. L. Burchell; Eugene Kelly, department manager with the Gray, Reid, Wright company, and Donald Fraser.

Location and Character of Properties

The holdings of Treasury Gold Mining and Milling Company include the following valuable properties in the famous Fairview district, in Churchill county, Nevada, reached by a fine wagon road from Fallon, the county seat:

By purchase outright—fully paid for and deed recorded at Fallon—valuable mining estates on both sides of the great Mizpah mine, on both of which properties rich ore has been found.

By purchase—paid for, deeded and recorded—the Treasury group of two full claims, amounting to 40 acres, to the north-east of the Mizpah mine, the rich ledge of which we have every reason to believe coarses straight through our property for at least 2,000 feet. This we regard as a very valuable holding.

By purchase, an undivided one-half interest in seven claims, containing 100 acres, southwest of the Mizpah, with every indication that the Mizpah vein runs through our ground at least 1,500 feet. The deed for our one-half interest is recorded at Fallon, and we have an option for one year on the other one-half interest.

All the leasing rights and privileges of the Mizpah Milling and Leasing Company on twelve blocks of the celebrated Mizpah mine, for the term of five years. On this property, considerable quantities of fine shipping ore are already opened; drifting has been carried on for some distance on the 100-foot level, while the second level, at 175 feet depth, is now being driven on to catch the same ore body, when shipments will begin.

Values as Shown By Assays

Assays of ores taken from the various properties of the company show the following values:

From Treasury Group at the surface, gold and silver values	$139.50
" " " " " " " " " "	346.80
" " " " " " " " " "	77.42
From Kentucky Group, surface workings, gold and silver values	128.00
" " " " " " " " " "	78.00
From Mizpah shafts, tunnels and upraises, gold and silver values	903.95
" " " " " " " " " "	239.77
" " " " " " " " " "	235.46
" " " " " " " " " "	66.97
" " " " " " " " " "	34.21

From the foregoing tests, it will be seen that, leaving out of the calculation our own extensive properties, all of which contain indications of remarkable richness, we are fully justified in expecting sufficient profits from the operation of our five-year lease on the great Mizpah mine alone, to pay enormous dividends to all our stockholders. But to operate them all, with the greatly increased facilities and equipment we intend to add, should give us a production equaled by few mining properties in the world.

We have already found very rich ore in the shallow workings of our Kentucky group to the west, and of our Treasury group to the east of the Mizpah, and we can see no reason why both of these properties should not prove fully as rich as the famous Mizpah mine itself. We are in a district noted for its immense bodies of gold and silver ores, and where deep workings open up vast treasure vaults of mineral wealth.

Additional Equipment Required

In order to more speedily place these splendid properties among the high class producers of the state, and to combine the maximum of production and profit with the minimum of cost, considerable additional equipment is required.

This includes a standard, modern mill, to reduce our ore to bullion and concentrates at the mine, thus saving the transportation and treatment charges of $20 to $30 a ton on the ore to the Salt Lake smelters. To be sure, the ore is of such a high grade character that there is a good profit in mining and shipping it even at these high rates, but it would be better business to save it and add that much more to the net profits, by treating it at our own mill, which, under the circumstances, thus becomes a necessity. With a 100-ton plant, we should easily be able to treat our ore at an expense not to exceed $2.50 per ton, and by adding another unit to its capacity, can still further reduce the cost, and thus save from $17.50 to $27.50 per ton on transportation and treating charges alone—quite an item when figuring the net profits.

The first unit capacity of 100 tons daily, of a standard mill, modern in every way, including stamps, amalgamation, fine grinding, concentration and cyaniding, with a sampler in front, so that ore can be purchased from surrounding properties, and general custom work done if desired, will enable us to add one unit after another as may be required with increased development of the ore bodies. By thus adding to the capacity of the mill, we shall be in a position to treat an immense tonnage daily, and pay dividends accordingly.

We will therefore not only effect a great saving of our present expenditures, but earn a handsome revenue, practically all profit, from the large volume of custom work that would be brought to our mill for treatment and reduction.

We also want to sink a capacious double-compartment shaft in to the permanent ealphide mass at once, first, in order to have the ore bodies opened up for the mill, and secondly, to aid in determining the proper methods of treatment; so that we may build a mill adapted to the character of the ores, and capable of giving the largest returns to the company in the extraction of the gold and silver values.

Novel Plan to Secure Funds

Now, we are quite willing to admit that equipment of the character already mentioned, which will put the properties in the best possible working shape, will cost more money than is available at present, unless we accept the alternative of sacrificing a small portion of our special stock, in order to begin operations on a profitable basis at once.

The officers and directors of the company have therefore decided to adopt this method, and, while limiting the sales to but one-fifth of the capitalization, to surround the sale of every share with a positive safeguard against any possible loss.

We do not know that such an offer has ever before been made, and we expect the amount offered to be over-subscribed several times when the terms of the offer are made known.

First, we limit the amount of stock that will be sold, in order to provide the finds for necessary equipment, to Two Hundred Thousand (200,000) shares, and this is to be positively the last as well as the first, allotment that will be sold at the present low price, of 20 cents a share, as we honestly believe the stock will be good for dividends of not less than one dollar per share annually, after we commence treating 100 tons daily at the mill.

Stock Guaranteed

In order to absolutely protect purchasers of these shares against the possibility of a loss, we have made arrangements with the Metropolis Trust and Savings Bank, of San Francisco, one of the strongest financial institutions in the United States, to guarantee every share of stock sold, and to issue to every purchaser a gold bond for the full amount of his investment, such bond being payable in twenty years, whether the mines pay or not. Therefore, even if the mines never paid a dollar—though we expect them to pay millions—the stockholders cannot possibly lose anything except the interest on their investment, while they stand to win fortunes from the amounts they put into these properties.

The shares offered on these unparalleled terms may be paid for either in cash or in five equal monthly payments, and the money derived there from will be used entirely for the further development and equipment of the properties. The shares will also be traded in on both the New York and Boston exchanges the moment we begin shipping and paying dividends.

The elements of industrial safety and of the speculative profits of gold mining under such extremely favorable conditions, are combined in this enterprise to a greater degree than in any other undertaking within our knowledge or experience, and will appeal with irresistible force to all sensible and conservative people as an opportunity without an equal. It is a case of "heads, you win! tails, you cannot lose." If the mines pay as we believe they will bring to every stockholder, in dividends, many times the amount of his investment. If they do not pay, he gets his money back.

66 Special Prizes

FOR THE PETERBOROUGH POULTRY SHOW NEXT JANUARY.

The Peterborough Poultry Association are receiving a full measure of encouragement, and practical support of their exhibition to be held in this city on January 4th, 5th and 6th next. Their prize list shows 66 specials, including eight silver cups and a $5 gold price, donated by merchants of Peterborough and others. Our citizens are manifestly interested in a good thing, and everything points to January's show eclipsing all previous efforts. The entries are filling up fast and the exhibit of poultry, etc., will unquestionably be a varied and a record one. The entry forms and prize lists may be obtained on application to Mr. John R. Eastwood at the Royal Bank. The $6, $3 and $1 prizes for the best three turkies dressed, promises to be a popular exhibit. Turkeys are to be starved and undrawn, with head, flight and tail feathers left intact.

To stop any pain in twenty minutes, take one of Dr. Shoop's Pink Pain Tablets. See formula on the box. Ask your Doctor or Druggist about this formula. It can't be bettered. Womanly pains, head pains any pain gets instant relief. Box of twenty Pink Pain Tablets, 25c. Sold by all dealers.

The Hospital for Sick Children

REMEMBER That Every Sick Child in Ontario Whose Parents Cannot Afford to Pay for Treatment is Treated Free.

The Hospital for Sick Children had last year in its cots and beds 1,186 patients—

TWO CLUB FOOT CASES IN PLASTER.

263 of these were from 267 places in the Province. Sixty-five per cent. were children of poor people who could not afford to pay.

Since its organization the Institution has treated 16,613 children; 11,350 of these unable to pay and were treated free.

If you know of any child in your neighborhood who is sick or has any deformity send the name of the parent to the Secretary.

The Hospital for Sick Children is not a local but a great Provincial Charity for the sick child of the poor man in any part of Ontario has same claim upon its help as the child who lives within the shadow of its walls in Toronto.

There were 69 cases of Club Foot treated in the Hospital last year and 67 had perfect correction.

THIS APPEAL IS TO YOU!

• Bill's • Sunbonnet

He Thought It Was Kate Who Wore It, but It Wasn't.

By BELLE MANIATES.

Copyright, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.

It was morning in Idaho, and the sun was beaming pleasantly upon Barry Vail as he rode alongside the big irrigating canal that he had been sent to inspect.

"Many settlers on the reservation, Jim?" he asked the foreman.

"They are coming now that they see the canal is a go. The nearest one is Judge Rand. His shack's up yonder. He's in luck. We go right through his ranch."

Judge Rand! Vail wondered if it could be the same man he had known long ago. He concluded it was not possible.

"Which way do I take to his ranch?" he asked.

"He's generally clearing sagebrush this time of day. Follow the canal and you'll likely run on him."

Vail rode on, tilting his sombrero back and humming a love tune. He was in a contemplative mood this morning, and the word "Rand" carried him back to the east, where he had been born and bred, but whose dust he had shaken from his feet five years before. At that time he had been in love with Kate Rand, an imperious, self willed girl. One fateful day she had announced her intention of going to a masquerade in the character and dress of a page. His young, conservative scruples were horrified. He objected, and when she persisted in carrying out her intention his dictatorial attitude moved him to break the engagement. Immediately afterward he secured an appointment as civil engineer in the west. Lately his love affair viewed at long range appeared a very boyish affair.

When he came upon the solitary figure digging doggedly at a resisting root he recognized the man who had come so near being his father-in-law. There were mutual recognitions of pleasure, and then the judge explained that he had been caught in the financial coil of Wall street and had lost all his worldly possessions.

"Just enough left," he said, "to make a payment on 160 acres here, which I shall put to potatoes. The spirit of the west has caught me, Barry. I wouldn't go back into Wall street purgatory for any consideration."

After Vail had related his own experiences and inquired after the fortunes of mutual friends he asked almost sheepishly:

"Did Kate come out here with you?"

The judge was silent for a moment. Then he said, with a sigh:

"Can you picture Kate in the primitive life? She had an opportune invitation to accompany some relatives on a trip abroad."

"And you live out here alone?" exclaimed Vail pityingly.

"No. I have my helper, Bill. We are very comfortable—a little shack for a living room and dining room combined, two sleeping tents and an out of door oven—a place for those parts."

But Vail was not listening. His attention was concentrated on a slender figure that was approaching in the distance. The figure was clad in khaki trousers, blue shirt, a red kerchief and a sunbonnet.

"Who in the world is that?" he asked.

The judge turned hastily and looked confused.

"Oh, that's Bill! I want him to go to the next ranch on an errand for me. Excuse me a moment. I will be back."

He hastened toward the sunbonneted figure, and after a moment's conversation the figure turned and went the way from which it had come.

"Your Bill doesn't look equal to much hard work," observed Vail dryly.

"Bill's all right at farm work or housework," assured the judge. "He's wiry, willing, enduring and, best of all, intensely interested in the development of the ranch."

"You see a good many queer sights in Idaho," remarked Vail, "but I'll swear I never saw a man or lad wearing a sunbonnet."

"Bill lost his one and only sombrero in a reckless ride last week. He went to the nearest ranch to buy or borrow one, but the only superfluous headgear it had was this sunbonnet, to which he is quite attached, as he is a little fearful of sunstrokes."

"Well, I must return to the canal. I intend to be neighborly, judge."

"Of course. Let me see. Come over tomorrow to dinner."

Vail chuckled softly as he rode away.

"I wonder if the judge thought he could string me that way. I have a very firm conviction that Bill is Kate, and, remembering my boyish horror of male attire, the judge headed her off. I suppose he thought he had deceived me with his evasive statement about her trip abroad and invited me tomorrow, when he will take pains to have Bill, alias Kate, absent. I know of no reason why we should not meet in friendly fashion. I know I admire her a thousand times more than I ever did for coming out here and wearing any kind of clothes for working purposes. I'll just go over tonight, whether I am welcome or not, and stay to supper. Fancy the sybarite Kate cooking!"

Late in the afternoon he rode up to the shack, and, as he expected, Bill, clad in feminine attire, was in the doorway. She was a different girl from the handsome, imperious, cynically expressioned Kate he had known. There were the same regular features, the high bred figure, air and pose, but the eyes were full of life, and the mouth curved in almost gentle lines. Her pale face was tinted with ruddy gold.

He wondered what his reception would be, remembering the angry parting.

"I am very glad to see you, Mr. Vail," she said seriously, with extended hand, as he came up to her.

He instantly took the cue, addressed her as Miss Rand and avoided all allusion and reference to the past. He was glad it was to be this way. He wanted to begin acquaintance anew with this womanly Kate.

"You must stay to supper. That's what they call the meal out here. I shall prepare it myself tonight."

"Don't you generally prepare it?" he couldn't help asking.

"No," she said casually. "Bill, the help, cooks, but he is away."

Vail decided to accept the little fiction regarding Bill, and when the judge came home and was informed by his daughter that Bill had been called away for two weeks, which was just the length of time Vail was to be in the vicinity, he never changed expression.

"Ruth," said the judge in reply.

"Ruth!" interrupted Vail in surprise. She smiled.

"Father calls me by my middle name since we came out here. It was my mother's name, and he thinks I am growing to be like her."

After supper, when the judge and Vail had smoked and chatted, a neighbor came to talk planting to the judge.

Barry proposed to Ruth (as he now liked to think of her) that they ride down the course of the canal, and she readily accepted. He remembered how well she used to ride and how well her boyish slimness looked in the saddle. But never in city parks could they have had this glorious canter over the wind swept way on the open plains. They came back in the glory of a western moonlight. When near the shack Barry drew rein.

"Shall we," he asked earnestly, "begin all over again?"

"Yes," she replied in a low tone. "That was what I wanted to ask you to do."

For the next two weeks every moment he could snatch from his work Barry spent at the shack. Feeling that he was depriving the judge of Bill's help, he put in some effective work on the ranch. In his rides, walks and talks with Kate Ruth he felt a sense of intimacy he had never known when with the Kate of olden days.

"Darling," he said impetuously one night after a long silence, "can you forget the past and my boyish superiority? Can you learn to love me again, Kate?"

"Don't!" she cried breathless. "I am not Kate!"

He looked at her in bewilderment.

"I am Kate's younger sister. I was away at school when you knew her, but I used to love to hear about you from father. I didn't know at the first that you mistook me for her. Afterward—well, I was afraid you would not care for me, but you can't have her. She's engaged."

"Just enough left," he said gently, "I don't want Kate. I want you, whether you are Kate, Ruth or Bill."

"Bill?" she interrupted faintly.

"I knew," he laughed. "Bill's sunbonnet gave him away."

Stream of Life.

Life bears us on like the current of a mighty river. Our boat at first glides down the narrow channel, through the playful murmurings of the little brook and the windings of its grassy borders. The trees shed their blossoms over our young heads; the flowers on the brink seem to offer themselves to our young hands; we are happy in hope, and we grasp eagerly at the beauties around us, but the stream hurries on, and still our hands are empty. Our course in youth and manhood is along a wider and deeper flood, amid objects more striking and magnificent. We are animated by the moving pictures of enjoyment and industry passing before us; we are excited by some short lived disappointment. But our energy and our depression are both in vain. The stream bears us on, and our joys and griefs are alike left behind us.

We may be shipwrecked—we cannot be delayed. Whether rough or smooth the river hastens to its home till the roar of the ocean is in our ears and the tossing of the waves is beneath our feet, and the land lessens from our eyes, and the floods are lifted up around us, and we take our leave of earth and its inhabitants until of our further voyage there is no witness save the infinite and eternal.—Exchange.

Tapioca.

This elegant and delicate starch is the product of a plant that is cultivated very extensively in the Malay peninsula, where its culture is almost entirely in the hands of the Chinese. The tubers of the plant (Manihot utilissima), which weigh on an average from ten to twenty-five pounds, are first scraped and then carefully washed, after which they are reduced to a pulp by being passed between rollers. This pulp is carefully washed and shaken up with abundance of water until the feicula separates and passes through a very fine sieve into a tub placed beneath. The flour so obtained is repeatedly washed and then placed on mats and bleached by exposure to the sun and air. It is finally converted into the pearl tapioca of commerce by being placed in a crude shaped frame covered with canvas. It is slightly moistened and subjected to a rotary motion, by which means it is granulated. It is next dried in the sun and finally over the fire in an iron pan greased with vegetable tallow and is then ready for the market.

Not Much by the Day.

Lady—What! Thirty-eight cents a dozen for eggs! Why, that's more than 3 cents for one egg. Grocer—Well, mum, you must remember that one egg is a whole day's work for one hen.—Cleveland Leader

Too Many Sundries.

"We tried keeping an account of our expenditures; but, after all, it didn't give us a very clear idea of where the money went."

"Why not?"

"Both my wife and myself had too many items that we wanted listed as sundries."—Pittsburg Post.

Winter Sports.

Those who like skating and tobogganing, and have in the past patronized the street railway rink and toboggan slide, will be pleased to learn that both will be operated again this winter. The Times made enquiries yesterday and was informed by Mr. Larmouth that the work of getting the rink and slide in operation would be proceeded with as soon as weather conditions warrant it being done.

NEWS OF THE CITY

Local Events Gathered by Times' Reporters.

Servant Girl Wanted.

General servant wanted; an experienced girl for general housework—good plain cook—small family. Apply 526 Water street.

At St. Andrew's.

The Rev. Sam Small will lecture in St. Andrew's church tonight (Thurday), at eight o'clock.

First Cutter Out.

Although barely enough snow fell to cover the ground on Tuesday there was one man who possessed sufficient courage to put in an appearance on the streets with a cutter, the first of the season.

The greatest danger from influenza is of its resulting in pneumonia. This can be obviated by using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, as it not only cures influenza, but counteracts any tendency of the disease towards pneumonia. 11

Chief is Away.

Fire Chief Howard is in Ottawa attending the funeral of the Ottawa chief who passed away on Wednesday after a long illness. Chief Howard will return home tomorrow morning.

Ashburnham Fire.

A chimney on Mr. Fred Cook's residence in Ashburnham, took fire last night about seven o'clock, but the firemen needed only a couple of chemicals to extinguish the blaze.

The old, old story, told times without number, and repeated over and over again for the last 30 years, but it is always a welcome story to those in search of health—There is nothing in the world that cures coughs and colds as quickly as Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. 10

River Frozen.

The Otonabee river is frozen over, and a day or two more of zero weather will make it safe enough for the small boy to risk his life on. The river opposite the old goose pond will make an ideal skating rink if the snow keeps off. It is now like a sheet of glass.

Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of St. Paul's church, will be held in the Sunday school room of the church on Friday afternoon, December 10th, at 3.30 o'clock. Miss Heardman of India, will address the meeting. All women are invited. Members will meet for the election of officers at 3 o'clock in the Guild room.

At Curling Rink.

If the present weather continues for a few days the curlers will get busy with their brooms before Christmas. Mr. Archie McIntosh, the veteran ice maker, has already started to prepare the foundation. The Curling Club this season have a very bright prospect and the members are all anxious to get started at the roarin' game.

Concert Postponed.

The second of the series of band concerts, which was to have been given in the Conservatory Music Hall tonight has been postponed, owing to an accident to one of the bandsmen. Announcement of the date will be given later and persons holding tickets can have their money refunded or else keep them until the concert, when they will be honored.

Survey Party.

During the winter a survey will be made of Rice Lake under the direction of Mr. Alex. Grant. The work which has been started will be done over the ice and the entire lake will be covered. The purpose is to secure detailed information of the lake as a section of the Trent canal system. The river between Peterborough and the lake also is being surveyed. Mr. Mack, who is now at Hastings, will be the engineer in immediate charge of the work.

Deserving Case.

A case of deserving charity is that of two children, the oldest of whom is three years of age and who are in need of heavy clothing now that winter has set in. The parents are not in a position to provide the necessary garments for the severities a Canadian winter and as there are many people throughout the city who could undoubtedly assist them by gifts of the clothing desired. Mrs. F. Miller, Water street, who has been assisting the family, will accept any donations of clothing that will be suitable for children.

Local Man to Extend His Business.

Mr. A. W. Edwards, proprietor of the Crystal, returned home yesterday after a week's absence. He visited Collingwood, Windsor, Owen Sound and other places. During this trip Mr. Edwards was accompanied by his partner in the Crystal, Mr. Oscar Rumpell, the capitalist of Berlin, Ont. The object of their trip was to secure location for opening another theatorium similar to the Crystal. Mr. Edwards informs The Times that he and Mr. Rumpell secured options in two or three places in various towns and cities visited

A sprained ankle will usually disable the injured person for three or four weeks. This is due to lack of proper treatment. When Chamberlain's Liniment is applied a cure may be effected in three or four days. This liniment is one of the best and most remarkable preparations in use. 12

Small Fire.

The residents in the block over MacGregor & Reid's old stand and adjoining it were given a scare last night and as a result sent in an alarm from box 23 and the firemen responded. It was discovered that a fresh fire had been kindled in MacGregor & Reid's furnace and the down draft caused the smoke to back up and filled the rooms above. No damage resulted.

IN SOCIETY

The Times will be pleased to receive notices of Weddings, Social Events, Personal Announcements, which will be published in this column free of charge

Mr. L. Rush, Owen Sound, is in the city.

Miss Gwendoline Farrar of Kingston, is the guest of Miss Emma Ward.

Mr. Geo. B. Hilliard of Lakefield, was in the city yesterday and gave The Times a call.

Mr. Ira Snelgrove of St. Thomas, who was a former resident, was in the city yesterday.

The Rev. Samuel W. Small, D.D., is the guest at St. Andrew's manse, and leaves today for Cobourg, where he lectures tonight.

Miss Ruby Beaton has retutned to her position with Dr. Browett, at the Optical Institute, after an extended visit with her sister, Mrs. C. E. Mapother, New York City.

Miss Josephine Sproule, who until recently was with a vaudeville company, playing the "Devil and Tom Walker," is on a visit to Mr. and Mrs. John Haggart, Brock street, having been called here from San Francisco, owing to the illness of her mother.

Mr. Cecil and Mr. Arthur Wainwright of Toronto, are expected in town shortly to spend the Christmas holidays with their mother, Mrs. Stowe Wainwright. Mr. Bertie Wainwright is also coming from Peterborough, and Mr. Darrell Wainwright from Port Hope.—Ottawa Citizen.

Mr. H. A. Hodgson, of the firm of Hodgson Bros. & Rowson, Montreal, was in the city last evening, the guest of Rev. J. R. Webb. Mr. Hodgson's firm have been the largest cheese exporters of Canada for a number of years, and are represented in Peterborough, by Ald. Geo. A. Gillespie, of the firm of White & Gillespie.

Little—Northey.

A very pleasant event took place on Wednesday evening at the residence of Mr. James Northey, Queen street, Lakefield, when his daughter, Pearl B., was united in marriage to Mr. Henry A. Little of Hall's Glen. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Bedford in the presence of a few of the immediate friends of the contracting parties. They were attended only by Misses Myrtle and Ella Northey, sister and niece of the bride as pretty little flower girls, while Miss Stella Northey played the wedding march. The bride was given away by her father, and was charmingly attired in a beautiful gown of cream collenne over silk embroidered with organge blossoms and pearls, wearing tulle veil and carrying a shower bouquet of white roses.

While congratulation s were being extended Mr. Ira Snelgrove, of St. Thomas, brother of the groom, sang "The Crown," by Rae, after which the wedding supper was served. The bride was the recipient of a large array of beautiful presents, the groom's present being a black Persian lamb coat and bracelets to the flower girls. Mr. and Mrs. Little will reside at Hall's Glen, where they will be followed by the good wishes of their many friends.

Coughs that are tight, or distressing tickling coughs, get quick and certain help from Dr. Sheop's Cough Remedy. On this account Druggists everywhere are favoring Dr. Sheop's Cough Remedy. And it is entirely free from Opium, Chloroform, or any other stupefying drug. The tender leaves of a harmless lung-healing mountainous shrub give to Dr. Sheop's Cough Remedy its curative properties. These leaves have the power to calm the most distressing Cough, and to soothe, and heal the most sensitive bronchial membranes. Mothers should, for safety's sake please, always demand Dr. Sheop's. It can with perfect freedom be given to even the youngest babes. Trust it, keep yourself, and cool Sold by all dealers.

NOTICE.

TAKE NOTICE that the Municipal Council of the Corporation of the City of Peterborough intends to construct a sewer on Antrim street between the Grand Trunk Railway and the westerly limit of lot 5 north of Antrim street and west of George street, and intends to assess a portion of the final cost thereof upon the real property to be immediately benefitted thereby fronting or abutting upon the said part of the said street. A statement showing the lands liable to and proposed to be specially assessed for the said work, and the names of the owners thereof, so far as the same can be ascertained from the last revised assessment roll and otherwise is now filed in the office of the Clerk of the Municipality and is open for inspection during office hours. The estimated cost of the work is $207.80 of which will be charged to the property benefitted The number of annual assessments will be thirty.

A COURT OF REVISION will be held on the 24th day of December, 1909, at the hour of 4 o'clock in the afternoon at the City Clerk's Office, for the purpose of hearing complaints against the proposed assessment or the accuracy of frontage measurements or any other complaints which the person interested may desire to make and which is by law cognizable by the Court.

Dated at Peterborough the 9th day of December, 1909.

Rupture

Danger of Death. How to avoid it.

In my last article when I was announcing the coming of Mr. A. Claverie, the distinguished European Specialist, I have said that Rupture was a disease to be dreaded.

I have since received several letters inquiring if the disease was really as dangerous as I had stated.

I hasten to reply that rupture is one of the most FEARFUL INFIRMITIES known, although most of those who suffer from it are not aware of it.

Not to speak of the inconveniences of the pains it causes, the Rupture, if it is not supported, or if it is wrongly supported, which is just as bad, is bound finally to INCREASE more or less regularly until it attains FEARFUL PROPORTIONS.

From that time digestion is bad, the appetite decreases, the patient becomes weak until he is unable to work or even to move. It is old age when yet young, it means the shattering to pieces of all the strength of the patient.

And yet, there is something more terrible in sight; a scrotal rupture. It threatens the SMALL as well as the large ruptures.

All of a sudden, the ring which allows a passage to the rupture sharply tightens, and this without any apparent cause, and if at this moment the rupture is protruding outwards it is CHOKED, STRANGLED and cannot be pressed back; this means DEATH WITHIN 24 HOURS.

One may judge how urgent it is to take the most earnest precautions when one suffers from Rupture.

But it is not by wearing ordinary trade trusses that one may be protected against such terrible danger because these trusses are in most instances unable to support perfectly the Rupture and maintain the bowels in their proper place.

This question of treatment of Rupture is a serious and grave problem for science and not traders to solve. It is then only through science and perfected appliances that good results can be secured.

And, for these reasons, I cannot too strongly recommend to my readers not to fail to go and see Mr. A. Claverie, the specialist known in the whole world when he will visit your city.

His Method and his Apparatus have the endorsation of the highest medical authorities and have been SUFFERERS, the world over.

His last creation specially, solves the question of the system of palliative cure definitely and it is impossible to count now the many desperate cases that have been relieved and even cured.

You will thus go and see Mr. A. Claverie as you will surely find with him, safety and cure.

Dr. NAMY.

Mr. Andrew Claverie will be in Peterborough on Wednesday the 15th and on Thursday the 16th of December.

He will receive at the Oriental Hotel from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. and from 6 p. m. to 9 p. m.

All advice given free. Absolute secrecy.

Special attention for ladies.

OBITUARY.

The death occurred at Bobeaygeon Wednesday of Mrs. James Atchison, after an illness of two weeks from pleurisy and pneumonia. She was sixty-one years of age and was born in Ireland. Previous to removing to Bobeaygeon twenty years ago she was a resident of Peterborough. She was a woman of many estimable qualities and was highly respected by all who knew her. Her husband predeceased her three years ago.

Two sons and one daughter, Messrs. Wm. West of this city, and M. J. Atchison and Miss Maud Atchison of Bobeaygeon and one sister, Miss Maggie Lowry of Peterborough, are left to mourn her loss.

The remains will arrive here today on the 11.26 C.P.R. train and the funeral will take place to St. Peter's cathedral, and thence to the Roman Catholic cemetery.

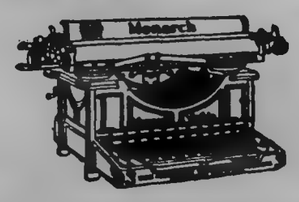
AN ALL PURPOSE TYPEWRITER



Every business requires a typewriter that writes all the office detail, letters, card records, special monthly or yearly reports, invoices and statements, this and that—everything.

There is but one machine that will do such work,—one with a wide carriage.

But no typewriter with a long carriage that shifts up and down for capital letters is fitted for such duties. There is too much strain, too much wasted energy.

The MONARCH VISIBLE, with its new and common sense way of printing capitals, with its light, rigid, swiftly running carriage, is the ideal machine.

It's the best and most economical long carriage typewriter made.

If we had your address we would send you convincing literature.

CANADA'S GOOD CREDIT.

London, Dec. 3.—A sharp rise is recorded in Canadian 3½ per cent. in consequence of the placing of Canadian treasury bills, amounting to £2,000,000, on the market. While reason of a fresh loan have been circulating, the bills have been placed on terms thoroughly favorable to the Dominion Government.

The Standard remarks, that, having regard to the present monetary conditions, it thinks the Canadian Government is to be congratulated. Strictly, upon its policy of raising money at the present time in short-term [illegible], rather than stock,

The following letter signed by the President of the Taxi-Service Company explains the purpose of the Company :—

J. O. Walsh & Company, 1 Madison av., New York :—

The Taxi-Service Company was organized under the laws of New Jersey, in February, 1909, to take over the business of William H. Sealch Company, which operated taxicabs and horse drawn vehicles at the Waldorf-Astoria, Holland House, Hotel Walcott, Seville and Manhattan Hotels. The William H. Sealch Company had been operated for over 40 years as a high grade livery business.

In April, 1909, this company took over the Herter Taxameter Cab Company, which operate taxicabs at the Grand Hotel, Ballenaire, Healy's Restaurant (Corner 56th street and Columbus Avenue) and the Marseille.

The company has :—

50 Baltas Taxicabs.
20 American Locomotive Taxicabs.
2 American Locomotive Touring Cars.
75 Horses.
200 Horse drawn Vehicles

of different styles, suitable to operation of this business.

The company leases from Mr. W. H. Sealch one of the finest garages and livery stables in the city of New York. It is located at 142 East 51st street. It is a six story and basement, brick, iron and cement building, thoroughly equipped for the care and repair of both motor and horse drawn vehicles.

I enclose you herewith a statement showing the capitalization, dividends, gross earnings and expenses of the company for eight and one-half months of its operation, from February 15 to October 1, 1909. I also enclose you a list of the stands at which we are now operating.

The company has paid since its organization dividends at the rate of 7 per cent per annum, or 1¾ per cent. quarterly, on its preferred stock, which is cumulative and preferred both as to assets and dividends.

The Company has paid on its common stock 4 per cent. per annum, or 1 per cent. quarterly since its organization, payable February 15, May 15, August 15 and November 15. The depreciation which we have charged to operating expenses is sufficiently large to replace all of the cabs within four years from the date of their purchase. The Company has not as yet had the benefit of the best part of the year's business, owing to the fact that the summer months are always dull in this line of business, due to the absence from the city of a great number of people who ordinarily use cabs. Also the better weather which prevails during the summer decreases the business to a certain extent.

The Company has not yet received the benefit of its full equipment, as a considerable amount has not as yet been delivered. I conservatively estimate that the operation of this additional equipment will add 40 to 50 per cent to the net earnings.

Yours very truly,
(Signed) HARLAN W. WHIPPLE, President.

The following report, rendered by William Dillon & Company, Certified Public Accountants, of 50 Congress St., Boston, Mass., shows the condition of the Company on November 10, 1909.

Mr. H. W. Whipple, President,
Taxi-Service Company,
234 Fifth Avenue, City.

Dear Sir:—

I have compiled the following statement of the Taxi-Service Company of New Jersey and certify the same as correct :—

ASSETS.

EQUIPMENT, consisting of taxicabs, touring cars, horses, carriages, harnesses,	$1,326,422.56
CAPITAL STOCK TAXI-SERVICE COMPANY OF NEW YORK at par	10,000.00
ACCOUNTS RECEIVABLE (GOOD) and CASH	66,266.26
Total	$1,399,688.82

LIABILITIES.

MORTGAGE BONDS, Item on a part of the equipment	$93,000.00
ACCOUNTS PAYABLE	414.70
CAPITAL STOCK PREFERRED, outstanding and entitled to dividends	199,800.00
CAPITAL STOCK COMMON, outstanding and entitled to dividends	1,146,169.00
SURPLUS	20,173.44
Total	$1,399,688.82

The company has received in net profits from operating $66,836.42 since the commencement of business, February 15, 1909, to October 31, 1909.

It has paid two dividends out of earnings, the first being $19,466.66, which was at the rate of 7 per cent. on Preferred and 4 per cent on Common, and the second was $21,867.66, being at the same rates.

Yours very truly,
(Signed) WM. DILLON.
Certified Public Accountants.

From the above report it will be seen that this Company, which has been in operation only eight and one-half months, has made a very remarkable showing, and with approximately only one-half of its equipment in operation. The Company operates Taxicabs from the best stands in New York city, which are as follows :—

British Election Campaign Now in Full Swing

London, Dec. 11.—Persons in the United States, where the presidential campaign usually have a depressing effect upon business, will be surprised to learn that in Great Britain almost every trade and profession is pleased with the prospect of a general election. So seriously has business been affected by the budget controversy that the stimulus to certain branches of trade which a general election always provides is a welcome relief as it provides temporary employment at least for many thousand extra workers. It is estimated that before the campaign now on comes to a close a total of between $15,000,000 and $20,000,000 will change hands. The expenses of the candidates will amount to millions.

In addition to the candidates' ordinary election expenses immense sums will be expended by the various political organizations in propagating their views. The newspapers are full of articles, speeches and letters for and against the budget and defending or denouncing the action of the House of Lords, while already a stupendous quantity of election literature has been issued from the headquarters of the various party organizations. Political tracts are flying about the country in unprecedented numbers.

Ten million dollars is conservatively estimated as the amount that will be expended by the various political organizations in propagating their views. These organizations include the National Union of Conservative Associations, Liberal Federation, etc.

Tom Longboat Arrived

Tom Longboat and his manager, Sol Mintz, arrived in the city last night and are staying at the Oriental Hotel. Tom is in better shape today than he has been for a long time. Physically he never was better, and as the cold weather advances he improves in condition and his speed is developing all the time.

The Caledonian Indian, the greatest distance runner the world has ever known, and the pride of all true Canadians will meet Billy Sherring, the first Canadian who ever won a Marathon race. Sherring is a wonderful runner. These two men, truely the fastest runners at a distance, this country has produced, will be seen in Brock street rink tonight in a 10-mile race. That the race will be fast is assured. That Peterborough sports will see a good race is equally sure.

Longboat, with his manager, called at The Times last night soon after the arrival in the city and one of the first things Tom said was, "How is Fred Simpson?" Then he wanted to know how far it was to Hiawatha. Upon learning that it was fourteen miles he said, "That's a little too far to walk tonight."

In speaking of the race Tom had not much to say. He never did talk very much. But in referring to Sherring he said, "Sherring is a hard nut."

There is one thing about an Indian, that is, they are slow to mature. Deerfoot was 36 years of age before he was at his best and from that on for several years he made records. Longboat is today only 23 years of age, yet his record for the even 25 miles made in Boston is 2 hours, 24 mins., 24 secs., stands good today. Longboat also has to his credit the record of winning of three full distance Marathon races in one month. He has out of his winnings built a fine home in Toronto, a large general store on the reserve in Caledonia and he has a few shillings besides. He is still making money and he will make a lot more before his best days are over. He is married and is enjoying life.

BOARD OF TRADE.

Will Discuss Bylaws, etc., on Tuesday Night.

An important meeting of the Board of Trade will be held on Tuesday night next, December 14th, in the Council Chamber, and it is hoped that a large number of citizens will avail themselves of the opportunity of becoming acquainted with municipal matters of the present moment. The business for this meeting is announced as business matters, bylaws, etc. The election day is not far away now, and it will not be long until the ratepayers will be again casting their ballots on the municipal sheet. As there are a number of important bylaws to be presented to the people this year the Board of Trade has deemed it advisable to call this meeting in order that the electors will be able to discuss the different measures and that they will go to the polls with a clear idea of the bylaws on which they are going to vote.

SALE OF WORK.

The results of the "Sale of Work" at the "Margaret Cox Home for Girls" (Dr. Barnardo's Home)) on Thursday were very gratifying, to those interested in its success. Many who have known the Home in former years took this opportunity of seeing the alterations and improvements recently carried out there, and testified to their interest by liberal purchases at the stalls, and in several instances by kind donations. The sale will be continued on Saturday afternoon, December 11th. There will be many dainty articles suitable for Christmas gifts, also dolls, home made candies, etc. The proceeds will be devoted to the purchase of a new organ for the girls' Assembly Hall. Saturday, December 11th, 3 p.m. to 9 p.m.

BY ACCLAMATION.

Rumors Afloat That Ald. Morrow Will Not Be Opposed.

It begins to look now, so far as the council is concerned, as though Ald. W. G. Worrow, chairman of the Finance Committee, would get the mayoralty by acclamation. On the streets yesterday and last night several of those on the inside stated that they did not look for a fight for the mayor's chair. There is a possibility that such a thing might happen, although in the early stages it was considered almost impossible. There is one thing sure, if Ald. Morrow was elected by acclamation or in a contest the city's interests would be well looked after. He has had several years' experience in the council and his wide business experience particularly fits him for the position. There is however, plenty of time for this latest rumor to be completely changed.

THE WEATHER.

North and east winds; snow before night.

BLUEBELLS

Why I Quit the Whiskey Men

(A True Story.)

One fine morning, as I was leisurely walking down Main Street, with no particular object in view, my attention was attracted to a little bootblack. Some one in passing had dropped or carelessly thrown away a small bunch of bluebells. My attention was first attracted to the little fellow by his stooping to pick them up, but what was my amusement to see him tenderly kiss them and then carefully fasten them in the button-hole of his faded jacket. My curiosity was aroused. I made up my mind to quiz the boy, so I walked up to him and asked him for a shine. I looked at the boy carefully: he was very small and very poorly dressed, he was pale and thin, and the large blue eyes looked as if they were full of unshed tears.

"Half a dime," he said when he had put a final polish on my shoes.

I took out a quarter, and said, as I balanced it on my forefinger. "Here is ten cents for the shine and fifteen cents for the flowers," pointing to the bluebells in his button-hole.

He put his small hand over the flowers quickly, and gave a quick gasp.

"No, sir; I can't sell them; if I was starving I wouldn't sell a bluebell."

"And why not, my little man?" I inquired.

He looked at me so piteously that I was almost sorry I had asked him. I put my hand on his head and said:

"Excuse me for asking; you need not tell me unless you wish to, and you can keep the quarter besides."

He looked up at me a moment and then said: "I like you, and if you care to listen I'll tell you."

"Of course I am anxious to hear why you love the bluebells."

"I will commence at the first and tell it all to you, but first let us go down there and sit down," pointing to some dry goods boxes not far from where we stood.

We went, and after seating, ourselves on a small box behind some larger ones where we would not be observed, he took the bluebell bouquet and holding it in his hand, began by saying:

"It is just a year ago this month, and it has been such a long year I thought the bluebells never would come," and then he stopped and put his hands over his eyes as if trying to shut out some horrid sight; I did not interrupt his reverie. Presently he took down his hand, and said abruptly:

"My father was a drunkard. We once owned some fine property, I've heard mother say, but that was before I was born, for we have always been poor as far back as I can remember. Mother says that father drank up the farm, the oxen, horses, sheep, cows, hogs, furniture, and everything else. We got so poor mother had to go out and wash by the day to get food for Bess and me to eat. We lived in a little log-house, a quarter of a mile from any one; it was about half a mile to town. Mother used to walk to town every day, except Saturday, to wash for somebody. On Saturday she washed for ourselves and ironed on Sunday."

"Sunday is the Lord's day. Your mother certainly didn't work on the Sabbath!"

"Yes, sir; she had to. Mother said the Lord made six days for the saloon-keeper and one for Himself, but He forgot to make a day for the drunkard's wife. She said the saloon-keeper had confiscated the Lord's day, but she had hoped the Lord would consider her circumstances and forgive her for working on the Sabbath. She said if there were no saloons she would not have to work on Sunday. There were just four of us, father, mother, Baby Bess and Willie, that is me."

"So your name is Willie, is it? but go on with your story."

"Well, as I said, mother was away all day, and sometimes she would not get home until after dark; she was not very strong, and sometimes she had big washings, and sometimes we didn't have much to eat, because the ladies mother washed for din't have the right change, or they would forget to ask their husbands for it. Mother always hated to ask for money after she had earned it; she said it did seem as if they ought to know that she needed the money, or she would not wash for it, and it generally happened that when one didn't have the change none of them did, so sometimes we got awful hungry while we were waiting for folks to pay us."

"Why didn't your mother ask for her money? It was hers after she earned it."

"She was afraid to, for sometimes they would get mad and say she didn't half wash their clothes, and then they would hunt up a new washerwoman. It was one of those weeks when nobody had any change. It was Friday morning; we had very little to eat on Thursday, and on Friday morning there was only a plate of cornmeal and about two spoonfuls of molasses. Mother baked the meal into bread, and told me to feed the baby when she woke, and to keep a sharp lookout for father; he was in town on a big spree: he was awfully cross when he was drinking; it was not safe for him to get his hands on us, so we always hid when we saw him coming, if mother was not at home. Little Bessie would nearly go into fits when she saw him coming home drunk. Don't let Bess cry if you can help it, Willie, I am afraid I won't get home until after dark tonight. Mrs. Gray always has such large washings; but I will come as soon as I can, and will bring provisions, for I must have some money tonight or we will starve." She kissed Baby Bess as she lay asleep, and then kissed me at the door. 'Be a good boy, Willie, and take care of little sister." Bessie slept a long time that morning, and I passed the time in sitting by her, and going to the door to watch for father. When she woke up she said the first thing, 'Baby is so hungry, Willie, get

Big Car Ferry Missing--Forty Hours Overdue at Port Stanley

Trip Only Takes Five Hours--Twenty-Five Persons on Board--Three Lake Erie Disasters--Car Ferry May Possibly be at Rondeau, Ontario

THREE LAKE ERIE DISASTERS

S.S. W. C. Richardson, lost off Buffalo, with nine persons, three being adrift in a yawl, probably drowned.

S.S. Clarion, burned at Pt. Peles, Ont., two dead, and thirteen adrift in a steel lifeboat, probably dead from exposure.

S.S. Conneat, 40 hours overdue, and probably wrecked with loss of about 30 persons, off Long Point, Ont.

Other minor wrecks are:

S.S. Seneca, disabled off Bar Point Amherstburg, Ont.

Steam Barge Munro, aground off South East Shoal, Pt. Pelee, Ont.

Cleveland, Ohio, Dec. 10.—The car ferry Conneaut of the Marquette and Bessemer Railway, plying between Conneaut, Ohio, and Port Stanley, Ont., is reported missing. She is forty hours overdue.

Capt. Benson Fox, of the steamer W. C. Davock, reported to the Cleveland owners at noon today by wireless that he passed wreckage off Long Point, Ont., and asked if any vessel had been reported missing.

This is near the course of the car ferry, and it is feared that she has foundered in the storm that has been sweeping Lake Erie for the past 48 hours.

The Conneat carried a crew of 30 and possibly a few passengers.

The boat was in command of Capt. R. R. McLeod, of Conneaut, and carried a crew of 30 men.

The steamer Davock reported passing through wreckage of Long Point on the Canadian shore and officials of the Marquette here feel sure this was from the missing car ferry. Overturned lifeboats seen by the crew of the Davock were similar to those carried by the missing car ferry.

CANADIANS AMONG CREW.

Port Stanley, Dec. 10.—The car ferry Conneaut, which is two days overdue here, left the other side of the lake on Wednesday evening and has not been reported since. The trip usually takes less than six hours, the vessel making two daily. Her crew was composed of Canadians as well as Americans, three or four of them being citizens of Port Stanley.

The Conneaut was a big boat, probably 340 feet long, and would carry 30 big cars of coal with the cars themselves, at a time.

A rumor went around town that she put in at Rondeau, but it hardly seems likely that she could have been driven fifty miles beyond her destination. Of course to avoid a cross sea she might have gone further down the lake.

A good deal of anxiety is naturally felt here.

Long Point is an island nearly 20 miles long, south of Port Dover. Conneaut is about 60 miles east of Cleveland and near the Pennsylvania border.

IS NOT AT RONDEAU.

Rondeau, Dec. 10.—There are no boats in the harbor here, let alone the car ferry Conneaut.

ENGLISH VISITORS.

Called at Leading Peterborough Manufacturing Concerns.

Mr. E. Mackay Edgar, a partner of the London Banking House of Sperling and Co., with a number of prominent Englishmen, the largest manufacturing establishments, among them being the Canadian General Electric Co., and the Brinton Carpet Company. Other members of the party were Sir George Pressott, another member of the same firm and Mr. B. J. L. Bosanquet, of London. They arrived in Peterborough in the morning on a special car of luxurious equipment and furnishings and with dining apartment provided. They have been visiting some of the prominent Canadian cities for the purpose of securing a personal interview with manufacturers and of visiting the leading Canadian manufactories. The Electrical Development Plant at Niagara Falls was visited and inspected. The party will sail for home from New York about the end of December.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

Court Chemong Held Its Annual Meeting.

The semi-monthly meeting of Court Chemong, No. 530, Independent Order of Foresters was held in the S.O.E. Hall this week. A number of applications for membership were received and after the general business was disposed of, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year.

P.C.R.—W. G. McKee.
C.R.—F. C. Rooke.
V.C.R.—J. R. Browlee.
Rec.-Sec.—J. W. Buyers.
Fin.-Sec.—G. W. Powell.
Treasurer—Wm. Madill.
Orator—G. H. Robertson.
Organist—Mr. H. J. McCannan.
S.W.—F. P. Clark.
J.W.—H. J. Powell.
S.B.—F. Davis.
J.B.—N. T. Lawson.
C.D.—D. Wallace.
Physician—Dr. D. N. Carmichael.
Finance Committee—A. Allison, A. J. Longland.

The officers will be installed in their respective chairs of office on Thuesday, January 13th, and a banquet will be held the same evening, to which the members and their wives and daughters are invited.

LOCAL OPTION AND THE T.A.S.

The widespread character of the present prohibition movement, and its growing strength with all classes of the community, is well exemplified by some significant facts which are discussed in the Keystone Citizen. Here is an extract showing the attitude of increasing hostility which leading Catholic clergymen and laymen are adopting in relation to the bar-room peril.

The growth of the Catholic Total Abstince Society and its wonderful influence, not only over its own membership, but upon society in general, needs to be mentioned as one of the indications of the growth of the temperance cause. Numerous Catholic clergymen, ranging from Cardinal Gibbons, through archbishop, bishops and priests, have pronounced not only against drunkenness, but for the kind of temperance that is opposed to the saloon system.

Were it simply a question of individual habit, no doubt many of these, especially those of foreign birth, would still be inclined to tolerate the traffic, but when the saloon became a center of lawlessness and debauchery, when it undertook to control legislation and government, when it sought to be king in the field of politics, then the Catholic Church began to divorce itself from any complicity with this unholy traffic.

In many local option elections Catholic priests and laymen are standing side by side with members of other denominations in opposition to the liquor traffic. Our Catholic brethren will soon put some others to shame in the race of the people of God to overthrow the liquor traffic.

Coughs that are tight, or distressing tickling coughs, get quick and certain help from Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. On this account Druggists everywhere are favoring Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. And it is entirely free from Opium, Chloroform, or any other stupefying drug. The tender leaves of a harmless lung-healing mountainous shrub give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy its curative properties. Those leaves have the power to calm the most distressing Cough and to soothe and heal the most sensitive bronchial membrane. Mothers should, for safety's sake, alone, always demand Dr. Shoop's. It can with perfect freedom be given to even the youngest babes! Test it once yourself and see! Sold by all dealers.

Terrible Wife Murder by Buffalo Italian

Buffalo, Dec. 10.—After shooting to death his wife, Sebastina, early today, dragging her body into an alleyway and hacking it to pieces with a knife, Collegro Solazzo, 26, an Italian laborer, eluded pursuers, and is sought by the police. The tragedy occurred at the home of Mary Gumbino 512 Seneca street, who had befriended the murdered woman since Solazzo and his wife separated last week. The cause of the tragedy is unknown.

Can Brantford Give a Majority of 900?

Brantford, Dec. 10.—The question now is, "Can Brantford roll up a majority of 900 for the local option bylaw on January 1st?"

In the past its record on temperance matters has been good. On the Provincial referendum of 1894 it recorded a majority of 1,011 in favor of prohibition; on the Dominion plebiscite of 1898 the majority was 429; and on the second Provincial referendum of 1902 the majority was 943.

In view of these circumstances, together with the fact that for the past year there has been an active campaign in favor of the abolition of the bar, it is thought that there is a prospect of rolling up a majority in the neighborhood of 900 or more in favor of the bylaw. In any event it is admitted on all sides that there will be a majority favorable to the measure. The only ground for difference of opinion is in regard to the size.

Suffragettes Hid in Every Possible Place

London, Dec. 10.—A small band of daring suffragettes was dislodged today from Albert Hall, where the women secreted themselves last night preparatory to an onslaught upon Premier Asquith, who is to lunch at the Liberal Club tonight.

The women were hidden away in all quarters of the vast building, some in packing cases and others on the roof. One was found curled up inside the huge organ, squeezed between rows of pipes.

The Government officials had scented danger and organized a force of beaters who searched every cranny of the building and spent hours in the game of hide and seek before the promoters of tonight's meeting was satisfied that the intruders had been cleared out.

AT THE OPERA HOUSE.

Every Citizen Will Have a Chance to Hear Seaborn Wright.

Owing to the large number wishing to hear the Hon. Seaborn Wright a address on "The Regulation of the Liquor Traffic," the place of meeting has been changed from St. Paul's church to the Grand Opera House, and is billed for Tuesday, Dec. 14th at 8 p.m.

Doors will be open at 7.30 to give every chance for the public to secure their seats.

It is most interesting to know that the Hon. Seaborn Wright was the originator of the dispensary system, and is well qualified to deal with this important and problematic question.

AT THE Y.W.C.A.

A very enjoyable time was spent at the Y.W.C.A. last night. There was a large crowd present and a splendid program was given.

The two basketball games provided considerable amusement, the first game was between the Beavers, captained by Agnus Eastwood, and the Maples captained by Kathaline Moore, the Beavers won by a score of 24 to 8.

The second game was between the Whites and the Reds, the former winning by a score of 14 to 4. Miss Gladys Duncan captained the Whites, and Miss Alice Lundy the Reds.

The march drill and wand and whoop drills were splendid and elicited much applause.

CURED CONSTIPATION QUICKLY.

Tells of a Remedy That is Safe for Young and Old, for All Stomach and Bowel Troubles.

Writing from his home in Barcelona, Mr. Frederick G. Mayer states: "I think no one ever suffered as severely from constipation as I did for near,y six months. So many serious symptoms were developing as a consequence of this evil condition of the system, that I realized I must find a remedy. The strong pills of various kinds I tried seemed after their first effects were over to make me fap worse and I did not know which way to turn for relief. I saw Dr. Hamilton's Pills advertised, and the first box used satisfied me I found a true remedy. Instead of griping by undue activity, Dr. Hamilton's Pills acted as naturally as if physic had not been taken. I never had to increase the dose, and, indeed, within a month I reduced it and when the system finally acted of its own accord as a result of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, I took a dose twice a week obly, just to make sure the old condition would not come back.

No otherremedy cures constipation and billiousness so easily or safely as Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they are an ideal family remedy for all diseases of the stomach, liver and bowels. Sold in 25c. boxes, all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

Heaviness at Pit of the Stomach

A Feeling of Uneasiness Before and After Meals is Quickly Cured With Nerviline.

Nearly everyone gets an occasional attack of indigestion and knows just what that heavy feeling means in the stomach. "I was subject to stomach derangements and my health was seriously hampered on this account. After meals I belched gas, had a weighty sensation in my stomach and over my left side. The first relief I got was from Nerviline—I used it three times a day and was cured. I continue to use Nerviline occasionally, and find it is a wonderful aid to the stomach and digestive organs."

NERVILINE RESTORES WEAK STOMACHS

The above letter comes from Mrs. P. R. Stetson, wife of an important merchant in Brockton, and still further proof of the exceptional power of Nerviline is furnished by A. E. Rossman, the well-known upholsterer of Chester, who writes: "Let everyone with a bad stomach use 'Nerviline,' and I am sure there will be few sufferers left. I used to have cramps, rumbling noises and gas on my stomach and severe fits of indigestion. Nerviline was the only remedy that gave me relief, and I found it so entirely satisfactory that I would like to have my letter of recommendation published broadcast in order that others may profit by my experience."

OIL A LIVE ISSUE IN CANADA TODAY.

To the investing public there is constantly being offered a variety of Silver and Gold propositions that have in many cases unquestionable values, but a new investment is finding favor with the Canadian public at the present time in the shape of Oil, and this investment appears to be rapidly gaining in favor as the possibilities in oil are becoming more thoroughly understood. With the mention of Oil, an American Company known the world over for its energetic undertakings and its enormous wealth appears inseparable, and there is no doubt that greater fortunes have been made in the oil industry than in any other in the world.

Canada's richest resource is Oil and the late Dr. Dawson, geologist, described the oil fields of Alberta as the greatest defined undeveloped oil fields in the world, and in that district known as the "Pincher Creek" oil district in Southern Alberta. Alfred R. C. Selwyn, C.M.G., LL.D. recommended drilling for oil on a property now owned by the "Pincher Creek Oil & Refining Co.

As a matter of fact, oil of a very superior quality has been located and is running off the property at the present time. The ground surrounding the casing of the two wells already sunk is saturated with oil and there is every possibility that further sinking will produce quantities of oil assuring the Company's Commercial success.

Mr. John Herron M. P. of "Pincher Creek" is President of this Company and has associated with him a most reliable board of Directors.

Mr. Herron's connection is due to what Dr. Dawson told him of that district while exploring its resources.

Tell Some Sick One

It Is Free If It Fails.

Will you do an act of Humanity? Will you tell some sick friend of this remarkable offer?

Tell him or her, that you have learned of a medicine so certain that its maker dare say to the sick, "It is absolutely and unconditionally free if it fails."

And you, no doubt, already know of Dr. Shoop's Restorative and its popularity.

For 20 years it has been the standard remedy for Stomach, Kidney and Heart ailments everywhere in America.

When the "inside" or controlling nerves of these vital organs begin to fail, it is Dr. Shoop's Restorative that has quickly vitalized, and strengthened, and brought these nerves and organs back to health again.

I do not dose the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys—for that is all wrong.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes direct to the nerves of these ailments—the failing, faltering, feeble or controlling nerves. And herein lies the keynote to my success.

When these nerves are again made well and strong, then that is the certain end of all such sickness.

To me it is a great satisfaction that I am the only physician able to say to the suffering sick, "Take my prescription for full 30 days, and if it fails to help you, the entire expense is mine—not yours."

Then why should the sick take any chance on any other medicine, when maker dare not back it just as I do by this remarkable offer?

I also have a Rheumatic Remedy—and that remedy is covered by the same identical "No help, no pay" protective plan.

Besides, you are free to consult me just as you would your home physician. My advice and the book below are yours—and without cost.

Perhaps a word or two from me will clear up some serious ailment. I have helped thousands upon thousands by my private prescription, or personal advice plan. My best effort is surely worth your simple request.

So let me send you an order at once. Take the message to some sick friend.

A postal will bring the opportunity.

I will have an honest and trustworthy druggist to whom you can conveniently go for the 30 day test.

But first, ask me for the order, for all druggists are not authorized to give the 30 day test.

Do it now, as here and now save all delays. Dr. Shoop's to-morrow never comes. Address Dr. Shoop, Box 12, Racine, Wis.

ARAB FASHIONS.

Clothes the Natives Wear and the Tailors Who Make Them.

Conservative in all matters, the Arab is especially averse to change in the matter of clothes. Not only do the fashions of the Arabs never change, writes Graham Petrie in "Tunis, Kairouan and Carthage," but they are very restricted. Although every Arab wears a gandoura more or less richly embroidered, it is always worked in one of three accepted patterns, from which no deviation nor any combination is permitted.

The only matter in which personal taste is allowed to show itself is in the choice of color. In this respect entire freedom is permitted and taken full advantage of, although it is curious to note that the more delicate shades of pink, yellow and mauve are generally worn by elderly men, while rich red and brown are in favor with their juniors.

The souk-el-trouk in the souk of the tailors in Tunis, and here in numerous little shops the sartorial needs of the Arab population are fashioned and temptingly displayed. I call them shops for want of a better word, but they are as unlike the European shop as anything one can imagine. They are really recesses separated from each other by coupled columns painted with stripes of red and green, which support a continuous cornice, richly carved and colored. There are no windows or doors, and the shop is raised some four feet above the ground. To this elevation the tailor nimbly vaults, for there are no steps to assist him. Sitting cross-legged in orthodox fashion, he there cuts out, pieces together and embellishes the gay silk waistcoats, gandourss and other garments beloved of the Arab.

MAINE SPOOKS.

A Ghost House, a Phantom Light and a Mystic Woodchuck.

Bowdoinham boasts a veritable ghost house where it is said the chairs refuse to stay quietly in their places, but in the middle of the night walk out and draw together in groups just as if guided by visible hands. Then there is a spirit cane that goes walking all by itself just at midnight, tapping its way along from room to room and finally taking up its abode in the chamber where a member of the family sleeps. That this statement is true is affirmed by those who have seen the phenomena and who are not at all afraid of ghosts.

At another house in the village is a phantom light that shines each night no matter whether it be moonlight or darkness just above the closet door in the upper chamber. For years this light has disturbed the people who at different times have occupied the room, and some have been much afraid of the flickering gleam. From time to time different explanations have been offered, but none has proved satisfactory. The light continues to shine, and no one can account for the mystery.

Down at Lazy O camp is a spook woodchuck which every evening, just at the sunset hour, comes out of an old family tomb, halfway between the camp and the home farm. There on the tomb he sits quietly, watching the sunset lights on the waters of Merrymeeting. Just as the sun sinks below the horizon he disappears. The tomb swallows him up, and he is seen no more until the sunset hour comes round again.—Kennebec Journal.

Arab Buttermaking.

Among the Arabs an interesting department of woman's duty is dairy work. This, like all other operations, is carried out on an old fashioned and patriarchal plan. To make butter, for instance, a small sheepskin is filled with milk and tied to a ring in the wall. The woman then sits flat on the floor and rocks it to and fro till little balls of butter begin to form within. These grow larger and larger and accumulate and are finally brought out as one big lump. The remaining milk is then boiled on the fire with bits of meat. The male members of the family now come together. A large dish of cooked rice is placed before them and the boiled milk poured over it. Then, making balls of the mixture with his hands, each member quickly swallows his share and rises to wash his hands. This done, the girls and mother sit down and eat what the men are pleased to leave.

Hats and Old Age.

In opening the services one Sunday recently the pastor of one of the fashionable churches said: "For three Sundays I have asked the women in this church to remove their hats during service. My appeal has been unheeded, and now I see wherein I was wrong. I was inconsiderate of the comforts of the aged and infirm, so I have made a new rule. Hereafter all women of forty years of age or over will be permitted to wear their hats during the service."

Within twenty seconds every woman in the church was bareheaded.—Ladies' Home Journal.

His Last Place.

"But," said the merchant to the applicant, "you don't furnish any reference from your last place."

"You needn't worry about that," retorted the man with the close cropped head and strange pallor; "I wouldn't be here now if it hadn't been for my good behavior in my last place."—Catholic Standard and Times.

WASHING HOUSE PLANTS.

How to Keep Them Healthy and Free From Insects.

If after taking flowers into the house you discover the troublesome mealy bugs, aphis, the torment of chrysanthemums; green flies and tiny red spiders, begin at once to kill them. The overwhelming development of these pests can be stopped only by using some strong solution that will kill the insects and destroy the eggs. If a small camel's hair brush is dipped into alcohol and the haunts of these pests are washed out with the solution, followed with a tobacco suds wash, clean plants will be insured. Do not permit this water to run into the earth, for alcohol will kill some plants. Have a piece of oilcloth, cut a hole in the centre and slit one side to the edge. This can be wrapped around the plant to prevent the water going into the crock. This is also an excellent method when cleaning flowers in the kitchen sink, for the dirt does not overflow when the crock is protected with the oilcloth covering.

The red spider can be killed with pure water, but this process requires that the entire plant be immersed. This is easily done, and the water should be changed a number of times. Do not leave one plant untouched, but clean all at the same time. Just a few insects will increase rapidly in numbers, and the aphis to-day would be a past generation to-morrow, so the accumulation of these little pests should be fought from the time flowers are taken into the house. No flower collects insects more rapidly than ivy. The fragile leaves and stems are alive with them, for which reason ivy should be kept out of the collection of rare plants. Flowers with large leaves should be washed. Buy a small soft brush and keep it for the purpose of washing the flower leaves. It cleans under the leaves and between the stems and stock.

IVY FOR HOME DECORATION.

How to Grow the English and German Varieties With Ease.

For a growing green which is beautifully decorative in the home in winter there is nothing more satisfactory than ivy. There are so many artistic ways of arranging the ivy, and the English variety particularly is so hardy that it cannot fail to grow. Artists have painted it and poets sung of it—the romantic ivy green.

With a pot containing the ivy standing on a table, floor or shelf the creeping branches may be trained in any direction about the room. Have the vine clamber up the window casing, and the green and leafy screen through which you can look out upon a wintry landscape will make it seem less bleak. Stand the jar containing the ivy on a bracket shelf at one end of the mantel and let it wander, with skillful training, up over mantel and walls, stray tendrils drooping gracefully over pictures and the like.

Ivy may be trained over the archway which divides rooms, and no portieres will be needed. There is also the more delicate German ivy, which requires gentler handling. It will grow effectively without soil. I saw one growing in a large bowl of water—the kind of glass bowl used for small aquaria. The ivy grew over the sides of the bowl, festooning itself in tangled masses of vivid green, which gave a living beauty to the whole room.—Suburban Life.

No Influence.

During a municipal election in a town in the west of Scotland a young lady who was canvassing in behalf of one of the candidates called at a house, the door of which was opened by the good wife.

"I have called to solicit your vote on behalf of Mr. ——," said the young lady.

"But it's not me that's got the vote. It's ma man," replied the woman.

"Yes," said the young lady, "but I thought you might perhaps use your influence with him."

"Me influoence him?" said the good wife. "I hiv nae influoence wi' him. Only this morning I ask't him to wash the floor afore he went out, and he wadna dae it."

Quits.

A little girl was in the habit of selling "stretchers." Her auntie told her she could never believe her and, to warn her, related the tale of the boy who called "Wolf, wolf!" and how the wolf really did come one day and ate up all her sheep.

"Ate the sheep?" asked the child.

"Yes."

"All of them?"

"Yes; all of them," answered her auntie.

"Well," said the little one, "I don't believe you, and you don't believe me. So there!"

Woman's Preparation For the Street.

Nearly every man knows that it takes the average woman two hours to dress for the street, and they seem hurried at that, but few men know just why such preparations take so long. For the enlightenment of the latter is the explanation in boiled down form as given by an authoritative person:

Fitting on dress, forty minutes; buttoning same, ten minutes; arranging hair, twenty-five minutes; touching up face, fifteen minutes; setting hat, twenty minutes; mirror contemplation, ten minutes.

In Doubt.

"Prisoner," said the court, sternly, "are you guilty or not guilty?"

"Now, judge," answered the defendant confidentially, "we's bof been th'oo dis here kin' o' business befo', an' you knows jes' as well as I does dar sin' no use o' me tryin' to answer dat kin' o' question tell de trial's over an' I finds out whether I's been lucky or not."

She Did.

"Didn't some idiot propose to you before our marriage?"

"Certainly."

"Then you ought to have married him."

"That's just what I did."

Bran Bath Bags.

Take a pound and a half of new bran, three-quarters of a pound of almond meal, eight ounces of powdered orris root and five ounces of shaved castile soap.

Make muslin bags five or six inches square and put in three tablespoonfuls of the mixture. The quantity given above will fill a dozen and a half bags.

The bran bags add delightful refreshment to the bath.

What He Wouldn't Take.

The bartender grasped the man next the stove by the shoulder and shook him until he was awake.

"Here, Zeph," he told him, "you'd better go out and get some fresh air. It'll do you good."

Zeph merely grunted, drunkenly, and huddled back in his chair. The bartender tried it again with like result.

"You won't get out, won't you?" he roared angrily. Seizing the unfortunate Zeph by the collar and the seat of the trousers, he escorted him forcibly to the alley. "Get out there in the air and brace up," was his advice.

"Y' kin put me out if y' like, but"—Zeph straightened up with drunken dignity—"ye can't make me take no air, durn ye."

Too Near the Throne.

In the seventies of the last century the artist, Anton von Werner, was appointed to perpetuate the German imperial proclamation. He first made a sketch to submit to the old Emperor William. In this the various personages were grouped in the same order as during the ceremony at Versailles. William I. standing on a raised platform, with Bismarck at his left on a lower step and on his right the crown prince, whom the artist had represented with one foot on the upper level. The emperor examined the sketch and at once noted the position of the Crown Prince Frederick. He frowned, took his pencil and made a thick, rapid stroke through his son's right leg. "Not yet," said he.

An Odd Way to Fish.

The natives of Tutuila, one of the islands of Oceania, have a peculiar method of catching fish. At a given signal all the inhabitants of the village assemble on the seashore to the number of about 200 persons, each one carrying a branch of the cocoa palm. With these in their hands they plunge into the water and swim a certain distance from the shore, when they turn, forming a compact semicircle, each one holding his palm perpendicular in the water, thus making a sort of sieve. The leader of the party then gives a signal, and the fishers all approach the seashore gradually in perfect order, driving before them a multitude of fishes that are cast on the sands and killed with sticks.

An Elephant's Courtesy.

At the conclusion of a children's performance at Old Meldrum an elephant proceeded along a narrow road with a pail in its trunk for the purpose of procuring water from a pump. A little girl chanced to get in the animal's way, and, the road being only wide enough to accommodate his substantial body, the elephant laid down the pail, picked up the child with his trunk and gently lifted her to a place of safety, afterward resuming his journey to the pump for the water.—Westminster Gazette.

He Lived There All Right.

An anxious father got wind of the rumor that his son was leading rather a convivial life at college. But the son strenuously denied the charge in letters to his father. Still unsatisfied, the father made an unexpected visit to his son's lodging place and, giving the bell a manly pull, was met by a grim faced landlady, who seemed to know what was coming.

"Does Mr. James Smith live here?" asked the father.

"He does," replied the landlady. "Bring him right in."

The Bird of Death.

Only one specimen of venomous bird is known to the student of ornithological oddities—the Epir M'Death, or "Bird of Death," a feathered parrot of New Guinea. Persons bitten by the creature are seized by maddening pains, which rapidly extend to every part of the body. Loss of sight, convulsions, and lockjaw are symptoms which follow in rapid succession.

The Important Thing

What That Was the Doctor Told Mary Trenton.

By JEANNE O. LOIZEAUX.

Copyright, 1910, by Associated Literary Press.

Dr. John Trevor lifted his big rumpled black head from his book and, with his mind still full of "Minor Surgery," scowled on his friend who had for some time been talking unheeded. He concluded to give Morton a minute's attention and then if necessary put him bodily forth from the office and be rid of him.

"Come out of your hole for once and help a fellow in a pinch," Morton was saying in evident continuance of a (to him) interesting subject. "Be human. You used to be occasionally decent to a girl in college. I need you—honest, Trevor. Miss Dell is here at the Kings' with her cousin. You knew her at school—Mary Trenton. It seems that one will not stir without the other. I wish to goodness you would take Miss Trenton to the club dance tonight."

The doctor looked his friend over with good natured contempt. He was a snapshot diagnostician. No need to look at Morton's tongue. It always proclaimed its owner's ailment in time.

"Again?" he remarked caustically. "The hundredth time since I have known you! It's Miss Dell, I take it, Morton. It occurs to me to inquire why in thunder you don't marry and have done with your sufferings. Why be the eternal target? What is the important thing in your life anyway? If the law is like medicine you should give some time to your profession, and it looks to me as if you do nothing but trail about after some pretty bundle of skirts. It's well enough, but you don't seem to be landing anywhere in particular."

"Well, it's serious this time. If I thought she would—have me I'd—do—anything! I'm hard hit. I think she likes me too. But how much? I can't get her alone if you don't help me. Nobody else in this empty town is fit to amuse that little cousin of hers. You remember her? Little and blond and —awfully sweet, you know."

The doctor tried to call up Mary Trenton's face.

"Seems to me I do," he said thoughtfully. Morton groaned.

"To think of any human man having to remember Mary Trenton—that is, unless he had seen her cousin! Are you going to be decent the next two weeks, Trevor?"

"Sure thing, boy! Make your plans, and I'll play dummy, anything to do you a good turn. But let me tell you this—the important thing with me is to build up my practice and ground myself at every turn in my profession. I want another year abroad; I want the best piano money can buy, for I miss my music; I want a pedigreed Boston terrier and a motorcar that can't be beat. But I don't want a wife—not now. I can't more than support myself yet in the style to which I have been accustomed, and I don't want to touch what Aunt Joanna left me. I want 'to make good' myself. I tell you this because you are a vile matchmaker and because you may as well know now that if you have anything up your sleeve about me and Miss Trenton you can shake it out now and have done; that's all. Call around, and I'll be in gala togs and do your bidding. Now get out!"

Morton obeyed.

That was the beginning of two weeks unparalleled in the history of John Trevor, M. D. Morton tried his complaisance to the utmost. Constantly every evening, many afternoons, every spare minute and many minutes that really could not be spared he claimed attendance on Mary Trenton, while his friend won his labored way to the heart of Eleanor Dell. Mary was used to slavish attentions, and this great rugged, bluff, brilliant, totally delightful man of science piqued her pride, stimulated her interest. He was beneath his perfect courtesy indifferent, wary—nay, he seemed at times even disapproving. She felt for the first time in her spoiled young life inadequate and futile. It seemed that even her great beauty did not blind him to her little faults.

Dr. Trevor began to be interested, to think that with a little training the girl might really concern herself with the real things of life. He took her through the hospitals, and she found a new life of helping open to her vision. All these poor sick minds and bodies were to be healed! She felt more than ever silly and futile, more than ever humble and admiring. The doctor explained everything to her, told her of the physician's life, its hard work, its high aims, its stimulus to better conditions for the world.

The girls began to speak of returning to their own home in another week, and summer festivities began to multiply in their honor. The doctor actually neglected his practice, and his research work was forgotten. He did not realize what was upon him until one night he woke from a dream of setting a broken arm without giving an anaesthetic and found it was Mary Trenton's round little arm. It seemed a horrible thing to hurt her. He was cursing himself for a brute when at last he found himself sitting straight up in bed. Then he cursed himself for an utter fool that he could let a tiny fellow handful clip of a laughing girl disturb his scientific peace even in a dream! He resigned to get out of the danger zone. He was glad she was going away.

But the next night was even worse, for he could not sleep. He now knew, with a sort of terror, that he was in love. His prognosis was guarded. Did it always hurt like this—love? He would, save that shame deterred him, have asked the experienced Morton, very safely betrothed in an engagement to Miss Dell. But he, John Trevor, M. D., would not weakly settle into many happy domesticity. He would devote every energy to his noble profession. He would fight off this weakness.

He prescribed a dose of absence for himself. In the morning he phoned to Morton that he had an important case and would be busy all day and evening. Sorry, but it could not be helped. Then in his private office he proceeded by the light of his reason to convince himself that it was but a senseless fancy. Men often got over worse ailments. Then there came again before his vision her little fair face with the new sweet, helping look in the deep blue eyes, the serious attention to his words—as if his words mattered. He could not help wondering whether he could not have made her care. He supposed Hilton, the idiot, would take his place in the moonlight picnic party "on" for that evening. He went into his laboratory and began to toil.

Long past noon he snatched his forgotten lunch. He was restless. Well, hot as it was, he would have a walk. He had a theory that plenty of fresh air and stiff exercise would cure any known form of temporary insanity. He started out. But the girl went with him. Coming back, perspiring and disgusted, he determined firmly not to pass the King house. In the first place it was out of his way, and she might be in the big old garden or on the veranda, and he would have to go in a minute and be decent. No, he would not see her.? Still—well, he would go past, for really he should see old Mrs. Patton across the way and ask about her hay fever. His step quickened. He made his call, talking with his lazy, comfortable old patient on the porch. As he left her she pursued him with gossip.

"Ah, there goes Perry Hilton!" she exclaimed. "I suppose, as usual, he is going to see Mary Trenton. Elizabeth King would be delighted to have her cousin marry him. Isn't it a pity that money and brains don't always go together?" He laughed and got away. But his blood boiled. Hilton, that degenerate son of the overrich—it would be hideous! He did Hilton injustice, however, for he really was decent enough in his way. The doctor decided to call at the Kings' just for a moment. As he turned the corner he saw the other man swinging along, evidently bound for the same goal.

And, like a flash, John Trevor knew that there was but one important thing in the whole world, and that was to get to Mary Trenton—first. Surely that fellow would not have the unbelievable impudence to propose to her! Surely she would never accept him if he did! As he came to the foot of the long garden, walking in his restless, headlong fashion, something twitched at his coat sleeve. He turned to see Mary Trenton. The girl was leaning over the green hedge, smiling up to him, her great garden hat pushed back.

"Is it so important as all that, your case?" she queried, mischief in her eyes. "If somebody is really dying I will not detain you; otherwise it is too hot to race like that—past your friends especially." He looked down on her, helpless.

"The only important thing in this world is—you," he said suddenly, while she trembled and blushed at his tone.

"Happy to be even—a thing—to you," she murmured, mischief still in her eye. His look rebuked her.

"Do you—can you—Mary—I adore you! Will you marry me? Will you?" It was sufficiently precipitate, and the sun was very hot, and she saw Hilton looking over the lawn for her.

"Tell me—will you?" The girl's face was very happy, but she was yet a woman and would not be too ready with a reply.

"Come—over into the shade," she said. "I don't want—that man to find me." The doctor cleared the hedge, and like two naughty children they sneaked behind the shrubbery to safety in a tree hidden corner. Then he faced her inquiringly. Tears suddenly filled her eyes, and she laid her arm up across her face like a child. He took it down and drew her close.

"Dearest, dearest, what is it? Won't you tell me?" She drew away and looked at him seriously.

"I was—afraid—you—weren't going to ask me!"

Was ever anything so foolish? He straightway informed Mary Trenton—and thought he was telling the truth—that from the first time he had set eyes on her he had loved her and would have followed her round the world to "ask her." The really foolish thing would have been to devote a big warm heart to a mere profession. Love was the important thing.

Balloons and Eagles.

A book has been discovered in Vienna bearing on its title page this legend: "About the invention of air navigation by means of balloons and eagles, by Jakob Kiesserer; published at the expense of the author by Herr Leuschenbohl, Kohlmarkt, Vienna, 1801." It is an elaborate treatise on aviation in which a balloon is steered through the air by eagles which have been "trained and deprived of their talons." Minute instructions are given as to how the birds should be harnessed, and suggestions are made as to the employment of double teams and relays. The author-inventor expresses the hope that his idea may be employed first to expedite the delivery of letters and dispatches and that persons competent as trainers of giant birds will carry his "wonderful idea" into execution.

The old fashioned way of dosing a weak stomach, or stimulating the Heart or Kidneys is all wrong. Dr. Shoop first pointed out this error. This is why his prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—is directed entirely to the cause of these ailments —the weak inside or controlling nerves. It isn't an outwash, says Dr. Shoop, to strengthen a weak Stomach, Heart, or Kidneys if one overlooks or baffles nerve. When these nerves fail, then these organs must surely falter. These vital troubles are leading druggists everywhere to discourage and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Test it a few days, and real improvement will promptly and surely follow. SHOPPING IN MEXICO

Women Get Plenty of Excitement In Making a Purchase.

BARGAINING AS A FINE ART.

The Descent From the Asking Price to the Last Price and From That to the Final Selling Price Works Out Something Like a Farce Comedy.

When a woman goes shopping in the City of Mexico, especially if she speaks Spanish, she gets far more excitement for her money in the course of an afternoon than she could hope to compass in a year's time in America.

In the Spanish and French dry goods houses, where the trade is almost exclusively feminine, the goods are marked with the "asking price," which is a mere mathematical figure of speech, and the first question that the experienced shopper always asks of the salesman is, "What is your last price?"

This "ultimo precio" is generally about 25 per cent less than the selling price with which the goods are tagged. It forms, however, a certain basis from which to start the bargaining, which thereafter is carried on with all the skill and fury that characterize such transactions everywhere throughout Latin America. The woman customer may wish to purchase a few yards of silk, for example. The marked price is, say, $2 a yard, and the "last price" is given as $1.50. The woman will look at the piece she desires with the same unconcerned scorn with which she regards everything else that is shown her. She will disparage it from every point of view and finally ask for something that is not likely to be in stock. At last she will sigh and look about in despair.

"Caramba, but I'm weary with this vain task of endeavoring to find something that I wish in this second class establishment! The prices are far higher than anywhere else, but I try to patronize this place because the proprietors are friends of my husband. Now, that rose silk is not the shade I wish, but I might be able to use it some time if I could buy it at a reasonable price."

The salesman, who has been listening with an assumed air of sympathy, responds with all the flowery eloquence that he can command and with a constant play of rapid gestures, his lighted cigarette in one hand describing a little arc of fire somewhat dimmer than the diamonds he wears on his fingers.

"Senorita, we place at your feet this establishment and all that it contains. It is your house, and you may do with it as you will. But the very last price at which I can offer you this silk is $1.25 a yard. I do this with a fear of losing my position, but with the hope that the proprietors will pardon my audacity when they learn that your husband is one of their personal friends."

"I thank you, senor," responds the shopper. "I appreciate your consideration, but I could not possibly accept the silk as a gift. Nevertheless I would be willing under the circumstances, so that you might make a reasonable profit, to give you 50 cents a yard for two yards."

At this the salesman drops on the floor the stub of the cigarette he has been smoking. This leaves both hands free, and if he is a master of the selling art as known in that country tears come to his eyes and he wrings his hands apparently in the depths of despair and chagrin. The Mexicans dearly love acting and dissimulation of all sorts, and this byplay of the clerk is but a part of the price of the goods. After frenzied ejaculations he puts the price down to $1 a yard, saying that that figure is the "last of the last prices." The lady has been gazing about indifferently and gathers up her pocketbook and other impedimenta as she rises to depart. As an afterthought and with condescension that amounts almost to pity she remarks:

"Sixty cents—no more. It is my last word. Adios, senor."

"One little moment, senorita. Do not depart in anger. Rather than let you go thus you may have the silk at 90 cents a yard, and I will make up the difference from my own pocket."

The lady hesitates, turns back as if indifferent, yet undecided. Then she again starts toward the door, speaking the phrase of pious farewell which is the Spanish equivalent of a final good-by.

"May you go with God, senor."

She almost has reached the portal when the salesman catches up with her. He has had time to light another cigarette to fortify himself for the final struggle, and, waving this in one hand, he begs her, almost on bended knees, to return and take the silk at 80 cents a yard. She looks languidly upon him. She has concluded that 80 cents would be about the right price and probably the best she can do. Yet she returns undaunted and in the softest of voices breathes the Spanish words which are the equivalent in that tongue for 70 cents. After ten minutes more of firmness on the shopper's part and every aspect of poignant grief by the salesman two yards of silk finally change hands at 75 cents.

The same furious bargaining is the rule in the grocery stores and in the sidewalk markets.—New York Press.

THE DIFFERENCE.

In one respect Canada and the United States differ notably in consideration of matters naval. The entire opposition to an active naval policy, in the United States comes from the middle west, from the great Mississippi States, which being far from either ocean consequently have to be fettled with waterways and various other local improvements in order that the Atlantic and Pacific States may have their way in carrying out an entire naval programme. Whereas in Canada, the much predicted, or at any rate the noticed opposition, for a comprehensive scheme of naval defence comes from Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. Canada's West is more in tune with its eastern provinces than are the similar stretches of country in the republic to the south.

CAPITAL STOCK (Authorized $1,000,000—1,000,000 SHARES OF $1.00 EACH.
700,000 SHARES ISSUED—300,000 IN TREASURY.

Claim "T. R. 189" is stated by competent mining engineers to be undoubtedly the best property in the Montreal River District. It contains 40 acres, mostly hilly, of diabase formation, and is within 2½ miles of transportation.

Active development was begun by the present owners in May last. The necessary buildings for men, horses, tools, powder and stores have been erected. About two miles of surface trenching have been done in the south-east quarter of the property, 14 veins have been uncovered, 8 of them showing silver at or near the surface.

Assays of surface ore have run as high as 12,000 ounces to the ton.

Two shafts have been sunk, No. 1 to a depth of 63 feet, and No. 2 to 62 feet.

Shaft No. 2 opens up a vein from 5 to 14 inches thick, which is improving with depth, and which shows plates and leaves of pure metallic silver embedded in the calcite.

Shaft No. 1 also shows greatly increasing values with depth. At 60 feet the ore is very rich. There are two veins, 8 inches and 3 inches thick, separated by 20 to 25 inches of silver-bearing aplite. At 63 feet a level has been driven along the vein for 20 feet.

The ore taken from this level has been of exceptional richness, running from 8,000 to 17,000 ounces to the ton.

Such large values, obtained so near the surface, are very promising, particularly as at 3 other points along the same vein masses of pure metallic silver have been found directly beneath the soil. There is therefore every reason to believe that this vein will show at other points values equally as large as those where the shaft has been sunk.

Already $100,000 worth of ore has been blocked out.

The large number of veins that have been stripped in the section trenched promises a large tonnage of pay ore when they are developed. Then there is ¾ of the claim not yet trenched which should show equally satisfactory values.

An idea of the excellent returns which Claim "T. R. 189" promises on money invested, can be gained from the fact that, among others, the following gentlemen are each owners of 15,000 shares or more—

HENRY H. LYMAN. — F. P. BUCHANAN. — S. LICHTENHEIN. — T. L. MORRISEY.
ALEX. PRINGLE — D. LORNE McGIBBON. — JOHN E. HARDMAN. — MAJOR HADOCKS.

Samples of ore can be seen at the offices of the undersigned.

GUARANTEED INVESTMENT

Guaranteed by a $1,000,000 Bank

SUPPOSE a million-dollar bank should offer you a gold bond, guaranteeing you against loss in an investment you desired to make, and providing that, whether the investment did or did not prove a profitable one, the bank would pay you back every dollar of your money at the end of twenty years, wouldn't that "look good" to you? And wouldn't you take it?

Wouldn't it look as though the bank itself, as well as the men behind the enterprise that formed the basis of the investment, had absolute confidence in it, and looked upon it as a safe and profitable venture?

Can you figure out any way in which you could possibly lose the money you put into an enterprise with that kind of backing? To be sure, you would run the risk of not receiving interest for that length of time on the amount of your investment, but you would also run the chance of multiplying it many times over in the way of dividends—and that is worth something, isn't it? In other words, you have opportunity to win, and not a single chance to lose.

Now, that is exactly what we, the officers and directors of Treasury Gold Mining and Milling Company, of Reno, Nevada, are offering for a short time to those who wish to take advantage of it; and we make this remarkable offer, first, because we know what we have in the way of a property, and, second, because we need a little more capital to erect a mill upon it and make it an extremely profitable producer in the shortest possible time.

This is the first time, to our personal knowledge, that an offer like this has ever been made with reference to any enterprise of a similar character, here or elsewhere.

Organization, Capitalization and Officers

Treasury Gold Mining and Milling Company is organized under the laws of the State of Nevada, with a capital stock of One Million Dollars ($1,000,000), divided into One Million (1,000,000) shares, of the par value of One Dollar ($1.00 each, full paid and non-assessable, and with no personal liability attaching to the stockholders. The number of shares in the treasury is Four Hundred Thousand (400,000).

The principal office of the company is at No. 336 Mill Street, Reno, Nevada, and the depository of the company is the Nixon National Bank, of the same city.

The officers are as follows: President, D. J. Kennedy, an old resident of Nevada, and one of the best known and most successful mining operators in the state; vice-president, F. W. Thomas, of the firm of John Breuner & Co., one of the largest mercantile establishments in the city; secretary, Donald Fraser, one of the proprietors of the Red Cross Drug Company, of Reno; treasurer, H. L. Burchell, mining operator, and manager of the most prominent of the leading law firms of the state.

Board of directors: D. J. Kennedy, F. W. Thomas, H. L. Burchell; Eugene Kelly, department manager with the Gray, Reid, Wright company, and Donald Fraser.

Location and Character of Properties

The holdings of Treasury Gold Mining and Milling Company include the following valuable properties in the famous Fairview district, in Churchill county, Nevada, reached by a fine wagon road from Fallon, the county seat:

By purchase outright—fully paid for and deed recorded at Fallon—valuable mining estates on both sides of the great Mizpah mine, on both of which properties rich ore has been found.

By purchase—paid for, deeded and recorded—the Treasury group of two full claims, amounting to 40 acres, to the north-east of the Mizpah mine, the rich ledge of which we have every reason to believe courses straight through our property for at least 2,000 feet. This we regard as a very valuable holding.

By purchase, an undivided one-half interest in seven claims, containing 100 acres, southwest of the Mizpah, with every indication that the Mizpah vein runs through our ground at least 1,500 feet. The deed for our one-half interest is recorded at Fallon, and we have an option for one year on the other one-half interest.

All the leasing rights and privileges of the Mizpah Milling and Leasing Company on twelve blocks of the celebrated Mizpah mine, for the term of five years. On this property, considerable quantities of fine shipping ore are already opened; drifting has been carried on for some distance on the 100-foot level, while the second level, at 175 feet depth, is now being driven on to catch the same ore body, when shipments will begin.

Values as Shown By Assays

Assays of ores taken from the various properties of the company show the following values:

From Treasury Group at the surface, gold and silver values	$139.50
" " " " " " " " " "	346.80
" " " " " " " " " "	77.42
From Kentucky Group, surface workings, gold and silver values	128.00
" " " " " " " " " "	78.00
From Mizpah shafts, tunnels and upraises, gold and silver values	993.95
" " " " " " " " " "	239.77
" " " " " " " " " "	235.46
" " " " " " " " " "	68.87
" " " " " " " " " "	34.21

From the foregoing tests, it will be seen that, leaving out of the calculation our own extensive properties, all of which contain indications of remarkable richness, we are fully justified in expecting sufficient profits from the operation of our five-year lease on the great Mizpah mine alone, to pay enormous dividends to all our stockholders. But to operate them all, with the greatly increased facilities and equipment we intend to add, should give us a production equaled by few mining properties in the world.

We have already found very rich ore in the shallow workings of our Kentucky group to the west, and of our Treasury group to the east of the Mizpah, and we can see no reason why both of these properties should not prove fully as rich as the famous Mizpah mine itself. We are in a district noted for its immense bodies of gold and silver ores, and where deep workings open up vast treasure vaults of mineral wealth.

Additional Equipment Required

In order to more speedily place these splendid properties among the high class producers of the state, and to combine the maximum of production and profit with the minimum of cost, considerable additional equipment is required.

This includes a standard, modern mill, to reduce our ore to bullion and concentrates at the mine, thus saving the transportation and treatment charges of $20 to $30 a ton on the ore to the Salt Lake smelters. To be sure, the ore is of such a high grade character that there is a good profit in mining and shipping it even at these high rates, but it would be better business to save it and add that much more to the net profits, by treating it at our own mill, which, under the circumstances, thus becomes a necessity. With a 100-ton plant, we should easily be able to treat our ore at an expense not to exceed $2.50 per ton, and by adding another unit to its capacity, can still further reduce the cost, and thus save from $17.50 to $27.50 per ton on transportation and treating charges alone—quite an item when figuring the net profits.

The first unit capacity of 100 tons daily, of a standard mill, modern in every way, including stamps, amalgamation, fine grinding, concentration and cyaniding, with a sampler in front, so that ore can be purchased from surrounding properties, and general custom work done if desired, will enable us to add one unit after another as may be required with increased development of the ore bodies. By thus adding to the capacity of the mill, we shall be in a position to treat an immense tonnage daily, and pay dividends accordingly.

We will therefore not only effect a great saving of our present expenditures, but earn a handsome revenue, practically all profit, from the large volume of custom work that would be brought to our mill for treatment and reduction.

We also want to sink a capacious double-compartment shaft in to the permanent sulphide zone at once, first, in order to have the ore bodies opened up for the mill, and secondly, to aid in determining the proper methods of treatment; so that we may build a mill adapted to the character of the ores, and capable of giving the largest returns to the company in the extraction of the gold and silver values.

Novel Plan to Secure Funds

Now, we are quite willing to admit that equipment of the character already mentioned, which will put the properties in the best possible working shape, will cost more money than is available at present, unless we accept the alternative of sacrificing a small portion of our special stock, in order to begin operations on a profitable basis at once.

The officers and directors of the company have therefore decided to adopt this method, and, while limiting the sales to but one-fifth of the capitalization, to surround the sale of every share with a positive safeguard against any possible loss.

We do not know that such an offer has ever before been made, and we expect the amount offered to be over-subscribed several times when the terms of the offer are made known.

First, we limit the amount of stock that will be sold, in order to provide the finds for necessary equipment, to Two Hundred Thousand (200,000) shares, and this is to be positively the last as well as the first, allotment that will be sold at the present low price, of 20 cents a share, as we honestly believe the stock will be good for dividends of not less than one dollar per share annually, after we commence treating 100 tons daily at the mill.

Stock Guaranteed

In order to absolutely protect purchasers of these shares against the possibility of a loss, we have made arrangements with the Metropolis Trust and Savings Bank, of San Francisco, one of the strongest financial institutions in the United States, to guarantee every share of stock sold, and to issue to every purchaser a gold bond for the full amount of his investment, such bond being payable in twenty years, whether the mines pay or not. Therefore, even if the mines never paid a dollar—though we expect them to pay millions—the stockholders cannot possibly lose anything except the interest on their investment, while they stand to win fortunes from the amounts they put into these properties.

The shares offered on these unparalleled terms may be paid for either in cash or in five equal monthly payments, and the money derived there from will be used entirely for the further development and equipment of the properties. The shares will also be traded in on both the New York and Boston exchanges the moment we begin shipping and paying dividends.

The elements of industrial safety and of the speculative profits of gold mining under such extremely favorable conditions, are combined in this enterprise to a greater degree than in any other undertaking within our knowledge or experience, and will appeal with irresistible force to all sensible and conservative people as an opportunity without an equal. It is a case of "heads, you win; tails, you cannot lose." If the mines pay as we believe they will bring to every stockholder, in dividends, many times the amount of his investment. If they do not pay, he gets his money back.

something to eat.' 'Get up, Bessie, and let me dress you, and then we will have breakfast.' I had not eaten a mouthful, nor had mother tasted food before leaving home, and I was awful hungry myself. She got up, and I dressed, washed, and combed her, and when we sat down to the table Bessie looked at the food and then she just dropped her curly head right down on the table and sobbed out, 'Oh, Willie, I am so tired of corn-bread and molasses; I can't eat it; I want some meat and butter.' 'Don't cry, baby,' I said, stroking her curls, 'mother will bring home something tonight.' 'But it is so long to wait. This is Mrs. Gray's day, and mother is always late when she washes for her. 'Try to eat,' I said, and I put a spoonful of molasses on her plate, and she did try, but she only swallowed a few mouthfuls and then she left the table. I ate a small piece of dry bread; I thought may be she would eat the molasses, so I did not touch it.

"All day she kept saying she was hungry, but refused to eat what we had. It was a long day to both of us. Father had not come, and it was nearly dark; we were both sitting on the doorstep. Bessie laid her head against my arm, and began to cry, 'I'm so hungry, Willie, mother stays so late tonight,' 'Don't cry, baby, mother will soon be home.' 'Of course she will!' exclaimed George Anderson; he lived a mile beyond us, and as he spoke he tossed a bunch of bluebells into Bessie's lap. 'Oh, how pretty!' she exclaimed, while the tears dropped from her sweet blue eyes on the pretty bluebells. 'Come, Bessie,' I said, 'let me fasten them among your curls.'

"She got up and stood on the doorstep with her face toward the house. I stood behind her and tied the bluebells in her golden curls. I had just fastened the last one, when some one jerked me off the bottom step. It was father; he was drunk, and I knew by his looks that he was almost crazy with drink. He pushed me aside, and stood between little Bessie and me. Bessie turned to run, but he caught her and said, 'You have been crying; what did Willie do to you?' She was so white scared that I thought she would faint. 'Willie didn't do anything' she gasped out. Father let her go, and grasped me; he commenced to shake me awful. 'You rascal, what did you do to Bessie? Tell me, or I will shake the breath out of you.' He shook me so I could not answer. Then little Bessie caught him by the arm. 'Please, father, don't hurt Willie; I was so hungry it made me cry.' He looked in at the table and saw the bread and molasses. 'You little white-faced liar, you are not hungry; look at that table, there is plenty to eat, and good enough, too, for such a brat as you,' and he shook her roughly. She began to cry and I tried to put my arm around her, but my father pushed me away. 'If you can't eat anything, I will give you something to drink,' and he caught her up in his arms and started down the path that led to the pond where we got wash water. It was not a frog hole, the water was as clear as a lake, and it was surrounded by green grass and several large trees grew near the bank. It was a lovely place in summer and a glorious place for skating in winter. It was only a short distance from the house.

"Bessie hushed crying, but she looked so awful scared. I followed close behind father. 'I'll give you something to drink!' he exclaimed, when he reached the edge of the water, and he walked right into the water, and I followed, scarcely knowing what I was doing, I was so frightened. He waded in about knee deep, then he took Bessie, and putting her face under one arm, he put her little curly head down under the water; she threw up her little white hands and cried out, 'Oh, Willie, take baby!' just as the curly head went down. I waded around father and tried with all my strength to raise her head out of the water, but father held it down. I begged father to take her out, but he did not listen to me. She threw up her hands wildly, there was a gurgling sound, and then all was still. I begged father to take her out, I prayed God to save Bessie's life, but all in vain. God was far away and did not hear me cry; at least it seemed so to me. It seemed hours to me, but father at last lifted up Bessie's white, dripping face. I called her name frantically, madly, wildly, but her blue lips didn't move; she was dead. Father carried her and laid her down on the green grass. 'I guess she won't be hungry for a while,' he said, as he laid her down. I was so stunned that I neither moved nor spoke until I saw the bluebells that I had twined in Bessie's hair floating out on the water. I could not bear to see them drift away; it seemed as if it was dear little Bessie's sweet, dead face drifting away; I could not bear the thought, so I waded out after them; the water was deep, and on I went; it was up to my arm-pits, now over my shoulders, still the bluebells were just beyond my reach, but I must have them; the water touched my chin, another step and I caught them, and just as I did, I heard mother call; 'Willie! oh, Willie! where are you!' I looked for father, he was seated on the gound by Bessie. 'Willie, oh, Willie!' came mother's voice again.. I was out of the water now, but so weak I could scarcely stand. 'Bessie! oh, Bessie!' I called, 'Here, mother, at the pond.

"Father gave one mad leap into the water, he plunged in face down. I was so terrified I did not know what to do. I heard mother coming. I trembled so I could not walk, so I crawled up to Bessie, and taking father's old straw hat, put it over Bessie's dead face to keep mother from seeing it. In a moment she came in sight. She saw I was dripping with water. 'Willie, Willie, what is the matter?' I could not speak. She lifted the hat off of Bessie's face. She stood for a moment as if turned to stone. 'Tell me how it happened, Willie, tell me quick!' Then I found voice and told her everything.

"She heard me through without a word, but when I had finished, shriek after shriek rent the air. She stood with clasped hands over Bessie, and shrieked such unearthly cries that soon the neighborhood flocked to the spot. Father had drowned himself; his body was taken from under the beautiful water and buried in the cemetery alongside of Bessie. Mother was a raving maniac from the moment she uttered the first heart-rending cry over her dead Baby Bess. I put the bluebells in a little box, and hung them around my neck, but after the funeral I lay in the hospital, sick for weeks with brain fever, but when I came to myself, the box was still around my neck; here it is," and he drew from his bosom a small box, which upon opening revealed a few withered leaves.

"They speak of sweet little Baby Bessie," he said, as he closed the box and slipped it back under his shirt bosom. Then he looked at me straight in the eyes, and said:

"Please, mister, don't ever vote for whiskey. It killed my father, and dear little Baby Bessie, my only sister, and it locked mother up in a madhouse. Please don't vote for rum."

And I, man that I was, drew the boot-black down and kissed him, and said: "God helping me, I never will vote for license or whiskey men again."

By MARIAN W. WILDMAN.

He stooped and picked it up—a lace edged cobweb handkerchief, elusively fragrant and marked with a daintily embroidered "Kate."

Harper watched the couples gliding by him. "Jane—Gladys—Anne," he murmured—"Dorothy—Isabel—Ruth. Now, which of the hundred I don't know is Kate? Kate!" he repeated musingly.

The music stopped with a crash, and the young lawyer mingled with the promenading throng, a frowning, preoccupied expression in his eyes.

"Look at that coat of Ted Harper's, Miss Cavanaugh," drawled a gilded youth to his companion. "He cares as little for clothes that fit as I"—

"For anything else, maggie," she completed. "He's too good looking to need to care. He's like the lilies—not that he doesn't toil and spin," she added quickly. "He's worth a dozen of you lazy society boys—is Theodore Harper!"

Her voice was low, but the passing owner of the name turned suddenly and came back with outstretched hand.

"Rena! I was afraid you hadn't come. Can't I have this dance?"

"I saved it for you, Ted. And we'll talk—I know you'd rather."

"Good girl!" he replied gratefully as he escorted her to the moonlit piazza. There, with the music softened by distance, he was content. He even forgot the mystery of Kate while he and Rena laughed and chatted.

"Now that you are getting rich and famous, Teddy, you ought to marry. You're plenty old enough. I know your age to a minute."

"And I yours, my dear. I haven't forgotten being dragged to see you when you were three weeks old nor how I cried when our mothers made me kiss you."

"Poor boy! It has been a long friendship, Ted. It would have broken my heart if you had taken whittled fingers and love affairs to any other girl."

"Oh, by Jove, that reminds me—I'm in love again, Rena!"

Rena's silvery laugh was anything but credulous.

"I am honestly. Aren't you interested this time?"

"Profoundly! Who is the happy lady?"

"Her name is Kate."

"Kate what?"

"I don't know."

"Well, really, Teddy, what do you know about her?"

"This!" said Harper, laying something in her soft hand. Rena held the handkerchief up to the moonlight.

"You always were susceptible, Ted, but to fall in love with a bit of linen and lace!"

"I haven't. It's the suggestion, the atmosphere, the—the"—

"The violet perfume?" suggested Rena helpfully. "We all use it, you know."

"Rena, you're heartless! I'd counted on your help."

"Teddy, what is it you want me to do?"

"To tell me all the Kates who may possibly have been in this jam tonight. Then I'll devote myself between briefs to narrowing the inquiry."

"Kate Simpson, Kate Ray, Kate"—

"Hold on, Rena! One at a time, please."

"Very well. Kate Simpson you ought to know. You went to dancing school with her. She has dimples."

"She's not the Kate I'm after, I remember her now. Dimples in a baby are all right, but how about Kate Ray?"

"Engaged to Reggy Van Dyke. You knew that, of course."

"Of course I didn't. Who next?"

"Kate Delemater, a new girl in town, handsome, tall, black eyes, awfully clever. Shall I take you in and introduce you?"

"Thanks; I can wait. I'll have some one of the fellows get permission to take me around for a call. If she doesn't prove to be the real Kate I'll come to you, say, Friday for more clews."

"You might come in any case. I shall be wild to know. Yes, really," in reply to his protest as she arose, "I must go in now."

Harper offered a reluctant arm, and they passed from the freshness of the June night to the glare and gayety within.

* * * * * * *

The October evening was cool, and Harper found Rena by a fire of snapping hickory.

"I'm too delightfully weary to rise," she said. "I've been in the country all day. "Look," with a comprehensive wave of her hand. The library was aglow with lavish masses of color—the orange and scarlet of maple, the crimson of sumac, the purple and russet of oak and beech. "This is my October carnival. I always celebrate when the autumn gets into my blood. Oh, the glory of the woods today, Teddy!" She leaned forward to lay a fagot on the coals. The seasoned wood burst into a whirl of blue and yellow flame. Harper watched her face curiously as she talked. "All summer these leaves have been quiet, contented little dreamers. Today they are new creatures, glorious. It's the transfiguration of their lives—what they have been waiting for all these tranquil weeks."

"The autumn has gone into your blood, Rena. I hardly know you tonight."

Her thoughtfulness vanished.

"What of Kate?" she laughed.

"Oh—Kate! I'm tired of this foldrol about Kate."

"Ungrateful—when I've spent my whole summer finding you Kates!"

"You have been very good. The fault is in the Kates." He took a notebook from his pocket and laid it open in her lap, leaning against the back of her chair to look over her shoulder as she ran her finger down the neat list.

"Katie Simpson—dimples; Kate Ray—engaged to Reggie Van Dyke; Kate Delemater—I hardly dare mention her. Teddy!"

"You have reason to blush. You know how I abominate the bohemian girl who smokes cigarettes and is always stopping on the verge."

"Didn't you find her clever and handsome?"

"Oh, very! Who next?"

"Kate Randall. Mother suggested her. You did like her a bit, I remember."

"I liked her a great deal. She's a sensible, modest, well behaved young women. But she's not Kate."

Rena sighed patiently.

"What was the matter with Kittie Pomeroy? There isn't a dearer, sweeter, prettier little girl in"—

"I'm not looking for a dear, sweet, pretty little girl."

"What sort of girl are you looking for, Ted?"

Harper mused in smiling silence, his eyes idly watching a trembling silver butterfly in her hair.

"I think she's tall and has dark eyes. She's well bred, but not conventional. She's honest and kind. She has brains and a sense of humor. She"— He broke off suddenly. "I have it, Rena! Find me a Kate just like you, and I surrender the handkerchief."

"And your heart?"

The light words had an unfamiliar tremor in them, like that of the butterfly's filigree wings. Something sweet and sudden and unforeseen swept over Harper's heart. He was looking down at the leaves in her lap, and fragments of what she had said of them came back to him—"All summer contented dreamers—today new creatures—the transfiguration of their lives—what they have been waiting for all these tranquil weeks."

"Rena," he whispered, bending lower over the silver butterfly, and then as she looked up into his face with startled eyes, "I believe it is you I love," he added simply.

"And Kate?" Her eyes smiled, though her lashes were still wet.

"Kate was an airy nothing."

"Dear, stupid boy!" Rising, she crossed the room and brought back a great Bible, which she laid on his knee. Perching on the arm of his chair, she opened the volume at the pages of family record and laid a finger on one of the names.

"Katherine, daughter of James and Katherine Cavanaugh, born June ——."

"Rena, is it you?"

"Who else? But Rena I've been from my cradle save to one person."

"And he?" jealously.

"And she"—reassuringly—"is a college friend who dislikes my poor nickname. I can show you dozens of letters from her addressed to Miss Kate Cavanaugh. The only other proof I could have offered—her gift to me last Christmas—I unfortunately lost."

"At a ball?"

"At a charity ball last June."

"I don't believe you're my Kate, after all. I told you my Kate was honest and kind."

"And had a sense of humor. Teddy, do you regret the prosaic end of your romance?"

"Prosaic?"

"Do you?" she insisted.

"I should be an ungrateful fool if I did."

"Then forgive your Cinderella and give back her glass slipper, dear prince!"

From the pocket nearest his heart Theodore drew a crumpled bit of linen and lace still faintly fragrant. He laid it in her hand, and his own fingers closed over it.

A Modern Proposal.

"It's like this, Miss Belle," said the Honorable Algy, stifling a yawn. "Our people seem to think we ought to get married, you know, and I don't like to disappoint 'em, and all that sort of thing. I'm not a clever chap, but there must be something in me, for I owe about £10,000. I'm a younger son, and the bit of money the mater left me isn't enough to pay for my cigarettes. I can't help my extravagant tastes. I inherited 'em. You've got money and can put me on my feet, eh—what? I've got enough blue blood for the two of us, and if your pater did make his money packing pork into tins it can't be helped. I'm prepared to waive that, don'cherknow. You're a smart sort of girl and can behave yourself very nicely, considering everything. I don't like the way your father drops his aspirates or his eating peas with a knife, but he's quite a respectable old soul in his way, and he'll improve. I dare say, after I've shown him what's what a bit. Come, what d'ye say, Miss Belle? Is it a deal? Eh—what?"

And the Honorable Algernon seemed greatly astonished when Miss Belle declined the honor of the proposal.—London Pictorial.

Resigned Pleasure.

"What," asked Mrs. Hammersley, "is your opinion of a woman who will pay a million dollars for the purpose of becoming the wife of a foreigner with a title?"

"I think," replied Mrs. Oldham, "she is very foolish. After one goes abroad to live one never can have the pleasure of going to Europe every summer and smuggling things in when one comes back home."—Chicago Record-Herald.

KEEPING IN TOUCH WITH HOME

IT IS wonderful how much satisfaction can be obtained from a talk over the Bell Telephone.

A letter carries words, but the Bell Service has been brought up to such a point of perfection that the modulations of the voice are clearly heard.

The cheery tones show that the talker is well and in good spirits. The call may come from a suburban village or a distant city, but within the limits of the carrying power of the voice the Bell Service carries the tone as well. You get a personal interview with a friend hundreds of miles away.

NEWS OF THE CITY

Local Events Gathered by Times' Reporters.

Servant Girl Wanted.

General servant wanted; an experienced girl for general housework—good plain cook—small family. Apply 626 Water street.

Prayer Service.

There will be a prayer service at the Y.W.C.A. on Sunday afternoon. All those interested in local option are invited to take part in the service.

The greatest danger from influenza is of its resulting in pneumonia. This can be obviated by using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, as it not only cures influenza, but counteracts any tendency of the disease towards pneumonia. 11

Fuel Men Busy.

The cold weather is a great thing for the fuel men. The people are rushing to the coal and wood offices with their orders and with the money to pay for it so that the fuel will be delivered at once.

St. Andrew's Church.

Services at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. The pastor Rev. J. G. Potter will officiate at both services. At the morning service the newly elected elders will be inducted.

The session will meet at 10.45 a.m.

Sherring vs. Longboat.

The interest in the running game in Peterborough still runs high as is shown by the Longboat-Sherring race at the Brock street rink tonight Both men will be in the best of condition and a fast clip is sure to be set.

A sprained ankle will usually disable the injured person for three or four weeks. This is due to lack of proper treatment. When Chamberlain's Liniment is applied a cure may be effected in three or four days. This liniment is one of the best and most remarkable preparations in use. 12

Temperance Mass Meeting.

A mass meeting of the ladies of the city of Peterborough, is called to meet in Murray street Baptist church next Tuesday, Dec. 14th, at 3.30, and will be addressed by Dr. G. C. Pidgeon, formerly of West Toronto.

The old, old story, told times without number, and repeated over and over again for the last 36 years, but it is always a welcome story to those in search of health—There is nothing in the world that cures coughs and colds as quickly as Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. 10

Ice Skating Seon.

Ice-making will commence at the Brock street rink next week. Mr. Jack Thirnbeck will again be in charge and if the weather remains cold he will have the rink ready for skating about the middle of the week Ice could have been made this week but it had to be deferred on account of the Longboat-Sherring race tonight.

Stores Sold.

A big real estate deal has just been consummated in Peterborough. Mr. R. A. Morrow has sold the block on the north-west corner of George and Hunter streets, but just for the present the name of the new owner will not be made public. The property has a frontage of fifty-two feet on George street and a hundred feet on Hunter street, and the business stands on the ground floor are the Bank of Ottawa, J. D. Tully's drug store, N. Minnicola, fruit store, and Prameau Bros., barber shop. The price paid was $53,000. This would be a little over $1000 a foot.

Broke Two Ribs.

Mr. Frederick Barnes, 964 Lansdowne street, solo clarionetist in the 57th Regimental Band, and the opera house orchestra, is confined to his home through internal injuries sustained the other evening shortly after six o'clock. Mr. Barnes had just returned home from his work at the Brinton Carpet Company factory, and was entering the door of his house, when he slipped and fell. He did not think he was at all seriously hurt, and was able to be at the factory all next day, but that same however, he suffered to such an extent he was obliged to go to bed and has remained there ever since. Two of his ribs were broken.

IN SOCIETY

The Times will be pleased to receive notices of Weddings, Social Events, Personal Announcements, which will be published in this column free of charge.

Rev. H. J. Keith is in Hastings conducting the preparatory in the Presbyterian church.

Mrs. H. P. Kennedy was called to Stirling yesterday morning, owing to the serious illness from pneumonia of her father, Rev. W. S. Parker.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Elliott and daughter, Una, spent a few days last week visiting friends in and around Peterborough.—Norwood Register.

Rev. R. Pogue of Peterborough, will address the missionary societies of the Presbyterian church next Monday evening at eight o'clock.—Norwood Register.

Mrs. S.B. Armstrong of Newcastle Pa., and Mrs. J. A. Harris of Jamestown, N.Y., who have been called home, owing to the serious illness of their father, are staying with their sister, Mrs. W. H. Roberts, 552 Bethune street.

At Cobourg, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Doyle, the marriage took place of their only daughter, Miss Iva C. Doyle, to Mr. Howard T. Fallis, of Bethanyf Rev. Dr. S. J. Shorey conducted the ceremony. The bride, who was given away by her father, was unattended. Mr. and Mrs. Fallis left for the east. They will reside at Bethany.

Mr. G. C. Telford, who was engaged in the local office of the Canadian Express Company, and went from this city to Orillia, where he held a similar position, has been appointed a position as representative of the company on the train between Depot Harbor and Scotia Junction. His many friends here will be pleased to learn of his advancement.

SPECIAL SPEAKERS

At the Grand Opera House Tomorrow.

H. E. Irwin, Esq., K.C., who is a prominent lawyer of Toronto, will deal with the local option question at the Grand Opera House tomorrow afternoon at 3.30. The public is cordially invited. The gallery will be reserved for the ladies.

Mr. Irwin is a very forceful speaker and presents most convincing arguments in favor of banishing the bar.

Mr. Irwin will give the address in Mark street Methodist church tomorrow night at 7 o'clock. To this service all are invited.

Rupture

Some Good News for the Ruptured of our Country.

I wish to add something more today to the news I have recently published of the coming in Peterborough of Mr. A. Claverie, the distinguished french specialist whose methods and apparatus have been adopted all over the world and specially in Canada with the greatest enthusiasm by patients and doctors.

It is not my intention to enter into very long explanations because such are better given in person to those who are interested and because Mr. A. Claverie will be entirely at the disposal of the ruptured who shall go and see him; he will give them free and willingly all advice and information they shall require.

I shall only say that results are way beyond all expectations.

Under the pressure of the apparatus, carefully calculated for every case, the rupture is pressed back in its normal place and does not protrude out any more.

The apparatus is warranted to maintain any rupture whatever its size. Moreover it never displaces itself owing to its suppleness which is extremely delicate and which makes it easy to wear night or day even by the most sensitive persons.

So, it is not surprising to hear that the method and the apparatus of Mr. A. Claverie have been adopted so far by nearly 1,000,000 (one million) sufferers all over the world and that the most flattering testimonials of gratitude are sent in numbers to the eminent specialist.

No doubt that the unfortunate sufferers from rupture from all our district will go in haste to try apparatus which have brought heal and life to so many afflicted.

Dr. NAMY

Mr. Andrew Claverie will be in Peterborough on Wednesday the 15th and on Thursday the 16th of december.

He will receive at the Oriental Hotel from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. and from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m.

All advice given free. Absolute secrecy.

Special attention for ladies.

Backache, Headache Internal Pains.

MRS. JOSEPH LACELLE, 121 Bronson St., Ottawa East, Ontario, Canada, writes:

"I suffered with backache, headache and dragging pains for over nine months, and nothing relieved me until I took Peruna. This medicine is by far better than any other medicine for these troubles. A few bottles relieved me of my miserable half-dead, half-alive condition.

"I am now in good health, have neither ache nor pain, nor have I had any for the past year.

"If every suffering woman would take Peruna, they would soon know its value and never be without it."

Dyspepsia and Indigestion.

Mdr. Joseph Beaudoin, 59 Rue St. Olivier, Quebec, P. Q. Can., writes:

"Peruna is wonderful for indigestion. I eat whatever I want and no longer feel any oppression. Having had dyspepsia for a long time and having tried various other remedies, I decided to try Peruna and with the fourth bottle of it I was perfectly cured.

"For this reason I recommend it to all those who are suffering with that terrible malady, dyspepsia. I hope that all who are afflicted in this way will take Peruna and Manalin as I did."

Chronic Nasal Catarrh.

Mr. Chas. H. Stevens, 129 Sixteenth St., Detroit, Mich., writes:

"It affords me great pleasure to testify to the merits of Peruna as a remedy for catarrh.

"I suffered for some time with chronic nasal catarrh, but after five months' treatment during which time I used seven bottles of Peruna I am pleased to say that I am entirely well, there not being the slightest trace of catarrh left.

"Peruna is without a doubt, in my mind, the greatest remedy known for catarrh."

Weak, Tired Feeling.

Miss Marie A. Lesser, 328 W. 34th St., Chicago, Ill., Worthy Secretary I. O. G. T., writes:

"I am glad to give a good word for Peruna, and I hope that all who see this who are troubled with systemic catarrh as I was for years, will profit by it.

"I had tried many remedies, but none did more than give me temporary relief, and some did not even do that.

"I took Peruna at the suggestion of a friend, and was more than pleased and surprised at the results.

"I am now perfectly well and strong. That weak, tired feeling has left me, and I feel like a different person entirely."

The Slavery of Disease

It is wonderful how many women in Canada and the United States have been practically made new again by the use of Peruna.

Not the victims of any organic disease, but just a half-dead and half-alive, condition.

Miserable, dragging pains that keep a woman always from doing her best work, from being her best self. Cross and petulent, perhaps. Maybe even a slattern in her household, just because her health is continually below par. She never feels quite right. She gets the reputation of being sullen, or morbid, or ill tempered.

Her trouble is not a moral one at all, it is simply a physical one. Make such a woman well and she immediately becomes transformed into a new being mentally.

This is exactly what Peruna has done in a multitude of cases.

The C.P.R. Building Line from Toronto to Port Hope

Sir Thos. Shaughnessy Says That the Road will be Built Immediately

Will Build New Battery of Elevators at Midland for the Storage of Grain.

The New Grain Route Line Will Bee Via Peterborough to Montreal.

Ottawa, Dec. 11.—Mr. Fowke, M. P. for South Ontario, in asking the Railway Committee of the House on Thursday to renew the charter of the C.P.R.'s road from Campbellford to Toronto (along the lake shore front, through Port Hope, Oshawa, whitby, etc.), said he had been assured by Sir Thos. Shaughnessy that the road would be built almost immediately.

From this statement of Mr. Fowke's and from other announcements that have recently been made, the Canadian Pacific have three propositions for improving their Ontario and Quebec line, with the prospect of all being under way within a short time. These three propositions are:

First, for a new line called the grain route, which is to be run from Midland on the Georgian Bay thru the towns of Orillia and Lindsay, striking the present main line at Kendry, six miles west of Peterborough. This would involve 105 miles of new high-class construction and would make the wheat route from Midland via Peterborough to tidewater at Montreal. At Midland a whole battery of elevators are to be erected for the storage of the western grain transported thither by boat from Port Arthur and Fort William. This grain would be moved by boat, most of it between harvest and the close of navigation and would make a very busy lake traffic for that period. The grain would be stored at the elevators in Midland and more leisurely moved by train to Montreal during the winter. The final plans of this route are now being completed.

SECOND PROPOSAL.

The second proposal is to double track the present Toronto-Montreal line from Kendry (the junction of the grain route from Midland) to Smith's Falls, a distance of 130 miles, portions of which are already constructed in the shape of long sidings. This would give a double track for freight and grain from Kendry to Montreal, as the Smith's Falls-Montreal section is already completed. This proposed double track from Kendry to Smith's Falls will not be necessarily right along side of the present line, as it might diverge to the south and go to Campbellford and to other points to get better grades but always keeping more or less in touch with the existing line. The survey of the second track which was made three years ago, leaves the old line at several points between Central Ontario Junction and Moberley, near Smith's Falls.

COURSE IN JUDGING.

Arrangements are practically completed for holding a three days' course in stock, grain and seed judging in Peterborough this winter. The probable dates are Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, January 24, 25 and 26. The stock judging will be done in the building at the corner of Water and Brock streets, occupied by Mr. Fitzgerald. Another place will likely be secured for the grain and seed judging. Meetings at which agricultural subjects will be discussed will be held in the evenings. It is expected that there will be a large enrolment from the farmers of the surrounding country. The arrangements are in charge of Mr. H. C. Duff.

Mrs. S.B. Armstrong of Newcastle Pa., and Mrs. J. A. Harris of Jamestown, N.Y., who have been called home, owing to the serious illness of their father, are staying with their sister, Mrs. W. H. Roberts, 552 Bethune street.

France Stirred by Two Horrible Crimes

(Special to The Times.)

Paris, Dec. 51.—France is stirred today by the discovery of two horrible crimes. At Marseilles a wine seller slew his whole family and killed himself. He shot his mother and cut the throats of his wife and their three children with a razor.

At a farm near Tonnerre two Swiss cowherds, bent on robbery, lured a farmer, his wife and four domestics to a cow house where all were slaughtered. The murderers escaped to a nearby forest.

WM. HAMILTON CO.

First Annual Meeting Was Very Satisfactory.

The shareholders of the Wm. Hamilton Co., held on Saturday afternoon their first annual meeting and everyone was well pleased with the reports. The year was a very successful one and a dividend was paid on the preferred stock and there is a good sum to the credit of profit and loss. The company are now securing additional capital and when a sufficient sum is received an addition to the staff of from 80 to 100 men will be made.

Awful Tragedy in Pittsburg Roofing Plant

Pittsburg, Dec. 11.—Held fast in a lake of flowing tar four men at the McClintock and Irving Company's roofing plant, early today, were compelled to watch the gradually approacing flames. Three of them were burned to death, while the fourth managed to extricate himself, although he was seriously burned.

In some manner the valve of a tar vat opened and before the sleeping men knew their danger they were engulfed.

Unable to free themselves, although they struggled with all their might, they saw the tar flow to a boiler where it was supposedly ignited. they frantically cried for help.

The United States on Brink of War

Zelaya Outwits Insurgent Leader---U.S. Marines Active

The United States Intervention Alone Will Save the Cause of Insurgents.

President Taft is Determined That Zelaya Shall Be Deposed at Any Cost.

Bluefields, Nicaragua, Dec. 11.—There has been a sudden realization here of government strength and insurgent weakness. President Zelaya has outwitted Gen. Estrada and the latter's chief hope is in American intervention.

OUTWITTED BY ZELAYA.

It turns out that the conference sought by Gen. Vasquez of the government troops near Rama, which the insurgents has interpreted as a sign of yielding on the part of Zelaya's troops, was a blind intended to secure delay of the expected battle until the loyal army had secured a decided advantage of position. It is also learned that while Zelaya had kept a scattered force before Rama, his real army of 3,000 men was hurrying by forced marches towards Bluefields.

If President Taft is determined that Zelaya shall be deposed it is believed here that the United States will find active participation in the struggle necessary. ...

U.S. MARINES ACTIVE.

Washington, Dec. 11.—When the 700 marines aboard the Dixie arrive at Colon, where they are expected this afternoon they will find awaiting them orders to proceed to Panama immediately and go aboard the cruiser Buffalo at once.

This seems to indicate that some movement of consequence on the Pacific coast of Nicaragua is in contemplation.

Orders have not been issued as yet for the departure of the Buffalo, but it is believed the date of her sailing will be decided upon by the state department and naval officials before the close of the day.

Sixty Lives Were Lost in Storm That Swept the Great Lakes

Cleveland, O., Dec. 11.—The terrific storm which passed over Lake Erie Wednesday night and Thursday, reaped a harvest of human lives and more than $1,000,000 worth of shipping property.

Late reports show that fifty-nine lives were lost, that twenty sailors were rescued, that four boats were destroyed and that one is aground and badly damaged.

SUMMARY OF LOSSES.

The summary shows; Steamer Clarion burned, fifteen lives lost, six saved. Steamer W. C. Richardson, sunk, five drowned, 11 saved. Car Ferry Marquette and Bessemer No. 2 wrecked, thirty-eight lives lost. Steamer Josiah G. Munro, aground, attempting to rescue sailors from the Clarion. Tow barge sunk, no lives lost. Sailor from the Richardson, crazed by exposure, committed suicide.

There is now practically no chance that any of the thirteen members of the crew of the Clarion have survived. Two of the crew were known to have perished. Neither is hope now held out for the 38 Conneaut men of the Car Ferry Marquette and Bessemer No. 2, who have been missing four days.

REVISION OF THE BANK ACT.

External Examination.

In connection with the approaching revision of the Bank Act, the important question of the necessity for external examination of banks is discussed in a pamphlet issued by H. C. McLeod, General Manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia. This is a subject which well merits the careful study of those who are interested in the stability of our banking system either as shareholders, depositors or borrowers. Copies of the pamphlet will be supplied free by any of the branches of the Bank of Nova Scotia

TOM LONGBOAT,

Who Defeat Sherrin in Brock Street Rink, Saturday Night.

A DANGEROUS SPORT.

Children Sleigh Riding Down Reid Street Liable to Be Killed.

There is not the least objection in the world to boys and girls having all the sport they can possibly get, but sometimes they do things which a person with more descretion would not do and which are very dangerous to the children. One of these things is sleighriding down the hills in the city. It is great sport for a half dozen or more to pile on a bob and "let her go, lickety bang" down the ice covered sidewalks, but when the bob once gets underway it is almost impossible to stop it, and that is where the danger comes in. The boys and girls living in the neighborhood of Reid street ride down the walk from Hunter across Charlotte and they do not know what minute a street car or a rig is going to cross. On Saturday morning one load of youngsters was caught on the fender of a street car and the boys were thrown some distance. That they were not all killed is a miracle! An accident of that kind would indeed be deplorable and the parents in all parts of the city should counsel their children. Under the most favorable circumstances public highways are no place for sleighriding, but when the kids ride across the street car tracks it is time to call a halt. The northern slope on Reid street will furnish the youngsters just as much sport. They will go as far and just as fast so there is no excuse for them trying to knock the cars off the track.

Longboat Won Second Race from Sherring by Brilliant Finish

Tom Longboat won, by a brilliant dash, the last lap and a half, in a ten-mile race with Billy Sherring, at Brock street rink on Saturday night, in 32 minutes and 58 seconds. This was the second race of the series between these two runners and it was witnessed by a crowd of about 800 people.

Mr. C. G. Graham started the two men pretty well on schedule time and during the entire distance they stayed together although Tom made a little sprint but not with any intention of gaining a lap. They took turns in setting the pace and it was noticeable that when the Indian was leading the time was much faster. Sherring was not in the best of form and did not try to make fast time, although he stayed with the big fellow.

Once or twice during the race Longboat showed a little extra speed and the crowd cheered, but no one had any idea of the Indian's real stride or speed until the last lap and a half. The two were together when suddenly Tom shot to the front and with a stride equal to two of his regular step he opened up a gap that put Sherring completely in the shade and the Indian romped home a good quarter lap ahead and feeling fine. That last sprint was worth seeing and it looked like a real race, and Tom looked like a real racer. The crowd could not help cheering, and although the Hamilton boy had a lot of supporters in the crowd it was all Longboat at the last.

The time for the ten miles was as follows:—

Miles.	Mins.	Secs.
First	5	7
Second	10	10
Third	15	14½
Fourth	21
Fifth	26	30
Sixth	31	31
Seventh	36	45

Tigers Beat Ottawa at New York, 11 to 6

New York, Dec. 11.—Football experts from many parts of the United States arrived here today to witness the Rugby game between two representative Canadian teams, the Hamilton Tigers and the Ottawas, at Van Courtlandt Park this afternoon. Chief interest in the struggle centers in the opportunity it will give to see what is claimed to be a safer form of football than that played by the American colleges.

Both of the Canadian teams arrived here this morning. They are a sturdy lot of fellows and received a hearty reception. They were accompanied by several members of the Canadian Parliament as well as by representative sporting experts and editors of the Dominion.

The game began shortly after 3 o'clock in the presence of a crowd estimated to contain upwards of 30,000 persons. Teams;

Hamilton Tigers—Full back, Tope; right half-back, Moore; center half-back, Simpson; left half-back, Burton; quarter-back, Awrey; center scrimmage, Craig; second scrimmage, Peffer; third scrimmage, Bethune; outside right, Lyon; middle right, Bramer; inside right, Barron; inside left, Gray; middle left, Isbister; outside left, Marriott.

Hamilton won by a score of 11—6.

Great Local Option Gathering on Sunday

A very large gathering of men and women filled the opera house from the ground floor to the top gallery on Sunday afternoon to hear Mr. H. E. Irwin, K.C., of Toronto, give his lecture on local option.

Mr. Irwin said that he had no strong or bitter feeling against the men in the liquor business. His opinion was that the bar was merely incidental, that it had its origin during the past years in the provision that had been made for the traveling public. Peterborough citizens did not need them and it was the general concensus of opinion that the travelers preferred a place without the bar and therefore they should be done away with. In answer to the question, "Why I like local option" he stated that in the first place it was the next step in the line of natural progression. First—Prohibition for the individual. Second—Prohibition for the family. Third—Prohibition for the community.

Second—That it is successful where ever an honest attempt is made to enforce it.

Third—Because it gives every man and woman a chance to put himself or herself right with conscience and God.

Fourth—Because of the way some people hated.

LOCAL OPTION IN WEST.

Manitoba in the Throes of Vigorous Campaign.

(Special to The Times)

Winnipeg, Man., Dec. 13:—The local option campaign in Manitoba, which has been the most extensive, thorough and strenuous temperance speaking campaign ever attempted in Canada, started on its final lap today. The leaders of the temperance movement, on the strength of reports received from many points, are looking forward to a sweeping victory at the polls. The saloon has already been abolished in a score of the municipalities of the province, and the temperance element believes that the prospect is very good for the carrying of the local veto vote in at least half of the remaining 100 municipalities.

Magistrate Dumble will give his decision this morning in the case of illegal selling of liquor brought against the proprietor of the Oriental Hotel. The magistrate's judgment is awaited with much interest.

Annual Meeting of St. Paul's W.F.M.S.

A large gathering of women attended the 33rd annual meeting of St. Paul's Women's Foreign Missionary Society Friday afternoon.

After the opening exercises Miss Dickson, the president, gave a splendid address, taking as her theme "The Royal Commission," and basing her remarks on the verse "As Thou has sent me into the world, even so have I also sent them into the world."

Miss Herdman of India, also addressed the meeting on the village work around Mhow, where she and Miss Weir have been laboring. Miss Herdman's address was most interesting, and gave the women a very vivid description of their work from day to day, as carried on in the market places, or on the way from village to village. Miss Herdman wore the native costume and had many souvenirs from India, and also sang some of their hymns.

The Fraser Mission Band submitted an encouraging report for the year, showing an average attendance of fourteen, and a balance in the bank of $106.87.

The Faithful Workers Mission Band also reported a successful year, with an average attendance of nineteen, and a balance in the bank of $96.26.

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

In presenting the 33rd annual report of our society, we are grateful to our Heavenly Father for His guidance and blessing throughout the year.

Meetings have been held regularly every month with the exception of August, the average attendance being 57.

The January meeting, as usual was especially devoted to prayer. This year the study of the Farther and Nearer East was found most interesting, two ladies having charge of the meeting each month. A general willingness to prepare papers or take part in the program is becoming more evident every year.

At our May meeting Mrs. Roger gave a most interesting and helpful report of the annual meeting in Ottawa, and at our June meeting Mrs. Shook fully reported the Presbyterial meeting at Port Hope.

Our Society sent a bale of clothing valued at $75.29 to the school at Birtle, which contained an outfit for a girl of seven, supplies for the boarding school, as well as quilts and garments for the old and feeble on the reserve. The thankoffering meeting in October was largely attended, and our thankoffering of $468.53 again exceeds former years.

We are pleased to note that more of the envelopes were used for this meeting, and this no doubt accounts for the increase in our collection.

We regret the removal from Peterborough of some of our members and we are sorry that more of the new members are not coming forward to take their places.

We have again to record the death of two of our members, Mrs. Alexander Dawson, who passed to her eternal home on September 1st, and on October 25th, Mrs. John Hazlitt fell asleep. Although not often present at our meetings both these ladies manifested their interest by being members of our auxiliary. One of the last things Mrs. Hazlitt did was to make a comforter for a bale of clothing to be sent to the Indians.

We would like to urge the members who are not subscribers for Foreign Missionary Tidings, to subscribe for it, as it is filled with most interesting news, and a great stimulus to the work of the society.

"The Interior" as usual was sent by our society to the missionaries in India, where it is much appreciated.

With thankfulness for many blessings received during the past year, let us press on being assured, that still if we are faithful in His work.

M. H. MacLean,
Secretary.

The missionary account was read by Mrs. G. S. McKee, treasurer, as follows: Total receipts $663.58, balance in bank $635.58.

DR. FRITCH TRIAL

GREAT INTEREST TAKEN IN THIS CASE.

A Canadian Doctor, Who is Alleged to Have Committed a Revolting Crime.

(Special to The Times)

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 13.—No criminal trial in years has stirred Detroit to such a high pitch of interest as is manifested at present in the case of Dr. George A. Fritch, who faces a charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of Miss Maybelle Millman, the Ann Arbor girl whose body was fished from Ecorse creek last October. The prosecuting attorney hopes to have the trial of Dr. Fritch concluded before the end of this week.

Public interest in the case is due largely to the fact that crimes of a character of which Dr. Fritch is accused have been unusually numerous in Detroit of late years and in practically none of the cases has it been possible to secure a conviction. Dr. Fritch, according to the allegations of the police, has long been a foremost disciple of a disreputable class of physicians who make criminal operations their specialty. In the present case the evidence against him appears to be incontrovertible.

On the morning of September 7 last the body of the Millman girl was found sewed in a sack floating in Ecorse creek. The following day the head of the victim was found about ten yards up stream from the place where the body had been found. The head was sewed in the same kind of a burlap bag as the one containing the trunk. Several days elapsed before the remains were finally identified by Miss Martha Henning as those of her former schoolmate and chum, Maybelle Millman of Ann Arbor. The scheme of the investigation was then shifted from Detroit to the university city where the Millman girl had lived with her widowed mother.

The police found that on August 14 the girl had left her home, telling her mother that she was coming to Detroit to visit her former schoolmate, Miss Henning. The latter, when questioned by the police admitted that the knew that Miss Millman had wished to undergo an illegal operation and had mentioned the name of Dr. Fritch.

The physician was well known to the police by reason of his past experiences. In 1907 he had been arrested in connection with the death of Miss Edith Pressley, proof reader for the state senate. When the prosecution of a member of the state legislature failed for lack of evidence the doctor was released.

He was strongly suspected of having been responsible for the girl's death, but evidence to convict him was lacking. As a consequence he was released on bond within a week after his arrest. Then came a development of a startling nature, which, according to the police, supplied the missing link in the evidence against the suspected physician.

Joseph W. Leach, a chauffeur, was taken into custody and according to his alleged confession he was the man who assisted Dr. Fritch in conveying the remains of the dead girl from the physician's office to the spot here they were subsequently discovered. In a signed statement he declared that Fritch called him to his office about 9 o'clock the night the Millman girl disappeared, and related in detail how he was shown three sacks and asked to indicate a place where there was a deep body of water into which they might be thrown with no danger of their being found.

Dr. Fritch, according to Leach's confession, fearing that the contents of the bags might permit them to float and so be discovered, went to his home and obtained an armful of bricks, which he thrust into the bags to their capacity. The bricks were found to contain the same manufacturer's marks as other bricks that were found on Dr. Fritch's premises when he was arrested.

Based on the evidence at hand the police formed the theory that Dr. Fritch had performed an illegal operation upon the girl and that it had proved fatal, either as its direct effect or through the administration of an anaesthetic. Finding himself in this predicament, the physician could see but one safe course. That was secreting the body in a manner that would preclude its discovery.

Fearing that a charge of murder would not withstand the legal onslaughts which the accused physician's means and influence insure the prosecutor is undertaking a conviction on a charge of manslaughter. In this State the maximum penalty for manslaughter is fifteen years' penal servitude.

"SUFFRAGET'S" QUESTIONS.

What You Must Do to Vote at the Municipal Elections.

Suffraget—What is the lowest house rent that would entitle one to vote?

Answer—The amount of rent one pays for a house does not figure. In order to get on the voters' list one must be assessed for $400 at least, either as a tenant or an owner.

"What is the meaning of poll tax?"

Answer—The poll tax is a tax placed on young men 21 years or over, who do not pay other taxes. It is the fee you are charged by the corporation for the privilege of walking on the sidewalks, driving on the streets, drinking from the public fountains, breathing Peterborough air, walking under the glare of the electric lights, protection by the police and the many other advantages you enjoy by being a resident of this city. You have no right to a vote at municipal elections and your name will not appear on the voters' list until you have some better excuse. It is a good thing you paid your poll tax last year, and if you are a man worthy of citizenship in Peterborough you will walk up to the tax collector and pay it again this year. If you are not worthy the city would refuse to accept your money. Merely paying a poll tax, however, will never get you a vote on the local option bylaw.

OVER-WORKED KIDNEYS.

Cause, Rush of Blood, Fulness, Dizziness.

J. T. Chetland, the well-known railway engineer of Hamilton, found the strain always resting upon men of his occupation vastly intensified by a tendency of the blood to rush to his head, and often at times when clearness of vision and great steadiness were demanded. Finding some difficulty in bending—a stiffness with pain having settled in his back, it occurred to him that his kidneys might be at fault. "This was a happy idea, for by it I not only got rid of the pain but many other troubles as well. I took a full dose of Dr. Hamilton's Pills and was glad to note that some obstruction of the kidneys which I had lately noticed, was at once relieved. The flushed appearance of my face gave way to a more rational color and there was a perceptible improvement in my appetite. Dr. Hamilton's Pills certainly act splendid upon the blood, removing heat and fulness and that sort of dizziness that makes a man at the throttle wish when it siezes him that he were elsewhere."

No medicine gives such unquestionably good results for stomach, liver and blood troubles as Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they are mild, certain, and always curative. Refuse any substitute.

Preventics, the new Candy Cold Cure Tablets, are said by Druggists to have four special specific advantages over all other remedies for a cold. First—They contain no Quinine, nothing harsh or sickening. Second—They give almost instant relief. Third—Pleasant to the taste, like candy. Fourth—A large box 48 Preventics—at 25 cents. Also fine for feverish children. Sold by all dealers.

NERVILINE.

Fifty years ago Nerviline was used from coast to coast and in thousands of houses this trusty liniment served the entire family, cured all their minor ills and kept the doctor's bill small. Today Nerviline still holds first rank in Canada among pain relieving remedies—scarcely a home you can find that doesn't use it.

TESTIMONIAL NO. 4398 — From Port Hope, Ont., Mr. W. T. Greenaway of the Guide newspaper staff, writes: "For 20 years we have used Nerviline in our home, and not for the world would we be without it. As a remedy for all pain, earache, cramps, headache and disordered stomach, I know of no preparation so useful and quick to relieve as Nerviline."

Let every mother give Nerviline a trial; it's good for children, good for old folks—you can rub it on as a liniment or take it internally.

Wherever there is pain, Nerviline will cure it. Refuse anything but Nerviline. 25c. per bottle, five for $1.00, all dealers or the Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

THE SITUATION IN BRITAIN.

No one who has the slightest regard for the future of the British Empire can regard the situation in Great Britain today with unconcern. The basic fabric of the British constitution which is unwritten, is that the House which has the power of taxation must have the control of the purse strings. That was the point which produced the American revolution and lost to Britain the whole North American continent. It was the birth of the present day freedom of the self-governing dominions, or daughter states, or colonies—it is immaterial what name they are called—and it is the grave principle which now confronts the people of the Motherland.

With such an issue before the British people there can be but one result. The interference by the House of Lords in the expenditure of the nation must once and for ever be ended.

The House of Lords passed the first Reform Bill only under the threat of civil war, and it has since blocked every other extension of power to the people. When the House of Lords now talks of consulting the country it is merely expressing the completeness of its traditional contempt for the intelligence of the nation and for British democracy. It is not the sovereignty of the people which Lord Lansdowne asserts, but the sovereignty of the House of Lords. He demands the right on behalf of the House of Lords, to reject any budget, to derange the finances of the country, and to dissolve the House of Commons. That means the end of representative government, and the shifting of the centre of political power from the House of Commons to the House of Lords, from 40,000,000 British citizens to 600 peers. A hereditary Chamber, responsible to nobody, representing only an aristocratic caste and territorial interests, has had the supreme audacity to assail the House of Commons in the very centre of its majesty and pride. All that is glorious in the age-long struggle for British freedom is embodied in the control which that great assembly has over the national purse.

THE NATIONALITIES OF IMMIGRANTS.

A report published by the Department of the Interior, giving the nationalities of the immigrants into Canada, makes public some statistics will be of general interest. From 1897 to 1909 inclusive, the immigrants from the British Isles numbered 541,066; United States, 425,611; Galicia, 83,627; Italy, 49,695, and from Russia, 47,286. The largest immigration in any one year from any o the countries mentioned was that from the United Kingdom in 1907-8, which amounted to 120,182. The British immigration fell off to 82,901 in the year just ended, but was still almost as large as that from the United States of 59,832.

These figures should reassure those who have feared that the flood if immigration into the Dominion would tend to swamp the British element in our population. Many of the settlers arriving in the three Prairie Provinces are Canadians, or the children of Canadians, who took up land in the northwestern States of the Union and who are now returning to Canada to find homes in our North-West. This class of settlers is a most desirable one in many respects. Of the 1,100,000 or 1,200,000 of immigrants who have come into Canada in the last twelve years, it will be seen, therefore, that about one million came from the United Kingdom and the United States, and of these the former led the latter by about twelve per cent.

FINE REPORT IS SHOWN.

Bank of Ottawa Presents Splendid Figures for Past Year's Business.

Mr. David MacLaren, president of the Bank of Ottawa, presented to the shareholders at the annual meeting held yesterday afternoon, a very gratifying statement of the business transacted for the past year. In his report, the president expressed the opinion that trade indications gave evidence of even wider expansion financially, and that from the bank's point of view, there is every hope of securing even greater profits than in the past.

The statement showed that the bank has opened a number of branch offices throughout the Dominion during the past year, with favorable results. The finances as compared with last year, show splendid progress. Net profits for the twelve months ended November 30 last, after deducting expenses, and making the necessary provision for all interest accounts and other contingencies, amounted to $421,065. Four quarterly dividends at the rate of ten per cent. per annum were paid aggregating $303,785; leaving a balance carried forward, after allowing for other disbursement, to profit and loss account of $455,919. Deposits bearing and not bearing interest show a total of $28,776,193.

Call loans in Canada are given at $1,574,000, while call loans elsewhere than in Canada show $900,000 with current loans at $23,935,513. Cash assets make the total of $14,308,645, which are easily convertible into cash. The total assets are placed at $39,212,189. This is certainly a splendid showing, and the shareholders will have reason to commend the management for its administration of the bank's affairs.

If you are suffering from biliousness, constipation, indigestion, chronic headache, invest one cent in a postal card, send to Chamberlain Medicine Co., Des Moines, Iowa, with your name and address plainly on the back, and they will forward you a fee sample of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. 14

COOK LOCATED IN SANITARIUM.

New York, Dec. 9.—Dr. Cook is in a private sanitarium in Philadelphia. This was learned positively by the Evening Mail today. It was also learned beyond the possibility of dount that he is under an assumed name, and that the authorities of the institute had sworn themselves to secrecy as to his whereabouts.

There are three men in New York city who know the whereabouts of Cook. Cook is not hiding, but is suffering from a nervous breakdown—was the assurance given. The name and location of the sanitarium was withheld.

Copenhagen, Dec. 9.—A summary of the affidavits of persons claiming to have aided Dr. Cook in the preparations of his Polar data published in London and New York today, was read here with amazement. Scientific circles are inclined to be incredulous regarding the charges and some persons, like Dr. Carl Burrau, the astronomer, consider them so improbable that their effect will be to strengthen confidence in Dr. Cook.

Dr. Burrau said; "Passages in the story telegraphed here give me the impression that the matter is thoroughly untrustworthy. Take, for instance, the statement about Capella. Capella neither rises nor sets in the Polar regions, but remains fixed over the horizon. In order to make observations at the North Pole, a more extended and a more detailed knowledge is necessary than is usually enjoyed by the average ship's captain. It will, however, be easy for the university to determine the truth regarding the charges."

The committee of six under the presidency of Prof. Elis Stromgren, the astronomer, which is to examine Dr. Cook's records on behalf of the University of Copenhagen, will begin its work at the end of the present week.

Don't Risk even a penny—until health returns. And I mean just exactly that. I am the one physician who says to the sick, "I will, out of my own pocket, pay for your medicine if it fails to bring you help."

And for 30 years Dr. Shoop's medicines have been used and recommended in every city and hamlet in America. They are positively stand-bys in every community—and every reader can learn why.

Then why pay the cash, and at your risk, for other unwarranted and uncertain medicines? Thousands upon thousands have in the past successfully used Dr. Shoop's Remedies.

Get Health

When the Stomach, or Kidneys, or the Heart nerves fail, I now how quickly Dr. Shoop's Restorative will bring them back to health again. But best of all, they positively take no money risk whatever.

WASHING HOUSE PLANTS.

How to Keep Them Healthy and Free From Insects.

If after taking flowers into the house you discover the troublesome meal bugs, aphis, the torment of chrysanthemum; green flies and tiny red spiders, begin at once to kill them. The overwhelming development of these pests can be stopped only by using some strong solution that will kill the insects and destroy the eggs. If a small camel's hair brush is dipped into alcohol and the haunts of these pests are washed out with the solution, followed with a tobacco suds wash, clean plants will be insured. Do not permit this water to run into the earth, for alcohol will kill some plants. Have a piece of oilcloth, cut a hole in the centre and slit one side to the edge. This can be wrapped around the plant to prevent the water going into the crock. This is also an excellent method when cleaning flowers in the kitchen sink, for the dirt does not overflow when the crock is protected with the oilcloth covering.

The red spider can be killed with pure water, but this process requires that the entire plant be immersed. This is easily done, and the water should be changed a number of times. Do not leave one plant untouched, but clean all at the same time. Just a few insects will increase rapidly in numbers, and the aphis to-day would be a past generation to-morrow, so the accumulation of these little pests should be fought from the time flowers are taken into the house. No flower collects insects more rapidly than ivy. The fragile leaves and stems are alive with them, for which reason ivy should be kept out of the collection of rare plants. Flowers with large leaves should be washed. Buy a small soft brush and keep it for the purpose of washing the flower leaves. It cleans under the leaves and between the stems and stock.

IVY FOR HOME DECORATION.

How to Grow the English and German Varieties With Ease.

For a growing green which is beautifully decorative in the home in winter there is nothing more satisfactory than ivy. There are so many artistic ways of arranging the ivy, and the English variety particularly is so hardy that it cannot fail to grow. Artists have painted it and poets sung of it—the romantic ivy green.

With a pot containing the ivy standing on a table, floor or shelf the creeping branches may be trained in any direction about the room. Have the vine clamber up the window casing, and the green and leafy screen through which you can look out upon a wintry landscape will make it seem less bleak. Stand the jar containing the ivy on a bracket shelf at one end of the mantel and let it wander, with skillful training, up over mantel and walls, stray tendrils drooping gracefully over pictures and the like.

Ivy may be trained over the archway which divides rooms, and no portieres will be needed. There is also the more delicate German ivy, which requires gentler handling. It will grow effectively without soil. I saw one growing in a large bowl of water—the kind of glass bowl used for small aquaria. The ivy grew over the sides of the bowl, festooning itself in tangled masses of vivid green, which gave a living beauty to the whole room.—Suburban Life.

No Influence.

During a municipal election in a town in the west of Scotland a young lady who was canvassing in behalf of one of the candidates called at a house, the door of which was opened by the good wife.

"I have called to solicit your vote on behalf of Mr. ——," said the young lady.

"But it's not me that's got the vote. It's ma man," replied the woman.

"Yes," said the young lady, "but I thought you might perhaps use your influence with him."

"Me influence him?" said the good wife. "I hiv nae influence wi' him. Only this morning I ask't him to wash the floor afore he went out, and he wadna dae it."

Quits.

A little girl was in the habit of selling "stretchers." Her auntie told her she could never believe her and, to warn her, related the tale of the boy who called "Wolf, wolf!" and how the wolf really did come one day and ate up all her sheep.

"Ate the sheep?" asked the child.

"Yes."

"All of them?"

"Yes; all of them," answered her auntie.

"Well," said the little one, "I don't believe you, and you don't believe me. So there!"

Woman's Preparation For the Street.

Nearly every man knows that it takes the average woman two hours to dress for the street, and they seem hurried at that, but few men know just why such preparations take so long. For the enlightenment of the latter is the explanation in boiled down form as given by an authoritative person:

Fitting on dress, forty minutes; buttoning same, ten minutes; arranging hair, twenty-five minutes; touching up face, fifteen minutes; setting hat, twenty minutes; mirror contemplation, ten minutes.

In Doubt.

"Prisoner," said the court sternly, "are you guilty or not guilty?"

"Now, judge," answered the defendant confidentially, "we's bof been thoo dis here kin' o' business befo', an' you knows jes' as well as I does dar ain' no use o' me tryin' to answer dat kin' o' question tell de trial's over an' I finds out whether I's been lucky or not."

She Did.

"Didn't some idiot propose to you before our marriage?"

"Certainly."

"Then you ought to have married him."

"That's just what I did."

Bran Bath Bags.

Take a pound and a half of new bran, three-quarters of a pound of almond meal, eight ounces of powdered orris root and five ounces of shaved castle soap.

Make muslin bags five or six inches square and put in three tablespoonfuls of the mixture. The quantity given above will fill a dozen and a half bags.

The bran bags add delightful refreshment to the bath.

What He Wouldn't Take.

The bartender grasped the man next the stove by the shoulder and shook him until he was awake.

"Here, Zeph," he told him, "you'd better go out and get some fresh air. It'll do you good."

Zeph merely grunted, drunkenly, and huddled back in his chair. The bartender tried it again with like result.

"You won't get out, won't you!" he roared angrily. Seizing the unfortunate Zeph by the collar and the seat of the trousers, he escorted him forcibly to the alley. "Get out there in the air and brace up," was his advice.

"Y' kin put me out if y' like, but" —Zeph straightened up with drunken dignity—"ye can't make me take no air, darn ye."

Too Near the Throne.

In the seventies of the last century the artist, Anton von Werner, was appointed to perpetuate the German imperial proclamation. He first made a sketch to submit to the old Emperor William. In this the various personages were grouped in the same order as during the ceremony at Versailles. William I. standing on a raised platform, with Bismarck at his left on a lower step and on his right the crown prince, whom the artist had represented with one foot on the upper level. The emperor examined the sketch and at once noted the position of the Crown Prince Frederick. He frowned, took his pencil and made a thick, rapid stroke through his son's right leg. "Not yet," said he.

An Odd Way to Fish.

The natives of Tutuila, one of the islands of Oceania, have a peculiar method of catching fish. At a given signal all the inhabitants of the village assemble on the seashore to the number of about 200 persons, each one carrying a branch of the cocoa palm. With these in their hands they plunge into the water and swim a certain distance from the shore, when they turn, forming a compact semicircle, each one holding his palm perpendicular in the water, thus making a sort of sieve. The leader of the party then gives a signal, and the fishers all approach the seashore gradually in perfect order, driving before them a multitude of fishes that are cast on the sands and killed with sticks.

An Elephant's Courtesy.

At the conclusion of a children's performance at Old Meldrum an elephant proceeded along a narrow road with a pail in its trunk for the purpose of procuring water from a pump. A little girl chanced to get in the animal's way, and, the road being only wide enough to accommodate his substantial body, the elephant laid down the pail, picked up the child with his trunk and gently lifted her to a place of safety, afterward resuming his journey to the pump for the water.—Westminster Gazette.

He Lived There All Right.

An anxious father got wind of the rumor that his son was leading rather a convivial life at college. But the son strenuously denied the charge in letters to his father. Still unsatisfied, the father made an unexpected visit to his son's lodging place and, giving the bell a manly pull, was met by a grim faced landlady, who seemed to know what was coming.

"Does Mr. James Smith live here?" asked the father.

"He does," replied the landlady. "Bring him right in."

The Bird of Death.

Only one specimen of venomous bird is known to the student of ornithological oddities—the Epir N'Deah, or "Bird of Death," a feathered paradox of New Guinea. Persons bitten by the creature are seized by maddening pains, which rapidly extend to every part of the body. Loss of sight, convulsions, and lockjaw are symptoms which follow in rapid succession.

Prevention, the new Candy Cold Cure Tablets, are said by druggists to have many special specific advantages over all other remedies for a cold. First—They contain no Quinine nothing harsh or sickening. Second—They give almost instant relief. Third—Pleasant to the taste, like candy. Fourth—A large box—25 Preventics—25 cents. Also fine for feverish children. Sold by all dealers.

The Important Thing

What That Was the Doctor Told Mary Trenton.

By JEANNE O. LOIZEAUX.

Copyright, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

Dr. John Trevor lifted his big rumpled black head from his book and, with his mind still full of "Minor Surgery," scowled on his friend who had for some time been talking unheeded. He concluded to give Morton a minute's attention and then if necessary put him bodily forth from the office and be rid of him.

"Come out of your hole for once and help a fellow in a pinch," Morton was saying in evident continuance of a (to him) interesting subject. "Be human. You used to be occasionally decent to a girl in college. I need you—honest, Trevor. Miss Dell is here at the Kings' with her cousin. You knew her at school—Mary Trenton. It seems that one will not stir without the other. I wish to goodness you would take Miss Trenton to the club dance tonight."

The doctor looked his friend over with good natured contempt. He was a snapshot diagnostician. No need to look at Morton's tongue. It always proclaimed its owner's ailment in time.

"Again?" he remarked caustically. "The hundredth time since I have known you! It's Miss Dell, I take it, Morton, it occurs to me to inquire why in thunder you don't marry and have done with your sufferings. Why be the eternal target? What is the important thing in your life anyway? If the law is like medicine you should give some time to your profession, and it looks to me as if you do nothing but trail about after some pretty bundle of skirts. It's well enough, but you don't seem to be landing anywhere in particular."

"Well, it's serious this time. If I thought she would—have me I'd—do—anything! I'm hard hit. I think she likes me too. But how much? I can't get her alone if you don't help me. Nobody else in this empty town is fit to amuse that little cousin of hers. You remember her? Little and blond and—awfully sweet, you know."

The doctor tried to call up Mary Trenton's face.

"Seems to me I do," he said thoughtfully. Morton groaned.

"To think of any human man having to remember Mary Trenton—that is, unless he had seen her cousin! Are you going to be decent the next two weeks, Trevor?"

"Sure thing, boy! Make your plans, and I'll play dummy, anything to do a good turn. But let me tell you something—the important thing with me is to build up my practice and ground myself at every turn in my profession. I want another year abroad; I want the best piano money can buy, for I miss my music; I want a pedigreed Boston terrier and a motorcar that can't be beat. But I don't want a wife—not now. I can't more than support myself yet in the style to which I have been accustomed, and I don't want to touch what Aunt Joanna left me. I want 'to make good' myself. I tell you this because you are a vile matchmaker and because you may as well know now that if you have anything up your sleeve about me and Miss Trenton you can shake it out now and have done; that's all. Call around, and I'll be in gala togs and do your bidding. Now get out!"

Morton obeyed.

That was the beginning of two weeks unparalleled in the history of John Trevor, M. D. Morton tried his complaisance to the utmost. Constantly every evening, many afternoons, every spare minute and many minutes that really could not be spared he claimed attendance on Mary Trenton, while his friend won his labored way to the heart of Eleanor Dell. Mary was used to slavish attentions, and this great rugged, bluff, brilliant, totally delightful man of science piqued her pride, stimulated her interest. He was beneath his perfect courtesy indifferent, wary—nay, he seemed at times even disapproving. She felt for the first time in her spoiled young life inadequate and futile. It seemed that even her great beauty did not blind him to her little faults.

Dr. Trevor began to be interested, to think that with a little training the girl might really concern herself with the real things of life. He took her through the hospitals, and she found a new life of helping open to her vision. All those poor sick minds and bodies were to be healed! She felt more than ever silly and futile, more than ever humble and admiring. The doctor explained everything to her, told her of the physician's life, its hard work, its high aims, its stimulus to better conditions for the world.

The girls began to speak of returning to their own house in another week, and summer festivities began to multiply in their honor. The doctor actually neglected his practice, and his research work was forgotten. He did not realize what was upon him until one night he woke from a dream of cutting a brutes arm without giving an anaesthetic and found it was Mary Trenton's round little arm. It seemed a horrible thing to hurt her. He was cursing himself for a brute when at last he found himself sitting straight up in bed. Then he cursed himself for an utter fool that he could let a tiny yellow headed slip of a laughing girl disturb his scientific peace even in a dream! He resolved to get out of the danger zone. He was glad she was going away.

But the next night was even worse, for he could not sleep. He now knew, with a sort of terror, that he was in love. His prognosis was guarded. Did it always hurt like this—love? He would, save that shame deterred him, have asked the experienced Morton, now safely housed in an engagement to Miss Dell. But he, John Trevor, M. D., would not weakly settle into more happy domesticity. He would devote every energy to his noble profession. He would fight off this weakness.

He prescribed a dose of absence for himself. In the morning he phoned to Morton that he had an important case and would be busy all day and evening. Sorry, but it could not be helped. Then in his private office he proceeded by the light of his reason to convince himself that it was but a senseless fancy. Men often got over worse ailments. Then there came again before his vision her little fair face with the new sweet, helping look in the deep blue eyes, the serious attention to his words—as if his words mattered. He could not help wondering whether he could not have made her care. He supposed Hilton, the idiot, would take his place in the moonlight picnic party "on" for that evening. He went into his laboratory and began to boil.

Long past noon he snatched his forgotten lunch. He was restless. Well, hot as it was, he would have a walk. He had a theory that plenty of fresh air and stiff exercise would cure any known form of temporary insanity. He started out. But the girl went with him. Coming back, perspiring and disgusted, he determined firmly not to pass the King house. In the first place it was out of his way, and she might be in the big old garden or on the veranda, and he would have to go in a minute and be decent. No, he would not see her. Still—well, he would go past, for really he should see old Mrs. Patton across the way and ask about her hay fever. His step quickened. He made his call, talking with his lazy, comfortable old patient on the porch. As he left her she pursued him with gossip.

"Ah, there goes Percy Hilton!" she exclaimed. "I suppose, as usual, he is going to see Mary Trenton. Elizabeth King would be delighted to have her cousin marry him. Isn't it a pity that money and brains don't always go together?" He laughed and got away. But his blood boiled. Hilton, that degenerate son of the overrich—it would be hideous! He did Hilton injustice, however, for he really was decent enough in his way. The doctor decided to call at the Kings' just for a moment. As he turned the corner he saw the other man swinging along, evidently bound for the same goal.

And, like a flash, John Trevor knew that there was but one important thing in the whole world, and that was to get to Mary Trenton—first. Surely that fellow would not have the unbelievable impudence to propose to her! Surely she would never accept him if he did! As he came to the foot of the long garden, walking in his restless, headlong fashion, something twitched at his coat sleeve. He turned to see Mary Trenton. The girl was leaning over the green hedge, smiling up to him, her great garden hat pushed back.

"Is it so important as all that, your case?" she queried, mischief in her eyes. "If somebody is really dying I will not detain you; otherwise it is too hot to race like that—past your friends especially." He looked down on her, helpless.

"The only important thing in this world is—you," he said suddenly, while she trembled and blushed at his tone.

"Happy to be even—a thing—to you," she murmured, mischief still in her eye. His look rebuked her.

"Do you—can you—Mary—I adore you! Will you marry me? Will you?" It was sufficiently precipitate, and the sun was very hot, and she saw Hilton looking over the lawn for her.

"Tell me—will you?" The girl's face was very happy, but she was yet a woman and would not be too ready with a reply.

"Come—over into the shade," she said. "I don't want—that man to find me." The doctor cleared the hedge, and like two naughty children they sneaked behind the shrubbery to safety in a tree hidden corner. Then he faced her inquiringly. Tears suddenly filled her eyes, and she laid her arm up across her face like a child. He took it down and drew her close.

"Dearest, dearest, what is it? Won't you tell me?" She drew away and looked at him seriously.

"I was—afraid—you—weren't going to ask me!"

Was ever anything so foolish? He straightway informed Mary Trenton—and thought he was telling the truth—that from the first time he had set eyes on her he had loved her and would have followed her round the world to "ask her." The really foolish thing would have been to devote a big warm heart to a mere profession. Love was the important thing.

Balloons and Eagles.

A book has been discovered in Vienna bearing on its title page this legend: "About the invention of air navigation by means of balloons and eagles, by Jakob Kimserer; published at the expense of the author by Herr Loeschenkohl, Kohlmarkt, Vienna, 1801." It is an elaborate treatise on aviation in which a balloon is steered through the air by eagles which have been "trained and deprived of their talons." Minute instructions are given as to how the birds should be harnessed, and suggestions are made as to the employment of double teams and relays. The author-inventor expresses the hope that his idea may be employed first to expedite the delivery of letters and dispatches and that persons competent as trainers of giant birds will carry his "wonderful idea" into execution.

The old-fashioned way of dosing a weak stomach, or stimulating the Heart or Kidneys is all wrong. Dr. Shoop first pointed out this error. This is why his prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—is directed entirely to the cause of these ailments—the weak inside or controlling nerves. It isn't an stimulate, says Dr. Shoop, to strengthen a weak Stomach, Heart, or Kidneys if one neglects the nerve. When these nerves fail, then these organs must surely falter. These vital truths are teaching druggists everywhere to discuss and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Test it a few days, and real Improvement will promptly and surely follow. Sold by all dealers.

SHOPPING IN MEXICO

Women Get Plenty of Excitement In Making a Purchase.

BARGAINING AS A FINE ART.

The Descent From the Asking Price to the Last Price and From That to the Final Selling Price Works Out Something Like a Farce Comedy.

When a woman goes shopping in the City of Mexico, especially if she speaks Spanish, she gets far more excitement for her money in the course of an afternoon than she could hope to compass in a year's time in America.

In the Spanish and French dry goods houses, where the trade is almost exclusively feminine, the goods are marked with the "asking price," which is a mere mathematical figure of speech, and the first question that the experienced shopper always asks of the salesman is, "What is your last price?"

This "ultimo precio" is generally about 25 per cent less than the selling price with which the goods are tagged. It forms, however, a certain basis from which to start the bargaining, which thereafter is carried on with all the skill and fury that characterize such transactions everywhere throughout Latin America. The woman customer may wish to purchase a few yards of silk, for example. The marked price is, say, $2 a yard, and the "last price" is given as $1.50. The woman will look at the piece she desires with the same unconcerned scorn with which she regards everything else that is shown her. She will disparage it from every point of view and finally ask for something that is not likely to be in stock. At last she will sigh and look about in despair.

"Caramba, but I'm weary with this vain task of endeavoring to find something that I wish in this second class establishment! The prices are far higher than anywhere else, but I try to patronize this place because the proprietors are friends of my husband. Now, that rose silk is not the shade I wish, but I might be able to use it some time if I could buy it at a reasonable price."

The salesman, who has been listening with an assumed air of sympathy, responds with all the flowery eloquence that he can command and with a constant play of rapid gestures, his lighted cigarette in one hand describing a little arc of fire somewhat dimmer than the diamonds he wears on his fingers.

"Senorita, we place at your feet this establishment and all that it contains. It is your house, and you may do with it as you will. But the very last price at which I can offer you this silk is $1.25 a yard. I do this with a fear of losing my position, but with the hope that the proprietors will pardon my audacity when they learn that your husband is one of their personal friends."

"I thank you, senor," responds the shopper. "I appreciate your consideration, but I could not possibly accept the silk as a gift. Nevertheless I would be willing under the circumstances, so that you might make a reasonable profit, to give you 50 cents a yard for two yards."

At this the salesman drops on the floor the stub of the cigarette he has been smoking. This leaves both hands free, and if he is a master of the selling art as known in that country tears come to his eyes and he wrings his hands apparently in the depths of despair and chagrin. The Mexicans dearly love acting and dissimulation of all sorts, and this byplay of the clerk is but a part of the price of the goods. After frenzied ejaculations he puts the price down to $1 a yard, saying that that figure is the "last of the last prices." The lady has been gazing about indifferently and gathers up her pocketbook and other impediments as she rises to depart. As an afterthought and with condescension that amounts almost to pity she remarks:

"Sixty cents—no more. It is my last word. Adios, senor."

"One little moment, senorita. Do not depart in anger. Rather than let you go thus you may have the silk at 90 cents a yard, and I will make up the difference from my own pocket."

The lady hesitates, turns back as if indifferent, yet undecided. Then she again starts toward the door, speaking the phrase of pious farewell which is the Spanish equivalent of a final good-by.

"May you go with God, senor."

She almost has reached the portal when the salesman catches up with her. He has had time to light another cigarette to fortify himself for the final struggle, and, waving this in one hand, he begs her, almost on bended knees, to return and take the silk at 80 cents a yard. She looks languidly upon him. She has concluded that 80 cents would be about the right price and probably the best she can do. Yet she returns undaunted and in the softest of voices breathes the Spanish words which are the equivalent in that tongue for 70 cents. After ten minutes more of firmness on the shopper's part and every aspect of poignant grief by the salesman two yards of silk finally change hands at 75 cents.

The same furious bargaining is the rule in the grocery stores and in the sidewalk markets.—New York Press.

THE DIFFERENCE.

In one respect Canada and the United States differ notably in consideration of matters naval. The entire opposition to an active naval policy, in the United States, comes from the middle west, from the great Mississippi States, which being far from either ocean consequently have to be fulled with waterways and various other local inducements in order that the Atlantic and Pacific States may have their way in carrying out an active naval programme. Whereas in Canada, the most profound, or at any rate the noblest enthusiasm, for a comprehensive scheme of naval defence comes from Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. Canada's West is more in tune with its eastern provinces than are the similar stretches of country in the republic to the south.

CAPITAL STOCK (Authorized $1,000,000—1,000,000 SHARES OF $1.00 EACH.
700,000 SHARES ISSUED—300,000 IN TREASURY.

Claim "T. R. 189" is stated by competent mining engineers to be undoubtedly the best property in the Montreal River District. It contains 40 acres, mostly hilly, of diabase formation, and is within 2¼ miles of transportation.

Active development was begun by the present owners in May last. The necessary buildings for men, horses, tools, powder and stores have been erected. About two miles of surface trenching have been done in the south-east quarter of the property, 14 veins have been uncovered, 8 of them showing silver at or near the surface.

Assays of surface ore have run as high as 12,000 ounces to the ton.

Two shafts have been sunk, No. 1 to a depth of 63 feet, and No. 2 to 62 feet.

Shaft No. 2 opens up a vein from 5 to 14 inches thick, which is improving with depth, and which shows plates and leaves of pure metallic silver embedded in the calcite.

Shaft No. 1 also shows greatly increasing values with depth. At 60 feet the ore is very rich. There are two veins, 8 inches and 2 inches thick, separated by 20 to 26 inches of silver-bearing aplite. At 63 feet a level has been driven along the vein for 20 feet.

The ore taken from this level has been of exceptional richness, running from 8,000 to 17,000 ounces to the ton.

Such large values, obtained so near the surface, are very promising, particularly as at 3 other points along the same vein masses of pure metallic silver have been found directly beneath the soil. There is therefore every reason to believe that this vein will show at other points values equally as large as those where the shaft has been sunk.

Already $100,000 worth of ore has been blocked out.

The large number of veins that have been stripped in the section trenched promises a large tonnage of pay ore when they are developed. Then there is ⅔ of the claim not yet trenched which should show equally satisfactory values.

An idea of the excellent returns which Claim "T. R. 189" promises on money invested, can be gained from the fact that, among others, the following gentlemen are each owners of 15,000 shares or more—

HENRY H. LYMAN. — F. P. BUCHANAN. — S. LICHTENHEIN. — T. L. MORRISEY.
ALEX. PRINGLE — D. LORNE McGIBBON. — JOHN E. HARDMAN. — MAJOR MADOCKS.
S. A. McMURTRY. — C. E. GAULT. — SHIRLEY OGILVIE. — W. H. WALSH.

Samples of ore can be seen at the offices of the undersigned.

GUARANTEED INVESTMENT

The Remarkable Offer Made by the Treasury Gold Mining and Milling Company of Fairview, Nevada

Guaranterd by a $1,000,000 Bank

SUPPOSE a million-dollar bank should offer you a gold bond, guaranteeing you against loss in an investment you desired to make, and providing that, whether the investment did or did not prove a profitable one, the bank would pay you back every dollar of your money at the end of twenty years, wouldn't that "look good" to you? And wouldn't you take it?

Wouldn't it look as though the bank itself, as well as the men behind the enterprise that formed the basis of the investment, had absolute confidence in it, and looked upon it as a safe and profitable venture?

Can you figure out any way in which you could possibly lose the money you put into an enterprise with that kind of backing? To be sure, you would run the risk of not receiving interest for that length of time on the amount of your investment, but you would also run the chance of multiplying it many times over in the way of dividends—and that is worth something, isn't it? In other words, you have opportunity to win, and not a single chance to lose.

Now, that is exactly what we, the officers and directors of Treasury Gold Mining and Milling Company, of Reno, Nevada, are offering for a short time to those who wish to take advantage of it; and we make this remarkable offer, first, because we know what we have in the way of a property, and, second, because we need a little more capital to erect a mill upon it and make it an extremely profitable producer in the shortest possible time.

This is the first time, to our personal knowledge, that an offer like this has ever been made with reference to any enterprise of a similar character, here or elsewhere.

Organization, Capitalization and Officers

Treasury Gold Mining and Milling Company is organized under the laws of the State of Nevada, with a capital stock of One Million Dollars ($1,000,000), divided into One Million (1,000,000) shares, of the par value of One Dollar ($1.00 each, full paid and non-assessable, and with no personal liability attaching to the stockholders. The number of shares in the treasury is Four Hundred Thousand (400,000).

The principal office of the company is at No. 336 Mill Street, Reno, Nevada, and the depository of the company is the Nixon National Bank, of the same city.

The officers are as follows: President, D. J. Kennedy, an old resident of Nevada, and one of the best known and most successful mining operators in the state; vice-president, F. W. Thomas, of the firm of John Brenner & Co., one of the largest mercantile establishments in the city; secretary, Donald Fraser, one of the proprietors of the Red Cross Drug Company, of Reno; treasurer, H. L. Burchell, mining operator, and manager of the most prominent of the leading law firms of the state.

Board of directors: D. J. Kennedy, F. W. Thomas, H. L. Burchell; Eugene Kelly, department manager with the Gray, Reid, Wright company, and Donald Fraser.

Location and Character of Properties

The holdings of Treasury Gold Mining and Milling Company include the following valuable properties in the famous Fairview district, in Churchill county, Nevada, reached by a fine wagon road from Fallon, the county seat:

By purchase outright—fully paid for and deed recorded at Fallon—valuable mining estates on both sides of the great Mizpah mine, on both of which properties rich ore has been found.

By purchase—paid for, deeded and recorded—the Treasury group of two full claims, amounting to 40 acres, to the north-east of the Mizpah mine, the rich ledge of which we have every reason to believe comes straight through our property for at least 2,000 feet. This we regard as a very valuable holding.

By purchase, an undivided one-half interest in seven claims, containing 100 acres, southwest of the Mizpah, with every indication that the Mizpah vein runs through our ground at least 1,500 feet. The deed for our one-half interest is recorded at Fallon, and we have an option for one year on the other one-half interest.

All the leasing rights and privileges of the Mizpah Milling and Leasing Company on twelve blocks of the celebrated Mizpah mine, for the term of five years. On this property, considerable quantities of fine shipping ore are already opened; drifting has been carried on for some distance on the 100-foot level, while the second level, at 175 feet depth, is now being driven on to catch the same ore body, when shipments will begin.

Values as Shown By Assays

Assays of ores taken from the various properties of the company show the following values:

From Treasury Group at the surface, gold and silver values	$139.50
" " " " " " " " " "	346.80
" " " " " " " " " "	77.42
From Kentucky Group, surface workings, gold and silver values	128.00
" " " " " " " " " "	78.00
From Mizpah shafts, tunnels and upraises, gold and silver values	993.95
" " " " " " " " " "	239.77
" " " " " " " " " "	235.46
" " " " " " " " " "	86.87
" " " " " " " " " "	84.21

From the foregoing tests, it will be seen that, leaving out of the calculation our own extensive properties, all of which contain indications of remarkable richness, we are fully justified in expecting sufficient profits from the operation of our five-year lease on the great Mizpah mine alone, to pay enormous dividends to all our stockholders. But to operate them all, with the greatly increased facilities and equipment we intend to add, should give us a production equaled by few mining properties in the world.

We have already found very rich ore in the shallow workings of our Kentucky group to the west, and of our Treasury group to the east of the Mizpah, and we can see no reason why both of these properties should not prove fully as rich as the famous Mizpah mine itself. We are in a district noted for its immense bodies of gold and silver ores, and where deep workings open up vast treasure vaults of mineral wealth.

Additional Equipment Required

In order to more speedily place these splendid properties among the high class producers of the state, and to combine the maximum of production and profit with the minimum of cost, considerable additional equipment is required.

This includes a standard, modern mill, to reduce our ore to bullion and concentrates at the mine, thus saving the transportation and treatment charges of $20 to $30 a ton on the ore to the Salt Lake smelters. To be sure, the ore is of such a high grade character that there is a good profit in mining and shipping it even at these high rates, but it would be better business to save it and add that much more to the net profits, by treating it at our own mill, which, under the circumstances, thus becomes a necessity. With a 100-ton plant, we should easily be able to treat our ore at an expense not to exceed $2.50 per ton, and by adding another unit to its capacity, can still further reduce the cost, and these save from $17.50 to $27.50 per ton on transportation and treating charges alone—quite an item when figuring the net profits.

The first unit capacity of 100 tons daily, of a standard mill, modern in every way, including stamps, concentrators, fine grinding, concentration and cyaniding, with a sampler in front, so that ore can be purchased from surrounding properties, and general custom work done if desired, will enable us to add one unit after another as may be required with increased development of the ore bodies. By thus adding to the capacity of the mill, we shall be in a position to treat an immense tonnage daily, and pay dividends accordingly.

We will therefore not only effect a great saving of our present expenditures, but earn a handsome revenue, practically all profit, from the large volume of custom work that would be brought to our mill for treatment and reduction.

We also want to sink a capacious double-compartment shaft in to the permanent subdrain zone at once, first, in order to have the ore bodies opened up for the mill, and secondly, to aid in determining the proper methods of treatment; so that we may build a mill adapted to the character of the ores, and capable of giving the largest returns to the company in the extraction of the gold and silver values.

Novel Plan to Secure Funds

Now, we are quite willing to admit that equipment of the character already mentioned, which will put the properties in the best possible working shape, will cost more money than is available at present, unless we accept the alternative of sacrificing a small portion of our special stock, in order to begin operations on a profitable basis at once.

The officers and directors of the company have therefore decided to adopt this method, and, while limiting the sales to but one-fifth of the capitalization, to surround the sale of every share with a positive safeguard against any possible loss.

We do not know that such an offer has ever before been made, and we expect the amount offered to be over-subscribed several times when the terms of the offer are made known.

First, we limit the amount of stock that will be sold, in order to provide the finds for necessary equipment, to Two Hundred Thousand (200,000) shares, and this is to be positively the last as well as the first, allotment that will be sold at the present low price, of 20 cents a share, as we honestly believe the stock will be good for dividends of not less than one dollar per share annually, after we commence treating 100 tons daily at the mill.

Stock Guaranteed

In order to absolutely protect purchasers of these shares against the possibility of a loss, we have made arrangements with the Metropolis Trust and Savings Bank, of San Francisco, one of the strongest financial institutions in the United States, to guarantee every share of stock sold, and to issue to every purchaser a gold bond for the full amount of his investment, each bond being payable in twenty years, whether the mines pay or not. Therefore, even if the mines never paid a dollar—though we expect them to pay millions—the stockholders cannot possibly lose anything except the interest on their investment, while they stand to win fortunes from the moments they put into these properties.

The shares offered on these unparalleled terms may be paid for either in cash or in five equal monthly payments, and the money derived there from will be used entirely for the further development and equipment of the properties. The shares will also be traded in on both the New York and Boston exchanges the moment we begin shipping and paying dividends.

The elements of industrial safety and of the speculative profits of gold mining under such extremely favorable conditions, are combined in this enterprise to a greater degree than in any other undertaking within our knowledge or experience, and will appeal with irresistible force to all sensible and conservative people as an opportunity without an equal. It is a case of "heads, you win; tails, you cannot lose." If the mines pay as we believe they will bring to every stockholder, in dividends, many times the amount of his investment. If they do not pay, he gets his money back.

66 Special Prizes

FOR THE PETERBOROUGH POULTRY SHOW NEXT JANUARY.

The Peterborough Poultry Association are receiving a full measure of encouragement, and practical support of their exhibition to be held in this city on January 4th, 5th and 6th next. Their prize list shows 66 specials, including eight silver cups and a $5 gold price, donated by merchants of Peterborough and others. Our citizens are manifestly interested in a good thing, and everything points to January's show eclipsing all previous efforts. The entries are filling up fast and the exhibit of poultry, etc., will unquestionably be a varied and a record one. The entry forms and prize lists may be obtained on application to Mr. John R. Eastwood at the Royal Bank. The $6, $3 and $1 prizes for the best three turkies dressed, promises to be a popular exhibit. Turkeys are to be starved and undrawn, with head, flight and tail feathers left intact.

To stop any pain in twenty minutes, take one of Dr. Shoop's Pink Pain Tablets. See formula on the box. Ask your Doctor or Druggist about this formula. It can't be bettered. Womanly pains, head pains any pain gets instant relief. Box of twenty Pink Pain Tablets, 25c. Sold by all dealers.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

RACED WITH A KING.

Alfonso Was Persistent, and His Opponent Was Courteous.

Of the many residents of Baltimore who passed last summer in Europe probably none attained the distinction of Mr. Samuel C. Rowland, vice president of the International Trust company, who, while motoring in Spain met King Alfonso of the land of Cervantes. In fact, he met the king three times.

The meetings occurred on the road from Biarritz to San Sebastian and, although interesting, were brief. The first time the king passed Mr. Rowland, then Mr. Rowland passed the king, and finally Alfonso passed Mr. Rowland. They did not speak as they passed by.

Asked yesterday to recite the details of his auto race with the monarch, Mr. Rowland smiled and said:

"I'm a little dubious of this king business," said Mr. Rowland democratically. "First there's the danger of international complications, and then there's less majesty to be considered."

"Your autos were going in the same direction?" was suggested.

"Yes," assented Mr. Rowland.

"And which was ahead?"

"Well, we were ahead at first, but the king passed us. Then somehow we began to gain on him. Whether my son Harvey, who was driving, opened the throttle a little I am hardly prepared to say. At all events, we gained on him slowly and finally passed him."

"And then?"

"Most persistent king I ever saw," Mr. Rowland seriously. "In the following mile his ma... reached the ground only three times by actual count, and then he passed us."

"And who was ahead at the finish?"

"Well, noblesse oblige, you know, and we let Alfonso keep the lead."—Baltimore Sun.

Invention of the Automobile.

No one man can be said to have invented the automobile, says the Boston Globe. The machine as it is today is the product of many minds in many countries. Horseless vehicles date back almost to the time when steam became a motive power, and as long ago as 1802 Richard Trevithick, an Englishman, constructed a machine which made a trip of ninety miles over country roads. In 1863 Delamare-Deboutteville and Malandin of Paris invented a tricycle propelled by compressed gas and a year later used petroleum for generating power. Dubbard and Lavassar were the first to invent a really practical petroleum motor. This was in 1880, since which time the development of the various types of road motors has been rapid. Electricity as a motive power for road machines was first used in the early eighties, but it was not until about 1890 that it began to be looked upon as a rival of petroleum. Of late years gasoline and steam motors have been extensively used.

Removable Clock Dials.

An improvement in clock dials which makes repairing much more convenient has been designed by a New York man. This dial is made in two parts, which slide through grooves at the sides and meet in the middle of the face. Their action is absolutely independent of the hands, and the sections may be removed with ease without first taking off the hands, as was necessary formerly. Such a contrivance not only makes less work for the clock man when repairs are necessary, but because of the ease with which the face is removed and the works reached many a man will be able to make his own repairs where he would otherwise have hesitated to attempt it. Most clocks are adjusted from the back, but the difficulty often lies in a front part, which is difficult to reach from the rear, even by an expert on timepieces. With a clock that opens both back and front every bit of mechanism is conveniently accessible.—Chicago News.

Metal Cutting With Oxygen.

A recent improvement in the method of cutting metals by a jet of oxygen consists in keeping the metal round the place where the jet operates in a state of incandescence. This does away with the former trouble caused by the presence of iron oxide and by unsteady manipulation of the jet. Plates of steel twelve inches thick can be cut by the jet. In one recent case a slab of steel eight inches thick was cut into strips three-quarters of an inch wide, and the width of the cut made by the jet was only about a quarter of an inch. Circular cuts can be made, and instead of penetrating straight down from the face of the plate the cut can be made bevel.

A Two Ton Crystal.

Near Fang San, a low mountain some ten miles to the west of Hsichow, a huge piece of crystal was recently unearthed. It is said to weigh 4,000 catties, is over four feet in diameter and five feet long. This is the second large crystal found at this place within two months. The crystal is a sort of flint. It is used in the making of Chinese spectacles and brings large prices. It is said that the owners were offered $25,000 for the piece.—Shanghai Times.

To Relieve Sore Throat.

At this season of the year, when sore throats, laryngitis and similar complaints are very prevalent in London, it may interest your readers to know of a very simple remedy which is recommended by the celebrated Dr Fauvel of Paris. He recommends a gargle of ordinary tea before going out in the morning and, if possible, on returning at night.—London Standard.

Winter Sports.

Those who like skating and tobogganing, and have in the past patronized the street railway rink and toboggan slide, will be pleased to learn that both will be operated again this winter. The Times made enquiries yesterday and was informed by Mr. Larmonth that the work of getting the rink and slide in operation would be proceeded with as soon as weather conditions warrant it being done.

ADVENTURES IN CLOUDS

COUNT ZEPPELIN DESCRIBES HIS WORK IN THE AIR.

Great German Inventor Who Has Perfected the Dirigible Balloon Has Spent His Last Penny In His Fight to Fly—He Has Had Many Narrow Escapes From Death—Countess Has Helped Him.

If there is one thing which the world and his wife admire more than another, it is pluck and perseverance. For that reason it is not difficult to understand the enthusiasm aroused on the continent by the flying feats of Count Zeppelin. For fifty years he has been striving to solve aerial navigation. He has beggared himself, spent his whole fortune of $120,000, borne the gibes and ridicule poured upon him by sceptics, risked his life time after time, and yet never abandoned faith in his ideas.

In the following words he described his aims to an interviewer a short time ago:

"I intend to build a vessel which will be able to travel to places which cannot be approached—or only with great difficulty — by other means of transport; to undiscovered coasts or interiors; in a straight line across land or water where ships are to be sought for; from one fleet station or army to another, carrying persons and despatches; for observation of the movements of hostile fleets or armies —not for active participation in actual warfare.

"My balloon must be able to travel several days without renewing provisions, fuel, or gas. It must travel quickly enough to reach a certain goal in a given number of days, and must possess sufficient rigidity and self-inflammability to ascend, travel and descend under ordinary conditions."

And the count has succeeded to the extent of being able to remain in the air for many hours and travel hundreds of miles.

"But I am not satisfied," he remarked. "The German Government want an airship which will fulfil the following conditions: First, it must be able to manoeuvre in the air for twenty-four hours; secondly, it must be able to land without injury to itself either on water or earth; and in the last place must be able to ascend to such a height that it cannot be injured by bullet-fire. Stringent conditions? Yes, but very necessary if the navigable balloon is to prove of real service. Do I think I can manage to fulfil these conditions? That, of course, is impossible to say, but I am going to try."

And this wonderful master of the air spoke with that quiet earnestness which almost convinced one that he would succeed, in spite of the fact that he is over seventy years of age. He is a man who speaks little of the past. From others one learns of how at one time he became so poor that he had to live in a little cottage on an allowance made to him by his friends. When, at thirty years of age, the count married a lady belonging to one of the German aristocratic families, his friends and relatives, who had regarded him almost as a lunatic on account of his devotion to the task of inventing aerial machines, thought that his wife would wean him from his eccentric ways. But in this respect they were disappointed.

The marriage itself and the ensuing honeymoon interrupted for a time Count Zeppelin's devotion to his research work, but within a year of the wedding day he was again hard at work on the solution of the problem, aided and encouraged by his young wife. Year by year passed, and still the aristocratic mechanic continued to construct all sorts of flying contrivances that for the most part refused to fly. He and his wife, however, were fully agreed that he should devote his whole life to the task of teaching mankind how to fly.

The countess has followed with unwearying interest and self-sacrifice the scientific researches which involved the expenditure of their entire fortune, and Count Zeppelin is the first to admit how much he owes to the encouragement of his wife.

For over thirty years the count devoted himself to the construction of flying machines, "but," he remarked, "the risks were too great and the successes were too small to warrant the continuation of such experiments. On one occasion I fell from a height of forty feet, but happened to alight on some bushes, which broke my fall and saved my life, although I received a number of painful wounds. On another occasion I fell from a considerable height, but again had the good fortune to alight on soft earth without sustaining more than a broken leg. These were but two of a number of accidents which led me to finally abandon the flying machine for the navigable airship."

"But even they have their perils, count!"

"Yes; I suppose one of the narrowest escapes I had was when last year I fell asleep in the cabin of my airship. By some lucky chance I did not sleep for long, and only a few minutes after I awoke the airship was in flames. Had I remained asleep I should certainly have been burned to death."

The adventures of Count Zeppelin, however, would almost fill a volume, for, apart from his exciting experiences in connection with flying machines and balloons, he has had innumerable escapes. He fought in the Franco-German War, and is said to have been the first German soldier to cross the frontier into France.

Boiled Water In Ancient Times.

Now that the use of boiled drinking water has become common it is interesting to be reminded that a similar method of guarding against disease was practiced in ancient times. Herodotus tells how Cyrus had his drinking water boiled and carried in silver vessels, and Pliny the elder relates that Nero had water boiled and afterward cooled for drinking by placing it in glass flasks surrounded with snow.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

THE PRUDENTIAL, ONE OF THE WORLD'S GREATEST LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES, OPENS A BRANCH OFFICE IN THIS CITY.

Almost every one has heard of or knows something of The Prudential Insurance Company of America, Home Office, Newark, N.J., often called the Gibraltar life insurance company, because of the use of the Rock of Gibraltar as a trade-mark.

This big company has established a branch office in this city and is conducting business in both branches of insurance, Industrial and Ordinary.

About thirty-four years ago Industrial insurance was unknown in the United States. It originated on this continent by John F. Dryden, founder and present chief executive of The Prudential, and Industrial plan at once found favor with the public.

This Life insurance is applicable to every member of the family, from one year of age to seventy. The premiums are collected weekly from the homes of the insured and are from three cents per week upward, according to the amount required for that bringing the benefits of life insurance protection within the means of the wage-earning class.

Much of the thrift and economy of this same wage-earning population may be traced to Industrial insurance. The habit of saving required to meet the weekly premiums unconsciously, but surely, inculcates similar habits of thrift and saving in other directions.

In the Ordinary branch all the popular forms of Life and Endowment policies are issued, in amounts from $1,000 up, and the cost is the lowest consistent with the liberal provisions of the policy and the high grade of life insurance afforded. As an investment a Prudential policy offers superior advantages.

The high standing of The Prudential makes it possible for the company to underwrite, because there can be no doubt of a Prudential promise. The Prudential has seven and three-quarter millions of policies in force, representing nearly a billion and a half of insurance.

In extending its field of operations to this city The Prudential offers a splendid opportunity for our young men to obtain profitable employment. Progress and promotion will be quick of hustle and ability are shown. Any young man desirous of making money and building up a successful future should consult The Prudential's representative here.

Prudential Agents will be glad to furnish full information concerning the company and its plans. The Prudential to any one. You should take an interest in life insurance, for it may make a big difference in your family's happiness some day.

A RUSH OF BUSINESS.

It Came Just at the Time He Wanted to Sell His Place.

One of the leading men of Louisville, reported to be one of the richest, got a bad start in business. He began by being a photographer, but found that the business didn't come up to expectations. He therefore wisely decided to sell out and start at something else. He finally interested some people in the proposition and appointed a time when they should come and look things over.

He now has the reputation of being shrewd, and that this is not a complimentary designation only is indicated by what happened then. He inserted an advertisement in the daily papers in small enough type not to attract everybody's attention and yet conspicuously enough to win consideration from those who make a point of looking for bargains, announcing that on a certain day he would take pictures free of charge. By a coincidence the day he set was the day when the prospective purchasers of his business were to be there.

The ad., as usual, paid, and that afternoon his gallery was crowded with visitors. They thronged in and out, and he could not take care of them rapidly enough, even with the aid of several assistants. When the folks he intended to do business with came he greeted them with a crown of disappointment, explaining that he was simply so busy that he couldn't see them then and asked them to come back in the morning, when things would likely have slackened up. They agreed and went away duly impressed.

He sold out to them next day, and it is perhaps superfluous to add that he got more for his outfit than he would have done if it hadn't been for the modest little advertisement.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

HOW INSECTS BREATHE.

System of Tubes That Run the Length of Their Bodies.

Landlubber animals have lungs, and sea creatures have gills. But insects have neither one nor the other. They have a complex system of tubes running throughout the whole length of the body by means of which air is conveyed to every part of the system. As they are destined to contain nothing but air, they are strongly supported to guard against collapse from pressure.

This support is furnished by means of a fine thread running spirally within the walls of the tube, much in the same way that a garden hose is protected with wire. There are generally two of these tubes which run the whole length of the insect's body.

Many flies, as larvae, live in the water. Arranged along each side of their bodies is a series of exceedingly thin plates, into each of which runs a series of blood vessels. These plates act and absorb the oxygen contained in the water. The tail ends in three feather-like protections. By means of these the larva causes currents of water to flow over the gills, and thus their efficiency is increased.

The gnat also lives in the water as a larva. But it has no gills; therefore it cannot breathe the oxygen in the water, but must breathe air. This is done by means of a spiracle situated at the tip of its tail. Indeed, the tail is prolonged into a little tube. The larva floats along head downward in the water with this tube just above the surface to enable it to breathe. After some time it is provided with two little tubes, which act in the same manner.—Chicago Tribune.

Conservative Club.

A meeting of the Conservative Club will be held Wednesday night.

Opening of the Legislature.

Although it has not yet been officially announced it is believed that the opening of the legislature will take place on January 18.

The peculiar properties of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy have been thoroughly tested during epidemics of influenza, and when it was taken in time we have not heard of a single of pneumonia. 15

Making Ice.

Jack Thirabeck, will start today making ice in the Brock street rink, and as there is a good floor bottom he will only need two or three days of frosty weather when he will be ready for the opening.

Finance Committee.

A meeting of the Finance Committee will be held this afternoon at three o'clock when the most important matter to be considered will be Dr. McPherson's claim for $1,000 for looking after the smallpox patients for four months last summer.

Many persons find themselves afflicted with a persistent cough after an attack of influenza. As this cough can be promptly cured by the use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, it should not be allowed to run on until it becomes troublesome. 13

New Premises.

Messrs. Warne Bros. are now located in their handsome new store on George street. The store formerly occupied by Messrs. E. F. Mason & Co., and which was burned out some weeks ago has been completely rebuilt and fitted up for Messrs. Warne Bros. The new tenants got moved in and were ready for business for the Saturday rush, and the large handsome store was largely patronized. Messrs, Warne Bros. are one of the most progressive firms in the city.

Liberal Donation.

Fire Chief Howard has received a donation of $10 from Mrs. Cathar. ine Birdsall, 166 Edinburgh street, for the Christmas celebration to be held by the firemen with their wives and children at the fire hall. The donor sends her thanks for services rendered by the department, and best wishes for the success of the affair. Any further contributions from others will be appreciated.

Christmas Rush.

The post office clerks and the express companies are already feeling the Christmas rush of business. Extra help is being put on in all theoffices. It is expected that this season will be the heaviest yet. As a matter of fact every year will see a big increase in the future as in the past. The wise ones will send their parcels early and see that they are securely done up. This will ensure pro pt and perfect delivery. The Dominion Express Company has sent printed gum labels to their numerous customers and instructions on how to ship the goods. An idea that will undoubtedly be a business getter for them.

St. Paul's Notes.

CALENDARS GOING.

Large Business Firms Find They are Not Profitable Advertising.

Calendars as an advertising medium are going out of date and there will be many hundreds of thousands of calendars less this year in Canada than previously. The largest firms using them have begun to awaken to the fact that they can not trace any results to that form of advertsing and as a result they have cut their orders in half this year, and will probably do likewise next year. They find that newspaper advertising is the only really profitable way of communicating with the public. Every person who carries insurance for instance, reads newspapers. The press is the only way to tell the people your story and when the business world wakens up to those fake advertising schemes the newspapers will begin to get a little profit and pay a dividend occasionally to the long suffering shareholders. This applies to the small business man who pays from $20 to $200 a year for calendars to hand out to the public as well as it does to the largest insurance companies or manufacturing concerns. That amount of money in legitimate advertising will bring profitable results.

OBITUARY.

James Henry Stewart.

Death came suddenly on Saturday evening for Mr. James Henry Stewart of Smith. The deceased had been unwell for some time and on Saturday afternoon he drove to the city and consulted Dr. Cameron who wanted him to go at once to the hospital. Mr. Smith was unable to do so and drove home again. Upon arrival there he took off his shoes and sat in a chair to await supper. Just as his wife announced everything ready the deceased died without any warning and without speaking. His death was a great shock to his relatives and friends and much sympathy is expressed for his wife and family. He was 44 years of age and his survived by his wife and two sons, Merton and Victor, both at home. The funeral arrangements wil be announced later.

E. F. MASON FOR MAYOR.

Will there be a contest for the mayoralty? A prominent business man told The Times on Saturday that a large deputation had waited upon Mr. E. F. Mason and urged him to enter the field and to publicly declare his intentions. Mr. Mason, everyone in the city knows, said the business man, has made a success of life. He has been in the City Council and nearly everyone is acquainted with his good work there. He is on the Board of Education this year, and that is the point on which he is considering. He has another year to serve on the board and during that year he expects to be of far more value than in the past year. The first year a man usually has to watch things and get acquainted, and Mr. Mason would like to finish his term there. He did not, however, refuse to consider the mayoralty proposition.

Coughs that are tight, or distressing tickling coughs, get quick and certain help from Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. On this account Druggists everywhere are favoring Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. And it is entirely free from Opium, Chloroform, or any other stupefying drug. The tender leaves of a harmless lung-healing mountainous shrub give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy its curative properties. BANK OF OTTAWA.

THIRTY-FIFTH ANNUAL MEETING

The Thirty-fifth Annual Meeting of the Shareholders of The Bank of Ottawa was held on Wednesday, the 8th day of December, 1909, the President, Mr. David Maclaren, in the chair.

Report of the Directors

The Directors beg to submit to the Shareholders the Thirty-fifth Annual Report, showing the statement of Profit and Loss for the year, and the Balance Sheet to 30th ultimo:

Balance at credit of Profit and Loss Account on 30th November, 1908, was	$405,991.22
Net Profits for the year ended 30th November, 1909, after deducting expenses of management, and making necessary provision for interest due to depositors, unearned interest on current loans and for all bad and doubtful debts, and contingencies	421,865.49
	$827,856.71
Appropriated as follows:—
Dividend No. 70, 2½ per cent., paid 1st March, 1909	$75,000.00
Dividend No. 71, 2½ per cent., paid 1st June, 1909	75,000.00
Dividend No. 72, 2½ per cent., paid 1st September, 1909	75,000.00
Dividend No. 73, 2½ per cent., paid 1st December, 1909	78,735.53
Applied in reduction of Bank Premises and Furniture	57,351.97
Transferred to Officers' Pension Fund	10,000.00
	$371,136.90
Balance carried forward at credit of Profit and Loss Account	$455,919.81

Branches of the Bank have been opened since the last Annual Meeting, at Cochrane, Ont.; Fort William, Ont.; Edmonton, Alta.; Swift Current, Sask.; Vancouver, B.C.; Queen Street (Chaudiere), Ottawa, and Cartier Street, Ottawa, and sub-offices at Casselman, Ont., and Mountain, Ont., while it has been deemed advisable to close the sub-offices at Jasper, Ont., and at the south end of Peterborough City, Ont.

The unsettled financial conditions alluded to last year were followed by a very large falling off in the volume of business and a consequent plethora of money, with a corresponding lowering of rates. During the last three or four months conditions have changed materially and there is every hope now of an increased business being done during the coming year.

A building for the use of the Bank is nearly completed at Cochrane, and premises have also been acquired at Vancouver; Regina; Cartier Street, Ottawa; Pembroke, and Broadview Avenue and Pape Avenue in Toronto, necessitating a very considerable outlay and a corresponding increase in the Bank Premises Account.

Acting under the authority given at the Annual Meeting in 1907, the Directors issued on 1st October last 5,000 shares of new Stock at a premium of 100 per cent.

The usual inspections of the Head Office and Branches have been made during the year.

The Directors have pleasure in testifying to the satisfactory manner in which the duties of the staff have been performed.

DAVID MACLAREN,
President.

GEORGE BURN,
General Manager.

The usual resolutions were passed, also an amendment to By-law, making the Annual Meeting fall on the Third Wednesday in December. The scrutineers reported the election of the following Directors: — Henry N. Bate, Hon. George Bryson, Henry K. Egan, John R. Fraser, George Hay, David Maclaren, Denis Murphy, George H. Perley, M.P., and Edwin C. Whitney.

At a Meeting of the Directors held subsequently, Mr. David Maclaren was re-elected President, and the Hon. George Bryson Vice-President for the ensuing year.

Cosgrave's Beer

Wordsof praise have ever prevailed in advertising "copy." That a producer should wax enthusiastic over his own wares is but human. But it's the praise of the consumer that counts—and it is to a discrimin ting and critical public that "Cosgrave's" refers you

It is safe to say that no product, of any kind enjoys a more enviable reputation than does this same Cosgrave Beer of Toronto in markets where it is offered

Its self-evidenthonesty of purpose, purity, brilliancy, body, and every other attribute that goes to make a perfect beer are ever in evidence

Cultivate the "Cosgrave Habit"— Watch for the name—ask for any of these brands: Half-and-Half, Pale Ale, XXX Porter.

Pincher Creek Oil

Canada's Richest Resource is Oil !

All that it takes to make big money for investors in the oil industry is for a Company to have "the goods"—that's the only requirement.

If you had a farm on which there were springs and from which springs water was running down the hill-side, you would truthfully say you had water, wouldn't you? Now, that is just exactly why we say Pincher Creek & Oil Refining Company has oil. On the north side of oil seepage creek on the Pincher Creek Company's property there is a natural spring of pure oil 300 feet long by 20 feet high—oil actually coming out of green shale and running to waste into the creek. And this oil is of a very superior quality both as a lubricant and an illuminant. (See John W. Warren's Testimony about this on page 21 of the Company's prospectus).

Experts state that by drilling oil wells above and back of this creek bank where the oil is running to waste we will get paying wells at a shallow depth, and this property is more easily developed than any other as deep and expensive well boring will be avoided. Several producing shallow wells can be drilled with the same outlay of time and money that it costs to drill one deep well. There is an ample supply of timber, water, and pasture for all operating purposes.

It is an acknowledged fact that oil has made more people rich than any other investment, and at less risk than the majority of investments.

The Company has 1,760 acres of land, one complete drilling machine installed, camps built, etc., and with the oil and lots of it actually on the property now, can we offer you anything more encouraging?

One good investment is worth in financial returns the labors of a lifetime. We have recommended this investment to our friends because we feel it will prove one of the finest investments in Canada, and we recommend it to you.

The shares are $1.00 each, and for every one hundred shares purchased an additional 10 shares will be given you.

Our capitalization is too small to sell shares any cheaper. Our property is conceded by the best authorities to be the best, and the Company has the best men back of it. In consequence of all this our stock is rapidly being taken up at $1.00 per share.

Now is the time to secure some of this stock, and if you require any further particulars before investing, apply to

VOL. XXXII NO. 261 PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO, TUESDAY DECEMBER 14, 1909 PRICE TWO CENTS

Ald. W. G. Morrow Declared Himself for Mayoralty

Ald. W. George Morrow will be a candidate for the mayoralty this year. He declared himself yesterday and gave his answer to the many prominent citizens who have been urging him to enter the field for several weeks past. This is the first candidate to declare himself and Ald Morrow's many friends will be greatly pleased with his decision to acquise in their wishes.

Ald. Morrow needs no introduction to the people of Peterborough. He has been a life-long resident of the city and as general manager of the Toronto Savings & Loan Company, he is known to everyone, and he is very highly esteemed by the large chentale of his company. Personally, he has large interests in the city and he has long taken an active part in the city's welfare.

For three years he has served in the council as alderman and during that time he has done splendid work The first year he was elected he was appointed chairman of the Manufacturers' Committee. The last two years he was given the chairmanship of the Finance Committee, the council recognizing his particular fitness for that position. As chairman of that important committee he has done splendid service and this year he kept all the other committees within their appropriations, except the health department and their over draft was due only to the outbreak of smallpox last summer. It is several years since such an epidemic visited Peterborough, and it was impossible to foresee it and no appropriation could be made for it.

Ald. Morrow has always polled a very large vote as alderman, and there is no doubt that he will be strongly supported by his many friends. If elected he will fill the mayor's chair with credit to himself and the city.

ALD. W. G. MORROW.

The only Candidate for the Mayoralty in the Field to Date.

Dr. McPherson Gets $800 for Extra Work in Smallpox Cases

The first matter taken up by the Finance Committee was the account of Dr. McPherson, medical health officer, for looking after the smallpox patients. The committee asked the doctor to be present, and he gave an explanation of how the account was made up. The committee thought at first that it was a little high. The doctor, however, stated that the work extended over 127 days. He treated 39 patients, and three others were left at home. The cases were scattered all over the city from east to south and north limits. Dr. Bell, Provincial health officer, was here and he gave certain instructions and those instructions were carried out personally by him. The doctor then explained how much work there was in connection with each case and how often he had to personally chase after every patient and the other members of the household. He also had to look after all the quarantined houses and in many instances he had to cut wood for women whose help had been taken to the smallpox tent. He also assisted in the disinfection of the several schools and business college, and had a lot of work to do in chasing after suspects and some times he found they had smallpox.

There was not a return case from the tents and there was no connection between the cases that anyone could show after he took charge. He carried the work out with as little inconvenience to the patients and their family as possible. He ran things very economically and yet he provided for everything. In addition to this he said there was a loss of practice to any nothing of the unpopularity of the medical health officer.

Dr. McPherson then pointed out the extent of the work he has been called upon to do as medical health officer in the way of looking after scarlet fever, diptheria, etc.

Mayor Rush said the committee knew his opinion on the matter and there was no use saying anything further.

The members of the committee had lengthy discussion and finally it was decided to offer the doctor $800. The chairman, Ald. W. G. Morrow, was deputated to see the doctor. He did so and finally the doctor consented to accept $800 in addition to his regular salary. His cheque was made out at once and the affair was settled.

The taxes on the T.A.S. rooms were as usual refunded.

On motion $25 was granted to the Muskoka Sanitarium Association.

The request for a pawnbrokers license from Messrs. Tooley and Snowden was laid over until the new year. The Act provides that the municipalities have the right to grant licenses and fixed the fee at $60 per year.

HOUSE OF PROVIDENCE.

The request from Rev. Father McColl for the council to make a grant of $6 per month for the nine patients in the House of Providence who belong to the city. The aldermen feel that this matter should be handled by the Charity Board. This year the board has not enough money and will be overdrawn by $1600 any way.

Aldermen Bradburn and Gillespie moved that the matter be referred to the Charity Board with instructions to look into the matter and whatever arrangements the board makes with Father McColl that the city treasurer be authorized to pay that sum, and that in future the Charity Board handle all of these cases.

Ald. Phelan, however, objected to this and thought that this bill of Father McColl's for $640, should be paid over by the council and then let the Charity Board handle the future cases.

Ald. Bradburn's motion carried.

RHEUMATISM

Zam-Buk ends its Agony.

The aching and the agony of rheumatism is relieved as soon as Zam-Buk's soothing ingredients reach the seat of the trouble. Just rub Zam-Buk well in over the muscles affected and get ease!

Mr. P. C. Wells, of 332 Ogden Street, Fort William, says:—

"I had rheumatism in both knees and in my left arm, and shoulder. The pain got so bad that I could no longer work and was under the doctor on three different occasions for several weeks.

"I seemed to get little, if any, better, no matter what I tried, and this was my state when Zam-Buk was recommended to me. I laid in a supply, and to my great joy it began to cure me. I rubbed it well in, every night, and when a few boxes had been used found I was free from the pain and stiffness of rheumatism.

Zam-Buk is just as good for sciatica, neuralgia, etc. When used as a balm it need not be rubbed in, but just applied. It heals cold sores, cuts, ulcers, abscesses, eczema, and all skin injuries and diseases. Fifty cents, all Druggists and Stores or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price.

LEGAL COMMITTEE.

Discussed Several Claims Against the City for Damages.

A short meeting of the Legal Committee was held yesterday afternoon with Mayor Rush in the chair. Several claims for damages have been put in to the council for accidents on the sidewalks and streets. These were carefully considered, but the city solicitor will have a great deal to say about what is to be done.

GOVERNOR WRIGHT,

Of Georgia, Will Lecture in the Opera House Tonight.

There will be a bumper crowd at the Grand Opera House tonight to hear Governor Seaborn Wright, governor of the State of Georgia, talk on local option in his State and the great advantages they are deriving from it. Governor Wright is an orator of the first water and he knows what he is talking about on the local option question.

FINGERS SMASHED.

E. Delaire Got His Hand Caught in a Wood Chopper.

Mr. E. Delaire, an employe of the Peterborough Fuel & Cartage Company, had the misfortune to get two of his fingers caught under the wood chopper at the lower yards. The fingers were smashed to a pulp and Ald. Buller, the manager, tied them up, and sent the man to a doctor. It may be that the fingers will have to come off.

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES.

At the Collegiate Institute on Tuesday, December 21st.

The date for the Collegiate Institute commencement exercises has been set for Tuesday, Dec. 21st, at eight o'clock p.m., in the Collegiate Assembly Hall. This is the chief event in the social life of the Collegiate and the students are taking very great interest in it. At the commencement the prizes, medals and scholarships won during the past year in the school room and on the athletic field will be presented by his Honor Judge Huyeke, Rev. J. R. Webb, Mr. D. O'Connell and Dr. A. W. McPherson. During the evening a number of musical selections will be given and a thoroughly enjoyable evening is assured.

OBITUARY.

Alfred George Johnston.

Arthur George Johnston, fifth son of Mr. James Johnston, 110 Dublin street, died early yesterday morning, after an illness and suffering of over eighteen years.

The deceased received the injuries from which he died in a railway accident which occurred on the C.P.R. siding, which at present runs to the Quaker Oats mill. He has been a sufferer all these years, he being only eighteen years of age at the time.

Medical skill could do nothing for him. He leaves to mourn his death four brothers, William J., ex-alderman; Joseph, Herbert, Ernest, and one sister, Mrs. Fred O Allison, besides his father and mother, all residing in the city.

The funeral will be held from the family residence on Wednesday, at 3 o'clock p.m.

"PILLS LIKE A FILE.

So Harsh and Drastic are Many Pills as to Seriously Injure the Health.

In a letter written from his home in Valencia, Mr. Marsh Selwyn does service to thousands by drawing attention to the injuries inflicted upon delicate people by drastic purgative pills.

"For a long time I suffered from constipation. This condition compelled the use of pills. Like many another, I made the unwise choice of using pills that were lightning in their activity. I began to be filled with intestinal disturbances, constant rumblings, gas in the bowels and dirrhoea. I grew pale and emaciated. Then the doctor told me drastic irritating pills had caused catarrh of the bowels, an almost incurable disease. Explaining my situation to a friend, he advised a trial of Dr. Hamilton's Pills. I speedily experienced the healing and curative effect they exerted on the stomach, liver and bowels. The intestines, freed from irritating drugs, rapidly regained natural tone, the bowels acted as if nature and not Dr. Hamilton's Pills were at work. I knowit willbe of value to thousands to know that a pill as mild and curative as Dr. Hamilton's is available to the ailing."

For bowel disorders, sick headache constipation, liver and stomach derangement, there is no pill so invariably sure to cure as Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Refuse a substitute. Sold in 25c. boxes, all dealers, or the Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

THE WEATHER.

Continued cloudy and mild, with occasional rain or sleet.

Eight Victims of Mad Dog Sent to New York

Galt, Ont., Dec. 13.—Ten persons today were furnished with tickets for New York at the C.P.R. city office, and entrained at 2.15 o'clock. The excursion is under the auspices of the Galt Board of Health and the corporation will stand the cost, a matter of probably $2,000.

It is a unique outing, one that has besides a tinge of the pleasurable, a solemn grey hue, for the objective point of the journey is the famous Pasteur institute and eight of the party go to that famous resort to take hydrophobia anti-toxin, being the victims of the mad dog, which on Wednesday last ran through the town, attacking every living creature it met until it was finally killed.

The names of the victims are:
Andrew Wright, Metcalfe street.
Bert Sinclair, Victoria street.
Andrew Pettigrew, Bond street.
J. Graham, Oak street.
W. Smith, J. Hyndman, C. McKeown, Annie Duncan.

The first named four are adults. Mr. Pettigrew, being an aged man. The latter four are youngsters from 8 to 12 years old. Each was bitten more or less severely.

Dr. Vardon, M.H.O., and Mrs. Smith, a trained nurse, accompanied the patients, who will remain at the institute for perhaps three weeks. The despatch of these citizens to New York was decided on at a joint meeting of the council and the Board of Health.

There was a large crowd at the depot to bid the party good-bye and good luck.

As a result of the crusade against dogs running at large, instituted since the scarce, not a canine, is seen today on the streets. The police have orders to capture any dog seen and kill it.

Are Not Ready to Attack Canada

Washington, D.C., Dec. 13.—House Leader Payne and Chairman Mann of the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, are not as one on the subject of Mr. Mann's bill providing for a postponement for the time when the retaliatory wood pulp provision of the Payne tariff law relating to Canada shall go into effect.

Mr. Mann is very urgent for the consideration of the measure, and takes the position that much depends upon early action.

On the other hand, Mr. Payne defends the law as it now stands, and will oppose strenuously any effort to amend or modify it.

Necessarily the bill was referred to the Ways and Means Committee, of which Mr. Payne is chairman, and for the present at least it is in Mr. Payne's hands.

"It is safe to say," said Mr. Payne today, "that the bill will not be reported back before the holidays."

Death is Expected within 24 Hours

Brussels, Dec. 13.—It was announced at noon today that King Leopold was dying. The end is expected within 24 hours.

In the desperate hope of prolonging King Leopold's life for a few days, Dr. Thiriar and Dr. Stienon announced today that an operation would be performed tomorrow on the king, if his strength permits, for hernia. The announcement followed an earlier report that Leopold was dying and the end was expected within a few hours.

There is the gravest fear that the operation will end fatally, but the king's condition is such that his physicians say that there is no other recourse.

Two Hunters Killed Shooting in Woods

Utica, N.Y., Dec. 13.—Herman Spencer, a farmer 35 years old, was burned to death near Guilford, N.Y., in a fire that destroyed his barn on Sunday morning. Spencer was to have been married Wednesday next. Five years ago the lady whom Mr. Spencer was about to marry was planning for her wedding when her lover was killed by the cars. Two years ago, she was again about to wed when her affianced husband was taken suddenly ill and died in a few hours.

Disaster Overtook This Lady's Suitors

Belleville, Dec. 13. — Two fatal shooting accidents occurred near this city. Roy Ballard of Chandos, while out hunting, fell on his gun, which was discharged. The charge entered his left side, killing him.

William Dean of Faraday, was out hunting with his father, when young Dean was shot by another man, who was hunting close by. He fired at Dean's dog, taking it for an animal. The charge entered young Dean's head, killing him instantly.

POINTING WELLANDWARD.

Handsome Souvenir Sent Out by the Welland Board of Trade.

The Board of Trade of the town of Welland has just issued one of the most handsome souvenirs and advertising mediums that has reached this office for a long time. The booklet is of a nice size, very attractively gotten up, beautifully printed, and written in a breezy style that causes one to think. The Board of Trade of Welland is a very much alive body. They do things and do not wait for the council to look after everything. Fine speeches and long resolutions with all the fancy "aforesaids" and "whereases" have a high sound. But a handsome booklet advertising the town will get more business and bring more credit to the places than all the speeches ever delivered piled on top of all the resolutions ever passed. This is the age for doing things and if the Peterborough Board of Trade and the men with large business interests would DO half as much as the local press is doing and has done Peterborough would be advertized all over the civilized world.

Welland's new book was printed in the Welland Telegraph office, and it does the two young men at the head of it (F. H. Sears and Louis Blake Duff) great credit. It is a beautiful sample of the printers art.

AT THE OPERA HOUSE.

Every Citizen Will Have a Chance to Hear Seaborn Wright.

Owing to the large number wishing to hear the Hon. Seaborn born Wright's address on "The Regulation of the Liquor Traffic," the place of meeting has been changed from St. Paul's church to the Grand Opera House, and is billed for Tuesday, Dec. 14th at 8 p.m.

Doors will be open at 7.30 to give every chance for the public to secure their seats.

It is most interesting to know that the Hon. Seaborn Wright was the originator of the dispensary system, and is well qualified to deal with this important and problematic question.

MANY SPECIAL PRIZES.

Are Being Offered for the Peterborough Poultry Show.

The prize list of the 2nd annual Peterborough Poultry Association's show, to be held on the 4th, 5th and 6th of January, is a big one, embracing 79 classes.

A feature of the list is the large number of substantial special prizes offered. There are no less that 60 of these, and they include a silver cup and other attractive cash prizes.

A prize list may be obtained from the secretary, Mr. John R. Eastwood, at the Royal Bank, Hunter street.

WILL INCREASE

Capacity of the Peterborough Lock Works.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Caley of New Britain, Conn., have arrived in the city and are staying at the Oriental Hotel. Mr. Caley has been appointed works manager of the Peterborough Lock Manufacturing Company, and assumed his duties yesterday morning. It is the duty of the Peterborough Company to greatly enlarge its facilities for the manufacturing of locks, and it is the intention of the board of directors to double its output. To permit of this there will be a considerable expenditure in the way of increased buildings, machinery and workmen.

Many persons find themselves affected with a persistent cough after an attack of influenza. As this cough can be promptly cured by the use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, it should not be allowed to run on until it becomes troublesome. 13

Nine Frozen Bodies in Car Ferry's Yawl

Erie, Pa., Dec. 13.—When the sun came up today every available craft of any size put out of the breakwater here to aid in the search for possible survivors of the ill-fated Marquette and Bessemer car ferry No. 2, which has probably foundered in the middle of Lake Erie. Nine of the crew of the vessel were brought here last night, frozen to death in a small ten-man yawl, in tow of the State fisheries boat, Commodore Perry. It is believed that further boats will be picked up within the next few hours.

Erie, Pa., Dec. 13.—This place was greatly excited Sunday afternoon at 4.20 o'clock, when the news circulated that a lifeboat from the missing car ferry Bessemer No. 2 had been towed into the harbor. For a while it was hoped that the boat contained survivors, but this hope was soon dispelled when the bodies of nine men still and encrusted with ice were hoisted to the dock level with the help of tackle and carried away in ambulances to the morgue, followed by a crowd composed of hundreds. Then they were soon identified by C. J. Madill, the car ferry's manager, as the bodies of the following men:

H. J. Thomas, Port Stanley, Ont.
O. Hagen, London, Ont.
Thomas Steele, single, coal passer, Conneaut, Ohio.
John Hart, single, oiler, Conneaut.
Charles Allen, single, Conneaut.
George R. Smith, married, steward, Conneaut.
William R. Ray, married, Conneaut
Manuel Sodars, Conneaut.
Joseph Shenk, Conneaut.

INDESCRIBABLE SUFFERING

The sufferings of the nine men, and of the other twenty-three persons on the car ferry who undoubtedly perished in the same manner, must have been excruciating. When found most of them were sitting on the seats of the boatr, frozen stiff. Evidently they had worked hard at the oars to keep warm. Tiring, they must have rested, till chilled again, only to once more slap and punch themselves and row once more. At last, bitterly worn out, they succumb bed.

Here is how Capt. Driscoll, of the fishing boat Commodore Perry, which discovered the lifeboat and towed it to port, described the scene:

"There was a heavy sea running at the time we sighted the yawl and we had some difficulty in reaching it. As we made her out without glasses, eight of the men were sitting up in the boat, their life preservers strapped about their shoulders. The ninth man lay at the bottom of the boat frozen to the slat flooring. The faces of the men were bloated. Their clothes were heavy with frozen water. We did not attempt to take the dead men on board, as we feared the tiny yawl would capsize if my men boarded it. The yawl was therefore taken in tow to this place."

THOMAS HAD AN OVERCOAT.

Thomas, the Canadian cook, was the only man who had worn an over coat. The eight bodies were dressed in overalls and jumpers, indicating that the departure from the car ferry had been hurried. In the bow end of the boat was found complete clothing for one man, and it is the belief that the yawl originally contained ten men, and that one, becoming crazed, had discarded his clothing and jumped into the icy waters of Lake Erie.

Capt. Driscoll said he believed the other lifeboats would be found in the vicinity of the spot where he picked up No. 4 boat. Owing to signs of another storm and the gathering darkness he returned to port with the intention of continuing the search this morning.

The lifeboat, its rail almost awash, was sighted by the tug Perry fifteen miles due north of Erie at 11 o'clock this morning. Captain J. T. Driscoll, without touching the bodies, attached a line to the craft and towed it into port.

Joseph Shenk of Conneaut, the smallest man in the party, had evidently been the first to succumb to exposure.

HAD ONE PASSENGER.

Albert J. Weis of Conneaut, treasurer of the Keystone Fish Co., and the Bay State Iron Works, was a passenger on the ill-fated boat. His relatives and friends had not yet given up hope until the yawl containing the nine men was towed into port. As yet his body has not been found.

Conneaut, Ohio, where most of the head men lived, was notified by telephone of the gruesome find, and a hundred residents of that city arrived here within two hours. They were taken directly to the morgue.

The officers of the Pere Marquette Co., have given up all hope Saturday that the ferry was safe. Since Thursday every available tug between Buffalo, Cleveland, and other lake ports have been searching the lake for some news of the wrecked craft.

WHOLE TOWN IN MOURNING.

When news of the recovery of the bodies reached Conneaut Sunday afternoon solemn public services were held in several churches. For four days and nights the wives and sweethearts of the members of the ill-fated crew had haunted the docks, paying little heed to the bitter winds which swept across the lake and eagerly drinking in every little piece of intelligence from searching parties When the dreadful knowledge that the vessel was undoubtedly lost with all its crew finally forced itself upon them the scenes were simply heartrending.

The whole town of Conneaut is in mourning. The officers and crew of the ferry were young men, and the 14 who reside at Conneaut were highly esteemed.

The Canadian shore is being patrolled in the hope that some of the bodies may be washed up, but this is almost a forlorn hope, mariners say, as the bodies not found in the lifeboats probably will not be found until spring. They would not come to the surface with the water below freezing point.

Speaking of the recent marine disasters, President Livingstone of the Lake Carrier's Association said that this had been one of the most disastrous years in the freight carrying trade on the great lakes.

Back to Canada with Their Fortunes

Toronto, Dec. 13.—"Back to Canada," is the cry in the United States just now. In an interview this morning Mr. A. D. Brown, assistant general manager of the Canadian American and the Western British American, and formerly of Peterborough, Ont., said that never before were the expatriated Canadians leaving the land of their adoption in such numbers as now. "They have made their pile over there and are coming back to invest the money. It is being recognized now that Canada is the land of opportunity and the place for safe and sure returns for money invested. Away down in their hearts all these old Canucks have a warm corner in the wood-pile of their memory for the old home, and almost all of them keep up their connection.

"Another thing that comes to our notice is the migration of the Americans to the Canadian Northwest. This is the result of sane, extensive and widespread advertising on the part of the Canadian Government. The American farmer cannot escape Canada. It is thrown up at him at every turn. The cheapness of the land and the opportunities are flaunted in his face and in the end it gets him.

"It would be a good thing in my opinion if Ontario would advertise a little more. There are unlimited possibilities here for investment, and that is what American capital is looking for."

WIND ON THE STOMACH.

A Well-Known Westerner Tells of Suffering, Misery and Pain That He Cured With "Nerviline."

"A few weeks ago I ate some green vegetables and some fruits that was not quite ripe. It first brought on a fit of indigestion, but unfortunately it developed into hissoughs, accompanied by nausea and cramps. I was dreadfully ill for two days—my head ached and throbbed, I belched gas continually, and I was unable to sleep at night. A neighbor happened in to see me and urged me to try Nerviline. Well, I wouldn't have believed that any preparation could help so quickly. I took half a teaspoonful of Nerviline in hot sweetened water, and my stomach felt better at once. I used Nerviline several times, and was completely restored."

NERVILINE STRENGTHENS WEAK STOMACHS

The above is from a letter written by G. E. Braun, a well-known stockman and farmer near Lethbridge, Alta. Mr. Braun's favorable opinion of the high merit of Nerviline is shared by thousands of Canadians who have proved Nerviline is simply a marvel for cramps, diarrhoea, flatulence, nausea and stomach disorders. Safe to use, guaranteed to cure—you can make no mistake in keeping Nerviline for your family remedy. Large 15c. bottles, five for $1.00 Sold everywhere. or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

THE SITUATION IN BRITAIN.

No one who has the slightest regard for the future of the British Empire can regard the situation in Great Britain today with unconcern. The basic fabric of the British constitution which is unwritten, is that the House which has the power of taxation must have the control of the purse strings. That was the point which produced the American revolution and lost to Britain the whole North American continent. It was the birth of the present day freedom of the self-governing dominions, or daughter states, or colonies—it is immaterial what name they are called—and it is the grave principle which now confronts the people of the Motherland.

With such an issue before the British people there can be but one result. The interference by the House of Lords in the expenditure of the nation must once and for ever be ended.

The House of Lords passed the first Reform Bill only under the threat of civil war, and it has since blocked every other extension of power to the people. When the House of Lords now talks of consulting the country it is merely expressing the completeness of its traditional contempt for the intelligence of the nation and for British democracy. It is not the sovereignty of the people which Lord Lansdowne asserts, but the sovereignty of the House of Lords. He demands the right on behalf of the House of Lords, to reject any budget, to derange the finances of the country, and to dissolve the House of Commons. That means the end of representative government, and the shifting of the centre of political power from the House of Commons to the House of Lords, from 40,000,000 British citizens to 600 peers. A hereditary Chamber, responsible to nobody, representing only an aristocratic caste and territorial interests, has had the supreme audacity to assail the House of Commons in the very centre of its majesty and pride. All that is glorious in the age-long struggle for British freedom is embodied in the control which that great assembly has over the national purse.

CATARRH CANNOT BE CURED

with LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing Catarrh. Send for testimonials free.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

The Bank of Montreal

The ninety-second Annual General Meeting of the Shareholders of the Bank of Montreal was held in the Board room of the Institution yesterday at noon.

There were present:—Sir Edward Clouston, Bart., Vice-President and General Manager; Sir William Macdonald, Sir Thomas G. Shaughnessy, Hon. Robert Mackay, Messrs A. Baumgarten, R. B. Angus, E. B. Greenshields, David Morrice, Hon. J. K. Ward, G. F. C. Smith, Lieut.-Col. Prevost, James Kirby, K.C., C.J. Fleet, K.C., John Patterson, Alfred Piddington, George R. Hooper, B. A. Boas, George Durnford, Hugh Patron, H. Dobell, W. H. Evans, G. Scott, H. Joseph and J. Taylor.

In consequence of the absence of the President, Sir George Drummond, K.C.M.G., through indisposition, Mr. R. B. Angus moved that the Vice-President and General Manager, Sir Edward Clouston, take the chair.

This was seconded by Mr. E. B. Greenshields, and unanimously concurred in, after which it was resolved, on motion of Mr. Hugh Paton, seconded by Lieut.-Col. Prevost:—"That the following be appointed to act as scrutineers: Messrs. G. F. C. Smith and George R. Hooper, and that Mr. James Aird be Secretary of the meeting."

The Vice-President then submitted the report of the Directors as follows:—

THE DIRECTOR'S REPORT.

The Directors have pleasure in presenting the report showing the result of the Bank's business for the year ended 30th October, 1909:

Since the last Annual Meeting Branches have been opened at Three Rivers, P. Q.; Weyburn, Sask.; Oakwood, Ont.; Moose Jaw, Sask.; Outlook, Sask.; Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.; and Sub-agencies at Merritt, B.C.; Cloverdale, B.C.; Spring Coulee, Alta., and Bathurst Street, Toronto.

The Branches at Grimsby, Ont., and Millbrook, Ont., have been closed.

With deep regret the Directors have to record the death of their esteemed colleague, Mr. A. T. Paterson, who had been a member of the Board for upwards of twenty-eight years.

The vacancy on the Board has been filled by the election of Mr. A. Baumgarten.

All the Offices of the Bank, including the Head Office, have been inspected during the year.

Bank of Montreal,
6th December, 1909.

G. A. DRUMMOND,
President.

Bank of Montreal,
Montreal, 30th October, 1909.

E. S. CLOUSTON,
General Manager.

THE VICE-PRESIDENT.

The Vice-President then spoke as follows:—

The most important change from last year in the statement submitted to you is the unusually large increase in deposits, amounting to $36,000,000. Part of it is temporary, pending large payments in connection with special transactions, part is the natural increase from depositors as a result of the prosperous condition of affairs in this country, but the largest portion of the increase arises from money brought into Canada from other countries. It is quite possible that if the apprehensions expressed in many quarters as to the consequence of the new methods of British taxation are realized, deposits from this last source may be still further enlarged. It is very important, therefore, that nothing should be done in Canada by injudicious legislation, the exploitation of doubtful enterprises, or otherwise, to stop this flow of capital. Our call loans have increased by about the same amount as our deposits, and what is not necessary to retain as a portion of our reserves, will be gradually brought into the country to meet commercial requirements as they arise.

The profits are some $130,000 less than last year, but, considering the low rates ruling for the greater part of our fiscal year in London and New York, the result may be regarded as satisfactory. I am glad to say that the outlook for the coming year, or at least for the earlier months, is more promising, and I shall be much disappointed if we do not make a better showing when next we meet.

The rapidity of the recovery of trade from the set-back following the monetary crisis in the United States two years ago has been as striking as it is satisfactory. Conditions today are, as a whole, excellent. The large surplus gathered in the Northwestern Provinces in itself affords a basis for active and profitable business for some time to come. How considerable a factor in the commercial life of Canada the agricultural output of our Northwest has become may be realized from the fact that the yield of wheat, oats and barley in this year 312,630,000 bushels, as compared with 212,630,000 bushels in 1908, 107,000,000 bushels in 1907, or 32,000,000 in 1900. A tenfold gain in the grain product of the Northwestern Provinces in nine years conveys some idea of the commercial potentialities of the country.

The marketing of wheat has been quite prompt, and the railways have had no difficulty in moving the crop. In the ten weeks to November 16 there had been imported in the Northwest 43,464,000 bushels, being 16,200,000 bushels more than in the corresponding period of 1908, while the shipments from Fort William and Port Arthur amounted to 28,815,000 bushels up to November 16, or 13,200,000 bushels in excess of the preceding year's shipments.

Our foreign trade has not only reached, but has begun to exceed, the high-water mark of two years ago. In the six months ending September 30th last, imports for consumption and exports of domestic products were of the value of $ 267,851,000, an excess of the corresponding period of the preceding year, imports having been larger by thirty-six millions and exports by ten millions. The adverse balance of trade has thus again begun to grow, but while men and money pour into Canada from abroad the disparity need not cause uneasiness. Domestic industries are, speaking generally, working well up to the limit of capacity. Labor is fully employed; the lumber trade has improved, the export of dairy produce has been larger than last year, with high prices ruling throughout the season, all farm products, indeed, are exceptionally dear. Such tests as bank note circulation, bank clearings, railway earnings, all point to the present activity of business. At the end of October the note circulation exceeded $20,000,000 over the note circulation of the corresponding fall-over $200,000 more than a year ago. Bankers failures have been neither numerous nor serious, being for the year to October 1, 1,456, with liabilities of $12,979,000, as compared with 1,609 failures and liabilities of $16,000,000 in the previous twelve months.

Railway construction is proceeding apace over the whole face of the Dominion. West of Lake Superior nearly 1,100 miles have been built this year, and the western Provinces now have 11,500 miles of railway, as much as the mileage of all Canada twenty years ago.

Immigration has picked up after the short relapse in 1908, the estimate of the number of new settlers this year being 150,000, about one-half of whom are experienced farmers who have moved into our Northwest from the United States. The evidences of expanding trade, accumulating wealth and material progress and development might be cited at great length, and a pleasant picture painted of our happy condition. There are always, however, dangers to be avoided, and never more so than when the outlook is so bright and inspiriting. A tendency to over speculation in real estate in some parts of Canada is already apparent, and this, like other forms of gambling, can bring only disaster when the inevitable crash comes. How suddenly conditions may change the rapid advance in the Bank of England rate last autumn attests. Only by prudence both in taking and granting credits and by avoidance of wild-cat ventures and exploitations on the high reputation Canada enjoys in the British money market, can we reasonably anticipate a continuance of the prosperity now enjoyed.

There is only one other observation I desire to make. As you are aware, the decennial revision of the Bank Act will take place during the present session of Parliament. In one or two respects changes of a more or less technical character will be found necessary, but the Act has been so thoroughly revised in the past, it withstood so staunchly the trials of 1907, and its operation has been found to conform so admirably to the requirements of trade and the interests of a rapidly-developing country, that I hardly think it likely that any material changes will be made.

In our note circulation we have a system which enables us by its elasticity to carry out the heavy autumnal demands without creating any monetary stringency; and to show how valuable it is to the whole business community I need only point to the fact that we are moving the large crop in the Northwest with great ease and without any advance in rates to our commercial customers.

I beg to move: "That the report of the Directors now read be adopted and printed for distribution among the Shareholders."

This was seconded by Mr. E. B. Greenshields, and unanimously adopted.

Mr. H. Joseph then moved: "That the thanks of the meeting be presented to the President, Vice-President and Directors for their attention to the interests of the Bank."

Mr. C. J. Fleet seconded the motion, which was unanimously agreed to.

Sir Thomas G. Shaughnessy moved: "That the thanks of the meeting be given to the General Manager, the Assistant General Manager, the Inspectors, the Managers and other officers of the Bank for their services during the past year."

The motion was seconded by Mr. David Morrice and was unanimously carried.

Mr. Edward Clouston expressed acknowledgement on behalf of himself and fellow-officers.

THE DIRECTORS.

The ballot for the election of Directors was then proceeded with. The scrutineers appointed for the purpose reported the following gentlemen duly elected:—

R. B. Angus,
A. Baumgarten,
Sir Edward Clouston, Bart.,
Hon. Sir George Drummond, K.C.M.G., C.V.O.,
E. B. Greenshields,
Charles R. Hosmer,

Hon. Robert Mackay,
David Morrice,
James Ross,
Sir Thomas G. Shaughnessy, K.C.V.O.,
Rt. Hon. Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal, G.C.M.G., G.C.V.O.

At a meeting of the Directors, held later, the Right Hon. Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal, G.C.M.G., G.C.V.O., was elected Honorary President; Hon. Sir George Drummond, K.C.M.G., C.V.O., President and Sir Edward Clouston, Bart., Vice-President.

Opening of the Legislature.

Although it has not yet been officially announced it is believed that the opening of the legislature will take place on January 13.

ARAB FASHIONS.

Clothes the Natives Wear and the Tailors Who Make Them.

Conservative in all matters, the Arab is especially averse to change in the matter of clothes. Not only do the fashions of the Arabs never change, writes Graham Petrie in "Tunis, Kairouan and Carthage," but they are very restricted. Although every Arab wears a gandoura more or less richly embroidered, it is always worked in one of three accepted patterns, from which no deviation nor any combination is permitted.

The only matter in which personal taste is allowed to show itself is in the choice of color. In this respect entire freedom is permitted and taken full advantage of, although it is curious to note that the more delicate shades of pink, yellow and mauve are generally worn by elderly men, while rich red and brown are in favor with their juniors.

The souk-el-trouk is the souk of the tailors in Tunis, and here in numerous little shops the sartorial needs of the Arab population are fashioned and temptingly displayed. I call them shops for want of a better word, but they are as unlike the European shop as anything one can imagine. They are really recesses separated from each other by coupled columns painted with stripes of red and green, which support a continuous cornice, richly carved and colored. There are no windows or doors, and the shop is raised some four feet above the ground. To this elevation the tailor nimbly vaults, for there are no steps to assist him. Sitting crosslegged in orthodox fashion, he there cuts out, pieces together and embellishes the gay silk waistcoats, gandouras and other garments beloved of the Arab.

MAINE SPOOKS.

A Ghost House, a Phantom Light and a Mystic Woodchuck.

Bowdoinham boasts a veritable ghost house where it is said the chairs refuse to stay quietly in their places, but in the middle of the night walk out and draw together in groups just as if guided by visible hands. Then there is a spirit cane that goes walking all by itself just at midnight, tapping its way along from room to room and finally taking up its abode in the chamber where a member of the family sleeps. That this statement is true is affirmed by those who have seen the phenomena and who are not at all afraid of ghosts.

At another house in the village is a phantom light that shines each night no matter whether it be moonlight or darkness just above the closet door in the upper chamber. For years this light has disturbed the people who at different times have occupied the room, and some have been much afraid of the flickering gleam. From time to time different explanations have been offered, but none has proved satisfactory. The light continues to shine, and no one can account for the mystery.

Down at Lazy O camp is a spook woodchuck which every evening, just at the sunset hour, comes out of an old family tomb, halfway between the camp and the home farm. There on the tomb he sits quietly, watching the sunset lights on the waters of Merrymeeting. Just as the sun sinks below the horizon he disappears. The tomb swallows him up, and he is seen no more until the sunset hour comes round again.—Kennebec Journal.

Arab Buttermaking.

Among the Arabs an interesting department of woman's duty is dairy work. This, like all other operations, is carried out on an old fashioned and patriarchal plan. To make butter, for instance, a small sheepskin is filled with milk and tied to a ring in the wall. The woman then sits flat on the floor and rocks it to and fro till little balls of butter begin to form within. These grow larger and larger and accumulate and are finally brought out as one big lump. The remaining milk is then boiled on the fire with bits of meat. The male members of the family now come together. A large dish of cooked rice is placed before them and the boiled milk poured over it. Then, making balls of the mixture with his hands, each member quickly swallows his share and rises to wash his hands. This done, the girls and mother sit down and eat what the men are pleased to leave.

Hats and Old Age.

In opening the services one Sunday recently the pastor of one of the fashionable churches said: "For three Sundays I have asked the women in this church to remove their hats during service. My appeal has been unheeded, and now I see wherein I was wrong. I was inconsiderate of the comforts of the aged and infirm, so I have made a new rule. Hereafter all women of forty years of age or over will be permitted to wear their hats during the service."

Within twenty seconds every woman in the church was bareheaded.—Ladies' Home Journal.

His Last Place.

"But," said the merchant to the applicant, "you don't furnish any reference from your last place."

"You needn't worry about that," replied the man with the close cropped head and strange pallor; "I wouldn't be here now if it hadn't been for my great behavior in my last place."—Catholic Standard and Times.

UP THE GIANT'S TOOTH.

Young Woman Describes Hardships in Mountain Climbing.

Climbing mountains does not seem to be an agreeable recreation, to judge from the experiences of Mme. Stella Croissant, who has just ascended the Giant's Tooth, one of the loftiest peaks of the Alps. She had the pleasure of writing her name on the Mantle of the Virgin, which crowns the peak, but what other satisfaction she derived from the exploit is not clear.

Mme. Croissant is a young woman only twenty-two years of age, but her youthful vigor seems to have failed to make the rigors of mountain climbing a pleasure. She tells of muscles strained to the breaking point, limbs almost dislocated, cold, fatigue and the humors of the guide, for "the guide in the high mountains is king. You must obey him and smile, whatever happens." The party crept over slopes of soft snow, placing their feet in the footsteps of the guide and trying to make themselves as light as possible, for they knew that if they dislodged the snow they would be swept to the bottom of the abyss. They were suspended among the crags "like spiders in their webs." Once Mme. Croissant let go of the rope by which she was drawing herself up to a ledge and hung like a package over the void. She was not afraid, she said, but could hear the guide swearing.

The ascent took a couple of days, and after such strenuous labors the climbers might be expected to indulge in a little rest. "But where rest?" asks Mme. Croissant. "The summit is narrow and bristling with jagged points, and one is cold there. One freezes in the most absolute sense of the word. The wind found no obstacles except ourselves, and how it plays with such obstacles! If you consider how cold it must be in those altitudes where one suffers from the rarefaction of the air you will realize how the wind penetrated the meshes of my sweater and made my clothes freeze to my skin. The guide was right when he told me to put on several undervests. So we emptied a flask of eau de vie and said farewell to the summit."

The descent seems to have been as disagreeable as the ascent. It was horribly cold, and, when the party reached a place where it was possible to rest and eat, the guide hurried them on before the pangs of hunger were half satisfied. All had been fasting since daybreak, and it was then 3 o'clock, but they were behind time, the guide said, and the shades of night must not find them in the high mountain.

There was nothing to do but to obey the guide, so the party moved on in silence. "My feet moved automatically," said Mme. Croissant. "I climbed. I jumped, with only my eyes living in my whole body. I went on thus, I don't know how long, until my strength failed completely and I fainted. They gave me water and spirits. After an instant I revived, and, taking the arm of the guide, I went off at a mad pace. I have the same memory of that stage of the journey as one might have of a delirium. My movements had the strange aureness of the somnambulist walking on the edge of a roof. My foot did not stumble or slip. I went, I went. It was a vertigo, a dance of the bones broken on the rocks of ice."—New York Tribune.

Arctic Mary.

Mary Coonie, a full blooded Eskimo, is the Croesus of the arctic circle. Mary cannot read, cannot even write her own name, but that doesn't matter, for she makes so much money that she can afford to hire a private secretary, who is an Englishman and a graduate of Oxford and fully qualified to attend to all clerical and executive details for her. But the gift of management is Mrs. Coonie's and that sagacious darling which most great money makers have. One by one she has acquired a number of rich mining claims, and in others she has an interest, acquired by "grub staking" the discoverers. She is sole owner of a valuable freight carrying business and the largest private reindeer herd in the world. Two thousand of these animals, worth $100 each, bear Mary Coonie's brand, and, besides, she has young herds that will bring her a rich harvest some day.

TRADE DISEASES.

Different Occupations to Which Different Ailments Attach.

Every man who works for a long time at any one of scores of industrial trades is pretty nearly sure to contract sooner or later the family disease that is connected with his occupation. Some of these maladies are mysterious; many are dangerous. Bakers generally have bad teeth; the flour dust collects on the teeth, becomes acid and gives rise to a special kind of decay. Bakers, too, owing to their irregular life, sleeping in the day and working at night, and because of the hot air and dust they breathe, are great victims of consumption. Boilermakers lose their hearing from the continual racket in which they have to labor. Those men who work around breweries look strong and healthy but the beer that they drink ruins their livers, and they generally die before reaching middle age.

One of the peculiar diseases that is but temporary in its effect and to which a man is immune after having experienced it once is "brass founders' ague." Three-quarters of the new employes of brass foundries experience it. They have severe chills and headache, cough a great deal and then develop a high fever; the illness passes in a day or so. It is caused by the inhalation of metallic dust or vapors of zinc or copper.

Blacksmiths suffer from paralysis of the entire right side, due to the continual shock of hammering, and their eyes become weak from the glare of the fire. Professional cooks are also subject to impairment of the eyesight they have to open oven doors continually to see how whatever they are baking or roasting is progressing, and the outrush of the suppressed volume of heated vapor affects their eyes.

The strong fumes of naphtha are a little less deadly than those of chloroform. "Naphtha intoxication" is peculiar to those employed in the manufacture of this product and to those who use it largely in cleaning establishments and in rubber factories. Furniture polishers can generally be picked out in a crowd on account of the eczema which covers the hands, arms and face. This is supposed to be due to impure alcohol used in the polishes.

Bidding In a Bride.

While some furniture was being sold at auction at Orkellyunga, in Sweden, a curious incident occurred. A young girl pushed her way through the crowd until she was quite close to the auctioneer, so close indeed that she somewhat impeded him when he desired to make effective gestures. Being a man of humor, he resolved to get rid of her in a novel manner, and therefore, taking her by the arm, he shouted: "Here, now, is an excellent bargain—a young girl, aged nineteen, very pretty and well educated! What am I offered? Come; we'll start it at 3,000 crowns!" At once there was brisk bidding, which continued until an elderly bachelor farmer offered 10,000 crowns. The auctioneer tried to get a higher bidder than this, but failed, and so he ... the farmer to be the pur... of the girl. All those present ... that it was a good joke, but ... more than that, for a few days ... the farmer and the girl were ... in the presence of the mayor, ... before the ceremony the farmer presented the young woman, an orphan, with 10,000 crowns, the exact amount which he was willing to pay for her at auction.

Warning.

"No, Alice," counsels the fond mamma, "you should not marry Mr. Leftover. If you do you will regret it."

"Why, mamma? Because he is a widower?"

"Not exactly. But he will not make a good husband."

"Why, mamma! Everybody knows that while his wife was alive he was a shining model for all the other husbands in town. He never drank, smoked or swore; he never stayed out late at night; he never danced with any one but her. He was simply perfect."

"I know, my child. And I want to tell you that a man who has been held down that way during his first marriage will know how to dodge such rules the second time."

Saving the Wind.

A highland athletic gathering was in full swing, and considerable interest centered in the chances of a local competitor who had entered for several events and confidently expected to win at least one of them. His first attempt was in that hardest of races, the quarter mile, and he was easily defeated.

"Donal', Donal', exclaimed a supporter reprovingly, "why did ye no rin faster?"

"Rin faster," echoed Donald contemptuously, "an me reserving masel' for the bagpipe competition."

A Striking Change!

She used to strike his fancy in the days of long ago as homeward from the schoolhouse they strolled in the afterglow. He courted her and wed her, but they weren't nicely paired, and things that later happened—well, they oughtn't to be aired. As maiden she was quiet, full of comeliness and grace. She used to strike his fancy; now, alas, it is his face.

Pat's Rejoinder.

A British warship recently found it necessary to call at a military port on the coast of Ireland. Tommy Atkins, meeting a full-bearded Irish tar in the street a couple of hours later, said:

"Pat, when are you going to place your whiskers on the reserve list?"

"When you place your tongue on the civil list," was the Irish sailor's reply.—London Tit-Bits.

Fought In Twenty-One Fights.

At Swanmore, Hants, England, there recently died an old bluejacket named Thomas Saite, who, during twenty-one years' service in the navy, took part in twenty-one engagements. He was never injured, and never had to enter hospital.

Revolver Needed.

John—I'll bring you a fork, sir. The Customer — What for? John — The cheese, sir. The Customer—A fork'n no good. Bring a revolver.—London Sketch.

A Slim Chance.

Willie—Pa, why do they call our language the mother tongue? Pa—Ha! It's because your father never gets a chance to use it.—London Tit-Bits.

Only those who do something for the world have a right to wear its crowns. —Wentworth P. Stewart.

Woman's World

A TRIBUTE TO GENIUS.

Envoys of Many Nations Honor Mrs. Julia Ward Howe.

Mrs. Julia Ward Howe stirred a brilliant assemblage in the Metropolitan Opera House, in New York city, during the Hudson-Fulton celebration by reading the poem composed by her and dedicated to the occasion which brought together the envoys of many nations.

Although Mrs. Howe is more than ninety years old, the poem and her recitation showed that she is still mentally and physically vigorous.

She stood alone in the center of the stage, and when she began to read her poem in a firm, clear voice the great gathering also stood.

The tribute which her hearers paid to Mrs. Howe was impressive. Although the applause was deafening, there was a certain note of reverence and respect, and there were tears in the eyes of the aged woman when she acknowledged the homage of great men of many nations.

MRS. JULIA WARD HOWE, AGED NINETY.

Here is Mrs. Howe's poem:

FULTON.

By JULIA WARD HOWE.

(From Collier's. Reprinted by permission.)

A river flashing like a gem,
Crowned with a mountain diadem,
Invites an unaccustomed guest
To launch his shallop on her crest,
A pilgrim whose exploring mind
Must leave his tardy pace behind—
"My bark creeps slow; the world is vast.
How shall its space be overpassed?"

Responsive to his cry appears
A visionary, young in years,
Commissioned with prophetic brain
The mystic problem to explain—
"Where fire and water closest blend,
There find a servant and a friend."

Yet many a moon must wax and wane,
With sleepless nights and days of pain,
Pleading a monarch's court before,
Shrewd processes and study sore,
Ere on the silver tide shall float,
Swifter than thought, young Fulton's boat.

And not alone for Hudson's stream
Availe the magic power of steam.
Blessings of unimagined worth
Its speed shall carry round the earth.
Knowledge shall on its pinions fly,
Nor land nor race in darkness lie.
Commerce her hoards shall freely bring
To many an urgent summoning,
And Want and Wealth in sundered lands
Shall closely clasp redeeming hands,
While master minds new gospels span,
The holy brotherhood of man.

Rest, Fulton, in thine honored grave,
Remembered with the wise and brave.
Thy message visits every sea,
Herald of benefits to be.
So nearly may our world relate
The mighty movements of her fate,
So Doom and Dangers wide apart
Appeal to every human heart.

And, as one sun doth compass all
That shall arise or may befall,
One fiat on creation's night
Bestowed the blessed boon of light,
So shall all life one promise fill
For Freedom, Justice and Good Will.

Mary Harriman a Country Girl.

Mary Harriman, daughter of the late E. H. Harriman, has as keen an instinct for guarding the cents as her father demonstrated in his business career. As the manager of the 30,000 acre farm in Ardeo, N. Y., she works with an eye to profit. The responsibility of the farm is not new to her. For several years she practically held control, her father seldom interfering and then doing little more than offering a suggestion. Harriman was proud of his daughter's talent for management. They were a familiar sight driving together over the farm. Harriman, as a rule, holding the reins over one of his fast trotters. Miss Harriman cares more for her farm than for society. She is essentially a country girl. Society never has attracted her, and there is little likelihood it will gain her interest now. She is a keen judge of a horse and seldom gets the worst of a trade.

A Nervous Face.

Do not neglect the nervous face. When a child grimaces or twitches there is trouble ahead. The sooner it is taken in hand the less probability there will be of chronic grimacing or, worse yet, St. Vitus' dance. Frequently this twitching begins when the child is very young; sometimes it arises from older people foolishly laughing at the little one's contortions, and they are kept up until they become a nervous affection.

Do Not Use Creosote.

Creosote should never be put into a hollow tooth for toothache. It relieves the pain, but in time destroys the substance of the teeth. Leave creosote to expert use.

The old fashioned way of dosing a weak stomach, or stimulating the Heart or Kidneys is all wrong. Dr. Shoop first pointed out this error. This is why his prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—is directed entirely to the cause of these ailments—the weak inside or controlling nerves. It isn't so difficult, says Dr. Shoop, to strengthen a weak Stomach, Heart or Kidneys if one goes at it correctly. Each inside organ has its controlling or inside nerve. When these nerves fail then those organs must surely falter. These vital truths are leadibg druggists everywhere to dispense and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Test it a few days, and see! Improvement will promptly and surely follow. Sold by all dealers.

MR. BAPTIE WON

Eighteen Prizes with Nineteen Bird

Mr. Jas. Baptie of Springville, honorary president of the Peterborough Poultry Association, entered 19 birds at the Guelph Poultry Show and secured 18 prizes. The Guelph show is open to the world, and it is gratifying to learn that a resident of Peterborough County has made such a splendid showing in competition with all comers. Mr. Baptie is only one of many Peterborough poultry breeders who raise nothing but the best birds. The birds entered by Mr. Baptie at the Guelph show, will be on exhibition at Peterborough's poultry show next January.

A Stranger Lord.

Judge George F. Lawton, of the Probate Court, London, Eng., related a story the other day of a minister who was spending his Sabbatical year traveling abroad. Arriving in London, he made every effort to get an intimate view of the two branches of Parliament in session. Of course, no stranger is allowed on the floor of the House of Lords, but the minister, not knowing this, and with the usual amount of American push, tried to make his way in. There is a rule however, that servants of the various lords may be admitted to speak to their masters. Seeing the minister walking boldly in, the doorkeeper asked:

"What Lord," repeated the astonished man. "The Lord Jehovah!"

For a moment the doorkeeper hesitated and then admitted him. Turning to the assistant standing near, he said,

"He must mean one of those poor Scotch lairds.

The Dramas of Mincing Lane.

It was only after eleven years of futile knocking at theatrical managers doors with rolls of manuscript that Mr. Alfred Sutro, who would appear to have scored another success at the Garrick in London with "Making a Gentleman," got his foot on the first rung of the ladder of theatrical fame. At one time he worked in an office in Mincing Lane, and says that those City experiences of his were of immense value to him. "There are dramas in Mincing Lane," to quote his own words, "as thrilling as any that have been placed upon the stage." Mr. Sutro is a brother-in-law of Mr Rufus Isaacs, K.C., and a distant kinsman of the Sutro who drove the famous Sutro Tunnel through the Nevada mountain, and thus made himself a millionaire.

MONTREAL TRUST & DEPOSIT COMPANY, Trustees.
CAPITAL STOCK (Authorized $1,000,000—1,000,000 SHARES OF $1.00 EACH.
700,000 SHARES ISSUED—300,000 IN TREASURY.

Claim "T. R. 189" is stated by competent mining engineers to be undoubtedly the best property in the Montreal River District. It contains 40 acres, mostly hilly, of diabase formation, and is within 2½ miles of transportation.

Active development was begun by the present owners in May last. The necessary buildings for men, horses, tools, powder and stores have been erected. About two miles of surface trenching have been done in the south-east quarter of the property, 14 veins have been uncovered, 8 of them showing silver at or near the surface.

Assays of surface ore have run as high as 12,000 ounces to the ton.

Two shafts have been sunk, No. 1 to a depth of 63 feet, and No. 2 to 62 feet.

Shaft No. 2 opens up a vein from 5 to 14 inches thick, which is improving with depth, and which shows plates and leaves of pure metallic silver embedded in the calcite.

Shaft No. 1 also shows greatly increasing values with depth. At 60 feet the ore is very rich. There are two veins, 8 inches and 2 inches thick, separated by 20 to 26 inches of silver-bearing aplite. At 63 feet a level has been driven along the vein for 20 feet.

The ore taken from this level has been of exceptional richness, running from 8,000 to 17,000 ounces to the ton.

Such large values, obtained so near the surface, are very promising, particularly as at 3 other points along the same vein masses of pure metallic silver have been found directly beneath the soil. There is therefore every reason to believe that this vein will show at other points values equally as large as those where the shaft has been sunk.

Already $100,000 worth of ore has been blocked out.

The large number of veins that have been stripped in the section trenched promises a large tonnage of pay ore when they are developed. Then there is ¾ of the claim not yet trenched which should show equally satisfactory values.

An idea of the excellent returns which Claim "T. R. 189" promises on money invested, can be gained from the fact that, among others, the following gentlemen are each owners of 15,000 shares or more—

HENRY H. LYMAN. F. P. BUCHANAN. S. LICHTENHEIN. T. L. MORRISEY.
ALEX. PRINGLE D. LORNE McGIBBON. JOHN E. HARDMAN. MAJOR MADOCKS.
S. A. McMURTRY. C. E. GAULT. SHIRLEY OGILVIE. W. H. WALSH.

Samples of ore can be seen at the offices of the undersigned.

GUARANTEED INVESTMENT

The Remarkable Offer Made by the Treasury Gold Mining and Milling Company of Fairview, Nevada

Guaranterd by a $1,000,000 Bank

SUPPOSE a million-dollar bank should offer you a gold bond, guaranteeing you against loss in an investment you desired to make, and providing that, whether the investment did or did not prove a profitable one, the bank would pay you back every dollar of your money at the end of twenty years, wouldn't that "look good" to you? And wouldn't you take it?

Wouldn't it look as though the bank itself, as well as the men behind the enterprise that formed the basis of the investment, had absolute confidence in it, and looked upon it as a safe and profitable venture?

Can you figure out any way in which you could possibly lose the money you put into an enterprise with that kind of backing? To be sure, you would run the risk of not receiving interest for that length of time on the amount of your investment, but you would also run the chance of multiplying it many times over in the way of dividends—and that is worth something, isn't it? In other words, you have opportunity to win, and not a single chance to lose.

Now, that is exactly what we, the officers and directors of Treasury Gold Mining and Milling Company, of Reno, Nevada, are offering for a short time to those who wish to take advantage of it; and we make this remarkable offer, first, because we know what we have in the way of a property, and, second, because we need a little more capital to erect a mill upon it and make it an extremely profitable producer in the shortest possible time.

This is the first time, to our personal knowledge, that an offer like this has ever been made with reference to any enterprise of a similar character, here or elsewhere.

Organization, Capitalization and Officers

Treasury Gold Mining and Milling Company is organized under the laws of the State of Nevada, with a capital stock of One Million Dollars ($1,000,000), divided into One Million (1,000,000) shares, of the par value of One Dollar ($1.00 each, full paid and non-assessable, and with no personal liability attaching to the stockholders. The number of shares in the treasury is Four Hundred Thousand (400,000).

The principal office of the company is at No. 336 Mill Street, Reno, Nevada, and the depository of the company is the Nixon National Bank, of the same city.

The officers are as follows: President, D. J. Kennedy, an old resident of Nevada, and one of the best known and most successful mining operators in the state; vice-president, F. W. Thomas, of the firm of John Brenner & Co., one of the largest mercantile establishments in the city; secretary, Donald Fraser, one of the proprietors of the Red Cross Drug Company, of Reno; treasurer, H. L. Burchell, mining operator, and manager of the most prominent of the leading law firms of the state.

Board of directors: D. J. Kennedy, F. W. Thomas, H. L. Burchell; Eugene Kelly, department manager with the Gray, Reid, Wright company, and Donald Fraser.

Location and Character of Properties

The holdings of Treasury Gold Mining and Milling Company include the following valuable properties in the famous Fairview district, in Churchill county, Nevada, reached by a fine wagon road from Fallon, the county seat:

By purchase outright—fully paid for and deed recorded at Fallon—valuable mining estates on both sides of the great Mizpah mine, on both of which properties rich ore has been found.

By purchase—paid for, deeded and recorded—the Treasury group of two full claims, amounting to 40 acres, to the north-east of the Mizpah mine, the rich ledge of which we have every reason to believe courses straight through our property for at least 2,000 feet. This we regard as a very valuable holding.

By purchase, an undivided one-half interest in seven claims, containing 100 acres, southwest of the Mizpah, with every indication that the Mizpah vein runs through our ground at least 1,500 feet. The deed for our one-half interest is recorded at Fallon, and we have an option for one year on the other one-half interest.

All the leasing rights and privileges of the Mizpah Milling and Leasing Company on twelve blocks of the celebrated Mizpah mine, for the term of five years. On this property, considerable quantities of fine shipping ore are already opened; drifting has been carried on for some distance on the 100-foot level, while the second level, at 175 feet depth, is now being driven on to catch the same ore body, when shipments will begin.

Values as Shown By Assays

Assays of ores taken from the various properties of the company show the following values:

From Treasury Group at the surface, gold and silver values	$139.50
" " " " " " " " " "	346.80
" " " " " " " " " "	77.42
From Kentucky Group, surface workings, gold and silver values	126.00
" " " " " " " " " "	78.00
From Mizpah shafts, tunnels and upraises, gold and silver values	993.95
" " " " " " " " " "	239.77
" " " " " " " " " "	235.44
" " " " " " " " " "	88.87
" " " " " " " " " "	34.21

From the foregoing tests, it will be seen that, leaving out of the calculation our own extensive properties, all of which contain indications of remarkable richness, we are fully justified in expecting sufficient profits from the operation of our five-year lease on the great Mizpah mine alone, to pay enormous dividends to all our stockholders. But to operate them all, with the present facilities and equipment we intend to add, should give us a production equaled by few mining properties in the world.

We have already found very rich ore in the shallow workings of our Kentucky group to the west, and of our Treasury group to the east of the Mizpah, and we can see no reason why both of these properties should not prove fully as rich as the famous Mizpah mine itself. We are in a district noted for its immense bodies of gold and silver ores, and where deep workings open up vast treasure vaults of mineral wealth.

Additional Equipment Required

In order to more speedily place these splendid properties among the high class producers of the state, and to combine the maximum of production and profit with the minimum of cost, considerable additional equipment is required.

This includes a standard, modern mill, to reduce our ore to bullion and concentrates at the mine, thus saving the transportation and treatment charges of $20 to $30 a ton on the ore to the Salt Lake smelters. To be sure, the ore is of such a high grade character that there is a good profit in mining and shipping it even at these high rates, but it would be better business to save it and add that much more to the net profits, by treating it at our own mill, which, under the circumstances, thus becomes a necessity. With a 100-ton plant, we should easily be able to treat our ore at an expense not to exceed $2.50 per ton, and by adding another unit to its capacity, can still further reduce the cost, and thus save from $17.50 to $27.50 Per ton on transportation and treating charges alone—quite an item when figuring the net profits.

The first unit capacity of 100 tons daily, of a standard mill, modern in every way, including stamps, amalgamators, blue grinding, concentration and grinding, with a sampler in front, so that ore can be purchased from surrounding properties, and general custom work done if desired, will enable us to add one unit after another as may be required with increased development of the ore bodies. By thus adding to the capacity of the mill, we shall be in a position to treat an immense tonnage daily, and pay dividends accordingly.

We will therefore not only effect a great saving of our present expenditures, but earn a handsome revenue, practically all profit, from the large volume of custom work that would be brought to our mill for treatment and reduction.

We also want to sink a capacious double-compartment shaft into the permanent sulphide zone at once, first, in order to have the ore bodies opened up for the mill, and secondly, to aid in determining the proper methods of treatment; so that we may build a mill adapted to the character of the ores, and capable of giving the largest returns to the company in the extraction of the gold and silver values.

Novel Plan to Secure Funds

Now, we are quite willing to admit that equipment of the character already mentioned, which will put the properties in the best possible working shape, will cost more money than is available at present, unless we accept the alternative of sacrificing a small portion of our special stock, in order to begin operations on a profitable basis at once.

The officers and directors of the company have therefore decided to adopt this method, and, while limiting the sales to but one-fifth of the capitalization, to surround the sale of every share with a positive safeguard against any possible loss.

We do not know that such an offer has ever before been made, and we expect the amount offered to be over-subscribed several times when the terms of the offer are made known.

First, we limit the amount of stock that will be sold, in order to provide the finds for necessary equipment, to Two Hundred Thousand (200,000) shares, and this is to be positively the last as well as the first, allotment that will be sold at the present low price, of 50 cents a share, as we honestly believe the stock will be good for dividends of not less than one dollar per share annually, after we commence treating 100 tons daily at the mill.

Stock Guaranteed

In order to absolutely protect purchasers of these shares against the possibility of a loss, we have made arrangements with the Metropolis Trust and Savings Bank, of San Francisco, one of the strongest financial institutions in the United States, to guarantee every share of stock sold, and to issue to every purchaser a gold bond for the full amount of his investment, such bond being payable in twenty years, whether the mines pay or not. Therefore, even if the mines never paid a dollar—though we expect them to pay millions—the stockholders cannot possibly lose anything except the interest on their investment, while they stand to win fortunes from the amounts they put into these properties.

The shares offered on these unparalleled terms may be paid for either in cash or in five equal monthly payments, and the money derived there from will be used entirely for the further development and equipment of the properties. The shares will also be traded in on both the New York and Boston exchanges the moment we begin shipping and paying dividends.

The elements of industrial safety and of the speculative profits of gold mining under such extremely favorable conditions, are combined in this enterprise to a greater degree than in any other undertaking within our knowledge or experience, and will appeal with irresistible force to all sensible and conservative people as an opportunity without an equal. It is a case of "heads, you win; tails, you cannot lose." If the mines pay as we believe they will bring to every stockholder, in dividends, many times the amount of his investment. If they do not pay, he gets his money back.

By-Law No. . .

A By-Law to authorize the execution of an agreement with the Peterborough Light and Power Company (Limited) for the right to use the streets of the City of Peterborough as therein mentioned.

Passed the day of 19

WHEREAS the Peterborough Light and Power Company (Limited), have applied to the Council of the City of Peterborough for the right to use the streets of the said city for the period of thirty years from the first day of January, 1916, for placing and maintaining poles, wires and other appliances there on for that period, for the purpose of their business as a light and power company and the council and company have agreed as the terms and conditions on which, in the opinion of the council, the said right should be given, which terms and conditions have been reduced to writing and are fully set out herein, and it is necessary that the said terms and conditions and the period for which such right is to be granted should be submitted to the votes of the electors of the municipality in the manner provided in The Consolidated Municipal Act 1903 with respect to by-laws requiring the assent of the electors.

THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF PETERBOROUGH BY THE COUNCIL THEREOF THEREFORE ENACTS AS FOLLOWS:—

1. This by-law shall take effect on the final passing thereof.

2. The Council of the City of Peterborough are hereby authorized to enter into an agreement with the Peterborough Light and Power Company (Limited) in the words and figures following, namely:—

This agreement, made this day of one thousand nine hundred and nine.

BETWEEN—

THE PETERBOROUGH LIGHT AND POWER COMPANY (Limited), (hereinafter called the Company), of the first part;

AND—

THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF PETERBOROUGH, (hereinafter called the Corporation), of the second part:

In this agreement, the word "City" shall mean the City of Peterborough, the word "Council" shall mean the Council of the City of Peterborough, the word "Pole" or "Poles" shall mean and include in addition to poles, wires, guy or stay wires and all appliances and apparatus used in the erection and maintenance of a pole line on the streets and lanes of the said City of Peterborough for stringing wires. The word "Streets" shall mean and include all streets and public lanes in the city. The word "Engineer" shall mean the corporation engineer, or any engineer appointed by the Council. The word "Board" shall mean the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board or any other body hereinafter authorized by the Ontario Legislature to exercise the powers now vested in the said Ontario Railway and Municipal Board. "Commercial Lighting" shall mean and include all lighting for business, trade or manufacturing purposes. "Domestic Lighting" shall mean and include all lighting except commercial or street lighting, and the word "Company," shall, unless the context requires a different construct, include the successors and assigns of such company.

Whereas the company has applied to the Corporation for the right to use the streets in the municipality for the period of thirty years from the first day of January, 1916, for the purpose of placing and maintaining poles and wires for transmitting electric current or energy to the customers of the said company and the Council of the Corporation has agreed to grant such request on the terms and conditions hereinafter set out, provided a by-law authorizing the same is duly passed by the ratepayers of the said City authorized to vote thereon.

THIS INDENTURE THEREFORE WITNESSETH that in pursuance of the premises and in consideration of the agreement on behalf of the corporation hereinafter contained, the said company, provided the said by-law is approved of by the ratepayers of the said city voting thereon and is finally passed by the council hereby covenants and agrees with the corporation as follows:—

1. That the said company will as soon as possible after the execution hereof by the said corporation and before the 31st day of June, 1910, remove from George street any poles that can in the opinion of the engineer be dispensed with or are not necessary for the present operation of the company's business and will before the said date replace all necessary poles with straight and neat poles of uniform height and size and of an attractive appearance as possible and place same flush with the curb.

2. That the said company in replacing any of said poles or placing any additional poles on the streets will replace place and locate the same in such manner as not to interfere with the existing poles now or then on the streets and will do all work subject to the approval, under the control and to the satisfaction of the engineer or such other person as may be designated by the Council for that purpose and in doing said work will not unnecessarily incumber or obstruct any of the said streets and after any work on same is done will at once restore the said streets to the same condition that they were in before such work was commenced and will not cut, trim, injure or destroy any shade or ornamental trees without the express consent of the Council, nor will they fasten any guy wires to any shade or ornamental tree, and will remove any guy wires now fastened on such trees.

3. That the said company will not place any poles on any of the streets without the written consent of the engineer.

4. That the said company will at its own expense on the written requisition of the Engineer change the location of any poles now or hereafter placed on the said streets, provided however that the Engineer shall not be entitled to require the Company to remove more than five per cent of the then existing poles in any year and no poles shall be required to be removed between the First day of December in any year and the First day of April in any succeeding year.

5. That the said company will permit the said corporation to use any of its poles that the corporation may desire for the purpose of stringing wires thereon for street lighting, fire alarm systems or other like corporation purposes (but not for commercial or commercial lighting or power purposes) at such rental as may be mutually agreed on, and if the said rental cannot be agreed on the same shall be fixed by the said board.

6. That the said Company will also upon the written request of the Engineer permit any other Company which now has or may hereafter obtain the right to the use of the streets for placing poles and wires thereon the use of its poles to carry the wires of the said other Company at such rental as may be mutually agreed on and if not mutually agreed on such rental shall be fixed by the said Board, and the said Company will also if the approval of the said Board is first obtained allow more than one Company the use of its poles for the purposes and upon the terms and conditions aforesaid, and the City will endeavour if possible to secure the Company from such other Company or Companies similar privileges.

7. That if the Corporation should hereafter construct or allow the construction of conduits on any of the streets within an area bounded on the north by the north side of McDonnel Street, on the south by the south side of Sherbrooke Street, on the east by the east side of Water Street, and on the west by the west side of Aylmer Street, and should desire to rent the use of same to the Company, the Company will, after the first day of January 1916, rent the said of said conduits from the Corporation at a rental and under such terms and conditions as may be mutually agreed on and if said rental and terms and conditions cannot be mutually agreed on the same shall be fixed by the said Board and the said Company will within twelve months from the granting of such use remove its poles from any streets or parts of streets within said area on which conduits are constructed the use of which conduits are leased to it by the Corporation and the Company further agrees that when the population of the City of Peterborough reaches 25,000 as shown by the assessment returns that the Company will, if the Board should on application made to it by the Corporation decide [illegible] to be safe for the Company to be required to do so, and the Corporation desires to rent the same or any of them to the Company, rent the use of any conduits constructed or allowed to be constructed by the Corporation on any other streets or parts of streets, at a rental and on the terms and conditions to be agreed on or fixed in the manner above mentioned and will within twelve months from the granting of such use remove its poles from said streets or parts of streets.

8. That the said Company will in all street work use and maintain in good condition the most modern appliances and apparatus designed to ensure freedom from danger or accidents to persons and property by reason or on account of the operations of the Company or the transmission of electricity over its systems and will keep indemnified and harmless the said Corporation from and against all loss, claims, damages and expenses and from and against all actions, proceedings, claims and demands whatsoever occasioned by or arising out of the erection, placing, repairing, operating or maintaining the poles of the Company or in any way connected with, relating to or resulting from the same or the operations of the Company or by reason or on account of any matter or thing done or omitted to be done by the Company or its employees, or by reason of any failure, neglect or omission of the Company or its employees to do or perform anything which the Company is by law or under the provisions of this agreement or any By-law of the Corporation or otherwise required to do or perform or because of any negligence of any omission or commission on the part of the Company or its employees in the election, placing, repairing, operating or maintenance of such poles or the transmission of electricity thereon, however the same may be caused or occur.

9. That the Company will pay to the Corporation for the balance of the said term of thirty years, commencing from the termination of the existing street lighting agreement between the parties hereto on the first day of January, 1916, the following sums per year for the poles erected and maintained by it, namely, for the first 300 poles the sum of $1.50 per pole and for each additional pole over 300, the sum of 50 cents per pole, and the same shall be paid as long as such poles remain on the streets whether used or not, (provided however that the said Company shall pay at least a minimum price of four hundred dollars per year), such annual sums to be payable to the Treasurer of the Corporation in equal quarterly payments on the last days of the months of March, June, September and December in each year, the first payment to be made on the thirty-first day of March 1916 and the Company shall in the meantime up to the said first day of January 1916, continue to pay the rental payable under the said existing agreement.

10. That the said Company at the expiration of the said term of Thirty years for which the said Company is to have the right to use the streets for the purposes aforesaid, will on demand of the Corporation remove its poles from all or any of the said streets and will after such removal repair and make good any damage or injury to the streets caused by such removal, and at the expiration of the said term of Thirty years the right or authority given to the Company to erect or maintain poles on any of the streets shall absolutely cease unless such time is extended by the By-law of the Corporation and in event of the refusal or neglect of the said Company to remove the said poles the same may be removed by an officer of the Corporation and the cost of such removal shall be paid by the said Company.

11. That the said Company will during the said term supply and instal meters and transformers for installations up to fifteen horse power, free of charge to those customers using same and will not charge for the use of said meters or transformers.

12. That the said Company will during the said term charge rates to customers not exceeding the following, subject to the provision hereinafter set out.

(a) For Domestic Lighting, ten cents per one thousand watts, and will allow a discount of thirty per cent if payment is made within ten days from the mailing or delivery to the customer of the account provided that the minimum net rate per year shall not be less than nine dollars.

(b) For Commercial Lighting, twelve and one-half cents per one thousand watts, and will allow a discount of twenty per cent if payment is made within ten days from the mailing or delivery to the customer of the account or a flat rate of four dollars per year on the basis of a sixteen candle power lamp and a proportionate rate for lamps of less or more candle power of twenty-five cents per year per candle power and will allow in all cases where a flat rate is charged a discount of twenty-five per cent if payment is made within ten days from the mailing or delivery to the customer of the account.

(c) For power purposes with a twenty-four hour service: For from 1 to 4 horse power $60.00 per year, or at the same rate as the ordinary domestic lighting meter rate, at the option of the customer.

For from 5 to 9 horse power $50.00 per year or two cents per horse power hour.

For from 10 to 19 horse power $25.00 per year or two cents per horse power hour.

For 20 horse power or over $20.00 per year or 1½ cents per horse power hour.

The quantity of power to be measured at the point the Company's wires enter the premises of the customer, and the above-mentioned prices for power are only to apply to power generated within the City of Peterborough, which power shall amount to at least 3000 Horse Power for manufacturing purposes, exclusive of power used by the Quaker Oats Company or its successors.

13. AND IT IS HEREBY PROVIDED that such rates shall remain in force until the first day of January 1915 and shall not thereafter be increased by the Company during the term hereby granted, but it is hereby further agreed by the said Company that if reduced rates cannot be mutually agreed on for the first five years the said term commencing with the first day of January 1916 that the Corporation shall be at liberty to make an application to the said Board for a reduction in any or all of said rates for the five years commencing with the said first day of January 1915, and that the said Board shall have full power and authority to reduce the rates to be charged for the said ensuing five years, and the said Company agrees that the rates so agreed upon or fixed shall be the rates to be charged and paid in lieu of the rates above mentioned until the expiration of the said term hereby granted, unless re-adjusted as hereinafter mentioned or by agreement between the parties hereto. It being agreed between the Company and the Corporation that for each ensuing five year term, commencing with the first day of January in the years 1920, 1925, 1930 and 1935, either the said Corporation or the Company shall be at liberty to make application to the said Board for re-adjustment of all or any of the said rates for such ensuing five year term, provided such application is made prior to the fifteenth day of April in any of the years 1920, 1925, 1930 and 1935 respectively, and that the said Board shall have full power and authority to re-adjust the said rates provided however that none of said rates shall be increased or made higher than the rates provided for and fixed in the twelfth clause of this agreement and that the rates so agreed on or fixed shall be the rates to be charged and paid until the end of the term hereby granted, unless further re-adjusted as above provided, and the said Company hereby agrees and undertakes to obey, abide by and carry out any order or direction of the said Board, in respect to said rates.

14. And the said Company hereby in consideration hereof further covenants, agrees and undertakes with the said Corporation that nothing herein contained or the granting or enjoyment of the rights hereby conferred shall be deemed or taken to limit, interfere with or affect the rights of the Corporation in any manner nor any rights or privileges which it now has or may hereafter acquire or have conferred on it to generate, transmit, deliver, receive, rent, lease, use, supply, sell and distribute electrical power or energy for any purpose nor to limit, interfere with or affect the control of the streets by the Corporation under the Municipal Act or any By-law or agreement now in force or hereafter passed or entered into with regard to the placing of poles on the streets nor the right of the said Corporation to place poles on the streets or to engage in Municipal, Domestic and Commercial Lighting or the supply of electricity for lighting, power and other purposes nor the right to grant to any person or Company the right or license to use the said streets for any purpose within the authority of the Corporation and so delay dealing, or acquiescence on the part of the Corporation shall be deemed or taken to have the effect of limiting, interfering with or in any way altering any rights or privileges which the Corporation has hereunder or now has or may hereafter acquire or have conferred on it, nor of conferring any right to the use of the streets by the Company after the right to do so has expired under the terms hereof, but this clause shall not be deemed to affect the rights hereby granted to the Company for and during the term hereby provided for.

15. And the said Company hereby in consideration hereof further covenants, agrees and undertakes with the Corporation that should the Corporation hereafter purchase or take proceedings under any Act then in force to acquire the works and property of the Company or any part or parts thereof that in determining the price to be paid therefor, either by arbitration or otherwise, nothing shall be taken into account or allowed to the Company for prospective profits or because of the granting to or enjoyment by the Company of the rights or any of the rights hereby granted or conferred on the Company.

16. And it hereby further agreed by and between the parties hereto that in any case, where under the terms hereof, any question, matter or thing may be referred to and determined by the Board that the said question, matter or thing may, at the option and will of the Council, be determined by arbitration under the provisions of The Arbitration Act and that the arbitrator or arbitrators appointed to hear and determine the said question matter or thing, and undertaking the reference, shall have and exercise the same powers and authorities as are herein conferred on the said Board and that the Company shall and will conform to, abide by and carry out any award, decision, direction or order from time to time made by the arbitrator or arbitrators in all respects and in as full and ample a manner as if the same was made by and was a direction or order of the Board, under the terms hereof: and this Agreement to submit any such question, matter or thing, to arbitration, shall, if and as soon as the said Council exercises its option to have the same so referred to arbitration instead of to the said Board and passes a resolution to that effect, be deemed and taken in each case as it may arise, to be a submission under the provisions of The Arbitration Act of the said question, matter or thing and all the provisions of the said Act applicable thereto shall apply to any such submission, arbitration and award or other decision or direction of the said Arbitrator or Arbitrators.

17. AND THIS INDENTURE FURTHER WITNESSETH that the said Corporation in pursuance and consideration of the premises hereby agrees with the said Company, that provided the said Company performs, fulfils and keeps the covenants and agreements herein contained on its part to be observed, performed and kept, and strictly observes the terms and conditions herein contained, that the Company may for a period of thirty years from the first day of January 1916, use the said streets for the purpose of placing and maintaining in, upon, over or under the same, poles, wires and other appliances necessary for the transmission thereby of electric current or energy for its operations as a lighting and power Company, provided, and so long only as the same are placed and maintained according to the provisions hereof.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties hereto have hereunto caused their respective Corporate Seals to be affixed, attested by the hands of their proper officials."

3. The Mayor and Clerk are authorized to execute the said agreement in duplicate under their hands and the Corporate Seal, provided the same is executed by the said Peterborough Light and Power Company (Limited) either prior to or at the time it is executed on behalf of the Corporation.

4. The votes of the electors of the said City of Peterborough will be taken on this By-Law on the third day of January 1910 being the same day as the next annual election of the Municipal Council for the said City is being held and the polls will be held at the same hour on said day, at the same places and by the same Deputy Returning Officers and Poll Clerks as are appointed and fixed for the said Municipal Election.

5. The fourth day of January 1910 at the hour of twelve o'clock noon, and the City Clerk's Office are hereby fixed as the time when and the place where the Clerk will sum up the number of votes given for and against the by-law.

6. The thirty-first day of December 1909 and the hour of twelve o'clock noon, and the Office of the City Clerk are hereby fixed as the time and place for the appointment of persons to attend at the various polling places and at the final summing up of the votes by the Clerk respectively, on behalf of the persons interested in and promoting or opposing the passing of the By-Law respectively.

Mayor.

Clerk.

NOTICE

The notice that the foregoing is a true copy of a proposed By-law which has been taken into consideration and which will be finally passed by the Council of the City of Peterborough (in the event of the assent of the electors being obtained thereto) after one month from the first publication thereof in the Morning Times newspaper, the date of which first publication is the seventh day of December, 1909, and that at the hour, day and places therein fixed for taking the votes of the electors the polls will be held.

IF SICK--WHY PAY
Unless Health First Returns.
Here is what should and can be done!
Now you would not willingly pay for that which was worthless—would you?
Then why pay for medicine until (just once) the first proves to you its actual worth?
Positively proving what Dr. Shoop's Restorative can do for the sick, I say to you, pay unless health first returns." And I make this offer with a signed and sealed 25 page book, to pay" complete.
I send only to the sick, my valuable book "Dr. Shoop's Restorative is absolutely free if it fails". Let others do the same, or else from their prescriptions by.
If you need more strength, more vitality, more vigor or more vim, use my Restorative, a few days and note the immediate improvement.
Does the Stomach, Heart, or Kidneys, or Nerves, then test Dr. Shoop's Restorative. For does the Stomach nor stimulate the Heart nor nerves, for that is wrong. Your organ's natural help, help them to regain their health. Help them to their full power. That means more vitality.
These books also tell of Dr. Shoop's Tonic Coffee nerve. We can honestly say that no other coffee will have that flavor, for we spoil it if we succeed. Write to the Shoop lab person, by name, for these books, or coffee, or both.
When both will come up to you and the books will tell you more than I can here. Then if you feel as I do by this remarkable offer.
So write me today for the order.
I have supplanted hosts and responsible druggists to satisfy every customer. Let them come to the store.
But write me first for the order.
All druggists sell Dr. Shoop's Restorative, but all are not authorized to give the 30 day trial. So drop me a line yourself and learn about the unprejudiced and honest offer. That one may also help your case.
A postal will do.
Address, just as you are thus reminded, Dr. Shoop, your home physician. My address and the book below are yours—and without cost.
Perhaps a word or two more will tell also my entire personality. I have helped thousands on thousands by my counsel. I have helped them by personal advice given by mail. Of course I cannot help but feel a pride in the good results that have followed. I cannot help but feel that I have done much good. And

NEWS OF THE CITY

Local Events Gathered by Times' Reporters.

To Suffragettes.

Rev. Dr. Pigeon will address the suffragettes on local option in the Murray street church this afternoon.

Tenth Anniversary.

At a special meeting of the T.A.S. recently held it was decided to hold the celebration of the 10th anniversary in the Grand Opera House on Monday, January 10th, and it will take the form of a concert.

Sleet and Rain.

Another sleet and rain storm is doing damage to the telephone and telegraph wires and making it very disagreeable for all parties concerned.

A Nasty Fall.

Mrs R. S. Davidson suffered a nasty fall on the sidewalk near Comstock's undertaking rooms and as a result had to be removed to her home in a hack, and she has been confined there since although recovering nicely.

A Heavy Fine.

Mr. Geo. N. Graham, proprietor of the Oriental Hotel, was convicted by Magistrate Dumble yesterday morning in the police court and fined $200 and costs. The charge was selling liquor during prohibited hours. It was the second offense and hence the heavy fine. Mr. G. N. Gordon, however, stated on behalf of Mr. Graham that he would appeal to a higher court.

General servant wanted; an experienced girl for general housework—good plain cook—small family. Apply 536 Water street.

Council Meeting.

A special meeting of the City Council will be held on Wednesday night when the business for the year will be wound up.

New Skating Rink.

Manager Hurtubise of the Auditorium Roller Rink intends to have ice skating there this winter, and will make a bid for the patronage of the skating and hockey public. Mr. Hurtubise announces that he will have a big surface and seating accommodation for 800 people. He has made an offer to the City Hockey League to have that body play its matches on Auditorium ice and the City League will consider the matter at its next meeting which will likely be held early next week.

Vaudeville Off at the Princess.

Yesterday, notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather, the rain and wet walking, the Princess Theater did a large business. The pictures yesterday were "The Crime of an Idiot," "The Maid of the Mountains," and another strong drama. In conversation with Mr. Hanna, the proprietor, The Times learned that, for a time, "vaudeville" will be eliminated from the Princess' program. This is seemingly due to what the better element of Peterborough citizens think of some of the vaudeville jokes sprung here recently.

Coughs that are tight, or distressing tickling coughs, get quick and certain help from Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. On this account Druggists everywhere are favoring Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. And it is entirely free from Opium, Chloroform, or any other stupefying drug. The tender leaves of a harmless lung-healing mountainous shrub give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy its curative properties. Those leaves have the power to calm the most distressed Cough and to soothe and heal the most sensitive bronchial membrane. Mothers should, for safety's sake, alone, always demand Dr. Shoop's. It can with perfect freedom be given to even the youngest babes! Test it once yourself and see! Sold by all dealers.

BANK OF MONTREAL.

Annual Meeting of Shareholders Received Good Reports.

In another part of this issue will be found the report of the ninety-second annual meeting of the Bank of Montreal, Canada's largest and strongest financial institution. That report showed a net profit, everything provided for, of $1,826,167.74. The usual quarterly dividends were paid, amounting to nearly a million and a half of dollars and over a half a million of dollars was carried over to the profit and loss account. This is a most creditable showing, and especially from the investors point of view, and in the face of the very low rates on currency prevailing during the year, in London and New York. The most important feature of the year's business was the large increase in the deposits which exceeded $36,000,000, made up largely of new money brought into the country. In speaking of this part of the report Sir Edward Clouston, Bart., Vice-President and General Manager of the Bank, made the following very important observation :—

"It is quite possible that if the apprehensions expressed in many quarters as to the consequence of the new methods of British taxation are realized, deposits from this last source may be still further enlarged. It is very important, therefore, that nothing should be done in Canada by injudicious legislation, the exploitation of doubtful enterprises, or otherwise, to stop this flow of capital. Our call loans have increased by about the same amount as our deposits, and what is not necessary to retain as a portion of our reserves, will be gradually brought into the country to meet commercial requirements as they arise."

The total deposits bearing interest in the Bank of Montreal now amount to $128,445,206.58. During the past year the Bank of Montreal has opened several new branches in the Dominion principally in the west. The General Manager Sir Edward Clouston, in his address to the shareholders, presented a statement of trade conditions in the country which was indeed encouraging. He referred to the exceptional facilities now provided by the bank and the railways for moving the immense northwest crop, and at the same time no monetary stringency was felt. This was accomplished by the bank's note system which has proved very successful. On the whole the Bank of Montreal and the Dominion of Canada have engaged a very prosperous year.

Speedy War on England Meditated by Kaiser

Sensational Story Printed by the London Daily Mail and the Berlin Morning Post--Pretend that Britain is Preparing for War

London, Dec. 14.—A war council presided over by the Kaiser and called by him to consider the probability of an early conflict with England, was held last night at the home of Foreign Secretary Von Schoen in Berlin, according to a story today from the London Mail's Berlin correspondent.

The Kaiser, Von Schoen, Chancellor Von Bethmann Hollweg, Admira Von Tirpitz, War Secretary Von Heringen, and Secretary of the Treasury Wermuth composed the council.

That the calling of the council was suddenly decided upon, and for that reason considered of great significance, is shown by the fact that Von Schoen had invited twenty-six members of the Reichstag to dine with him last night, but at the last moment received word that the Kaiser was coming to his house for a conference.

The Morgen Post of Berlin bears out the Mail's correspondent in giving the meeting the importance of a war council, and says that it is interpreted in Berlin as due to the recent signs of hostility shown by England towards Germany.

The whole trend of the council, it is declared, was to determine how quickly Germany could prepare for conflict with England, indicating that the Kaiser believes England is preparing for an early hostile move.

The only moves by Great Britain that are known to the public, which could be construed by Germany as a menace, are the enlargement of the British Dreadnought building program, decided upon over four months ago, and the energetic work on the new naval base in the north of Scotland which press despatches recently stated would, with the new base at Dover, make the North Sea a British lake, in which the German fleet would be bottled by a greatly superior force.

Until four months ago it appeared that by the spring of 1911 Britain would only have sixteen all-big-gun battleships to Germany's seventeen, and it was stated that the latter country had secretly accelerated her building program. Not to be caught napping the British Government decided to add four Dreadnoughts to the British program, Mr. McKenna, the first lord of the admiralty.

"For three successive years the British Government did their best to convince the world of the futility of this race in armaments, and of the desirability of curtailing construction, but in vain. In these circumstances, the government considered that it would not be safe to hold back. We are bound to take all necessary steps to secure our predominance of the sea, not only now, but in the future.

True Bills in Three Perjury Cases at the County Court Sessions

True bills were brought in by the grand jury against Victor Fowler, P. J. Carroll and Geo. Martin, yesterday afternoon at the county court December sessions. His Honor Judge Huycke is presiding, and these three cases will be taken up within the next few days. Besides the criminal cases there are four civil cases.

The following members of the bar were in attendance at the court;—Messrs. R. E. Wood, county crown attorney; E. L. Goodwill, A. P. Poussette, K.C.; D. O'Connell, R. F. McWilliams, G. J. Sherry, G. W. Hatton.

In his address to the jury Judge Huycke referred in eulogistic terms to the splendid career on the bench of the late Judge Weller, and of the great loss to the bench and community by his death. He also spoke in a feeling manner of the death of the late John Moloney, clerk of the court.

The Grand Jury is composed as follows; J. J. Bennett, foreman, D. Buchanan, G. H. Giroux, F. Dunlop, Jas. Greer, John Kerr, Oscar Mutchett, W. J. Miller, Stewart Miller, Chas. McClellan, F. J. Squires and J. W. Miller.

His honor was very pleased that there were only three criminal cases to be tried. All these were for the one alleged offence, perjury. The nature of the crime of perjury was explained to the jury. The judge stated that while in some cases the fact that perjury was committed did not result in injury to anyone, he did not wish to minimize the nature of the offence.

The empanelling of the jury to hear the action of O'Shea vs. Cottingham, in which the plaintiff sought to recover $1,000, was then proceeded with. The members of the jury were empanelled when it was agreed upon by counsel to have the jury dispensed with and the action will be heard by the judge. Counsel for plaintiff are Bennetum, Peck and Kerr, and the defendant O'Connell and Gordon.

Mrs. Margaret O'Shea, the plaintiff, was the first witness.

Temperance League will Answer Questions

In view of the start made by the liquor interests in distributing their campaign literature the City Temperance League ask all citizens to notice the character of the information given.

1. No authority whatever is given. No names attached.

2. They are the output of the liquor trade and they are without any thought of the moral issue.

3. They only seek to destroy the influence of the appeal to the intelligence, conscience, heart and good sense of the citizens and are only and altogether intended to misrepresent the facts and to degrade a community.

Board of Trade Favor Light and Power Co's. Thirty Year Agreement

Will Oppose the Return to the Ward System of Electing Aldermen Everyone in Favor of the Isolation Hospital--Interesting Addresses by Leading Citizens

The Board of Trade unanimously supported the Light & Power Company's bylaw, and the following motion was passed:—

Moved by Mr. T. F. Matthews, seconded by Mr. A. P. Poussette, that after hearing the arguments in connection with the Light & Power Company's bylaw, it is the opinion of this meeting that as the interests of the city are safeguarded in the preparation of the bill by the council, this board approves of the conditions of the bylaw and recommends it to the ratepayers as a measure that should be passed.

The Peterborough Board of Trade meeting was fairly well attended last night by members and citizens and they discussed three of the bylaws which will be voted on by the people in January.

The board favors the Peterborough Light & Power Company's bylaw, and the isolation hospital, but they will all vote against the return to the ward system.

President G. A. Gillespie occupied the chair and after the reading of the minutes announced the object of the meeting.

30-YEAR BYLAW.

The first matter taken up was the bylaw of the Peterborough Light & Power Co. Mr. J. H. Larmonth, manager of the company, was first called upon to explain the bylaw. He stated that the company had submitted their proposition to the council last May and it was under discussion all summer. The bylaw contained many provisions very favorable to the city. The company asked for the privilege of doing business in the city for the next thirty years. They did not ask for an exclusive franchise and the city was tied up in no way and could do business themselves or to allow any other company to go into business. The main object was to permit the company to issue 30- year bonds to enable them to carry on their business and to expand as their increased patronage and interests demanded. The company had prepared a pamphlet with the provisions of the bylaw clearly set forth in a short and plain form. Mr. Larmonth said he would be glad to answer any questions.

A. P. POUSSETTE.

Mr. A. P. Poussettee said he would consider that the bylaw was a very fair agreement and had many advantages to the city. He went over the several clauses and pointed out whereby the city was benefitted. He thought that from beginning to end the proposition of the Light & Power Co., was very fair. The City Council had accepted it and the citizens should indorse it for that reason. The light and power supply was of paramount importance and the citizens of Peterborough should consider the good fortune we received when the Quaker Oats Company invested so much capital in this city. He hoped to see a very large vote polled in favor of this bylaw.

W. H. DENHAM.

Mr. W. H. Denham said he would like to point out the position o the Quaker Oats Campany in connection with this bylaw. He said that the Quaker Oats Company was a cereal company and they expected that every auxiliary industry should stand on its own feet. The Light & Power Company cannot do this unless it can issue bonds to raise money. The Light & Power Company requires to make large expenditures now to increase its plant and meet with the demand for more power and light. He then pointed out the importance to have a thirty-year privilege to do business here in connection with the raising of funds. The company want a settled policy for thirty years as financial men will not underwrite bonds for a shorter period. The Quaker Oats Company wants the Light & Power Company to stand on its own feet so that they can turn their attention to the Quaker Oats plant here and improve and enlarge it. The Light & Power Company were asking for nothing they should not get and he hoped to see every citizen who was interested in the welfare of the city make it a point to assist the company in passing the bylaw. He pointed out that the Peterborough Light & Power Company were giving a cheaper light than any other town or city in the country with the exception of one or two.

T. F. MATTHEWS.

Mr. T. F. Matthews wished to express his interest in the city's affairs He intended to support the bylaw and he asked that a resolution be passed favoring the bylaw.

Moved by Mr. A. P. Poussette that this board fully approves of the Light & Power Company's bylaw and urges all the citizens to vote in favor of it.

Moved by Mr. T. F. Matthews and Mr. A. P. Poussette, that after hearing the arguments in favor of the Peterborough Light & Power Company's bylaw, that this board fully approves of it and presents it to the citizens as a measure which should be passed in the interests of the city.

Mr. Poussette withdrew his motion and seconded Mr. Matthew's motion.

Mr. Dodds asked for the opinion of the aldermen present before the vote was taken.

ALD. R. HICKS.

Ald. Hicks said that this was a bylaw confirming a compromise with the city and the company. The company asked for the privilege of using the city's streets in connection with their business for thirty years. The City Council took up the question and secured several concessions. Summing up the bylaw the city was getting light and power as cheap or cheaper than any place in the Province. We get a guarantee that the rates will be no higher for thirty years. Yet the city can apply to the Railway Board and have the rates adjusted every five years. The city will gain nothing by defeating the bylaw as no other company is offering any better terms or as good. On the whole the passing of the bylaw means a much better arrangement for lights and in the matter of control of the company.

Ald. J. J. DUFFUS.

Ald. Duffus agreed with all that Ald. Hicks said. He said that the council had worked hard on the question and they had got the best bargain possible and the city would benefit by it.

MAYOR RUSH.

Mayor Rush strongly supported the bylaw and said he considered it would be a great mistake not to carry the bylaw.

Mr. Matthew's motion was then passed.

ISOLATION HOSPITAL.

The second bylaw taken up by the Board of Trade last night was the isolation hospital bylaw. There was an unanimous feeling in favor of the measure. Those who heartily endorsed it were Messrs. T. F. Matthews, F. D. Kerr, D. Burritt, A. P. Poussette, W. H. Denham, J. H. Larmonth.

It was moved by Messrs. J. Coyle Brown and W. H Denham that this board approve of the bylaw.

WARD SYSTEM BYLAW.

President Gillespie announced that the next bylaw to be considered was the return to the ward system. There appeared to be only one man at the meeting who had anything to say in favor of the bylaw and that was a man from the north end who complained that the north ward had not had a representative in the council.

Mr. Robt. Fair moved that in the opinion of this meeting it would be unwise to [illegible] them and [illegible] proved.

The motion was lost.

Bylaws were defeated in Hanley, interest in the Provincial elections in Saskatchewan was centered on six points where local option bylaws were at stake.

There was almost an even break at Milestone, where local option carried with a majority of nine. At Moosomin, where three bars and wholesale licenses were affected, the bylaw also carried with the modest surplus of five votes. The rural district of Indian Head also voted dry, but with a substantial majority of 74, the figure being, for option 132, against 58.

Will cut Ice from River Above the New Dam

The regular meeting of the Board of Health was held yesterday morning with Dr Burnham presiding. A number of important questions were considered, among them being the matter of procuring ice that may be used for drinking purposes as differentiated from the ice that is used only for cooling. The following accounts were passed:

Adam Ball. $1 90, Wm Gates $5. Jos Thompson, $4; J. E. A. Fitzgerald, $17.20; W. H. Hamilton, $3.30.

An account was received from Dr. T. W. H. Young for $400. for medical attendance during smallpox epidemic last summer. It was moved by Messrs. Edgar and Murty that as Dr. Young had been acting medical health officer during the absence of Dr. Bingham, the bill be sent on to the council.

A letter was received from O'Connell and Gordon, asking that the bill of Mrs. Lewis LeBar for $18.00, be paid as soon as possible. It was stated that during the smallpox epidemic furniture, mattresses, etc., were destroyed and Mrs. LeBar asked for recompense. Mr. Le Bar also asks for $6.00 for rent during the time the place was under quarantine. The city solicitor stated that the board could pay the former bill if it saw fit, but he did not think there was ground for claim in regard to the six dollars.

Mr. S. H. Mitchell furnished supplies to Mrs. Beauregard during the period of their quarantine, and the bill was to be paid when certified to by the chief of police. The total was $13.45, but the chief had only certified to $9. By some slip the entire bill was paid and the city treasurer states in a letter to the Board that turn the part of the bill not certified to the latter stated that the amount of the bill was correct, and the city should pay all of it. No action was taken this morning.

G. Pidgeon, 878 Harvey street, who had been under quarantine, asked the city to assist him. He had been put to considerable expense which he was not in a position to pay.

PURE ICE.

Dr. McPherson, M.H.O. reported in regard to the securing of ice free from the city's contaminations. He stated that he had learned that Mr. Allin was to be the only ice dealer during the coming year, and he stated that he would sell the ice from the Little Lake for cooling purposes only and that he would cut ice from the river above the new dam for use in drinking water. The former will be used in refrigerators and the latter to be put in drinking water. This arrangement will likely be acted upon.

Three were Killed and Eighteen are Injured

Erie, Pa., Dec. 14.—Dashing along through a blinding snowstorm in an effort to make up time, the Twentieth Century Limited, on the New York Central, crashed into the rear of the Chicago, New York, and Boston special one mile west of North-east at midnight last night. Three were killed and 18 injured.

A relief train was made up here and filled with doctors and appliances, rushed to the scene.

Erie, Pa., Dec. 14.—The Boston special was stalled by a freight just this side of North-East. The first section of the Twentieth Century, running behind for some unknown reason, probably ran by the flag at North-East and crashed into the car ahead. The flyer ground its way through the rear coach of No. 10 telescoping it. The smoker of the Century was also demolished but luckily no one was in it.

Willing hands immediately set to work aiding the injured, whose pitiful cries for help could be heard for a long distance around. The dead and dying were borne to the coaches which had not been damaged, and every relief given them until the doctors and nurses from Erie arrived. All the dead and injured were men.

Train No. 12, east bound, was flagged, and many of the injured were sent to Buffalo hospitals on her. Others were rushed to Erie on the relief train.

The three dead men were evidently foreigners, and were all roughly dressed. Their clothing bore no marks by which they could be identified.

Confirmation Services at St. John's Church

The second confirmation services in St. John's church this year was held last night. 29 candidates were received into full communion of the church. His Lordship Bishop Reeve, assistant bishop of Toronto, was present and performed the confirmation ceremony. The full choir was present and rendered very fine music which was much appreciated by the large congregation. There were 14 men and boys and 15 women and girls presented by the rector, Rev. Canon Davidson, as candidates for confirmation. They had all been carefully prepared by the rector during the past three months. His lordship delivered an eloquent and earnest address before asking the candidates the solemn question ratifying their vows which they answered individually. They each went forward and received the bishop's blessing and the laying on of hands. Afterwards his lordship shook hands with each new member. Rev. E. J. Pickford of Norwood, was present.

Speedy War on England Meditated by Kaiser

Sensational Story Printed by the London Daily Mail and the Berlin Morning Post--Pretend that Britain is Preparing for War

London, Dec. 14.—A war council presided over by the Kaiser and called by him to consider the probability of an early conflict with England, was held last night at the home of Foreign Secretary Von Schoen in Berlin, according to a story today from the London Mail's Berlin correspondent.

The Kaiser, Von Schoen, Chancellor Von Bethmann Hollweg, Admira Von Tirpitz, War Secretary Von Heringen, and Secretary of the Treasury Wermuth composed the council.

That the calling of the council was suddenly decided upon, and for that reason considered of great significance, is shown by the fact that Von Schoen had invited twenty-six members of the Reichstag to dine with him last night, but at the last moment received word that the Kaiser was coming to his house for a conference.

The Morgen Post of Berlin bears out the Mail's correspondent in giving the meeting the importance of a war council, and says that it is interpreted in Berlin as due to the recent signs of hostility shown by England towards Germany.

The whole trend of the council, it is declared, was to determine how quickly Germany could prepare for conflict with England, indicating that the Kaiser believes England is preparing for an early hostile move.

The only moves by Great Britain that are known to the public, which could be construed by Germany as a menace, are the enlargement of the British Dreadnought building program, decided upon over four months ago, and the energetic work on the new naval base in the north of Scotland which press despatches recently stated would, with the new base at Dover, make the North Sea a British lake, in which the German fleet would be bottled by a greatly superior force.

Until four months ago it appeared that by the spring of 1911 Britain would only have sixteen all-big-gun battleships to Germany's seventeen, and it was stated that the latter country had secretly accelerated her building program. Not to be caught napping the British Government decided to add four Dreadnoughts to the British program, Mr. McKenna, the first lord of the admiralty.

"For three successive years the British Government did their best to convince the world of the futility of this race in armaments, and of the desirability of curtailing construction, but in vain. In these circumstances, the government considered that it would not be safe to hold back. We are bound to take all necessary steps to secure our predominance of the sea, not only now, but in the future.

True Bills in Three Perjury Cases at the County Court Sessions

True bills were brought in by the grand jury against Victor Fowler, P. J. Carroll and Geo. Martin, yesterday afternoon at the county court December sessions. His Honor Judge Huycke is presiding, and these three cases will be taken up within the next few days. Besides the criminal cases there are four civil cases.

The following members of the bar were in attendance at the court;—Messrs R E. Wood, county crown attorney; E. L. Goodwill, A. P. Poussette, K.C.; D. O'Connell, R. F. McWilliams, G. J. Sherry, G. W. Hatton.

In his address to the jury Judge Huycke referred in eulogistic terms to the splendid career on the bench of the late Judge Weller, and of the great loss to the bench and community by his death. He also spoke in a feeling manner of the death of the late John Moloney, clerk of the court.

The Grand Jury is composed as follows; J. J. Bennett, foreman, D. Buchanan, G. H. Giroux, F. Dunlop, Jos. Greer, John Kerr, Oscar Mutchett, W. J. Miller, Stewart Miller, Chas. McClellan, F. J. Squires and J. W. Miller.

His honor was very pleased that there were only three criminal cases to be tried. All these were for the one alleged offense, perjury. The nature of the crime of perjury was explained to the jury. The judge stated that while in some cases the fact that perjury was committed did not result in injury to anyone, he did not wish to minimise the nature of the offence.

The empanelling of the jury to hear the action of O'Shea vs Cottingham, in which the plaintiff sought to recover $1,000, was then proceeded with. The members of the jury were empanelled when it was agreed upon by counsel to have the jury dispensed with and the action will be heard by the judge. Counsel for plaintiff are Denistoun, Peck and Kerr, and the defendant O'Connell and Gordon.

Mrs. Margaret O'Shea, the plaintiff, was the first witness.

In Hanley again public opinion was nicely balanced, the bylaw being defeated by 7 votes, the figures being for option 85, against 32. In Sintaluta option was defeated by a margin of 38, thirty votes supporting option and 33 against. Wolseley voters turned down local option by the comparatively large majority of 9. Residentees claim, however, that they were swamped by a large proportion of non-resident voters imported to defeat the measure. The total vote was, for option 71; against 30.

CURED CONSTIPATION QUICKLY.

Tells of a Remedy That is Safe for Young and Old, for All Stomach and Bowel Troubles.

Writing from his home in Barcelona, Mr. Frederick G. Mayer states: "I think no one ever suffered as severely from constipation as I did for near,y six months. So many serious symptoms were developing as a consequence of this evil condition of the system, that I realized I must find a remedy. The strong pills of various kinds I tried seemed after their first effects were over to mak their first effects were over to make me fap worse and I did not know which way to turn for relief. I saw Dr. Hamilton's Pills advertised, and the first box used satisfied me I found a true remedy. Instead of griping by undue activity, Dr. Hamilton's Pills acted as naturally as if physic had not been taken. I never had to increase the dose, and, indeed, within a month I reduced it and when the system finally acted of its own accord as a result of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, I took a dose twice a week obly, just to make sure the old condition would not come back. No otherremedy cures constipation and biliousness so easily or safely as Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they are an ideal family remedy for all diseases of the stomach, liver and bowels. The city solicitor stated that the board could pay the former bill if it saw fit, but he did not think there was ground for claim in regard to the six dollars.

Mr. S. H. Mitchell furnished supplies to Mrs Beauregard during the period of their quarantine, and the bill was to be paid when certified to by the chief of police. The total was $12.46, but the chief had only certified to $9. By some slip the entire bill was paid and the city treasurer states in a letter to the Board that turn the part of the bill not certified to the latter stated that the amount of the bill was correct, and the city should pay all of it. No action was taken this morning.

G. Pidgeon, 578 Harvey street, who had been under quarantine, asked the city to assist him. He had been put to considerable expense which he was not in a position to pay.

PURE ICE.

Dr. McPherson, M.H.O. reported in regard to the securing of ice free from the city's contaminations. He stated that he had learned that Mr. Allin was to be the only ice dealer during the coming year, and he stated that he would sell the ice from the Little Lake for cooling purposes only and that he would cut ice from the river above the new dam for use in drinking water. The former will be used in refrigerators and the latter to be put in drinking water. This arrangement will likely be acted upon.

Three were Killed and Eighteen are Injured

Erie, Pa., Dec. 14.—Dashing along through a blinding snowstorm in an effort to make up time, the Twentieth Century Limited, on the New York Central, crashed into the rear of the Chicago, New York, and Boston special one mile west of North-east at midnight last night. Three were killed and 18 injured.

A relief train was made up here and filled with doctors and appliances, rushed to the scene.

Erie, Pa., Dec. 14.—The Boston special was stalled by a freight just this side of North-East. The first section of the Twentieth Century, running behind for some unknown reason, probably ran by the flag at North-East and crashed into the car ahead. The flyer ground its way through the rear coach of No. 10 telescoping it. The smoker of the Century was also demolished but luckily no one was in it.

Willing hands immediately set to work aiding the injured, whose pitiful cries for help could be heard for a long distance around. The dead and dying were borne to the coaches which had not been damaged, and every relief given them until the doctors and nurses from Erie arrived. All the dead and injured were men.

Train No. 12, east bound, was flagged, and many of the injured were sent to Buffalo hospitals on her. Others were rushed to Erie on the relief train.

The three dead men were evidently foreigners, and were all roughly dressed. Their clothing bore no marks by which they could be identified.

Confirmation Services at St. John's Church

The second confirmation services in St. John's church this year was held last night 29 candidates were received into full communion of the church. His Lordship Bishop Reeve, assistant bishop of Toronto, was present and performed the confirmation ceremony. The full choir was present and rendered very fine music which was much appreciated by the large congregation. There were 14 men and boys and 15 women and girls presented by the rector, Rev. Canon Davidson, as candidates for confirmation. They had all been carefully prepared by the rector during the past three months. His lordship delivered an eloquent and earnest address before asking the candidates the solemn question ratifying their vows which they answered individually. They each went forward and received the bishop's blessing and the laying on of hands. Afterwards his lordship shook hands with each new member. Rev. E. J. Pickford of Norwood, was present.

Enthusiastic Audience Heard Rev. Pigeon

The magnificent assemblage of people at the Grand Opera House showed the interest that the citizens of Peterborough are taking in the discussion of the local option question.

By some blunder at the Toronto office of the Dominion Alliance, the Hon. Seaborn Wright of Georgia, was sent west of Toronto, instead of to Peterborough.

The audience, however, was in no sense put out by the disappointment, for it was conceded on every hand that no address yet given in connection with the public meetings was as convincing and powerful as that given by Dr. G. C. Pidgeon of Vancouver.

Dr. Pidgeon for some years, was pastor of Victoria church, West Toronto, and was honored by the Presbyterian Church with the task of the convenorship o. the Committee on Moral and Social Reform. In this capacity he has been so signally successful that the General Assembly last year honored him with an appointment as professor in the new theological school known as Westminster Hall, Vancouver.

The address last night was punctuated throughout by the hearty applause of the audience and was the surest presentation of the argument against the saloon that could be given. W

The two chief lines of argument were;—

1. The fact that prohibiting the sale o intoxicating liquors within limited areas is effective in stopping the drink habit.

This he illustrated from well-known facts in his own experience in different places throughout Canada.

This was easily accomplished today because of the fact that in local veto the municipalities had the whole force of the local police backed by the special protection afforded by the Provincial authorities, all of which had proven effective under the direction of Mr. Ayress.

2. The fact that the business of any place under local option improves, that men are steadier, homes are brighter, and business houses are in consequence more greatly prospered.

For these assertions many facts and concise figures were given.

The closing appeal to the human side of the question was presented in a masterly way.

"If" said the speaker, "instead of steady gains there should be cost is it not worth while when men and homes are saved from wreck and ruin."

The evening's program was greatly brightened by the delightful music of the opera house orchestra.

Speedy War on England Meditated by Kaiser

Sensational Story Printed by the London Daily Mail and the Berlin Morning Post---Pretend that Britain is Preparing for War

London, Dec. 14.—A war council presided over by the Kaiser and called by him to consider the probability of an early conflict with England, was held last night at the home of Foreign Secretary Von Schoen in Berlin, according to a story today from the London Mail's Berlin correspondent.

The Kaiser, Von Schoen, Chancellor Von Bethmann Hollweg, Admira Von Tirpitz, War Secretary Von Heringen, and Secretary of the Treasury Wermuth composed the council.

That the calling of the council was suddenly decided upon, and for that reason considered of great significance, is shown by the fact that Von Schoen had invited twenty-six members of the Reichstag to dine with him last night, but at the last moment received word that the Kaiser was coming to his house for a conference.

The Morgen Post of Berlin bears out the Mail's correspondent in giving the meeting the importance of a war council, and says that it is interpreted in Berlin as due to the recent signs of hostility shown by England towards Germany.

The whole trend of the council, it is declared, was to determine how quickly Germany could prepare for conflict with England, indicating that the Kaiser believes England is preparing for an early hostile move.

The only moves by Great Britain that are known to the public, which could be construed by Germany as a menace, are the enlargement of the British Dreadnought building program, decided upon over four months ago, and the energetic work on the new naval base in the north of Scotland which press despatches recently stated would, with the new base at Dover, make the North Sea a British lake, in which the German fleet would be bottled by a greatly superior force.

Until four months ago it appeared that by the spring of 1911 Britain would only have sixteen all-big-gun battleships to Germany's seventeen, and it was stated that the latter country had secretly accelerated her building program. Not to be caught napping the British Government decided to add four Dreadnoughts to the British program, Mr. McKenna, the first lord of the admiralty.

"For three successive years the British Government did their best to convince the world of the futility of this race in armaments, and of the desirability of curtailing construction, but in vain. In these circumstances, the government considered that it would not be safe to hold back. We are bound to take all necessary steps to secure our predominance of the sea, not only now, but in the future.

True Bills in Three Perjury Cases at the County Court Sessions

True bills were brought in by the grand jury against Victor Fowler, P. J. Carroll and Geo. Martin, yesterday afternoon at the county court December sessions. His Honor Judge Huycke is presiding, and these three cases will be taken up within the next few days. Besides the criminal cases there are four civil cases.

The following members of the bar were in attendance at the court;—Messrs. R. E. Wood, county crown attorney; E. L. Goodwill, A. P. Poussette, K.C.; D. O'Connell, R. F. McWilliams, G. J. Sherry, G. W. Hatton.

In his address to the jury Judge Huycke referred in eulogistic terms to the splendid career on the bench of the late Judge Weller, and of the great loss to the bench and community by his death. He also spoke in a feeling manner of the death of the late John Moloney, clerk of the court.

The Grand Jury is composed as follows; J. J. Bennett, foreman, D. Buchanan, G. H. Giroux, F. Dunlop, Jos. Greer, John Kerr, Oscar Matthett, W. J. Miller, Stewart Miller, Chas. McClellan, F. J. Squires and J. W. Miller.

His honor was very pleased that there were only three criminal cases to be tried. All these were for the one alleged offence, perjury. The nature of the crime of perjury was explained to the jury. The judge stated that while in some cases the fact that perjury was committed did not result in injury to anyone, he did not wish to minimize the nature of the offence.

The empanelling of the jury to hear the action of O'Shea vs Cottingham, in which the plaintiff sought to recover $1,000, was then proceeded with. The members of the jury were empanelled when it was agreed upon by counsel to have the jury dispensed with and the action will be heard by the judge. Counsel for plaintiff are Donaldson, Peck and Kerr, and the defendant O'Connell and Gordon.

Mrs. Margaret O'Shea, the plaintiff, was the first witness.

Temperance League will Answer Questions

In view of the start made by the liquor interests in distributing their campaign literature the City Temperance League ask all citizens to notice the character of the information given.

1. No authority whatever is given. No names attached.

2. They are the output of the liquor trade and they are without any thought of the moral issue.

3. They only seek to destroy the influence of the appeal to the intelligence, conscience, heart and good sense of the citizens and are only and altogether intended to misrepresent the facts and to degrade a community.

The local Temperance League will be perfectly able to meet every argument advanced and will spare no pains to publish the facts.

Board of Trade Favor Light and Power Co's. Thirty Year Agreement

Will Oppose the Return to the Ward System of Electing Aldermen Everyone in Favor of the Isolation Hospital--- Interesting Addresses by Leading Citizens

The Board of Trade unanimously supported the Light & Power Company's bylaw, and the following motion was passed:—

Moved by Mr. T. F. Matthews, seconded by Mr. A. P. Poussette, that after hearing the arguments in connection with the Light & Power Company's bylaw, it is the opinion of this meeting that as the interests of the city are safeguarded in the preparation of the bill by the council, this board approves of the conditions of the bylaw and recommends it to the ratepayers as a measure that should be passed.

The Peterborough Board of Trade meeting was fairly well attended last night by members and citizens and they discussed three of the bylaws which will be voted on by the people in January.

The board favors the Peterborough Light & Power Company's bylaw, and the isolation hospital, but they will all vote against the return to the ward system.

President G. A. Gillespie occupied the chair and after the reading of the minutes announced the object of the meeting.

30-YEAR BYLAW.

The first matter taken up was the bylaw of the Peterborough Light & Power Co. Mr. J. H. Larmonth, manager of the company, was first called upon to explain the bylaw. He stated that the company had submitted their proposition to the council last May and it was under discussion all summer. The bylaw contained many provisions very favorable to the city. The company asked for the privilege of doing business in the city for the next thirty years. They did not ask for an exclusive franchise and the city was tied up in no way and could do business themselves or to allow any other company to go into business. The main object was to permit the company to issue 30- year bonds to enable them to carry on their business and to expand as their increased patronage and interests demanded. The company had prepared a pamphlet with the provisions of the bylaw clearly set forth in a short and plain form. Mr. Larmonth said he would be glad to answer any questions.

A. P. POUSSETTE.

Mr. A. P. Poussettee said he would consider that the bylaw was a very fair agreement and had many advantages to the city. He went over the several clauses and pointed out whereby the city was benefitted. He thought that from beginning to end the proposition of the Light & Power Co., was very fair. The City Council had accepted it and the citizens should indorse it for that reason. The light and power supply was of paramount importance and the citizens of Peterborough should consider the good fortune we received when the Quaker Oats Company invested so much capital in this city. He hoped to see a very large vote polled in favor of this bylaw.

W. H. DENHAM.

Mr. W. H. Denham said he would like to point out the position o the Quaker Oats Campany in connection with this bylaw. He said that the Quaker Oats Company was a cereal company and they expected that every auxiliary industry should stand on its own feet. The Light & Power Company cannot do this unless it can issue bonds to raise money. The Light & Power Company requires to make large expenditures now to increase its plant and meet with the demand for more power and light. He then pointed out the importance to have a thirty-year privilege to do business here in connection with the raising of funds. The company want a settled policy for thirty years as financial men will not underwrite bonds for a shorter period. The Quaker Oats Company wants the Light & Power Company to stand on its own feet so that they can turn their attention to the Quaker Oats plant here and improve and enlarge it. The Light & Power Company were asking for nothing they should not get and he hoped to see every citizen who was interested in the welfare of the city make it a point to assist the company in passing the bylaw. He pointed out that the Peterborough Light & Power Company were giving a cheaper light than any other town or city in the country with the exception of one or two.

T. F. MATTHEWS.

Mr. T. F. Matthews wished to express his interest in the city's affairs He intended to support the bylaw and he asked that a resolution be passed favoring the bylaw.

Moved by Mr. A. P. Poussette that this board fully approves of the Light & Power Company's bylaw and urges all the citizens to vote in favor of it.

Moved by Mr. T. F. Matthews and Mr. A. P. Poussette, that after hearing the arguments in favor of the Peterborough Light & Power Company's bylaw, that this board fully approves of it and presents it to the citizens as a measure which should be passed in the interests of the city.

Mr. Poussette withdrew his motion and seconded Mr. Matthew's motion.

Mr. Dodds asked for the opinion of the aldermen present before the vote was taken.

ALD. R. HICKS.

Ald. Hicks said that this was a bylaw confirming a compromise with the city and the company. The company asked for the privilege of using the city's streets in connection with their business for thirty years. The City Council took up the question and secured several concessions. Summing up the bylaw the city was getting light and power as cheap or cheaper than any place in the province. We get a guarantee that the rates will be no higher for thirty years. Yet the city can apply to the Railway Board and have the rates adjusted every five years. The city will gain nothing by defeating the bylaw as no other company is offering any better terms or as good. On the whole the passing of the bylaw means a much better arrangement for lights and in the matter of control of the company.

Ald. J. J. DUFFUS.

Ald. Duffus agreed with all that Ald. Hicks said. He said that the council had worked hard on the question and they had got the best bargain possible and the city would benefit by it.

MAYOR RUSH.

Mayor Rush strongly supported the bylaw and said he considered it would be a great mistake not to carry the bylaw.

Mr. Matthew's motion was then passed.

ISOLATION HOSPITAL.

The second bylaw taken up by the Board of Trade last night was the isolation hospital bylaw. There was an unanimous feeling in favor of the measure. Those who heartily endorsed it were Messrs. T. F. Matthews, F. D. Kerr, D. Burritt, A. P. Poussette, W. H. Denham, J. H. Larmonth.

It was moved by Messrs. J. Coyle Brown and W. H. Denham that this board approve of the bylaw.

WARD SYSTEM BYLAW.

President Gillespie announced that the next bylaw to be considered was the return to the ward system. There appeared to be only one man at the meeting who had anything to say in favor of the bylaw and that was a man from the north end who complained that the north ward had not had a representative in the council.

Mr. Robt. Fair moved that in the opinion of this meeting it would be unwise to return to the ward system and that the bylaw be not approved. Mr. John Riddell seconded the motion.

The motion was carried unanimously.

Saskatchewan is Now Dry in Spots

Where Saskatchewan goes dry;—
Milestone, majority 9
Moosomin, Majority 6
Indian Head, Majority 74.
Bylaws were defeated in Hanley, Sintaluta, and Wolseley.

Bylaws were defeated in Hanley, interest in the Provincial elections in Saskatchewan was centered on six points where local option bylaws were at stake.

There was almost an even break at Milestone, where local option carried with a majority of nine. At Moosomin, where three bars and wholesale licenses were affected, the bylaw also carried with the modest surplus of five votes. The rural district of Indian Head also voted dry, but with a substantial majority of 74, the figure being, for option 132, against 58.

DEFEATED HERE.

In Hanley again public opinion was nicely balanced, the bylaw being defeated by 7 votes, the figures being for option 85, against 92. In Sintaluta option was defeated by a margin of 3, thirty votes supporting option and 33 against. Wolseley voters turned down local option by the comparatively large majority of 9. Resident teetotalers claim, however, that they were swamped by a large proportion of non-resident voters imported to defeat the measure. The local vote was, for option 71; against 80.

CURED CONSTIPATION QUICKLY.

Tells of a Remedy That is Safe for Young and Old, for All Stomach and Bowel Troubles.

Writing from his home in Barcelona, Mr. Frederick G. Mayer states: "I think no one ever suffered as severely from constipation as I did for near,y six months. So many serious symptoms were developing as a consequence of this evil condition of the system, that I realized I must find a remedy. The strong pills of various kinds I tried seemed after their first effects were over to make me fap worse and I did not know which way to turn for relief. I saw Dr. Hamilton's Pills advertised, and the first box used satisfied me I found a true remedy. Instead of griping by undue activity, Dr. Hamilton's Pills acted as naturally as if physic had not been taken. I never had to increase the dose, and, indeed, within a month I reduced it and when the system finally acted of its own accord as a result of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, I took a dose twice a week obly, just to make sure the old condition would not come back. No otherremedy cures constipation and biliousness so easily or safely as Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they are an ideal family remedy for all diseases of the stomach, livep and bowels. Will cut Ice from River Above the New Dam

The regular meeting of the Board of Health was held yesterday morning with Dr. Burnham presiding. A number of important questions were considered, among them being the matter of procuring ice that may be used for drinking purposes as differentiated from the ice that is used only for cooling. The following accounts were passed:

Adam Hall, $1.00; Wm Gates $5. Jos Thompson, $4; J. E. A. Fitzgerald, $17.30; W. H. Hamilton, $3.30.

An account was received from Dr T. W. H. Young for $400. for medical attendance during smallpox epidemic last summer. It was moved by Messrs Edgar and Murty that as Dr. Young had been acting medical health officer during the absence of Dr. Bingham, the bill be sent on to the council.

A letter was received from O'Connell and Gordon, asking that the bill of Mrs. Lewis LeBar for $18.00, be paid as soon as possible. It was stated that during the smallpox epidemic furniture, mattresses, etc., were destroyed and Mrs LeBar asked for recompense. Mr. Le Bar also asks for $6.00 for rent during the time the place was under quarantine. The city solicitor stated that the board could pay the former bill if it saw fit, but he did not think there was ground for claim in regard to the six dollars.

Mr. S. H. Mitchell furnished supplies to Mrs. Shearegard during the period of their quarantine, and the bill was to be paid when certified to by the chief of police. The total was $19.46, but the chief had only certified to $9. By some slip the entire bill was paid and the city treasurer states in a letter to the Board that the part of the bill not certified to the latter stated that the amount of the bill was correct, and the city should pay all of it. No action was taken this morning.

G. Pidgeon, 578 Harvey street, who had been under quarantine, asked the city to assist him. He had been put to considerable expense which he was not in a position to pay.

A Well-Known Westerner Tells of Suffering, Misery and Pain That He Cured With "Nerviline."

"A few weeks ago I ate some green vegetables and some fruits that was not quite ripe. It first brought on a fit of indigestion, but unfortunately it developed into hiscoughs, accompanied by nausea and cramps. I was dreadfully ill for two days—my head ached and throbbed, I belched gas continually, and I was unable to sleep at night. A neighbor happened in to see me and urged me to try Nerviline. Well, I wouldn't have believed that any preparation could help so quickly. I took half a teaspoonful of Nerviline in hot sweetened water, and my stomach felt better at once. I used Nerviline several times, and was completely restored."

NERVILINE STRENGTHENS WEAK STOMACHS

The above is from a letter written by G. E. Braun, a well-known stockman and farmer near Lethbridge, Alta. Mr. Braun's favorable opinion of the high merit of Nerviline is shared by thousands of Canadians who have proved Nerviline is simply a marvel for cramps, diarrhoea, flatulence, nausea and stomach disorders. Safe to use, guaranteed to cure—you can make no mistake in keeping Nerviline for your family remedy. Large 15c bottles, five for $1.00. Sold everywhere, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

OIL A LIVE ISSUE IN CANADA TODAY.

To the investing public there is constantly being offered a variety of Silver and Gold propositions that have in many cases unquestionable values, but a new investment is finding favor with the Canadian public at the present time in the shape of Oil, and this investment appears to be rapidly gaining in favor as the possibilities in oil are becoming more thoroughly understood. With the mention of Oil, an American Company known the world over for its energetic undertakings and its enormous wealth appears inseparable, and there is no doubt that greater fortunes have been made in the oil industry than in any other in the world.

Canada's richest resource is Oil and the late Dr. Dawson, geologist, described the oil fields of Alberta as the greatest defined undeveloped oil fields in the world, and in that district known as the "Pincher Creek" oil district in Southern Alberta. Alfred R. C. Selwyn, C.M.G., LL.D. recommended drilling for oil on a property now owned by the "Pincher Creek Oil & Refining Co.

As a matter of fact, oil of a very superior quality has been located and is running off the property at the present time. The ground surrounding the casing of the two wells already sunk is saturated with oil and there is every possibility that further sinking will produce quantities of oil assuring the Company's Commercial success.

Mr. John Herron M. P. of "Pincher Creek" is President of this Company and has associated with him a most reliable board of Directors.

Mr. Herron's connection is due to what Dr. Dawson told him of that district while exploring its resources.

CATARRH CANNOT BE CURED

with LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing Catarrh. Send for testimonials free.

The Bank of Montreal

The ninety-second Annual General Meeting of the Shareholders of the Bank of Montreal was held in the Board room of the Institution yesterday at noon.

There were present:—Sir Edward Clouston, Bart., Vice-President and General Manager; Sir William Macdonald, Sir Thomas G. Shaughnessy, Hon. Robert Mackay, Messrs A. Baumgarten, R. B. Angus, E. B. Greenshields, David Morrice, Hon. J. K. Ward, G. F. C. Smith, Lieut.-Col. Prevost, James Kirby, K.C., C.J. Fleet, K.C., John Patterson, Alfred Piddington, George R. Hooper, B. A. Boas, George Durnford, Hugh Paton, H. Dobell, W. H. Evans, G. Scott, H. Joseph and J. Taylor.

In consequence of the absence of the President, Sir George Drummond, K.C.M.G., through indisposition, Mr. R. B. Angus moved that the Vice-President and General Manager, Sir Edward Clouston, take the chair.

This was seconded by Mr. E. B. Greenshields, and unanimously concurred in, after which it was resolved, on motion of Mr. Hugh Paton, seconded by Lieut.-Col. Prevost:—"That the following be appointed to act as scrutineers: Messrs. G. F. C. Smith and George R. Hooper, and that Mr. James Aird be Secretary of the meeting."

The Vice-President then submitted the report of the Directors as follows:—

THE DIRECTOR'S REPORT.

The Directors have pleasure in presenting the report showing the result of the Bank's business for the year ended 30th October, 1909:

Since the last Annual Meeting Branches have been opened at Three Rivers, P. Q.; Weyburn, Sask.; Oakwood, Ont.; Moose Jaw, Sask.; Outlook, Sask.; Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.; and Sub-agencies at Merritt, B.C.; Cloverdale, B.C.; Spring Coulee, Alta., and Bathurst Street, Toronto.

The Branches at Grimsby, Ont., and Millbrook, Ont., have been closed.

With deep regret the Directors have to record the death of their esteemed colleague, Mr. A. T. Paterson, who had been a member of the Board for upwards of twenty-eight years.

The vacancy on the Board has been filled by the election of Mr. A. Baumgarten.

All the Offices of the Bank, including the Head Office, have been inspected during the year.

Bank of Montreal, 6th December, 1909.

G. A. DRUMMOND, President.

Bank of Montreal, Montreal, 30th October, 1909.

E. S. CLOUSTON, General Manager.

THE VICE-PRESIDENT.

The Vice-President then spoke as follows:—

The most important change from last year in the statement submitted to you is the unusually large increase in deposits, amounting to $36,300,000. Part of it is temporary, pending large payments in connection with special transactions, part is the natural increase from depositors as a result of the prosperous condition of affairs in this country, but the largest portion of the increase arises from money brought into Canada from other countries. It is quite possible that if the apprehensions expressed in many quarters as to the consequence of the new methods of British taxation are realized, deposits from this last source may be still further enlarged. It is very important, therefore, that nothing should be done in Canada by injudicious legislation, the exploitation of doubtful enterprises, or otherwise, to stop this flow of capital. Our call loans have increased by about the same amount as our deposits, and what is not necessary to retain as a portion of our reserves, will be gradually brought into the country to meet commercial requirements as they arise.

The profits are some $130,000 less than last year, but, considering the low rates ruling for the greater part of our fiscal year in London and New York, the result may be regarded as satisfactory. I am glad to say that the outlook for the coming year, or at least for the earlier months, is more promising, and I shall be much disappointed if we do not make a better showing when next we meet.

The rapidity of the recovery of trade from the set-back following the monetary crisis in the United States two years ago had been as striking as it is satisfactory. Conditions today are, as a whole, excellent. The large harvest gathered in the Northwestern Provinces in itself affords a basis for active and profitable business for some time to come. How considerable a factor in the commercial life of Canada the agricultural output of our Northwest has become may be realized from the fact that the yield of wheat, oats and barley is this year 313,635,000 bushels, as compared with 232,630,000 bushels in 1908, 107,000,000 bushels in 1907, or 52,000,000 in 1900. A tenfold gain in the grain product of the Northwestern Provinces in nine years conveys some idea of the commercial potentialities of the country.

The marketing of wheat has been quite prompt, and the railways have had no difficulty in moving the crop. In the ten weeks to November 14 there had been inspected in the Northwest 43,856,000 bushels, being 10,380,000 bushels more than in the corresponding period of 1908, while the shipments from Fort William and Port Arthur amounted to 36,815,000 bushels up to November 14, or 13,000,000 bushels in excess of the preceding year's shipments.

Our foreign trade has not only reached, but has begun to exceed, the high water mark of two years ago. In the six months ending September, 30th, last, imports for consumption and exports of domestic products were of the value of $282,851,000, or $46,000,000 in excess of the corresponding period of the preceding year. Imports having been larger by thirty-six millions and exports by ten millions. The adverse balance of trade has thus again begun to grow, but while men and money pour into Canada from abroad the disparity need not cause uneasiness. Domestic industries are, speaking generally, working well up to the limit of capacity. Labor is fully employed; the lumber trade has improved. The export of dairy produce has been larger than last year, with high prices ruling throughout the season, all farm products, indeed, are exceptionally dear.

Such tests as bank note circulation, bank clearings, railway earnings, all point to the great activity of business. At the end of October the note circulation exceeded $60,000,000 or 6,000,000 more than a year ago. Business failures have been neither numerous nor serious, being for the year to October 1, 1,486, with liabilities of $13,929,000, as compared with 1,629 failures and liabilities of $16,959,000 in the previous twelve months.

Railway construction is proceeding apace over the whole face of the Dominion. West of Lake Superior nearly 1,100 miles have been built this year, and the western Provinces now have 11,500 miles of railway, as much as the mileage of all Canada twenty years ago.

Immigration has picked up after the short relapse in 1908, the estimate of the number of new settlers this year being 150,000, about one-half of whom are experienced farmers who have moved into our Northwest from the United States. The evidences of expanding trade, accumulating wealth and material progress and development might be cited at great length, and a pleasant picture painted of our happy condition. There are always, however, dangers to be avoided, and never more so than when the outlook is so bright and inspiriting. A tendency to over speculation in real estate in some parts of Canada is already apparent, and this, like other forms of gambling, can bring only disaster when the inevitable crash comes. How suddenly conditions may change the rapid advance in the Bank of England rate last autumn attests. Only by prudence both in taking and granting credits and by avoidance of wild-cat ventures and exploitations on the high reputation Canada enjoys in the British money market, can we reasonably anticipate a continuance of the prosperity now enjoyed.

There is only one other observation I desire to make. As you are aware, the decennial revision of the Bank Act will take place during the present session of Parliament. In one or two respects changes of a more or less technical character will be found necessary, but the Act has been so thoroughly revised in the past, it withstood so staunchly the trials of 1907, and its operation has been found to conform so admirably to the requirements of trade and the interests of a rapidly-developing country, that I hardly think it likely that any material change will be made.

In our note circulation we have a system which enables us by its elasticity to carry out the heavy autumnal demands without creating any monetary stringency; and to show how valuable it is to the whole business community I need only point to the fact that we are moving the large crop in the Northwest with great ease and without any advance in rates to our commercial customers.

I beg to move: "That the report of the Directors now read be adopted and printed for distribution among the Shareholders."

This was seconded by Mr. E. B. Greenshields, and unanimously adopted.

Mr. H. Joseph then moved: "That the thanks of the meeting be presented to the President, Vice-President and Directors for their attention to the interests of the Bank."

Mr. C. J. Fleet seconded the motion, which was unanimously agreed to.

Sir Thomas G. Shaughnessy moved: "That the thanks of the meeting be given to the General Manager, the Assistant General Manager, the Inspectors, the Managers and other officers of the Bank for their services during the past year."

The motion was seconded by Mr. David Morrice, and was unanimously carried.

Sir Edward Clouston expressed acknowledgement on behalf of himself and fellow-officers.

THE DIRECTORS.

The ballot for the election of Directors was then proceeded with. The scrutineers appointed for the purpose reported the following gentlemen duly elected:—

R. B. ANGUS,
A. BAUMGARTEN,
SIR EDWARD CLOUSTON, BART.,
HON. SIR GEORGE DRUMMOND, K.C.M.G., C.V.O.,

ARAB FASHIONS.

Clothes the Natives Wear and the Tailors Who Make Them.

Conservative in all matters, the Arab is especially averse to change in the matter of clothes. Not only do the fashions of the Arabs never change, writes Graham Petrie in "Tunis, Kairouan and Carthage," but they are very restricted. Although every Arab wears a gandoura more or less richly embroidered, it is always worked in one of three accepted patterns, from which no deviation nor any combination is permitted.

The only matter in which personal taste is allowed to show itself is in the choice of color. In this respect entire freedom is permitted and taken full advantage of, although it is curious to note that the more delicate shades of pink, yellow and mauve are generally worn by elderly men, while rich red and brown are in favor with their juniors.

The souk-el-trouk is the souk of the tailors in Tunis, and here in numerous little shops the sartorial needs of the Arab population are fashioned and temptingly displayed. I call them shops for want of a better word, but they are as unlike the European shop as anything one can imagine. They are really recesses separated from each other by coupled columns painted with stripes of red and green, which support a continuous cornice, richly carved and colored. There are no windows or doors, and the shop is raised some four feet above the ground. To this elevation the tailor nimbly vaults, for there are no steps to assist him. Sitting crosslegged in orthodox fashion, he there cuts out, pieces together and embellishes the gay silk waistcoats, gandouras and other garments beloved of the Arab.

MAINE SPOOKS.

A Ghost House, a Phantom Light and a Mystic Woodchuck.

Bowdoinham boasts a veritable ghost house where it is said the chairs refuse to stay quietly in their places, but in the middle of the night walk out and draw together in groups just as if guided by visible hands. Then there is a spirit cane that goes walking all by itself just at midnight, tapping its way along from room to room and finally taking up its abode in the chamber where a member of the family sleeps. That this statement is true is affirmed by those who have seen the phenomena and who are not at all afraid of ghosts.

At another house in the village is a phantom light that comes each night no matter whether it be moonlight or darkness just outside the closed door in the upper chamber. [illegible] this spirit has discovered the people who at different times have occupied the room, and some have been much afraid of the flickering gleam. From time to time different explanations have been offered, but none has proved satisfactory. The light continues to shine, and no one can account for the mystery.

Down at Lazy O camp is a spook woodchuck which every evening, just at the sunset hour, comes out of an old family tomb, halfway between the camp and the home farm. There on the tomb he sits quietly, watching the sunset lights on the waters of Merrymeeting. Just as the sun sinks below the horizon he disappears. The tomb swallows him up, and he is seen no more until the sunset hour comes round again.—Kennebec Journal.

Arab Buttermaking.

Among the Arabs an interesting department of woman's duty is dairy work. This, like all other operations, is carried out on an old fashioned and patriarchal plan. To make butter, for instance, a small sheepskin is filled with milk and tied to a ring in the wall. The woman then sits flat on the floor and rocks it to and fro. Small little balls of butter begin to form within. These grow larger and larger and accumulate and are finally brought out as one big lump. The remaining milk is then boiled on the fire with bits of meat. The male members of the family now come together. A large dish of cooked rice is placed before them and the boiled milk poured over it. Then, making balls of the mixture with his hands, each member quickly swallows his share and rises to wash his hands. This done, the girls and mother sit down and eat what the men are pleased to leave.

Hats and Old Age.

In opening the services one Sunday recently the pastor of one of the fashionable churches said: "For three Sundays I have asked the women in this church to remove their hats during service. My appeal has been unheeded, and now I see wherein I was wrong. I was inconsiderate of the comforts of the aged and infirm, so I have made a new rule. Hereafter all women of forty years of age or over will be permitted to wear their hats during the service."

Within twenty seconds every woman in the church was bareheaded.—Ladies' Home Journal.

His Last Place.

"But," said the merchant to the applicant, "you don't furnish any reference from your last place."

"You needn't worry about that," replied the man with the close cropped head and strange pallor; "I wouldn't a been now if it hadn't been for my good behavior in my last place."—Catholic Standard and Times.

UP THE GIANT'S TOOTH.

Young Woman Describes Hardships in Mountain Climbing.

Climbing mountains does not seem to be an agreeable recreation, to judge from the experiences of Mme. Stella Croissant, who has just ascended the Giant's Tooth, one of the loftiest peaks of the Alps. She had the pleasure of writing her name on the Mantle of the Virgin, which crowns the peak, but what other satisfaction she derived from the exploit is not clear.

Mme. Croissant is a young woman only twenty-two years of age, but her youthful vigor seems to have failed to make the rigors of mountain climbing a pleasure. She tells of muscles strained to the breaking point, limbs almost dislocated, cold, fatigue and the horrors of the guide, for "the guide in the high mountains is king. You must obey him and smile, whatever happens." The party crept over slopes of soft snow, placing their feet in the footsteps of the guide and trying to make themselves as light as possible, for they knew that if they dislodged the snow they would be swept to the bottom of the abyss. They were suspended among the crags "like spiders in their webs." Once Mme. Croissant let go of the rope by which she was drawing herself up to a ledge and hung like a package over the void. She was not afraid, she said, but could bear the guide swearing.

The ascent took a couple of days, and after such strenuous labors the climbers might be expected to indulge in a little rest. "But where rest?" asks Mme. Croissant. "The summit is narrow and bristling with jagged points, and one is cold there. One freezes in the most absolute sense of the word. The wind found no obstacles except ourselves, and how it plays with such obstacles! If you consider how cold it must be in those altitudes where one suffers from the carefaction of the air you will realize how the wind penetrated the meshes of my sweater and made my clothes freeze to my skin. The guide was right when he told me to put on several undervests. So we emptied a flask of eau de vie and said farewell to the summit."

The descent seems to have been as disagreeable as the ascent. It was horribly cold, and, when the party reached a place where it was possible to rest and eat, the guide hurried them on before the pangs of hunger were half satisfied. All had been fasting since daybreak, and it was then 3 o'clock, but they were behind time, the guide said, and the shades of night must not find them in the high mountain.

There was nothing to do but to obey the guide, so the party moved on in silence. "My feet moved automatically," said Mme. Croissant. "I climbed, I jumped, with only my eyes living in my whole body. I went on thus, I don't know how long, until my strength failed completely and I fainted. They gave me water and spirits. After an instant I revived, and, taking the arm of the guide, I went off at a mad pace. I have the same memory of that stage of the journey as one might have of a delirium. My movements had the strange sureness of the somnambulist walking on the edge of a roof. My foot did not stumble or slip. I went, I went. It was a vertigo, a dance of the bones broken on the rocks of ice."—New York Tribune.

Arctic Mary.

Mary Coonie, a full blooded Eskimo, is the Croesus of the arctic circle. Mary cannot read, cannot even write her own name, but that doesn't matter, for she makes so much money that she can afford to hire a private secretary, who is an Englishman and a graduate of Oxford and fully qualified to attend to all clerical and executive details for her. But the gift of management is Mrs. Coonie's and that sagacious daring which most great money makers have. One by one she has acquired a number of rich mining claims, and in others she has an interest, acquired by "grub staking" the discoverers. She is sole owner of a valuable freight carrying business and the largest private reindeer herd in the world. Two thousand of these animals, worth $100 each, bear Mary Coonie's brand, and, besides, she has young herds that will bring her a rich harvest some day.

THE LONGEST WORD.

Short Cut to Some English Claimants to the Honor.

The moot point has never been satisfactorily settled. About 1870 The Liverpool Daily Courier came out with a new word of gargantuan dimensions—a deep-mouthed antidisestablishmentarianism.

An Edinburgh journal followed it with "ultra-disestablishmentarists," in extension of Archbishop Benson's previous "anti-disestablishmentarian" given in his diary.

A junction might be effected if one's anxious to see a friend carried on in a state of collapse to the refreshment room that a good long word is "ultra-disestablishmentarianists" (only thirty-three letters).

Then there is another short jawbreaker, "antitransubstantiationalistically," which appeared in a highland paper. It is highland enough in all conscience.

Sir Walter Scott has in his journal a word "floccipaucinihilipilification," which, like a wounded snake, drags its slow length along.

Then Rabelais takes some doing with his "antipericatantarabrugelampholerobrationis."

Wynkeyn in his Chronicle sapheres us with "honorificabilitudinitatibus," which Shakespeare uses in "Love's Labor's Lost" (twenty-seven letters). Dante also has it in the ablative singular form in his "De Vulgari Eloquentia."

Bybeld in a treatise on the Colossians (1615) wrote "incircumscriptiblenesse."

But the Englishman's real jawbreaker is a Welsh word over which Mr. Justice Lawrence once at the Anglesey assizes asked an explanation from Mr. Bryn Roberts, M.P. "What is the meaning of the letters 'P.G.' after the name Llanfair?" The answer was: "It is an abbreviation for the village of Llanfairpwllgwyngyllgogerychwyrndrobwllandysiliogogoch. How is this pronounced? It will take some beating. This word of fifty-four letters if repeated often enough is said to be an excellent cure for the toothache.

But the jocular man will tell us fibers are longer words, "smile" and "beleaguered," for instance, because one is more than a "mile" and the other more than a "league," and another will insist that the longest word in the English language is "longer," for, however long any other word may be, it is always "longer." This is on the principle of the wily Scot who bet his chum that Glasgow was not the largest town in Scotland. "How's that," he was asked. "There's a bigger." "What is it?" "Bigger," was the pregnant reply.—London Academy.

Viscount Morley.

"Honest John" is a title often applied to Mr. John Burns, but the principle claim to it rests with Viscount Morley, Secretary of State for India. He earned it years ago by his solidly straightforward attitude on all questions before he had made up his mind.

First entering Parliament as member for Newcastle-on-Tyne in 1883, John Morley soon gained the confidence of Gladstone, and was Chief Secretary for Ireland in the Home Rule Government of 1886. He took up the same office on Gladstone's return to power in 1892, and was thus largely responsible for both the Grand Old Man's Home Rule Bills.

From 1886 until he was raised to the Peerage Lord Morley represented the Montrose Burghs.

Besides being a politician, Lord Morley is journalist, barrister, and author. He was the first editor to become a Cabinet Minister in this country, and was actually engaged in writing a "leader" when he received the letter offering him the post. He accepted, and then returned to finish this article.

Over twenty years ago John Morley made his celebrated declaration: "Be sure that from henceforth no power on earth can separate the question of mending the House of Commons from that other question of mending or ending the House of Lords."

A $20,000 Animal.

So much has recently been heard of the North and South Polar regions that one is inclined to forget that other parts of the world possess tracts where the foot of man has never trodden.

Probably, towards the end of this month, Mr. Walter Goodfellow, the well-known traveler, is to lead an expedition into the interior of Dutch New Guinea, a land which is totally unknown. Zoological exploration is the object in view, and the expedition has been organized by Mr. W. R. Ogilvie-Grant to commemorate the Jubilee of the British Ornithologists' Union.

An abundance of various zoological treasures is expected to be found, the most interesting of all being a very large mammal, whose footprints have already been observed.

A member of the expedition of Dr. Lorentz, the Dutch explorer, two years ago, is said to have actually seen the mammal, and described it as very large, striped black and white, with a nose like a tapir, and a face like a devil.

It is considered that the discovery of a huge tapir-like marsupial would alone justify the expenditure of $20,000, which is the estimated cost of the expedition.

Singer's 70,000-Mile Tour.

Mme. Ada Crossley, the eminent contralto, has just returned to London from Australia. She covered 70,000 miles in eleven months, and sang at 115 concerts. Mme. Crossley has won success after a grim struggle. She was induced to give a concert in one of the small halls in London before a gathering of friends. There were no flaring advertisements or newspaper puffs, but one or two critics were invited to be present to hear a "promising" artiste. Imagine their surprise when they found they were listening to one of the most beautiful voices ever heard. That was her first footing on the ladder of fame. "Who is this girl?" asked Queen Victoria, and added, "She has a beautiful voice, and is a true artiste." Mme. Crossley was "commanded" to sing before the Queen five times within three years—a unique record.

Woman's World

A TRIBUTE TO GENIUS.

Envoys of Many Nations Honor Mrs. Julia Ward Howe.

Mrs. Julia Ward Howe stirred a brilliant assemblage in the Metropolitan Opera House, in New York city, during the Hudson-Fulton celebration by reading the poem composed by her and dedicated to the occasion which brought together the envoys of many nations.

Although Mrs. Howe is more than ninety years old, the poem and her recitation showed that she is still mentally and physically vigorous.

She stood alone in the center of the stage, and when she began to read her poem in a firm, clear voice the great gathering also stood.

The tribute which her hearers paid to Mrs. Howe was impressive. Although the applause was deafening, there was a certain note of reverence and respect, and there were tears in the eyes of the aged woman when she acknowledged the homage of great men of many nations.

MRS. JULIA WARD HOWE, AGED NINETY.

Here is Mrs. Howe's poem:

FULTON.

By JULIA WARD HOWE.

[From Collier's. Reprinted by permission.]

A river flashing like a gem,
Crowned with a mountain diadem,
Invites an unaccustomed guest
To launch his shallop on her crest,
A pilgrim whose exploring mind
Must leave his tardy pace behind—
"My bark creeps slow; the world is vast.
How shall its space be overpassed?"

Responsive to his cry appears
A visionary, young in years,
Commissioned with prophetic brain
The mystic problem to explain—
"Where fire and water closest blend,
There find a servant and a friend."

Yet many a moon must wax and wane,
With sleepless nights and days of pain,
Pleading a monarch's court before,
Shrewd processes and study sore,
Ere on the silver tide shall float,
Swifter than thought, young Fulton's boat.

And not alone for Hudson's stream
Avails the magic power of steam,
Blessings of unimagined worth
Its speed shall carry round the earth.
Knowledge shall on its pinions fly,
Nor land nor race in darkness lie.
Commerce her hoards shall freely bring
To many an urgent summoning,
And Want and Wealth in sundered lands
Shall closely clasp redeeming hands,
While master minds new gospels span,
The holy brotherhood of man.

Rest, Fulton, in thine honored grave,
Remembered with the wise and brave.
Thy message visits every sea,
Herald of benefits to be.
So nearly may our world relate
The mighty movements of her fate,
So Doom and Dangers wide apart
Appeal to every human heart.

And, as one sun doth compass all
That shall arise or may befall,
One flat on creation's night
Bestowed the blessed boon of light,
So shall all life one promise fill
For Freedom, Justice and Good Will.

Mary Harriman a Country Girl.

Mary Harriman, daughter of the late E. H. Harriman, has as keen an instinct for guarding the cents as her father demonstrated in his business career. As the manager of the 30,000 acre farm in Arden, N. Y., she works with an eye to profit. The responsibility of the farm is not new to her. For several years she practically held control, her father seldom interfering and then doing little more than offering a suggestion. Harriman was proud of his daughter's talent for management. They were a familiar sight driving together over the farm, Harriman, as a rule, holding the reins over one of his fast trotters. Miss Harriman cares more for her farm than for society. She is essentially a country girl. Society never has attracted her, and there is little likelihood it will gain her interest now. She is a keen judge of a horse and seldom gets the worst of a trade.

A Nervous Face.

Do not neglect the nervous face. When a child grimaces or twitches there is trouble ahead. The sooner it is taken in hand the less probability there will be of chronic grimacing or, worse yet, St. Vitus' dance. Frequently this twitching begins when the child is very young; sometimes it arises from older people foolishly laughing at the little one's contortions, and they are kept up until they become a nervous affection.

Do Not Use Creosote.

Creosote should never be put into a hollow tooth for toothache. It relieves the pain, but in time destroys the substance of the tooth. Leave creosote to expert use.

The old fashioned way of dosing a weak stomach, or stimulating the Heart or Kidneys is all wrong. Dr. Shoop first pointed out this error. This is why his prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—is directed entirely to the cause of these ailments—the weak inside or controlling nerves. It isn't so difficult, says Dr. Shoop, to strengthen a weak Stomach, Heart, or Kidneys if one controlling, or inside nerve. When these nerves fail, then those organs must surely falter. These vital truths are leading druggists everywhere to dispense and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Test it a few days, and real Improvement will promptly and surely follow. Sold by all dealers.

A Stranger Lord.

Judge George F. Lawton, of the Probate Court, London, Eng., related a story the other day of a minister who was spending his Sabbatical year traveling abroad. Arriving in London, he made every effort to get an intimate view of the two branches of Parliament in session. Of course, no stranger is allowed on the floor of the House of Lords, but the minister, not knowing this, and with the usual amount of American push, tried to make his way in. There is a rule, however, that servants of the various lords may be admitted to speak to their masters. Seeing the minister walking boldly in, the doorkeeper asked:

"What Lord," repeated the astonished man. "The Lord Jehovah!"

For a moment the doorkeeper hesitated and then admitted him. Turning to the assistant standing near, he said:

"He must mean one of those poor Scotch lairds.

The Dramas of Mincing Lane.

It was only after eleven years of futile knocking at theatrical managers' doors with rolls of manuscript that Mr. Alfred Sutro, who would appear to have scored another success at the Garrick in London with "Making a Gentleman," got his foot on the first rung of the ladder of theatrical fame. At one time he worked in an office in Mincing Lane, and says that those City experiences of his were of immense value to him. "There are dramas in Mincing Lane," to quote his own words, "as thrilling as any that have been placed upon the stage." Mr. Sutro is a brother-in-law of Mr. Rufus Isaacs, K.C., and a distant kinsman of the Sutro who drove the famous Sutro Tunnel through the Nevada mountain, and thus made himself a millionaire.

THE NATIONALITIES OF IMMIGRANTS.

A report published by the Department of the Interior, giving the nationalities of the immigrants into Canada, makes public some statistics will be of general interest. From 1897 to 1909 inclusive, the immigrants from the British Isles numbered 541,066; United States, 425,611; Galicia, 83,627; Italy, 49,695, and from Russia, 47,286. The largest immigration in any one year from any o the countries mentioned was that from the United Kingdom in 1907-8, which amounted to 120,182. The British immigration fell off to 52,901 in the year just ended, but was still almost as large as that from the United States of 59,832.

These figures should reassure those who have feared that the flood if immigration into the Dominion would tend to swamp the British element in our population. Many of the settlers arriving in the three Prairie Provinces are Canadians, or the children of Canadians, who took up land in the northwestern States of the Union and who are now returning to Canada to find homes in our North-West. This class of settlers is a most desirable one in many respects. Of the 1,100,000 or 1,200,000 of immigrants who have come into Canada in the last twelve years, it will be seen, therefore, that about one million came from the United Kingdom and the United States, and of these the former led the latter by about twelve per cent.

CAPITAL STOCK (Authorized $1,000,000—1,000,000 SHARES OF $1.00 EACH.
700,000 SHARES ISSUED—300,000 IN TREASURY.

Claim "T. R. 189" is stated by competent mining engineers to be undoubtedly the best property in the Montreal River District. It contains 40 acres, mostly hilly, of diabase forma on, and is within 2½ miles of transportation.

Active development was begun by the present owners in May last. The necessary buildings for men, horses, tools, powder and stores have been erected. About two miles of surface trenching have been done in the south-east quarter of the property, 14 veins have been uncovered, 8 of them showing silver at or near the surface.

Assays of surface ore have run as high as 12,000 ounces to the ton.

Two shafts have been sunk, No. 1 to a depth of 63 feet, and No. 2 to 62 feet.

Shaft No. 2 opens up a vein from 5 to 14 inches thick, which is improving with depth, and which shows plates and leaves of pure metallic silver embedded in the calcite.

Shaft No. 1 also shows greatly increasing values with depth. At 60 feet the ore is very rich. There are two veins, 8 inches and 2 inches thick, separated by 20 to 26 inches of silver-bearing aplite. At 63 feet a level has been driven along the vein for 20 feet.

The ore taken from this level has been of exceptional richness, running from 8,000 to 17,000 ounces to the ton.

Such large values, obtained so near the surface, are very promising, particularly as at 3 other points along the same vein masses of pure metallic silver have been found directly beneath the soil. There is therefore every reason to believe that this vein will show at other points values equally as large as those where the shaft has been sunk.

Already $100,000 worth of ore has been blocked out.

The large number of veins that have been stripped in the section trenched promises a large tonnage of pay ore when they are developed. Then there is ⅔ of the claim not yet trenched which should show equally satisfactory values.

An idea of the excellent returns which Claim "T. R. 189" promises on money invested, can be gained from the fact that, among others, the following gentlemen are each owners of 15,000 shares or more—

HENRY H. LYMAN. — F. P. BUCHANAN. — S. LICHTENHEIN. — T. L. MORRISEY.
ALEX. PRINGLE — D. LORNE McGIBBON. — JOHN E. HARDMAN. — MAJOR MADOCKS.
S. A. McMURTRY. — C. E. GAULT. — SHIRLEY OGILVIE. — W. H. WALSH.

Samples of ore can be seen at the offices of the undersigned.

GUARANTEED INVESTMENT

The Remarkable Offer Made by the Treasury Gold Mining and Milling Company of Fairview, Nevada

Guaranterd by a $1,000,000 Bank

SUPPOSE a million-dollar bank should offer you a gilt bond, guaranteeing you against loss in an investment you desired to make, and providing that, whether the investment did or did not prove a profitable one, the bank would pay you back every dollar of your money at the end of twenty years, wouldn't that "look good" to you? And wouldn't you take it?

Wouldn't it look as though the bank itself, as well as the men behind the enterprise that formed the basis of the investment, had absolute confidence in it, and looked upon it as a safe and profitable venture?

Can you figure out any way in which you could possibly lose the money you put into an enterprise with that kind of backing? To be sure, you would run the risk of not receiving interest for that length of time on the amount of your investment, but you would also run the chance of multiplying it many times over in the way of dividends—and that is worth something, isn't it? In other words, you have opportunity to win, and not a single chance to lose.

Now, that is exactly what we, the officers and directors of Treasury Gold Mining and Milling Company, of Reno, Nevada, are offering for a short time to those who wish to take advantage of it; and we make this remarkable offer, first, because we know what we have in the way of a property, and, second, because we need a little more capital to erect a mill upon it and make it an extremely profitable producer in the shortest possible time.

This is the first time, to our personal knowledge, that an offer like this has ever been made with reference to any enterprise of a similar character, here or elsewhere.

Organization, Capitalization and Officers

Treasury Gold Mining and Milling Company is organized under the laws of the State of Nevada, with a capital stock of One Million Dollars ($1,000,000), divided into One Million (1,000,000) shares, of the par value of One Dollar ($1.00 each, full paid and non-assessable, and with no personal liability attaching to the stockholders. The number of shares in the treasury is Four Hundred Thousand (400,000).

The principal office of the company is at No. 336 Mill Street, Reno, Nevada, and the depository of the company is the Nixon National Bank, of the same city.

The officers are as follows: President, D. J. Kennedy, an old resident of Nevada, and one of the best known and most successful mining operators in the state; vice-president, F. W. Thomas, of the firm of John Breuner & Co., one of the largest mercantile establishments in the city; secretary, Donald Fraser, one of the proprietors of the Red Cross Drug Company, of Reno; treasurer, H. L. Burchell, mining operator, and manager of the most prominent of the leading law firms of the state.

Board of directors: D. J. Kennedy, F. W. Thomas, H. L. Burchell; Eugene Kelly, department manager with the Gray, Reid, Wright company, and Donald Fraser.

Location and Character of Properties

The holdings of Treasury Gold Mining and Milling Company include the following valuable properties in the famous Fairview district, in Churchill county, Nevada, reached by a fine wagon road from Fallon, the county seat:

By purchase outright—fully paid for and deed recorded at Fallon—valuable mining estates on both sides of the great Mizpah mine, on both of which properties rich ore has been found.

By purchase—paid for, deeded and recorded—the Treasury group of two full claims, amounting to 40 acres, to the north-east of the Mizpah mine, the rich ledge of which we have every reason to believe courses straight through our property for at least 2,000 feet. This we regard as a very valuable holding.

By purchase, an undivided one-half interest in seven claims, containing 100 acres, southwest of the Mizpah, with every indication that the Mizpah vein runs through our ground at least 1,500 feet. The deed for our one-half interest is recorded at Fallon, and we have an option for one year on the other one-half interest.

All the leasing rights and privileges of the Mizpah Milling and Leasing Company on twelve blocks of the celebrated Mizpah mine, for the term of five years. On this property, considerable quantities of fine shipping ore are already opened; drifting has been carried on for some distance on the 100-foot level, while the second level, at 175 feet depth, is now being driven on to catch the same ore body, when shipments will begin.

Values as Shown By Assays

Assays of ores taken from the various properties of the company show the following values:

From Treasury Group at the surface, gold and silver values	$139.50
" " " " " " " "	344.80
" " " " " " " "	77.42
From Kentucky Group, surface workings, gold and silver values	128.00
" " " " " " " "	78.00
From Mizpah shafts, tunnels and upraises, gold and silver values	993.95
" " " " " " " "	239.77
" " " " " " " "	235.46
" " " " " " " "	68.67
" " " " " " " "	84.21

From the foregoing tests, it will be seen that, leaving out of the calculation our own extensive properties, all of which contain indications of remarkable richness, we are fully justified in expecting sufficient profits from the operation of our five-year lease on the great Mizpah mine alone, to pay enormous dividends to all our stockholders. But to operate them all, with the greatly increased facilities and equipment we intend to add, should give us a production equaled by few mining properties in the world.

We have already found very rich ore in the shallow workings of our Kentucky group to the west, and of our Treasury group to the east of the Mizpah, and we can see no reason why both of these properties should not prove fully as rich as the famous Mizpah mine itself. We are in a district noted for its immense bodies of gold and silver ores, and where deep workings open up vast treasure vaults of mineral wealth.

Additional Equipment Required

In order to more speedily place these splendid properties among the high class producers of the state, and to combine the maximum of production and profit with the minimum of cost, considerable additional equipment is required.

This includes a standard, modern mill, to reduce our ore to bullion and concentrates at the mine, thus saving the transportation and treatment charges of $20 to $30 a ton on the ore to the Salt Lake smelters. To be sure, the ore is of such a high grade character that there is a good profit in mining and shipping it even at these high rates, but it would be better business to save it and add that much more to the net profits, by treating it at our own mill, which, under the circumstances, thus becomes a necessity. With a 100-ton plant, we should easily be able to treat our ore at an expense not to exceed $2.50 per ton, and by adding another unit to its capacity, can still further reduce the cost, and thus save from $17.50 to $27.50 per ton on transportation and treating charges alone—quite an item when figuring the net profits.

The first unit capacity of 100 tons daily, of a standard mill, modern in every way, including stamps, amalgamation, fine grinding, concentration and cyaniding, with a sampler in front, so that ore can be purchased from surrounding properties, and general custom work done if desired, will enable us to add one unit after another as may be required with increased development of the ore bodies. By thus adding to the capacity of the mill, we shall be in a position to treat an immense tonnage daily, and pay dividends accordingly.

We will therefore not only effect a great saving of our present expenditures, but earn a handsome revenue, practically all profit, from the large volume of custom work that would be brought to our mill for treatment and reduction.

We also want to sink a capacious double-compartment shaft into the permanent sulphide zone at once, first, in order to have the ore bodies opened up for the mill, and secondly, to aid in determining the proper methods of treatment; so that we may build a mill adapted to the character of the ores, and capable of giving the largest returns to the company in the extraction of the gold and silver values.

Novel Plan to Secure Funds

Now, we are quite willing to admit that equipment of the character already mentioned, which will put the properties in the best possible working shape, will cost more money than is available at present, unless we accept the alternative of sacrificing a small portion of our special stock, in order to begin operations on a profitable basis at once.

The officers and directors of the company have therefore decided to adopt this method, and, while limiting the sales to but one-fifth of the capitalization, to surround the sale of every share with a positive safeguard against any possible loss.

We do not know that such an offer has ever before been made, and we expect the amount offered to be over-subscribed several times when the terms of the offer are made known.

First, we limit the amount of stock that will be sold, in order to provide the finds for necessary equipment, to Two Hundred Thousand (200,000) shares, and this is to be positively the last as well as the first, allotment that will be sold at the present low price, of 20 cents a share, as we honestly believe the stock will be good for dividends of not less than one dollar per share annually, after we commence treating 100 tons daily at the mill.

Stock Guaranteed

In order to absolutely protect purchasers of these shares against the possibility of a loss, we have made arrangements with the Metropolis Trust and Savings Bank, of San Francisco, one of the strongest financial institutions in the United States, to guarantee every share of stock sold, and to issue to every purchaser a gold bond for the full amount of his investment, such bond being payable in twenty years, whether the mines pay or not. Therefore, even if the mines never paid a dollar—though we expect them to pay millions—the stockholders cannot possibly lose anything except the interest on their investment, while they stand to win fortunes from the amounts they put into these properties.

The shares offered on these unparalleled terms may be paid for either in cash or in five equal monthly payments, and the money derived there from will be used entirely for the further development and equipment of the properties. The shares will also be traded in on both the New York and Boston exchanges the moment we begin shipping and paying dividends.

The elements of industrial safety and of the speculative profits of gold mining under such extremely favorable conditions, are combined in this enterprise to a greater degree than in any other undertaking within our knowledge or experience, and will appeal with irresistible force to all sensible and conservative people as an opportunity without an equal. It is a case of "heads, you win; tails, you cannot lose." If the mines pay as we believe they will bring to every stockholder, in dividends, many times the amount of his investment. If they do not pay, he gets his money back.

THE QUEST OF KATE.

The Result of the Search In Which Rena Assisted.

By MARIAN W. WILDMAN.

He stooped and picked it up—a lace edged cobweb handkerchief, elusively fragrant and marked with a daintily embroidered "Kate."

Harper watched the couples gliding by him. "Jane—Gladys—Anne," he murmured—"Dorothy—Isabel—Ruth. Now, which of the hundred I don't know is Kate? Kate!" he repeated musingly.

The music stopped with a crash, and the young lawyer mingled with the promenading throng, a frowning, preoccupied expression in his eyes.

"Look at that coat of Ted Harper's, Miss Cavanaugh," drawled a gilded youth to his companion. "He cares as little for clothes that fit as I"—

"For anything else, Reggie," she completed. "He's too good looking to need to care. He's like the lilies—not that he doesn't toil and spin," she added quickly. "He's worth a dozen of you lazy society boys—is Theodore Harper!"

Her voice was low, but the passing owner of the name turned suddenly and came back with outstretched hand.

"Rena! I was afraid you hadn't come. Can't I have this dance?"

"I saved it for you, Ted. And we'll talk—I know you'd rather."

"Good girl!" he replied gratefully as he escorted her to the moonlit piazza. There, with the music softened by distance, he was content. He even forgot the mystery of Kate while he and Rena laughed and chatted.

"Now that you are getting rich and famous, Teddy, you ought to marry. You're plenty old enough. I know your age to a minute."

"And I yours, my dear. I haven't forgotten being dragged to see you when you were three weeks old nor how I cried when our mothers made me kiss you."

"Poor boy! It has been a long friendship, Ted. It would have broken my heart if you had taken whittled fingers and love affairs to any other girl."

"Oh, by Jove, that reminds me—I'm in love again, Rena!"

Rena's silvery laugh was anything but credulous.

"I am honestly. Aren't you interested this time?"

"Profoundly! Who is the happy lady?"

"Her name is Kate."

"Kate what?"

"I don't know."

"Well, really, Teddy, what do you know about her?"

"This!" said Harper, laying something in her soft hand. Rena held the handkerchief up to the moonlight.

"You always were susceptible, Ted, but to fall in love with a bit of linen and lace!"

"I haven't. It's the suggestion, the atmosphere, the—the"—

"The violet perfume?" suggested Rena helpfully. "We all use it, you know."

"Rena, you're heartless! I'd counted on your help."

"Teddy, what is it you want me to do?"

"To tell me all the Kates who may possibly have been in this jam tonight. Then I'll devote myself between briefs to narrowing the inquiry."

"Kate Simpson, Kate Ray, Kate"—

"Hold on, Rena! One at a time, please."

"Very well. Kate Simpson you ought to know. You went to dancing school with her. She has dimples."

"She's not the Kate I'm after. I remember her now. Dimples in a baby are all right, but how about Kate Ray?"

"Engaged to Reggy Van Dyke. You knew that, of course."

"Of course I didn't. Who next?"

"Kate Delemster, a new girl in town, handsome, tall, black eyes, awfully clever. Shall I take you in and introduce you?"

"Thanks; I can wait. I'll have some one of the fellows get permission to take me around for a call. If she doesn't prove to be the real Kate I'll come to you, say, Friday for more clews."

"You might come in any case. I shall be wild to know. Yes, really," in reply to his protest as she arose, "I must go in now."

Harper offered a reluctant arm, and they passed from the freshness of the June night to the glare and gayety within.

* * * * * * *

The October evening was cool, and Harper found Rena by a fire of snapping hickory.

"I'm too delightfully weary to rise," she said. "I've been in the country all day. 'Look,' with a comprehensive wave of her hand. The library was aglow with lavish masses of color—the orange and scarlet of maple, the crimson of sumac, the purple and russet of oak and beech. "This is my October carnival. I always celebrate when the autumn gets into my blood. Oh, the glory of the woods today, Teddy!" She leaned forward to lay a fagot on the coals. The seasoned wood burst into a whirl of blue and yellow flame. Harper watched her face curiously as she talked. "All summer these leaves have been quiet, contented little dreamers. Today they are new creatures, glorious. It's the transfiguration of their lives—what they have been waiting for all these tranquil weeks."

"The autumn has gone into your Teddy!"

"You have reason to blush. You know how I abominate the bohemian girl who smokes cigarettes and is always stopping on the verge."

"Didn't you find her clever and handsome?"

"Oh, very! Who next?"

"Kate Randall. Mother suggested her. You did like her a bit, I remember."

"I liked her a great deal. She's a sensible, modest, well behaved young woman. But she's not Kate."

Rena sighed patiently.

"What was the matter with Kittie Pomeroy? There isn't a dearer, sweeter, prettier little girl in"—

"I'm not looking for a dear, sweet, pretty little girl."

"What sort of girl are you looking for, Ted?"

Harper mused in smiling silence, his eyes idly watching a trembling silver butterfly in her hair.

"I think she's tall and has dark eyes. She's well bred, but not conventional. She's honest and kind. She has brains and a sense of humor. She"— He broke off suddenly. "I have it, Rena! Find me a Kate just like you, and I surrender the handkerchief."

"And your heart?"

The light words had an unfamiliar tremor in them, like that of the butterfly's filigree wings. Something sweet and sudden and unforeseen swept over Harper's heart. He was looking down at the leaves in her lap, and fragments of what she had said of them came back to him—"All summer contented dreamers—today new creatures—the transfiguration of their lives—what they have been waiting for all these tranquil weeks."

"Rena," he whispered, bending lower over the silver butterfly, and then as she looked up into his face with startled eyes, "I believe it is you I love!" he added simply.

"And Kate?" Her eyes smiled, though her lashes were still wet.

"Kate was an airy nothing."

"Dear, stupid boy!" Rising, she crossed the room and brought back a great Bible, which she laid on his knee. Perching on the arm of his chair, she opened the volume at the pages of family record and laid a finger on one of the names.

"Katherine, daughter of James and Katherine Cavanaugh, born June —,"

"Rena, is it you?"

"Who else? But Rena I've been from my cradle save to one person."

"And he?" jealously.

"And she"—reassuringly—"is a college friend who dislikes my poor nickname. I can show you dozens of letters from her addressed to Miss Kate Cavanaugh. The only other proof I could have offered—her gift to me last Christmas—I unfortunately lost."

"At a ball?"

"At a charity ball last June."

"I don't believe you're my Kate, after all. I told you my Kate was honest and kind."

"And had a sense of humor. Teddy, do you regret the prosaic end of your romance?"

"Prosaic?"

"Do you?" she insisted.

"I should be an ungrateful fool if I did."

"Then forgive your Cinderella and give back her glass slipper, dear prince!"

From the pocket nearest his heart Theodore drew a crumpled bit of linen and lace still faintly fragrant. He laid it in her hand, and his own fingers closed over it.

A Modern Proposal.

"It's like this, Miss Belle," said the Honorable Algy, stifling a yawn. "Our people seem to think we ought to get married, you know, and I don't like to disappoint 'em, and all that sort of thing. I'm not a clever chap, but there must be something in me, for I owe about £16,000. I'm a younger son, and the bit of money the mater left me isn't enough to pay for my cigarettes. I can't help my extravagant tastes. I inherited 'em. You've got money and can put me on my feet, eh—what? I've got enough blue blood for the two of us, and if your pater did make his money packing pork into tins it can't be helped. I'm prepared to waive that, doncherknow. You're a smart sort of girl and can behave yourself very nicely, considering everything. I don't like the way your father drops his aspirates or his eating peas with a knife, but he's quite a respectable old soul in his way, and he'll improve. I dare say, after I've shown him what's what a bit. Come, what d'ye say, Miss Belle? Is it a deal? Eh—what?"

And the Honorable Algernon seemed greatly astonished when Miss Belle declined the honor of the proposal.—London Pictorial.

Resigned Pleasure.

"What," asked Mrs. Hammersley, "is your opinion of a woman who will pay a million dollars for the purpose of becoming the wife of a foreigner with a title?"

"I think," replied Mrs. Oldham, "she is very foolish. After one goes abroad to live one never can have the pleasure of going to Europe every summer and smuggling things in when one comes back home."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Blood, Rena. I hardly know you tonight."

Her thoughtfulness vanished.

"What of Kate?" she laughed.

"Oh—Kate! I'm tired of this folderol about Kate."

"Ungrateful—when I've spent my whole summer finding you Kates!"

"You have been very good. The fault is in the Kates." He took a notebook from his pocket and laid it open in her lap, leaning against the back of her chair to look over her shoulder as she ran her finger down the neat list.

"Katie Simpson—dimples; Kate Ray—engaged to Reggie Van Dyke; Kate Delemster—I hardly dare mention her.

Cosgrave's Beer

Wordsof praise have ever prevailed in advertising "copy." That a producer should wax enthusiastic over his own wares is but human. But it's the praise of the consumer that counts—and it is to a discriminating and critical public that "Cosgrave's" refers you

It is safe to say that no product, of any kind enjoys a more enviable reputation than does this same Cosgrave Beer of Toronto in markets where it is offered

Its self-evidenthonesty of purpose, purity, brilliancy, body, and every other attribute that goes to make a perfect beer are ever in evidence.

Servant Girl Wanted.

General servant wanted; an experienced girl for general housework—good plain cook—small family. Apply 526 Water street.

FOWL SUPPER.

A fowl supper was held in Knox Presbyterian church last night at which a very large number were present, A splendid supper was served by the ladies and a good program was given afterwards.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has become famous for its cures of coughs, colds, croup and influenza. Try it when in need. It contains no harmful substance and always gives prompt relief.

Macadam Road.

A man by the name of John Fleury an old resident of Lindsay, has volunteered to lay a first-class macadam road on Kent street in that town for $4000. He claims Lindsay was not built on a swamp and that Kent street once had a fine stone road.

DOGS DISALLOWED.

If the council of 1910 carry out the wishes of the Board of Health a bylaw will be enforced and passed, prohibiting dogs running at large. There is a strong probability that the council will act too as a dog in Galt cost that town $2000; and Peterborough had one of those $2000 touches this year with smallpox. Hydrophobia and smallpox would make a serious inroad on the city's revenue, and the aldermen would not be true to their oath of office if they did not try to protect the city from such onslaughts.

HON. SEABORN WRIGHT.

It will be a pleasure to the citizens of Peterborough, to know that the Hon. Seaborn Wright of Georgia, will visit Peterborough, and announcement of the date will be made tomorrow.

WELSH CHOIR.

A fair audience gathered in the Conservatory of Music Hall last night to hear the Welsh Ladies' Choir give their second concert here. The choir are on their return home, and they gave an exceptionally fine program and it was thoroughly appreciated by all present. An encore was demanded for each number and it was gladly given. The Welsh Ladies' Choir has made a great hit in Peterborough.

IN SOCIETY

The Times will be pleased to receive notices of Weddings, Social Events, Personal Announcements, which will be published in this column free of charge

Miss R. Rimmie, was in Toronto over Sunday.

Mr. Harry Rogers of Toronto, was home over Sunday.

Mr. C. R. Pickard, Norwood, spent Sunday in the city.

Mrs. R. E. Shera and Miss Shera will not receive Thursday and not again until third Thursday in January.

Mr. Ernest Howson, who underwent an operation for appendicitis at Nicolls Hospital, has resumed his duties at the office of the Peterborough Lock Company. His many friends will be glad to hear of his recovery.

Mr. M. J. Hutchinson, formerly of the Examiner, and late advertising manager of the Dry Goods Review, Toronto, has resigned that position and is leaving about the end of the year for Regina, where he will become advertising manager of the Daily Leader. The position in the West is said to be an excellent one.

The pleasant purgative effect experienced by all who use Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, and the healthy condition of the body and mind which they create, makes one feel joyful.

Officers Elected

The annual meeting of the Young Ladies' Mission Band of St. Andrew's church was held last evening when the election of officers took place, with the exception of the president. For the present that office will be left open and later the young ladies will select a presiding officer from among the members of the W. F.M.S. The other officers were:

1st Vice—Miss Curry.
2nd Vice—Miss Edmison.
Secretary—Miss R. Langford.
Treasurer—Miss K. Ross.

Mrs. J. G. Potter gave a very interesting talk on "Prayer," and it was greatly appreciated by the girls.

Perjury Cases

Two more perjury cases were heard in the police court yesterday and last night and both were in connection with the recent liquor cases against the Oriental Hotel. The first case was that of Geo. N. Graham, proprietor of the Oriental, charged with perjury in his evidence at the last trial. He was committed for trial and allowed out on bail.

The second case was a charge of Perjury against Maunder of Lindsay, who was also mixed up in the Oriental case. His preliminary hearing was before Magistrate Dumble last night, and he was also committed for trial. This makes a total of four perjury cases as a result of the Oriental case.

Mr. Fred Leampton of Guelph, was in the city yesterday on business.

OBITUARY.

Edward Al. Jones.

News was received in the city yesterday of the death in Claresholme, Southern Alberta, that morning of Mr. Edward Al. Jones, an old and highly respected resident of Peterborough, the intelligence of whose demise will be heard with genuine regret by his many friends in this city. The late Mr Jones had lived in Peterborough for a large number of years, following the occupation of a tinsmith, and he was widely known through his connection with the volunteer fire brigade, of which he was a member for many years. He was one of the first members of that body and was considered one of the best firemen that ever helped in fighting the flames in Peterborough. Until the present paid brigade was organized a year and one half ago. Mr. Jones was a valued member of the Peterborough Fire Brigade.

The deceased had been in ill health for some time and just a week ago last Saturday left Peterborough for Claresholme, where his daughter, Mrs. Alfred Thompson resides. It was thought that a change of climate would improve his condition of health but it failed in the object hoped for, as he took a turn for the worse immediately after his arrival, and sank rapidly until death occurred at 3.30 o'clock yesterday morning.

He is survived by his wife and three children, Mrs. Fred J. Brown of Peterborough, Mrs. Alfred Thompson of Claresholme, and Mr. Harry Jones of Los Angeles.

The funeral will take place at Claresholme.

WM. HAMILTON CO.

Declare Eight Per Cent. Dividend on Preferred Stock.

The first annual meeting of William Hamilton Company, Ltd. was held in the office of the company, 479 Reid street, last Saturday afternoon at three o'clock, at which there was a large representation of shareholders present. Mr. A. McFarlane, president, occupied the chair.

The report of the directors to the shareholders showed that the past year's business has been large and very profitable. A dividend of eight per cent. has been paid on the preferred stock and a substantial balance carried to the credit of profit and loss account.

The shareholders were more than pleased with the report, and the feeling is general that the company has now entered upon an era of great prosperity. The total number of employees is now 115, and the company has now orders on hand for all the work that they can possibly get out for many months to come.

Mr. W. R. Morris, chartered accountant, read his report, and the following directors who constituted the board for last year were unanimously re-elected;—Messrs. A. McFarlane, Geo. G. Gladman, W. H. Collier, J. C. Smith, D. Spence, C. R. Cameron and L. A. Potvin.

At the close of the meeting, a meeting of the directors was held at which Messrs. A. McFarlane, Geo. G. Gladman and W. H. Collier were re-elected president, 1st vice president and 2nd vice-president respectively, and Mr. L. A. Potvin, secretary-treasurer.

Hoarseness in a child subject to croup is a sure indication of the approach of the disease. If Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given at once or even after the croupy cough has appeared, it will prevent the attack Contains no poison.

WILL INCREASE

Capacity of the Peterborough Lock Works.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Caley of New Britain, Conn., have arrived in the city and are staying at the Oriental Hotel. Mr. Caley has been appointed works manager of the Peterborough Lock Manufacturing Company, and assumed his duties yesterday morning. It is the duty of the Peterborough Company to greatly enlarge its facilities for the manufacturing of locks, and it is the intention of the board of directors to double its output. To permit of this there will be a considerable expenditure in the way of increased buildings, machinery and workmen.

Ald. Duncan and the Chairman of Board of Works Have hot Time

The closing meeting of the Board of Works was indeed a warm one. It started off very well but before the wind up the fire works were let off and the illuminations were most brilliant. The trouble was caused when the chairman introduced a bill from Messrs. Conroy for taking down a part of the Smith street bridge not in their contract. The work had been authorized by the chairman and the city engineer. Ald. Bradburn said the matter should first have been brought before the Board of Works Committee. Then Ald. Duncan took a hand at the chairman and the fire works were fairly started. By all present it was admitted the liveliest debate of the whole year, and there have been some warm ones.

Mr. D. W. Dumble addressed the Board of Works last night in connection with the city taking over King Edward street in the south end. He pointed out that the street was laid out 66 feet wide and he would give the city a deed for 16 feet and hold the 20 feet until such time as the owner of the land on the south part was prepared to do something. He bound himself not to allow any houses built on those 20 feet, and in due time the city would get those 20 feet.

Mr. Dumble then named over the various other streets in the city which he had given in the past, and he thought the city should take the street over and allow him to get his plan registered.

Ald. Bradburn asked Mr. Dumble why he would not give the city the right to take 18 feet off the 20 reserved in 20 years time and use it for street and he could reserve two feet which was sufficient to compel Mr. Best to come to terms.

This did not suit Mr. Dumble as he wanted to make the 20 feet in sort of a park.

Finally Mr. Dumble consented to accept Mr. Bradburn's suggestion. At the end of 20 years the city will have a 64 foot street and Mr. Dumble will still have two feet. This was agreeable to all and the bylaw will be passed.

MR. DOWNER.

Mr. Downer of Downer's Corners, complained of a bad walk on Otonabee street. Three planks had been removed and it was impossible to travel there in wet weather. Engineer Hay will look into the matter at once.

Ald. Duffus brought up a matter of a drain being blocked on Auburn street and in spring the people can not get around on account of floods. Engineer Hay will also look after this matter.

A bill of $89.25 for extra work on the Smith street bridge, done by Contractors Conroy, was introduced. The chairman said he and the city engineer had agreed that Mr. Conroy go on with the work.

Ald. Duncan and Ald. Bradburn put up a big noise because the engineer and the chairman did not consult the Board of Works. Ald. Duncan objected to the account being paid. Then Ald. Duncan and Ald. Phelan got into a very warm debate in which personal matters were introduced referring to past elections, etc. They called each other ignorant and accused each other of making a failure of the Board of Works.

Ald. Morgan threatened to get in to the discussion if it was not stopped. For some reason the combatants quieted down. Ald. Bradburn, however, said he firmly believed that the chairman should have consulted the committee.

Ald. Duncan moved that no action be taken on the account.

Ald. Bradburn said he would second the motion, but as Mr. Hay said that some of the city men were in danger and that he had recommended the work being done he thought it should be paid.

On motion of Ald. Gillespie the account was ordered paid.

Permanent Assessor Not to be Appointed

A permanent assessor will not be appointed this year. When the report of the special committee, which was in favor of the appointment was read, Ald. Bradburn took exception to the recommendation, and moved that the appointment be laid over until next year. The majority of the aldermen were in favor of this and the report was not adopted.

Ald. McIntyre read a report of the Special Committee re the appointment of a permanent assessor.

Ald. Bradburn said he did not think this council should make the appointment. It should go over to the new council. He added that the city was also considering the appointment of an industrial commissioner and this council had no authority to make that appointment or to pay him if appointed. He therefore thought that these two appointments should be handled at the same time by the new council and he moved to that effect.

Ald. Duncan seconded it. Ald. McIntyre urged the appointment of the permanent assessor. He said that the city was not yet ready for an industrial commissioner.

Ald. Gillespie supported Ald. Bradburn's motion.

Ald. Morgan favored the adoption of the committee's report. In speaking to the appointment of Mr. McGrath he said he was not looking for votes and was not now. But he felt that Mr. McGrath was the best man for the position and he was perfectly honest in his opinion. Still to ease the mind of the council and of the people he thought probably it would be better to let it stand over to next year.

Ald. Metheral said he did not think this was the proper time to make a permanent appointment.

The vote was then taken on Ald. Bradburn's amendment and was carried by a vote of 5 to 4.

That means the permanent assessor will not be appointed this year.

Rockefeller Buying Up the Drug Stores

(Special to The Times.)

Chicago, Dec. 15.—It is reported today that John D. Rockefeller is reaching out to get control of a chain of drug stores in the leading cities. The big profits of the Standard Oil Company enter largely into the retail drug business, and it is said that Rockefeller hopes to gobble up the big retail stores and thereby reap the profits.

Mysterious agents who for the past week have called at the leading drug stores of this city and Milwaukee to ascertain if their stores are for sale are said to be agents of the Rockefeller interests.

Important Conference Going on in Ottawa.

Ottawa, Ont., Dec. 16.—An important conference will be held here today by representatives of the New Brunswick, Quebec and Federal governments, the Railway Commission, the National Transcontinental Railway Commissioners, the Alexander Gibson Manufacturing Company, the New Brunswick Lands and Power Company, the Miramichi Lumber Company, and the Grand Falls Power Company. The subject of discussion at the conference will be the proposal that the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway should operate its trains through the New Brunswick forest region by electricity generated at Grand Falls on the St. John River. The matter was first discussed in the New Brunswick Legislature last year, and the plan suggested as a means of protecting the valuable timber areas from forest fires.

Mr. Andrew Claverie, the celebrated European specialist, arrives today in Peterborough; it will be the only chance for the ruptured of this district to try an honest and serious treatment. All those who suffer from defective trusses which are unable to maintain perfectly the least rupture or to keep them in place upon the least exertion, all these shall go and see Mr. Andrew Claverie and they will surely find near him the end of their sufferings.

The Method and the Apparatus of Mr. Andrew Claverie are approved by the highest medical authorities and have been adopted by nearly 1,000,000 (one million) patients all over the globe. It is a guarantee which no other specialist can give. But there is a point upon which I wish to call the attention of my readers: it is that Mr. Andrew Claverie is an honest learned and true scientist who does not try to induce his patients by fallacious promises but who will faithfully examine your case and tell you the truth.

By calling upon Mr. Andrew Claverie you will not only find a specialist of the greatest attainments, possessing a method and apparatus which are without rival in the world, but also a friend who shall be frank with you and who shall also deserve your entire confidence.

There is not a single Ruptured in Peterborough and surrounding district who shall neglect to go and see Mr. Andrew Claverie, because we are now in the most dangerous season for ruptures and it is A QUESTION OF LIFE AND DEATH

DR. NAMY.

Mr. Andrew Claverie is stopping today Thursday, at the Oriental Hotel from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. and from 6 to 9 p. m.

ALD. W. G. MORROW

Resigns From the Council to Run for Mayoralty.

Alh. W. G. Morrow has tendered his resignation to the mayor and Ald. W. G. Morrow tendered his resignation to the mayor and council of the city at the meeting last night.

On motion of Ald. Bradburn and Ald. Gillespie, the resignation was accepted.

On motion of Ald. Hicks and Ald. Gillespie, Ald. Bradburn was appointed finance minister for the balance of the term.

THE WEATHER.

Westerly winds; cloudy, with little lower temperature.

This Date in History

1773 — Cargo of taxed tea destroyed in Boston harbor by party of citizens disguised as Indians.

1848 — Park Theatre, New York city, destroyed by fire.

1891 — The Mercier Government in Quebec dismissed for alleged corruption.

1904 — A Canadian deputation headed by Sir William Mulock waited upon President Diaz of Mexico and urged extended trade relations with Canada.

Appreciation of the Services of Mayor Expressed in a Motion

Peterborough's City Council passed a very graceful motion to his worship Mayor Rush on the termination of his term of office. The aldermen all joined heartily in the sentiments expressed in the motion and his worship made a very suitable reply.

Ald. Phelan and Ald. Gillespie moved that Mayor Rush vacate the chair and that Ald. Hicks take the chair protem.

Ald. Phelan then read the following motion:—

Moved by Ald. Phelan and seconded by Ald. Gillespie, that, as his Worship Mayor Rush has expressed his intention of retiring from the position of mayor at the end of this year, we desire to place on record the fact that the relations between the other members of the council and his worship have been a most pleasant character, and that we regret that they will soon come to an end. We also wish to express our appreciation of the very courteous, tactful and able manner in which he has presided at the meetings of the council during the past two years and guided the affairs of the municipality during that time.

The motion was carried by a standing vote.

His Worship Mayor Rush in reply said that he did not know how to express his gratitude to the council. He had done his best and he was proud that the council had always stood by him. He was especially proud of this last kindness shown him and he assured the aldermen that he would never forget it.

Mrs. O'Shea Awarded $1,000 in County Court

The first case in the December session of the County Court yesterday afternoon was the action of Mrs. Margaret O'Shea, proprietress of the Commercial Hotel, against Samuel Cottingham, administrator of the estate of the late J. J. Cottingham, deceased, December, 1908. The defendant claimed that the sum of $1,000 claimed was simply the return of monies borrowed from deceased, J. J. Cottingham.

Mrs. O'Shea was called to give evidence at the opening of the action and was examined by her counsel, Mr. E. A. Peck. She testified to lending the sum of $1000 to Cottingham. She knew him so well and trusted him to such an extent that no promisory note or other papers or securities were demanded. No receipt was given, deceased's word being accepted, the plaintiff claimed. The witness was cross examined by Mr. J. W. Bennett, who acted on behalf of the defendant.

Samuel Cottingham, administrator of the estate of the late J. J. Cottingham, and the defendant in the action, testified that Mrs. O'Shea had told him that she would let the matter drop. But he inferred that Mrs. O'Shea had decided to put in a claim against the estate for $1,000 when it had been advertised that the creditors should put in their claims. On cross-examination Mr. Peck asked the witness if he were not of the opinion that Mrs. O'Shea had feared she would not be able to establish her claim, and that had accounted for her hesitancy in presenting it. Mr. Cottingham stated he didn't think so.

His honor gave judgment in favor of the plaintiff for $1000 with interest and costs. E. A. Peck and F. D. Kerr for plaintiff, and J. W. Bennett and E. L. Goodwill for defendant.

Looked Like a Revolt but Aldermen Turned Up for Council Meeting

The Board of Works adjourned last night after the lively set too, and the council meeting was called. The members went upstairs but for half an hour there were only five members present. Four members had disappeared and it looked like a revolt and as though the city's affairs would be tied up, or at least another meeting would have to be called. When the condition of affairs was realized those present had a good laugh.

After awhile, however, the member began to return one by one; Ald. McIntyre was first, Ald. Duncan came later.

The city treasurer, however, had instituted a thorough search of the buildings and police station in the meantime, but found no one in sight. a quorum

There was by this time, however, a quorum present and the business proceeded.

The minutes of the last meeting were taken as read and the city clerk then read a number of communications which had been received since the last meeting. These were received since the last meeting. These were received or referred to the various committees.

By nine o'clock all the defaulting aldermen had returned and everything appeared to be pleasant again.

Those present were Mayor Rush, Aldermen Hicks, Duffus, Duncan, Phelan, Morgan, Bradburn, Gillespie, McIntyre and Metheral.

Ald. Bradburn read the report of the Finance Committee and it was adopted as read.

Ald. Phelan read the report of the Board of Works Committee, and it was adopted as read.

Ald. Metheral read the report of Leg the Legal Committee and it was adopted. The report was as follows:

That the offer of O'Connell & Gordon to receive $135 in the case of Torpey against the City of Peterborough be accepted, and that for the purpose of making such settlement a cheque for $135 be issued to the city solicitor.

That no application be taken on the application of C. Griffin for the return of a fine paid by him in the police court as it is one with which the council has no authority to deal with.

It was moved by Ald. Duffus that Mrs. Connor Murphy be paid $25 recompense for an accident.—Carried.

ARCHITECT'S FEES.

Ald. Bradburn brought up the question of the amount to be paid to the architects on the new public library. The bylaw provided that they get $300 or $150 each. That cheque had been paid but he felt that the Property Committee had intended that each should get $300. He therefore moved that another cheque for $300 made out jointly be issued to the architects. Ald. Duncan seconded the motion and it carried.

POLLING OFFICIALS.

A bylaw was then passed amending the bylaw fixing the polling booths officers, by filling in blanks caused by resignations of three of the officers.

In connection with this bylaw Ald. McIntyre moved that the city pay $5 for the polling booths instead of $4, in face of the increase to the polling officials. Ald. Metheral seconded it, but it was lost.

Ald. Bradburn said it was time to increase the pay when the people asked for it.

Ald. Duffus agreed with this.

NEW STREET.

A bylaw was passed accepting King Edward street from Mr. D. W. Dumble of a less width of sixty feet.

Just as the council was about to adjourn Ald. Phelan moved that the return to the ward system bylaw which had received two readings, be rescinded and not submitted to the people. The aldermen, however, would not wait, and before the chairman of the Board of Works had finished speaking only two aldermen and the mayor were left so the meeting came to and end.

20 Killed and 40 Injured in Train Wreck

Express Fell from Bridge Into Creek---Plucky Conductor Crawled Two Miles with a Broken Leg

Charlotte, N.C., Dec. 15.—Twenty persons are reported to have been killed and probably forty injured when passenger train No. 11, on the Southern railway, speeding south at the rate of thirty-five miles an hour, jumped from a trestle 25 feet high and landed in Reedy Creek, a few miles north of Greensboro, early this morning.

The wreck was one of the most frightful that ever occurred in the history of Southern railroading. Without the slightest warning several cars of the train plunged from the bridge to the bottom of the creek below. The dead and injured were buried in three feet of water.

News of the wreck was taken to Greensboro, where a corps of physicians and nurses was organized and despatched to the scene on a special train.

George J. Gould, the New York millionaire, and his son Jay, were passengers, but were uninjured, according to messages received here. They were traveling in the only sleeper on the train.

CRAWLED TWO MILES.

The hero of the day was Conductor George Cable, who was among those precipitated into the creek. Notwithstanding a broken leg he crawled two miles to the nearest telegraph station, where he gave the word, resulting in the ordering of the relief train.

As soon as the surgeons and nurses and wrecking crew had rescued the injured passengers the special train was started back to Greensboro with the dead and injured.

The latter was taken to St. Leo hospital.

Among the dead are the engineer and fireman of the wrecked train. They were the first to go down, and the passenger coached piled down upon them in a crash that left them no chance for their lives. The pilot of the engine stuck fast in the mud, and the following coaches and sleeper had the effect of a driving hammer pushing the big iron structure twenty feet under the ground.

The wrecking crew are up to their waists in water digging for dead who may be buried in the mud. On account of the fact that a number of passengers may be thus buried no exact estimate of the dead could be made.

A Cool Prisoner in Murder Trial

Cobalt, Dec. 15.—George Caldbeck, district chief of police, returned this afternoon after a trip to the scene of the Parkinson murder at Raymore a station on the T. & O. Railway, ten miles south of Matheson. In ten miles south of Mathieson. In company with Constable Rowell of Matheson, they went all over the ground and scene of the murder last Thursday. Data was taken which will be used at the trial in North Bay on April 1st of next year.

Walter Ross, the accused man, now in the North Bay jail, is about 30 years of age, and came from Hull, England, and has been in America for eight years, the last two being spent around Matheson, and according to the stories brought down by Caldbeck had not worked during the summer. He lived in the shack with Percy Parkinson and another partner, but did not sleep there the night before the murder. According to his story Parkinson attacked him with an axe. In the search three or four axes were found, none of them appearing to have been moved for some time. It is said that there was some dispute between the men regarding property near Montieth. The body of Parkinson was sent to his home in Exeter, Huron county, last night.

There was no witnesses to the crime and it is probable that Ross will push the self-defence plea at his trial. A remarkable incident of his nerve is shown by the fact that after the murder while waiting for a train at Raymore to go to Matheson to give himself up, he coolly played cards at the station with the section crew.

Constable Rowell was the chief witness at the inquest, he stating that Walter Ross came up to him at Matheson on the afternoon of the 9th and stated: "I have killed a man in a shack near Ramor," situated about six miles south of Matheson or about 60 miles north of Englehart on the T. & N.O. Railway.

Dr. R. C. Lowrey of Englehardt, who was one of the medical men who undertook the post-mortem examination of the body of the deceased, stated at the inquest that in his opinion a shot from the 303 Savage rifle that was produced must have entered from the right of the back ear and came out of the face below the left eye. Instant death must have followed, and also the deceased must have been dead, judging from the state of the body about twenty-four hours.

Walter Ross, the prisoner, admitted before the jurymen and coroner, that he shot Parkinson in self-defence on the morning of the 9th over a quarrel about some mining claims at Monteith, seeing that the deceased was coming at him with an axe. The axe and rifle were produced at the inquest, and admitted by the prisoner as being the ones used at the affray.

Ross was sent on for trial.

EARLY MORNING BLAZE.

About 2.30 o'clock this morning, Night Watchman W. Fisher discovered a blaze in the shoe store at the corner of Hunter and Sherbrooke. Some leather cuttings under the counter caught fire, and had it not been discovered promptly the whole new block of stores recently erected by Mr. J. M. Brooks, would have gone up in smoke. The brigade responded promptly to the alarm. The damage will be about $100.

Admits Murdering Wife and Children

Cleveland, Ohio, Dec. 15.—Antonio Mangano is in a cell here today, having confessed to murdering his wife and two little children. Mangano was captured in Akron late yesterday, and brought to Cleveland. He at first maintained his innocence, but later he confessed and told how he had quarreled with his wife on Dec. 4 last, and when she ordered one of the children to go for the police he killed her. Then he killed the little girl and the boy, hid them under the bed and fled.

"NOT GUILTY."

On One Charge But Guilty on the Second Charge of Perjury.

George W. Martin charged with having sworn falsely in the police court on the 30th day of April was tried by jury in the County Court yesterday. After the evidence was all in the jury retired and later brought in a verdict of not guilty. His Honor Judge Huycke thereupon dismissed the case.

A second charge of perjury was laid against Martin and it was heard yesterday afternoon and just before court adjourned the jury brought in a verdict of guilty. The prisoner will be sentenced at the close of the court. The second charge was that he swore falsely in police court on July 9th. Mr. W. A. Henderson of Toronto, appeared for the prisoner, and Crown Attorney R. E. Wood was prosecutor.

The first case to be heard this morning may be the perjury charge against P. J. Carroll in connection with the recent case in police court against the Oriental Hotel. There is much interest centered in this case and many witnesses will be called.

OVER-WORKED KIDNEYS.

Cause, Rush of Blood, Fulness, Dizziness.

J. T. Chetland, the well-known railway engineer of Hamilton, found the strain always resting upon men of his occupation vastly intensified by a tendency of the blood to rush to his head, and often at times when clearness of vision and great steadiness were demanded. Finding some difficulty in bending—a stiffness with pain having settled in his back, it occurred to him that his kidneys might be at fault. "This was a happy idea, for by it I not only got rid of the pain but many other troubles as well. I took a full dose of Dr. Hamilton's Pills and was glad to note that some obstruction of the kidneys which I had lately noticed, was at once relieved. The flushed appearance of my face gave way to a more rational color and there was a perceptible impravement in my appetite. Dr. Hamilton's Pills certainly set splendid upon the blood, removing heat and fulness and that sort of dizziness that makes a man at the throttle wish when it seizes him that he were elsewhere."

No medicine gives such unquestionably good results for stomach, liver and blood troubles as Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they are mild, certain, and always curative. Refuse any substitute.

Heaviness at Pit of the Stomach

A Feeling of Uneasiness Before and After Meals is Quickly Cured With Nerviline.

Nearly everyone gets an occasional attack of indigestion and knows just what that heavy feeling means in the stomach. "I was subject to stomach derangements and my health was seriously tampered on this account. After meals I belched gas, had a wighty sensation in my stomach and over my left side. The first relief I got was from Nerviline—I used it three times a day and was cured. I continue to use Nerviline occasionally, and find it is a wonderful aid to the stomach and digestive organs."

NERVILINE RESTORES WEAK STOMACHS

The above letter comes from Mrs. P. R. Stetson, wife of an important merchant in Brockton, and still further proof of the exceptional power of Nerviline is furnished by A. E. Rossman, the well-known upholsterer of Chester, who writes: "Let everyone with a bad stomach use 'Nerviline,' and I am sure there will be few sufferers left. I used to have cramps, rumbling noises gas on my stomach and severe fits of indigestion. Nerviline was the only remedy that gave me relief, and I found it so entirely satisfactory that I would like to have my letter of recommendation published broadcast in order that others may profit by my experience."

COOK LOCATED IN SANITARIUM.

New York, Dec. 9.—Dr. Cook is in a private sanitarium in Philadelphia. This was learned positively by the Evening Mail today. It was also learned beyond the possibility of dount that he is under an assumed name, and that the authorities of the institute had sworn themselves to secrecy as to his whereabouts.

There are three men in New York city who know the whereabouts of Cook. Cook is not hiding, but is suffering from a nervous breakdown was the assurance given. The name and location of the sanitarium was withheld.

Copenhagen, Dec. 9.—A summary of the affidavits of persons claiming to have aided Dr. Cook in the preparations of his Polar data published in London and New York today, was read here with amazement. Scientific circles are inclined to be incredulous regarding the charges and some persons, like Dr. Carl Burrau, the astronomer, consider them so improbable that their effect will be to strengthen confidence in Dr. Cook.

Dr. Burrau said: "Passages in the story telegraphed here give me the impression that the matter is thoroughly untrustworthy. Take, for instance, the statement about Capella. Capelle neither rises nor sets in the Polar regions, but remains fixed over the horizon. In order to make observations at the North Pole, a more extended and a more detailed knowledge is necessary than is usually enjoyed by the average ship's captain. It will, however, be easy for the university to determine the truth regarding the charges."

The committee of six under the presidency of Prof. Elis Stromgren, the astronomer, which is to examine Dr. Cook's records on behalf of the University of Copenhagen, will begin its work at the end of the present week.

The Bank of Montreal

The ninety-second Annual General Meeting of the Shareholders of the Bank of Montreal was held in the Board room of the Institution yesterday at noon.

There were present:—Sir Edward Clouston, Bart., Vice-President and General Manager: Sir William Macdonald, Sir Thomas G. Shaughnessy, Hon. Robert Mackay, Messrs A. Baumgarten, R. B. Angus, E. B. Greenshields, David Morrice, Hon. J. K. Ward, G. F. C. Smith, Lieut.-Col. Prevost, James Kirby, K.C., C.J. Fleet, K.C., John Patterson, Alfred Piddington, George R. Hooper, B. A. Boss, George Durnford, Hugh Paton, H. Dobell, W. H. Evans, G. Scott, H. Joseph and J. Taylor.

In consequence of the absence of the President, Sir George Drummond, K.C.M.G., through indisposition, Mr. R. B. Angus moved that the Vice-President and General Manager, Sir Edward Clouston, take the chair.

This was seconded by Mr. E. B. Greenshields, and unanimously concurred in, after which it was resolved, on motion of Mr. Hugh Paton, seconded by Lieut.-Col. Prevost:—"That the following be appointed to act as scrutineers: Messrs. G. F. C. Smith and George R. Hooper, and that Mr. James Aird be Secretary of the meeting."

The Vice-President then submitted the report of the Directors as follows:—

THE DIRECTOR'S REPORT.

Bank of Montreal, Montreal, 30th October, 1909.

E. S. CLOUSTON, General Manager.

THE VICE-PRESIDENT.

The Vice-President then spoke as follows:—

The most important change from last year in the statement submitted to you is the unusually large increase in deposits, amounting to $36,000,000. Part of it is temporary, pending large payments in connection with special transactions, part is the natural increase from depositors as a result of the prosperous condition of affairs in this country, but the largest portion of the increase arises from money brought into Canada from other countries. It is quite possible that if the apprehensions expressed in many quarters as to the consequence of the new methods of British taxation are realized, deposits from this last source may be still further enlarged. It is very important, therefore, that nothing should be done in Canada by injudicious legislation, the exploitation of doubtful enterprises, or otherwise, to stop this flow of capital. Our call loans have increased by about the same amount as our deposits, and what is not necessary to retain as a portion of our reserves, will be gradually brought into the country to meet commercial requirements as they arise.

The profits are some $130,000 less than last year, but, considering the low rates ruling for the greater part of our fiscal year in London and New York, the result may be regarded as satisfactory. I am glad to say that the outlook for the coming year, or at least for the earlier months, is more promising, and I shall be much disappointed if we do not make a better showing when next we meet.

The rapidity of the recovery of trade from the set-back following the monetary crisis in the United States two years ago has been as striking as it is satisfactory. Conditions today are, as a whole, excellent. The large harvest gathered in the Northwestern Provinces is in itself affords a basis for active and profitable business for some time to come. How considerable a factor in the commercial life of Canada the agricultural output of our Northwest has become may be realized from the fact that the yield of wheat, oats and barley in this year, 313,636,000 bushels, as compared with 232,630,000 bushels in 1908, 160,000,000 bushels in 1907, or 32,000,000 in 1900. A tenfold gain in the grain product of the Northwestern Provinces is nine years conveys some idea of the commercial potentialities of the country.

The marketing of wheat has been quite prompt, and the railways have had no difficulty in moving the crop. In the ten weeks to November 14 there had been imported in the Northwest 42,956,000 bushels, being 16,300,000 bushels more than in the corresponding period of 1908, while the shipments from Fort William and Port Arthur amounted to 25,215,000 bushels up to November 14, or 13,200,000 bushels in excess of the preceding year's shipments.

Our foreign trade has not only reached, but has begun to exceed, the high-water mark of two years ago. In the six months ending September 30th, last, imports for consumption and exports of domestic produce were of the value of $282,857,000, or $36,000,000 in excess of the corresponding period of the preceding year, imports having been larger by thirty-six millions and exports by ten millions. The adverse balance of trade has thus again begun to grow, but while men and money pour into Canada from abroad the disparity need not cause uneasiness. Domestic industries are, speaking generally, working well up to the limit of capacity. Labor is fully employed; the immigration has improved. The export of dairy and farm products, indeed, are exceptionally large.

Such tests as bank note circulation, bank clearings, railway earnings, all point to the great activity of business. At the end of October the note circulation exceeded $28,000,000 or 6,000,000 more than a year ago. Business failures have been neither numerous nor serious, being for the year to October 1, 1,402, with liabilities of $12,919,000, as compared with 1,629 failures and liabilities of $16,959,000 in the previous twelve months.

Railway construction is proceeding apace over the whole face of the Dominion. West of Lake Superior nearly 1,100 miles have been built this year, and the western Provinces now have 11,500 miles of railway, as much as the mileage of all Canada twenty years ago.

Immigration has picked up after the short relapse in 1908, the estimate of the number of new settlers this year being 130,000, about one-half of whom are experienced farmers who have moved into our Northwest from the United States. The evidences of expanding trade, accumulating wealth and material progress and development might be cited at great length, and a pleasant picture painted of our happy condition. There are always, however, dangers to be avoided, and never more so than when the outlook is so bright and inspiriting. A tendency to over speculation in real estate is some parts of Canada is already apparent, and this, like other forms of gambling, can bring only disaster when the inevitable crash comes. How suddenly conditions may change the rapid advance in the Bank of England rate last autumn attests. Only by prudence both in taking and granting credits and by avoidance of wild-cat ventures and exploitations on the high reputation Canada enjoys in the British money market, can we reasonably anticipate a continuance of the prosperity now enjoyed.

There is only one other observation I desire to make. As you are aware, the decennial revision of the Bank Act will take place during the present session of Parliament. In one or two respects changes of a more or less technical character will be found necessary, but the Act has been so thoroughly revised in the past, it withstood so staunchly the trials of 1907, and its operation has been found to conform so admirably to the requirements of trade and the interests of a rapidly-developing country, that I hardly think it likely that any material change will be made.

In our note circulation we have a system which enables us by its elasticity to carry over the heavy autumnal demands without creating any monetary stringency; and to show how valuable it is to the whole business community I need only point to the fact that we are moving the large crops in the Northwest with great ease and without any advance in rates to our commercial customers.

I beg to move: "That the report of the Directors now read be adopted and printed for distribution among the Shareholders."

This was seconded by Mr. E. B. Greenshields, and unanimously adopted.

Mr. H. Joseph then moved: "That the thanks of the meeting be presented to the President, Vice-President and Directors for their attention to the interests of the Bank."

Mr. C. S. Fleet seconded the motion, which was unanimously agreed to.

Sir Thomas G. Shaughnessy moved: "That the thanks of the meeting be given to the General Manager, the Assistant General Manager, the Inspectors, the Managers and other officers of the Bank for their services during the past year."

The motion was seconded by Mr. David Morrice, and was unanimously carried.

Sir Edward Clouston expressed acknowledgement on behalf of himself and fellow-officers.

THE DIRECTORS.

The ballot for the election of Directors was then proceeded with. The scrutineers appointed for the purpose reported the following gentlemen duly elected:—

R. B. Angus,
A. Baumgarten,
Sir Edward Clouston, Bart.,
Hon. Sir George Drummond, K.C.M.G., C.V.O.,
E. B. Greenshields,
Charles R. Hosmer,
Sir William C. Macdonald,
Hon. Robert Mackay,
David Morrice,
James Ross,
Sir Thomas G. Shaughnessy, K.C.V.O.,

The Right Hon. Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal, G.C.M.G., G.C.V.O., was elected Honorary President; Hon. Sir George Drummond K.C.M.G., C.V.O., President and Sir Edward Clouston, Bart., Vice-President.

Opening of the Legislature.

Although it has not yet been officially announced it is believed that the opening of the lerislature will take place on January 18.

WASHING HOUSE PLANTS.

How to Keep Them Healthy and Free From Insects.

If after taking flowers into the house you discover the troublesome mealy bugs, aphis, the torment of chrysanthemum; green flies and tiny red spiders, begin at once to kill them. The overwhelming development of these pests can be stopped only by using some strong solution that will kill the insects and destroy the eggs. If a small camel's hair brush is dipped into alcohol and the haunts of these pests are washed out with the solution, followed with a tobacco suds wash, clean plants will be insured. Do not permit this water to run into the earth, for alcohol will kill some plants. Have a piece of oilcloth, cut a hole in the centre and slit one side to the edge. This can be wrapped around the plant to prevent the water going into the crock. This is also an excellent method when cleaning flowers in the kitchen sink, for the dirt does not overflow when the crock is protected with the oilcloth covering.

The red spider can be killed with pure water, but this process requires that the entire plant be immersed. This is easily done, and the water should be changed a number of times. Do not leave one plant untouched, but clean all at the same time. Just a few insects will increase rapidly in numbers, and the aphis to-day would be a past generation to-morrow, so the accumulation of these little pests should be fought from the time flowers are taken into the house. No flower collects insects more rapidly than ivy. The fragile leaves and stems are alive with them, for which reason ivy should be kept out of the collection of rare plants. Flowers with large leaves should be washed. Buy a small soft brush and keep it for the purpose of washing the flower leaves. It cleans under the leaves and between the stems and stock.

IVY FOR HOME DECORATION.

How to Grow the English and German Varieties With Ease.

For a growing green which is beautifully decorative in the home in winter there is nothing more satisfactory than ivy. There are so many artistic ways of arranging the ivy, and the English variety particularly is so hardy that it cannot fail to grow. Artists have painted it and poets sung of it—the romantic ivy green.

With a pot containing the ivy standing on a table, floor or shelf the creeping branches may be trained in any direction about the room. Have the vine clamber up the window casing, and the green and leafy screen through which you can look out upon a wintry landscape will make it seem less bleak. Stand the jar containing the ivy on a bracket shelf at one end of the mantel and let it wander, with skillful training, up over mantel and walls, stray tendrils drooping gracefully over pictures and the like.

Ivy may be trained over the archway which divides rooms, and no portieres will be needed. There is also the more delicate German ivy, which requires gentler handling. It will grow effectively without soil. I saw one growing in a large bowl of water—the kind of glass bowl used for small aquaria. The ivy grew over the sides of the bowl, festooning itself in tangled masses of vivid green, which gave a living beauty to the whole room.—Suburban Life.

No Influence.

During a municipal election in a town in the west of Scotland a young lady who was canvassing in behalf of one of the candidates called at a house, the door of which was opened by the good wife.

"I have called to solicit your vote on behalf of Mr. ——," said the young lady.

"But it's not me that's got the vote. It's ma man," replied the woman.

"Yes," said the young lady, "but I thought you might perhaps use your influence with him."

"Me influence him?" said the good wife. "I hiv nae influence wi' him. Only this morning I ask't him to wash the floor afore he went out, and he wadna dae it."

Quits.

A little girl was in the habit of telling "stretchers." Her auntie told her she could never believe her and, to warn her, related the tale of the boy who called "Wolf, wolf!" and how the wolf really did come one day and ate up all her sheep.

"Ate the sheep?" asked the child.

"Yes."

"All of them?"

"Yes; all of them," answered her auntie.

"Well," said the little one, "I don't believe you, and you don't believe me. So there!"

Woman's Preparation For the Street.

Nearly every man knows that it takes the average woman two hours to dress for the street, and they seem hurried at that, but few men know just why such preparations take so long. For the enlightenment of the latter is the explanation in boiled down form as given by an authoritative person:

Pitting on dress, forty minutes; buttoning same, ten minutes; arranging hair, twenty-five minutes; touching up face, fifteen minutes; setting hat, twenty minutes; mirror contemplation, ten minutes.

In Doubt.

"Prisoner," said the court, sternly, "are you guilty or not guilty?"

"Now, jedge," answered the defendant, "I'm not sure whether I'm guilty or not guilty, but I'm willin' to plead guilty to anything you say."

Rack For Postcards.

For holding collections of postcards girls who are interested in amateur carpentering and cabinetmaking or, to use the more modern phrase, in manual training are now making very useful and at the same time ornamental racks which hold a large number of cards and keep those from different sections of the country separated. The racks are made of wood and have three bars at each side and two bars on the bottom. At the ends are square pieces of wood hollowed out at the bottom to form two ornamental feet sloped out at the top to make a more ornamental line and with oval holes cut in the center near the top, which form handles, by which the rack may be lifted. There are spaces cut in these solid wooden ends, through which the side and bottom bars are slipped. The two upper side bars are perforated with round holes at regular intervals. Through these perforations slender brass bars are slipped, and it is these brass bars which separate the different groups of cards.

"You needn't worry about that," replied the man with the clean cropped head and strange pallor; "I wouldn't be here now if it hadn't been for my good behavior in my last place."—Catholic Standard and Times.

MAINE SPOOKS.

A Ghost House, a Phantom Light and a Mystic Woodchuck.

Bowdoinham boasts a veritable ghost house where it is said the chairs refuse to stay quietly in their places, but in the middle of the night walk out and draw together in groups just as if guided by visible hands. Then there is a spirit cane that goes walking all by itself just at midnight, tapping its way along from room to room and finally taking up its abode in the chamber where a member of the family sleeps. That this statement is true is affirmed by those who have seen the phenomena and who are not at all afraid of ghosts.

At another house in the village is a phantom light that shines each night no matter whether it be moonlight or darkness just above the closet door in the upper chamber. For years this light has disturbed the people who at different times have occupied the room, and some have been much afraid of the flickering gleam. From time to time different explanations have been offered, but none has proved satisfactory. The light continues to shine, and no one can account for the mystery.

Down at Lazy O camp is a spook woodchuck which every evening, just at the sunset hour, comes out of an old family tomb, halfway between the camp and the home farm. There on the tomb he sits quietly, watching the sunset lights on the waters of Merrymeeting. Just as the sun sinks below the horizon he disappears. The tomb swallows him up, and he is seen no more until the sunset hour comes round again.—Kennebec Journal.

Arab Buttermaking.

Among the Arabs an interesting department of woman's duty is dairy work. This, like all other operations, is carried out on an old fashioned and patriarchal plan. To make butter, for instance, a small sheepskin is filled with milk and tied to a ring in the wall. The woman then sits flat on the floor and rocks it to and fro till little balls of butter begin to form within. These grow larger and larger and accumulate and are finally brought out as one big lump. The remaining milk is then boiled on the fire with bits of meat. The male members of the family now come together. A large dish of cooked rice is placed before them and the boiled milk poured over it. Then, making balls of the mixture with his hands, each member quickly swallows his share and rises to wash his hands. This done, the girls and mother sit down and eat what the men are pleased to leave.

Hats and Old Age.

In opening the services one Sunday recently the pastor of one of the fashionable churches said: "For three Sundays I have asked the women in this church to remove their hats during service. My appeal has been unheeded, and now I see wherein I was wrong. I was inconsiderate of the comforts of the aged and infirm, so I have made a new rule. Hereafter all women of forty years of age or over will be permitted to wear their hats during the service."

Within twenty seconds every woman in the church was bareheaded.—Ladies' Home Journal.

Prevention, the new Candy Cold Cure Tablets, are said by Druggists to have four special specific advantages over all other remedies for a cold. First—They contain no Quinine, nothing harsh or sickening. Second—They give almost instant relief. Third—Pleasant to the taste, like candy. Fourth—A large box 48 Preventics—at 25 cents. Also fine for feverish children. Sold by all dealers.

ADVENTURES IN CLOUDS

COUNT ZEPPELIN DESCRIBES HIS WORK IN THE AIR.

Great German Inventor Who Has Perfected the Dirigible Balloon Has Spent His Last Penny In His Fight to Fly—He Has Had Many Narrow Escapes From Death—Countess Has Helped Him.

If there is one thing which the world and his wife admire more than another, it is pluck and perseverance. For that reason it is not difficult to understand the enthusiasm aroused on the continent by the flying feats of Count Zeppelin. For fifty years he has been striving to solve aerial navigation. He has beggared himself, spent his whole fortune of $150,000, borne the gibes and ridicule poured upon him by sceptics, risked his life time after time, and yet never abandoned faith in his ideas.

In the following words he described his aims to an interviewer a short time ago:

"I intend to build a vessel which will be able to travel to places which cannot be approached—or only with great difficulty — by other means of transport; to undiscovered coasts or interiors; in a straight line across land or water where ships are to be sought for; from one fleet station or army to another, carrying persons and despatches; for observation of the movements of hostile fleets or armies —not for active participation in actual warfare.

"My balloon must be able to travel several days without renewing provisions, fuel, or gas. It must travel quickly enough to reach a certain goal in a given number of days, and must possess sufficient rigidity and non-inflammability to ascend, travel, and descend under ordinary conditions."

And the count has succeeded to the extent of being able to remain in the air for many hours and travel hundreds of miles.

"But I am not satisfied," he remarked. "The German Government want an airship which will fulfil the following conditions: First, it must be able to manoeuvre in the air for twenty-four hours; secondly, it must be able to land without injury to itself either on water or earth; and in the last place must be able to ascend to such a height that it cannot be injured by bullet-fire. Stringent conditions? Yes, but very necessary if the navigable balloon is to prove of real service. Do I think I can manage to fulfil these conditions? That, of course, is impossible to say, but I am going to try."

And this wonderful master of the air spoke with that quiet earnestness which almost convinced one that he would succeed, in spite of the fact that he is over seventy years of age. He is a man who speaks little of the past. From others one learns of how at one time he became so poor that he had to live in a little cottage on an allowance made to him by his friends. When, at thirty years of age, the count married a lady belonging to one of the German aristocratic families, his friends and relatives, who had regarded him almost as a lunatic on account of his devotion to the task of inventing aerial machines, thought that his wife would wean him from his eccentric ways. But in this respect they were disappointed.

The marriage itself and the ensuing honeymoon interrupted for a time Count Zeppelin's devotion to his research work, but within a year of the wedding day he was again hard at work on the solution of the problem, aided and encouraged by his young wife. Year by year passed, and still the aristocratic mechanic continued to construct all sorts of flying contrivances that for the most part refused to fly. He and his wife, however, were fully agreed that he should devote his whole life to the task of teaching mankind how to fly.

The countess has followed with unwearying interest and self-sacrifice the scientific researches which involved the expenditure of their entire fortune, and Count Zeppelin is the first to admit how much he owes to the encouragement of his wife.

For over thirty years the count devoted himself to the construction of flying machines, "but," he remarked, "the risks were too great and the successes were too small to warrant the continuation of such experiments. On one occasion I fell from a height of forty feet, but happened to alight on some bushes, which broke my fall and saved my life, although I received a number of painful wounds. On another occasion I fell from a considerable height, but again had the good fortune to alight on soft earth without sustaining more than a broken leg. These were but two of a number of accidents which led me to finally abandon the flying machine for the navigable airship."

"But even they have their perils, count?"

"Yes; I suppose one of the narrowest escapes I had was when last year I fell asleep in the cabin of my airship. By some lucky chance I did not sleep for long, and only a few minutes after I awoke the airship was in flames. Had I remained asleep I should certainly have been burned to death."

The adventures of Count Zeppelin, however, would almost fill a volume, for, apart from his exciting experiences in connection with flying machines and balloons, he has had innumerable escapes. He fought in the Franco-German War, and is said to have been the first German soldier to cross the frontier into France.

Boiled Water In Ancient Times.

Now that the use of boiled drinking water has become common it is interesting to be reminded that a similar method of guarding against disease was practiced in ancient times. Herodotus tells how Cyrus had his drinking water boiled and carried in silver vessels, and Pliny the elder related that Nero had water boiled and afterward cooled for drinking by placing it in glass flasks surrounded with snow.

The Difference.

Him—What makes you look so worried?

Her—I've been trying to get my husband to say something. But you?

Him—I've been trying to get my wife to quit it!—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Point of View.

He—I understand Miss Warbles is going to sing for charity tomorrow evening.

She—Indeed! I think it would be more charitable on her part if she didn't sing!—Houston Post.

RACED WITH A KING.

Alfonso Was Persistent, and His Opponent Was Courteous.

Of the many residents of Baltimore who passed last summer in Europe probably none attained the distinction of Mr. Samuel C. Rowland, vice president of the International Trust company, who, while motoring in Spain, met King Alfonso of the land of Cervantes. In fact, he met the king three times.

The meetings occurred on the road from Biarritz to San Sebastian and, although interesting, were brief. The first time the king passed Mr. Rowland, then Mr. Rowland passed the king, and finally Alfonso passed Mr. Rowland. They did not speak as they passed by.

Asked yesterday to recite the details of his auto race with the monarch, Mr. Rowland smiled and said:

"I'm a little dubious of this king business," said Mr. Rowland democratically. "First there's the danger of international complications, and then there's lese majesty to be considered."

"Your autos were going in the same direction?" was suggested.

"Yes," assented Mr. Rowland.

"And which was ahead?"

"Well, we were ahead at first, but the king passed us. Then somehow we began to gain on him. Whether my son Harvey, who was driving, opened the throttle a little I am hardly prepared to say. At all events, we gained on him slowly and finally passed him."

"And then?"

"Most persistent king I ever saw," said Mr. Rowland seriously. "In the following mile his machine touched the ground only three times by actual count, and then he passed us."

"And who was ahead at the finish?"

"Well, noblesse oblige, you know, and we let Alfonso keep the lead."—Baltimore Sun.

Invention of the Automobile.

No one man can be said to have invented the automobile, says the Boston Globe. The machine as it is today is the product of many minds in many countries. Horseless vehicles date back almost to the time when steam became a motive power, and as long ago as 1802 Richard Trevithick, an Englishman, constructed a machine which made a trip of ninety miles over country roads. In 1883 Delsmare-Debouteville and Malandin of Paris invented a tricycle propelled by compressed gas and a year later used petroleum for generating power. Panhard and Levassar were the first to invent a really practical petroleum motor. This was in 1890, since which time the development of the various types of road motors has been rapid. Electricity as a motive power for road machines was first used in the early eighties, but it was not until about 1898 that it began to be looked upon as a rival of petroleum. Of late years gasoline and steam motors have been extensively used.

Removable Clock Dials.

An improvement in clock dials which makes repairing much more convenient has been designed by a New York man. This dial is made in two parts, which slide through grooves at the sides and meet in the middle of the face. Their action is absolutely independent of the hands, and the sections may be removed with ease without first taking off the hands, as was necessary formerly. Such a contrivance not only makes less work for the clock man when repairs are necessary, but because of the ease with which the face is removed and the works reached many a man will be able to make his own repairs where he would otherwise have hesitated to attempt it. Most clocks are adjusted from the back, but the difficulty often lies in a front part, which is difficult to reach from the rear, even by an expert on timepieces. With a clock that opens both back and front every bit of mechanism is conveniently accessible.—Chicago News.

Metal Cutting With Oxygen.

A recent improvement in the method of cutting metals by a jet of oxygen consists in keeping the metal round the place where the jet operates in a state of incandescence. This does away with the former trouble caused by the presence of iron oxide and by unsteady manipulation of the jet. Plates of steel twelve inches thick can be cut by the jet. In one recent case a slab of steel eight inches thick was cut into strips three-quarters of an inch wide, and the width of the cut made by the jet was only about a quarter of an inch. Circular cuts can be made, and instead of penetrating straight down from the face of the plate the cut can be made bevel.

A Two Ton Crystal.

Near Fang San, a low mountain some ten miles to the west of Haichow, a huge piece of crystal was recently unearthed. It is said to weigh 3,000 catties, is over four feet in diameter and five feet long. This is the second large crystal found at this place within two months. The crystal is a sort of flint. It is used in the making of Chinese spectacles and brings large prices. It is said that the owners were offered $25,000 for the piece.—Shanghai Times.

To Relieve Sore Throat.

At this season of the year, when sore throats, laryngitis and similar complaints are very prevalent in London, it may interest your readers to know of a very simple remedy which is recommended by the celebrated Dr. Fauvel of Paris. He recommends a gargle of ordinary tea before going out in the morning and, if possible, on returning at night.—London Standard.

The old-fashioned way of dosing a weak stomach, or stimulating the Heart or Kidneys is all wrong. Dr. Shoop first pointed out this error. This is why his prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—is directed entirely to the cause of these ailments—the weak inside or controlling nerves. It isn't an difficult, says Dr. Shoop, to strengthen a weak Stomach, Heart, or Kidneys if one controlling or inside nerve. When these nerves fail, then these organs must surely falter. These vital truths are leading druggists everywhere to dispense and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Test it a few days, and real Improvement will promptly and surely follow. Sold by all dealers.

A Stranger Lord.

Judge George F. Lawton, of the Probate Court, London, Eng., related a story the other day of a minister who was spending his Sabbatical year traveling abroad. Arriving in London, he made every effort to get an intimate view of the two branches of Parliament in session. Of course, no stranger is allowed on the floor of the House of Lords, but the minister, not knowing this, and with the usual amount of American push, tried to make his way in. There is a rule, however, that servants of the various lords may be admitted to speak to their masters. Seeing the minister walking boldly in, the doorkeeper asked:

"What Lord," repeated the astonished man. "The Lord Jehovah!"

For a moment the doorkeeper hesitated and then admitted him. Turning to the assistant standing near, he said:

"He must mean one of those poor Scotch lairds.

The Dramas of Mincing Lane.

It was only after eleven years of futile knocking at theatrical managers' doors with rolls of manuscript that Mr. Alfred Sutro, who would appear to have scored another success at the Garrick in London with "Making a Gentleman," got his foot on the first rung of the ladder of theatrical fame. At one time he worked in an office in Mincing Lane, and says that those City experiences of his were of immense value to him. "There are dramas in Mincing Lane," to quote his own words, "as thrilling as any that have been placed upon the stage." Mr. Sutro is a brother-in-law of Mr. Rufus Isaacs, K.C., and a distant kinsman of the Sutro who drove the famous Sutro Tunnel through the Nevada mountain, and thus made himself a millionaire.

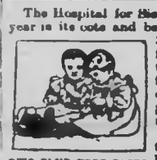
THIS APPEAL IS TO YOU!

REMEMBER That Every Sick Child in Ontario Whose Parents Cannot Afford to Pay for Treatment is Treated Free.

The Hospital for Sick Children had last year in its cots and beds 1,155 patients—383 of these were from 267 places in the Province. Sixty-five per cent. were children of poor people who could not afford to pay.



TWO CLUB FOOT CASES IN PLASTER.

Since its organization the Institution has treated 15,613 children; 11,550 of these unable to pay and were treated free.

If you know of any child in your neighborhood who is sick or has any deformity send the name of the parents to the Secretary.

The Hospital for Sick Children is not a local but a great Provincial Charity for the sick child of the poor man in any district in Ontario. Every part of Ontario has some claim upon its help as the child who lives within the shadow of its walls in Toronto.

MARCHING A PATIENT.

There were 60 cases of Club Foot treated in the Hospital last year and all had perfect correction.

THE NATIONALITIES OF IMMIGRANTS.

A report published by the Department of the Interior, giving the nationalities of the immigrants into Canada, makes public some statistics will be of general interest. From 1897 to 1909 inclusive, the immigrants from the British Isles numbered 541,066; United States, 425,611; Galicia, 83,627; Italy, 49,695, and from Russia, 47,286. The largest immigration in any one year from any o the countries mentioned was that from the United Kingdom in 1907-8, which amounted to 120,182. The British immigration fell off to 52,901 in the year just ended, but was still almost as large as that from the United States of 59,832.

These figures should reassure those who have feared that the flood if immigration into the Dominion would tend to swamp the British element in our population. Many of the settlers arriving in the three Prairie Provinces are Canadians, or the children of Canadians, who took up land in the northwestern States of the Union and who are now returning to Canada to find homes in our North-West. This class of settlers is a most desirable one in many respects. Of the 1,100,000 or 1,200,600 of immigrants who have come into Canada in the last twelve years, it will be seen, therefore, that about one million came from the United Kingdom and the United States, and of these the former led the latter by about twelve per cent.

Synopsis of Canadian Northwest Land Regulations.

ANY PERSON WHO IS THE sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother, or sister of an intending homesteader.

Duties—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, solely owned and occupied by him, or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties — Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

700,000 SHARES ISSUED—300,000 IN TREASURY.

Claim "T. R. 189" is stated by competent mining engineers to be undoubtedly the best property in the Montreal River District. It contains 40 acres, mostly hilly, of diabase formation, and is within 2½ miles of transportation.

Active development was begun by the present owners in May last. The necessary buildings for men, horses, tools, powder and stores have been erected. About two miles of surface trenching have been done in the south-east quarter of the property, 14 veins have been uncovered, 8 of them showing silver at or near the surface.

Assays of surface ore have run as high as 12,000 ounces to the ton.

Two shafts have been sunk, No. 1 to a depth of 63 feet, and No. 2 to 62 feet.

Shaft No. 2 opens up a vein from 5 to 14 inches thick, which is improving with depth, and which shows plates and leaves of pure metallic silver embedded in the calcite.

Shaft No. 1 also shows greatly increasing values with depth. At 60 feet the ore is very rich. There are two veins, 8 inches and 2 inches thick, separated by 20 to 26 inches of silver-bearing aplite. At 63 feet a level has been driven along the vein for 20 feet.

The ore taken from this level has been of exceptional richness, running from 8,000 to 17,000 ounces to the ton.

Such large values, obtained so near the surface, are very promising, particularly as at 3 other points along the same vein masses of pure metallic silver have been found directly beneath the soil. There is therefore every reason to believe that this vein will show at other points values equally as large as those where the shaft has been sunk.

Already $100,000 worth of ore has been blocked out.

The large number of veins that have been stripped in the section trenched promises a large tonnage of pay ore when they are developed. Then there is ¾ of the claim not yet trenched which should show equally satisfactory values.

An idea of the excellent returns which Claim "T. R. 189" promises on money invested, can be gained from the fact that, among others, the following gentlemen are each owners of 15,000 shares or more—

HENRY H. LYMAN. F. P. BUCHANAN. S. LICHTENHEIN. T. L. MORRISEY.
ALEX. PRINGLE D. LORNE McGIBBON. JOHN E. HARDMAN. MAJOR HADOCKS.
S. A. McMURTRY. C. E. GAULT. SHIRLEY OGILVIE. W. H. WALSH.

Samples of ore can be seen at the offices of the undersigned.

GUARANTEED INVESTMENT

The Remarkable Offer Made by the Treasury Gold Mining and Milling Company of Fairview, Nevada

Guaranterd by a $1,000,000 Bank

SUPPOSE a million-dollar bank should offer you a gold bond, guaranteeing you against loss in an investment you desired to make, and providing that, whether the investment did or did not prove a profitable one, the bank would pay you back every dollar of your money at the end of twenty years, wouldn't that "look good" to you? And wouldn't you take it?

Wouldn't it look as though the bank itself, as well as the men behind the enterprise that formed the basis of the investment, had absolute confidence in it, and looked upon it as a safe and profitable venture?

Can you figure out any way in which you could possibly lose the money you put into an enterprise with that kind of backing? To be sure, you would run the risk of not receiving interest for that length of time on the amount of your investment, but you would also run the chance of multiplying it many times over in the way of dividends—and that is worth something, isn't it? In other words, you have opportunity to win, and not a single chance to lose.

Now, that is exactly what we, the officers and directors of Treasury Gold Mining and Milling Company, of Reno, Nevada, are offering for a short time to those who wish to take advantage of it; and we make this remarkable offer, first, because we know what we have in the way of a property, and, second, because we need a little more capital to erect a mill upon it and make it an extremely profitable producer in the shortest possible time.

This is the first time, to our personal knowledge, that an offer like this has ever been made with reference to any enterprise of a similar character, here or elsewhere.

Organization, Capitalization and Officers

Treasury Gold Mining and Milling Company is organized under the laws of the State of Nevada, with a capital stock of One Million Dollars ($1,000,000), divided into One Million (1,000,000) shares, of the par value of One Dollar ($1.00 each, full paid and non-assessable, and with no personal liability attaching to the stockholders. The number of shares in the treasury is Four Hundred Thousand (400,000).

The principal office of the company is at No. 336 Mill Street, Reno, Nevada, and the depository of the company is the Nixon National Bank, of the same city.

The officers are as follows: President, D. J. Kennedy, an old resident of Nevada, and one of the best known and most successful mining operators in the state; vice-president, F. W. Thomas, of the firm of John Breuner & Co., one of the largest mercantile establishments in the city; secretary, Donald Fraser, one of the proprietors of the Red Cross Drug Company, of Reno; treasurer, H. L. Burchell, mining operator, and manager of the most prominent of the leading law firms of the state.

Board of directors: D. J. Kennedy, F. W. Thomas, H. L. Burchell; Eugene Kelly, department manager with the Gray, Reid, Wright company, and Donald Fraser.

Location and Character of Properties

The holdings of Treasury Gold Mining and Milling Company include the following valuable properties in the famous Fairview district, in Churchill county, Nevada, reached by a fine wagon road from Fallon, the county seat:

By purchase outright—fully paid for and deed recorded at Fallon—valuable mining estates on both sides of the great Mizpah mine, on both of which properties rich ore has been found.

By purchase—paid for, deeded and recorded—the Treasury group of two full claims, amounting to 40 acres, to the north-east of the Mizpah mine, the rich ledge of which we have every reason to believe courses straight through our property for at least 2,000 feet. This we regard as a very valuable holding.

By purchase, an undivided one-half interest in seven claims, containing 100 acres, southwest of the Mizpah, with every indication that the Mizpah vein runs through our ground at least 1,500 feet. The deed for our one-half interest is recorded at Fallon, and we have an option for one year on the other one-half interest.

All the leasing rights and privileges of the Mizpah Milling and Leasing Company on twelve blocks of the celebrated Mizpah mine, for the term of five years. On this property, considerable quantities of fine shipping ore are already opened; drifting has been carried on for some distance on the 100-foot level, while the second level, at 175 feet depth, is now being driven on to catch the same ore body, when shipments will begin.

Values as Shown By Assays

Assays of ores taken from the various properties of the company show the following values:

From Treasury Group at the surface, gold and silver values	$139.50
" " " " " " " "	346.80
" " " " " " " "	77.42
From Kentucky Group, surface workings, gold and silver values	126.00
" " " " " " " "	78.00
From Mizpah shafts, tunnels and upraises, gold and silver values	993.95
" " " " " " " "	230.77
" " " " " " " "	235.46
" " " " " " " "	86.87
" " " " " " " "	84.21

From the foregoing tests, it will be seen that, leaving out of the calculation our own extensive properties, all of which contain indications of remarkable richness, we are fully justified in expecting sufficient profits from the operation of our five-year lease on the great Mizpah mine alone, to pay enormous dividends to all our stockholders. But to operate them all, with the greatly increased facilities and equipment we intend to add, should give us a production equaled by few mining properties in the world.

We have already found very rich ore in the shallow workings of our Kentucky group to the west, and of our Treasury group to the east of the Mizpah, and we can see no reason why both of these properties should not prove fully as rich as the famous Mizpah mine itself. We are in a district noted for its immense bodies of gold and silver ores, and where deep workings open up vast treasure vaults of mineral wealth.

Additional Equipment Required

In order to more speedily place these splendid properties among the high class producers of the state, and to combine the maximum of production and profit with the minimum of cost, considerable additional equipment is required.

This includes a standard, modern mill, to reduce our ore to bullion and concentrates at the mine, thus saving the transportation and treatment charges of $20 to $30 a ton on the ore to the Salt Lake smelters. To be sure, the ore is of such a high grade character that there is a good profit in mining and shipping it even at these high rates, but it would be better business to save it and add that much more to the net profits, by treating it at our own mill, which, under the circumstances, thus becomes a necessity. With a 100-ton plant, we should easily be able to treat our ore at an expense not to exceed $2.50 per ton, and by adding another unit to its capacity, can still further reduce the cost, and thus save from $17.50 to $27.50 per ton on transportation and treating charges alone—quite an item when figuring the net profits.

The first unit capacity of 100 tons daily, of a standard mill, modern in every way, including stamps, amalgamation, fine grinding, concentration and cyaniding, with a sampler in front, so that ore can be purchased from surrounding properties, and general custom work done if desired, will enable us to add one unit after another as may be required with increased development of the ore bodies. By thus adding to the capacity of the mill, we shall be in a position to treat an immense tonnage daily, and pay dividends accordingly.

We will therefore not only effect a great saving of our present expenditures, but earn a handsome revenue, practically all profit, from the large volume of custom work that would be brought to our mill for treatment and reduction.

We also want to sink a capacious double-compartment shaft into the permanent sulphide zone at once, first, in order to have the ore bodies opened up for the mill, and secondly, to aid in determining the proper methods of treatment; so that we may build a mill adapted to the character of the ores, and capable of giving the largest returns to the company in the extraction of the gold and silver values.

Novel Plan to Secure Funds

Now, we are quite willing to admit that equipment of the character already mentioned, which will put the properties in the best possible working shape, will cost more money than is available at present, unless we accept the alternative of sacrificing a small portion of our special stock, in order to begin operations on a profitable basis at once.

The officers and directors of the company have therefore decided to adopt this method, and, while limiting the sales to but one-fifth of the capitalization, to surround the sale of every share with a positive safeguard against any possible loss.

We do not know that such an offer has ever before been made, and we expect the amount offered to be over-subscribed several times when the terms of the offer are made known.

First, we limit the amount of stock that will be sold, in order to provide the finds for necessary equipment, to Two Hundred Thousand (200,000) shares, and this is to be positively the last as well as the first, allotment that will be sold at the present low price, of 20 cents a share, as we honestly believe the stock will be good for dividends of not less than one dollar per share annually, after we commence treating 100 tons daily at the mill.

Stock Guaranteed

In order to absolutely protect purchasers of these shares against the possibility of a loss, we have made arrangements with the Metropolis Trust and Savings Bank, of San Francisco, one of the strongest financial institutions in the United States, to guarantee every share of stock sold, and to issue to every purchaser a gold bond for the full amount of his investment, such bond being payable in twenty years, whether the mines pay or not. Therefore, even if the mines never paid a dollar—though we expect them to pay millions—the stockholders cannot possibly lose anything except the interest on their investment, while they stand to win fortunes from the amounts they put into these properties.

The shares offered on these unparalleled terms may be paid for either in cash or in five equal monthly payments, and the money derived there from will be used entirely for the further development and equipment of the properties. The shares will also be traded in on both the New York and Boston exchanges the moment we begin shipping and paying dividends.

The elements of industrial safety and of the speculative profits of gold mining under such extremely favorable conditions, are combined in this enterprise to a greater degree than in any other undertaking within our knowledge or experience, and will appeal with irresistible force to all sensible and conservative people as an opportunity without an equal. It is a case of "heads, you win! tails, you cannot lose." If the mines pay as we believe they will bring to every stockholder, in dividends, many times the amount of his investment. If they do not pay, he gets his money back.

By-Law No. . .

A By-Law to provide for borrowing the sum of $19,000 for building and equipping an Isolation Hospital in the City of Peterborough.

Passed the day of 19

WHEREAS an Isolation Hospital is required in the City of Peterborough for the treatment of contagious diseases and it has been estimated that it will require the sum of $19,000 to pay for the erection and equipment thereof and it is necessary for the purpose of enabling the Council to raise the said amount to pass this By-Law to be submitted to the votes of the duly qualified electors to authorize the borrowing of the said sum for the purposes aforesaid, which sum of $19,000 is the amount of the debt intended to be created by this By-Law.

AND WHEREAS in order to raise the said sum of $19,000 it will be necessary to issue the debentures of the Corporation of the City of Peterborough for the said amount.

AND WHEREAS the amount of the whole rateable property of the Municipality according to the last revised assessment roll being for the year 1910 is the sum of $6,630,533 and the amount of the existing debenture debt of the Municipality, exclusive of local improvement debts payable by local special rates but including the debt of $312,000 incurred for the purchase and improvement of the waterworks is the sum of $921,995.07 and there is no part of the principal or interest in arrear.

AND WHEREAS it will require the sum of $967.50 to be raised annually for a period of twenty years, the currency of the debentures to be issued under and by virtue of this By-Law to pay the interest of the said debt, and the sum of $638.06 to be raised annually during the said period for providing a sinking fund for the payment of the same at the maturity thereof such last mentioned sum being sufficient with the estimated interest on the investment thereof to discharge the said debt when the same becomes due, making in all the sum of $1,445.56 to be raised annually as aforesaid by special rate on the whole rateable property of the Municipality.

THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF PETERBOROUGH BY THE COUNCIL THEREOF THEREFORE ENACTS AS FOLLOWS:—

1. This By-Law shall take effect on the final passing thereof.

2. It shall be lawful for the Council of the said City of Peterborough to borrow the sum of $19,000 and to issue the debentures of the said Corporation for the said sum, such debentures to be sealed with the Corporate Seal of the City of Peterborough and to be signed by the Mayor and Treasurer and countersigned by the Secretary of the Peterborough City Trust and to be made payable within twenty years after the issue thereof, and to bear interest at the rate of four and one-quarter per centum per annum payable half-yearly on the thirty-th day of June and the thirty-first day of December in each year and to have the coupons attached thereto for the payment of such interest; such debentures as to principal and interest to be payable at the Office of the Secretary of the Peterborough City Trust in the City of Peterborough or at such other place as the said Council may by resolution direct.

3. There shall be raised and levied during each year of the currency of the said debentures by a special rate upon all the rateable property of the Municipality, the sum of $967.50 for payment of the interest on the said debt, and the sum of $638.06 as a sinking fund for the payment of the said debt at the maturity thereof making together the sum of $1,445.56 to be raised annually as aforesaid.

4. The proceeds of the said debentures when sold or so much thereof as may be required for that purpose shall be applied for paying for the erection and equipment of said Isolation Hospital.

5. The votes of the electors of the City of Peterborough qualified to vote upon By-Laws for creating debts shall be taken upon this By-Law on the same day as the annual elections for the Municipal Council for the year 1910 and the polls will be held during the same hours, at the same places and by the same Deputy Returning Officers and Poll Clerks as are appointed and fixed for the said annual Municipal elections.

6. The fourth day of January 1910 at the hour of twelve o'clock noon and the City Clerk's Office are hereby fixed as the time when and the place where the Clerk will sum up the number of votes given for and against the By-Law.

7. The 31st day of December 1909 and the hour of twelve o'clock noon and the office of the City Clerk are hereby fixed as the time and place for the appointment of persons to attend at the various polling places and at the final summing up of the votes by the Clerk respectively, on behalf of the persons interested in and promoting or opposing the passing of the By-Law respectively.

Mayor.

Clerk.

NOTICE

Take notice that the foregoing is a true copy of a proposed By-Law which has been taken into consideration and which will be finally passed by the Council of the City of Peterborough (in the event of the assent of the electors being obtained thereto) after one month from the first publication hereof in The Morning Times newspaper, the date of which first publication is the ninth day of December, 1909, and that at the hour, day and place therein fixed for taking the votes of the electors the polls will be held.

And further take notice that the name of any leaseholder, who does not at least ten days before the day in the said proposed By-Law appointed for taking the vote thereon, file in my office a Statutory Declaration proving that he or his wife is the holder of a lease, which under the provisions of section 354 of the Consolidated Municipal Act, 1903, entitles him to vote for or against the said proposed By-Law, shall not be placed on the Voters' List for such voting.

PREVENTION OF FIRES.

How to Avoid Them by Taking Proper Precautions.

Avoid matches whose heads readily snap off. Scores of deaths and destroyed homes are traceable to this cause.

Liquid stove polishes of the kind sold by fakers are nearly always dangerous. Furniture polish should be used with great care too.

All cloths used in rubbing polished floors should be burned away from the house. Neither should they be thrown carelessly around at any time, as there is danger of spontaneous combustion.

Cleaning compounds are always dangerous. Never use benzine, gasoline or like fluids in any room where there is artificial light. These oils are extremely volatile, and their fumes catch fire at a great distance, the flames traveling back to the source. Explosions and scattered fire are the result.

Cleaning compounds are always dangerous. Never use benzine, gasoline or like fluids in any room where there is artificial light. These oils are extremely volatile, and their fumes catch fire at a great distance, the flames traveling back to the source. Explosions and scattered fire are the result.

Never drape a mantel near a gas jet or a stove. Be careful that no portieres or curtains are so hung that they can blow against the flame. Many fires are due to such carelessness.

When you retire for the night see that all the doors in the house are closed. Open doors create a draft. Danger from a dumb waiter may be minimized by seeing that it is tightly closed at night.

When open fireplaces are in use the bricks of the hearth should be imbedded in cement and should not rest on wood. Each hearth should have a fine wire screen shield to prevent sparks flying on rugs or carpets.

Bible In Every Known Language.

According to the 105th report of the British and Foreign Bible Society the Bible will soon be printed in every language and dialect known throughout the world. Complete Bibles or portions of the Bible were issued last year in 418 different languages. During the year six new translations were added to the list. Besides these languages there are complete Bibles or portions of the Scriptures made in embossed type for the blind in 31 different languages.

The number of Bibles issued by the society last year was nearly 6,000,000. Of complete Bibles there were 884,196; New Testaments, 1,116,674, and portions of Scripture, 3,933,842, making a total of 5,934,711.

The colporteurs employed in the work of distribution have an adventurous life. Last year some of them were arrested as spies in Nicaragua, robbed in Burma, stoned in the Philippines and beaten by Moslems in Baluchistan.

Rules on the Clermont.

At the head of regulations for the "North river steamboat" (Clermont) was this paragraph: "The rules which are made for order and neatness in the boat, are not to be abused. Judgment shall be according to the letter of the law. Gentlemen wishing well to to public and useful establishment, will see the propriety of strict justice and the impropriety of the least imposition on the purse or feelings of any individual."

One of the rules on the Clermont read: "It is not permitted for any person to lie down in a birth with their boots or shoes on under a penalty of one dollar and a half and a half dollar for every half hour they may offend against this rule."

Both Correct.

A schoolmaster in Liverpool one day asked the dunce of the school some very simple questions in arithmetic. He was surprised to find that he got the right answers, and when he had finished he said to the boy, "Correct, sit down."

"Now," said the schoolmaster, "see if you have sense enough to ask me some questions."

The boy pondered for a moment and then said, "Please, sir, what would three yards of calico cost if cotton was tuppence a reel?"

"I think you take me for a fool," said the schoolmaster.

"Correct; sit down!" returned the boy.—Liverpool Mercury.

Ancient Houses.

Chimneys were wholly unknown to the ancients, who had to let the smoke of their fires escape through an opening in the roof. Chimneys came into use in the fourteenth century. It was in the same century that glass for windows put in its appearance. At a much later date the home comforts were very scarce. Even in gentlemen's houses the second story—where there happened to be one—was approached from the outside, the walls were bare, without wainscot or plaster, their barrenness being, as a rule, unrelieved by picture or decoration.

House Names in Holland.

A recent traveler in that land of dikes and windmills has been at pains to make notes of the names bestowed by the Dutch merchants upon their country houses. Here are a few examples translated: "Our Contentment," "Joy and Peace," "Leisure and Happiness," "My Desire is Satisfied," "Friends and Quiet," "My Wife and I," "Not So Bad." To say the least, any one of these would seem to indicate more of the genuine sentiment of the householder than can possibly be expressed by the "Belle Vues" and "Cedars" of England.—London Mail.

The Roads of Norway.

A curious feature to travelers in the highroads of Norway is the great number of gates—upward of 10,000 in the whole country—which have to be opened. These gates, which either mark the boundaries of the farms or separate the home fields from the waste lands, constitute a considerable inconvenience and delay to the traveler, who has to stop his vehicle and get down to open them.

THE BISHOP STAYED.

He Risked a Row, but Didn't Have to Leave His Bed.

The bishop of a southern diocese was once making a missionary journey through Arkansas and the Indian Territory, and on his arrival at Natchez he said to the landlord of a hotel, "I have been traveling for a week, day and night, in a mail wagon, and I want a comfortable room."

"Sorry," said the landlord, "but I don't believe there's a vacant room in Natchez. There's a horse race, a Methodist conference and a political convention in the city, and every house is full up. The only thing I can give you is a shakedown." Then, observing the bishop's tired face, he added: "The best room in my house is rented to a noted gambler, who usually remains out all night and seldom gets in before breakfast. If you will take the risk you shall have his room, but if he should come in there'll be a row, I'll promise you that."

The bishop decided to take the risk. About 4 o'clock in the morning the gambler returned and promptly shook the bishop by the arm.

"Get out of here or I'll put you out!" he shouted.

The bishop, the gentlest of men, raised himself on one elbow so that it brought the muscles of his arm into full relief.

"My friend," he began quietly, "before you put me out will you have the kindness to feel of my arm?"

The gambler put his hand on the bishop's arm.

"Stranger," he then said respectfully, "you can stay."—Youth's Companion.

Lincoln's Question After the Committeeman Had Finished.

Just after the second battle of Bull Run the Boston chamber of commerce decided that President Lincoln was not prosecuting the war with enough celerity to conserve the interests of business, and so it appointed a committee to go to Washington and remonstrate with him upon his dilatory tactics. The committee was headed by a Mr. Pierce.

"We found," he said, "a man who looked as if he had lost all the friends he ever had in the world, who invited us to take seats and inquired our business. As I was the spokesman, I opened our case, and as I proceeded the president's face relaxed. By and by he smiled and betrayed actual interest, and by the time I concluded he was almost in a broad grin. After I had finished he inquired if that was all I had to say, and on my saying that I thought it was he asked if some of the other gentlemen wouldn't like to say something. They replied that they thought I had fully covered the ground. And then," continued Mr. Pierce, "what do you suppose this solemn man did? Well, he just moved his chair over to mine, smoothed his trousers over his knee, then reached over and smoothed mine down, too, and then, with a queer look, which none of us will ever forget, he said, 'Mr. Pierce, did you ever notice what a difference there is in legs?'

"What did we do? We grabbed our hats and took the first train for Boston, and we never dared to report!"—Ladies' Home Journal.

The Carbuncle.

Carbuncles, to which the ancients attributed fantastic properties, were in reality rubies. They served, it was said, to give light to large serpents or dragons whose sight had been enfeebled by age. They bore them constantly between their teeth and laid them down only for eating and drinking. It was even claimed that the carbuncle emitted light in darkness and that the thickest clothing could not stop its rays. Without all the exaggeration of such legends it was believed for a long time that rubies contained luminous rays. The truth is that they have double refraction and send out the red rays with unequaled brilliancy. Traversed in a vacuum by an electric current, they are illuminated with a red fire of extreme intensity. The greatest heat does not change their form or their color.

Old Days on the Stage.

I have known a dress coat handed from one to another in the wings several times during a performance. It was a current idea that white cotton stockings assumed the appearance of silk from the front by making a heavy line of white chalk on the shin bone. A white tie was easily made from a strip of note paper, and even a shirt front could be managed from highly glazed note paper. White cotton gloves were de rigueur in place of the more expensive kid ones. A comedian, having no black stockings, once blacked his legs. After the show he asked the stage manager, "Do we play this piece again?" "Yes; next week." "Oh, then I need not wash my legs!"—From "Ramblings of an Old Mummer," by Russell Craufurd.

Might Have Been Worse.

"Poor b'ye!" exclaimed O'Hara, condoling with Cassidy, who had been injured by a blast. "'Tis tough luck to hav yer hand blowed off."

"Och! Faith, it might 'ave bin worse," replied Cassidy. "Suppose O'd had me week's wages in it at the toime."

His Specialty.

"That clerk of yours seems to be a hard worker." "Yes, that's his specialty." "What—working?" "No. Seeming to."—Boston Transcript.

OIL A LIVE ISSUE IN CANADA TODAY.

To the investing public there is constantly being offered a variety of Silver and Gold propositions that have in many cases unquestionable values, but a new investment is finding favor with the Canadian public at the present time in the shape of Oil, and this investment appears to be rapidly gaining in favor as the possibilities in oil are becoming more thoroughly understood. With the mention of Oil, an American Company known the world over for its energetic undertakings and its enormous wealth appears inseparable, and there is no doubt that greater fortunes have been made in the oil industry than in any other in the world.

Canada's richest resource is Oil and the late Dr. Dawson, geologist, described the oil fields of Alberta as the greatest defined undeveloped oil fields in the world, and in that district known as the "Pincher Creek" oil district in Southern Alberta, Alfred R. C. Selwyn, C.M.G., LL.D. recommended drilling for oil on a property now owned by the "Pincher Creek Oil & Refining Co."

As a matter of fact, oil of a very superior quality has been located and is running off the property at the present time. The ground surrounding the casing of the two wells already sunk is saturated with oil and there is every possibility that further sinking will produce quantities of oil assuring the Company's Commercial success.

Mr. John Herron M. P. of "Pincher Creek" is President of this Company and has associated with him a most reliable board of Directors.

Mr. Herron's connection is due to what Dr. Dawson told him of that district while exploring its resources.

Tendered Banquet by Parkdale Orangemen.

Parkdale Orangemen and their lady friends turned out in large numbers at a banquet held in the Merchant Bank Chambers, when Controller Hocken, on behalf of Parkdale lodges, presented A.M. Bro. Sidney B. Weir with a most beautiful gold ring as a token of their approval of his services to the association. The following brethren addressed the gathering—W. D. McPherson, M.P.P., Ald. McGhie, David Spence, Ed Floody, Thos. Hurst, and Dr. Thornton. Jas. Mitchell, W.M., presided. A good musical program was provided. Mail & Empire.

Mr. Weir is a former resident of this city and he was a very active Orangemen while here. He was past district master, and county secretary for many years.

What He Wouldn't Take.

The bartender grasped the man next the stove by the shoulder and shook him until he was awake.

"Here, Zeph," he told him, "you'd better go out and get some fresh air. It'll do you good."

Zeph merely grunted, drunkenly, and huddled back in his chair. The bartender tried it again with like result.

"You won't get out, won't you?" roared angrily. Seizing the unfortunate Zeph by the collar and the seat of the trousers, he escorted him forcibly to the alley. "Get out there a the air and brace up," was his advice.

"Y' kin put me out if y' like, but" Zeph straightened up with drunken dignity—"ye can't make me take ex dir, durn yo."

Too Near the Throne.

In the seventies of the last century the artist, Anton von Werner, was appointed to perpetuate the German imperial proclamation. He first made a sketch to submit to the old Emperor William. In this the various personages were grouped in the same order as during the ceremony at Versailles. William I. standing on a raised platform, with Bismarck at his left on a lower step and on his right the crown prince, whom the artist had represented with one foot on the upper level. The emperor examined the sketch and at once noted the position of the Crown Prince Frederick. He frowned, took his pencil and made a thick, rapid stroke through his son's right leg. "Not a" he said he

Get Well First

Don't risk even a "going"—until health first returns.

And I mean just exactly that.

I am the one physician who says to the sick "I will, out of my own pocket, pay for your medicine if it fails to bring you help."

And for 20 years Dr. Shoop's medicines have been used and recommended in every city and hamlet in America. They are positively standard in every community—and everywhere.

Then why pay the sick, and at your risk, for other unwarranted and uncertain medicines?

Thousands upon thousands have in the most successful used Dr. Shoop's Restorative.

When the Stomach nerves, or the Heart or Kidney nerves fail, these sick ones know how quickly Dr. Shoop's Restorative will bring them back to health again. But best of all, they positively take no money risk whatever. They know that when health fails to return, Dr. Shoop will himself gladly pay the druggist for that. And for that test a full 30 day treatment is freely granted.

But write me first for an order.

This will save delay and disappointment.

All druggists sell Dr. Shoop's Restorative and Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy, but all are not authorized to give the 30 day test. So drop me a line, please—for I have appointed an honest and responsible druggist in almost every community, to whom any sick help, so pay no medicines to the sick. Tell me also which book you need. The books below will surely open up new and helpful ideas to those who are not well. Besides you are perfectly free to consult me just as you would your home physician. My advice and the book below are yours—and without cost.

Perhaps a word or two from me will clear up some serious ailment. I have helped thousands upon thousands by my private prescription or personal advice then. My best effort is surely worth your simple now, while you have it fresh in mind, for tomorrow never comes. Dr. Shoop, Box 12, Racine, Wis.

Pincher Creek Oil

Mr. C. C. Cottrell,

22 King's Hall, Montreal, Quebec.

Dear Sir,—I am today forwarding you a supply of the Official Prospectus of the Pincher Creek Oil and Refining Company, Limited, which prospectus you will note is signed by the directors, filed and approved by the Registrar, Provincial Government of Alberta, so that its contents are according to facts.

The oil industry is perhaps new to you and your clients, but with the history of oil in the States to the south, you cannot afford to overlook Canada's richest resource and the one which is bound to make the greatest fortunes for her people.

The Directors are all personally known to me. They are Canadians and men of the highest commercial standing and business integrity.

Mr. Herron, M. P., President of the Company, accompanied Dr. Dawson when on his tour of inspection, and learned from that noted geologist the unlimited possibilities of oil in the Pincher Creek district, and Mr. Herron has ever since been enthusiastic over the developing of Canada's high grade oil industry.

Mr. J. E. Woods is the civil engineer who knows every foot of Southern Alberta and selected the valuable properties of the Western Coal and and Coke Company, whose oil lands adjoin this Company's property. It was owing to Mr. Woods' efforts that Pincher Creek Oil and Refining Company, Limited, have secured what is conceded to be the most valuable oil property—1,760 acres—of any of the seven large operating companies now in the Pincher Creek district.

Personally I have gathered oil from the big, crude oil seepage on the Pincher Creek Oil & Refining Co. property, only recently collecting a half barrel of this seepage oil in a short time.

I have seen oil pumped from the well on the immediate adjoining property.

I have taken oil from the well bored this summer on the Pincher Creek Oil & Refining Company's property, and oil can be seen oozing up around the casing and thoroughly saturating the soil. I believe this well when shot with nitroglycerine and a pump put into it will become a good producer.

A friend of mine proposes to spend $10,000 on his own hook boring for oil as near to this well as he can get as soon as Spring opens up.

Page 8, of the prospectus shows C.P.R. letter regarding shipments of Pincher Creek crude oil also letter from a merchant of the town stating he has handled at least one hundred and fifty barrels and sees kerosene and gasoline made from this oil and it gave the whitest light he ever saw.

Therefore we say we have oil on this property of 1760 acres and oil of the highest quality.

Our directors are local men, who know the district and how to obtain the best results at the smallest cost, and this I consider a great point. Directors should always be at the scene of operations.

Here is more of a guarantee than any business man has; more certain than silver or gold mining for every time the Pincher Creek Oil and Refining Company, Limited, produce one hundred barrels the Canadian Government gives them a cheque for $52.50, "Petroleum bounty." Think what this means on a production of one thousand barrels per day—and single wells have produced twenty-five hundred barrels per day for three years—for one year; the Government would pay us $191,625, or about 40 per cent. dividends. Add to this a profit of only ten cents per gallon on the oil sold and there would be an additional $1,277,500, or 255 per cent., making a total of nearly 300 per cent. on a 1,000 barrel production. The property when thoroughly operated will produce that or it is practically worthless.

Now can you not see why the average advance in stocks of 120 Oil Companies in the United States has been over 2,000 per cent.?

Mr. Cottrell, I feel this will prove one of the very finest investments in Canada, and a proposition that you can conscientiously force your clients to accept as a bona-fide enterprise. Your clients having capital to invest can not do better than take up a block of this stock. As this stock is being offered simultaneously in various Eastern cities, how many shares will I reserve for you to place?

Sincerely Yours,

Signed MARCY D. COUCH,

Secretary Pincher Creek Oil and Refining Co.

Canada a Dumping Ground for the British Cockney

Canadians are Asleep on the Navy Problem, Says Lord Northcliffe—No Nothing of Danger to Overseas Trade

London, Dec. 16.—In a lengthy interview with Lord Northcliffe which appears in the Canada Illustrated, Lord Northcliffe says that he found a distinct prejudice against Englishmen existed in Canada, due almost entirely to the fact that during the last 20 years England has made Canada a dumping ground for the surplus Cockney. "This prejudice deters," he said, "a great many people from going to Canada to reside or invest money there. The fault is a little on the side of the Canadian immigration authorities. I found," he adds, "young men from the hop and fruit growing districts of Kent and Worcestershire settled on the prairies and their knowledge has been invaluable to British Columbia. The American immigration authorities are much wiser. They put the right men in the right place."

Regarding naval defence, Lord Northcliffe says he does not believe that the average Canadian knows anything about the dangers of his overseas trade. Hundreds of thousands of Canadians have never seen the sea at all and are never likely to. I found the people of Vancouver, who had seen the warships, and those of the Maritime Provinces are anxious, but the fact that the whole of Canada's export oversea trade could be held up by one or two modern fast cruisers is quite unknown to the people, who are extremely busy getting their country into shape for residence and trade."

Regarding his criticism of a state owned railway, Lord Northcliffe said that he had received scores of letters thanking him for his "plain English."

A Crying Shame and Blot on 20th Century Civilization

The following presentment was made yesterday morning by the Grand Jury at the sessions of the County Court before His Honor Judge Huycke:—

To His Honor Edward C. S. Huycke Judge of the County Court of the County of Peterborough, and of the General Sessions of the Peace for the said county:

May it please your honor,—We, the Grand Jury for the General Session of the Peace of the County of Peterborough, have pleasure in congratulating Your Honor upon your appointment to the Bench. While we heartily agree with the remarks which you have made in reference to the late revered and honored judge of the county, whose death, even at a ripe age, has been generally deplored by all who have known him, and whose administration of justice in this county was always marked by eminent judical ability, nevertheless we feel assured that in your succession to his duties we shall find in you in no less degree the attributes which distinguished him.

In accordance with your instructions we have passed upon the different indictments which were brought before us, and we trust that our duties with that respect have been performed to your satisfaction. We have also examined the county jail and different institutions receiving government aid, and have pleasure in being able to report that they are all conducted with due rehard to economy and efficiency. We must say, however, that in our opinion, the county should adopt a modern system of heating the court house and offices connected with it—the appearance of stoves in different parts of the building have a decided antiquated appearance and not in keeping with so wealthy a county as this.

We cannot but deplore the appearance in the jail of different persons whose only crime, if such it may be called, is that of poverty. The county possesses a House of Refuge for its indigent poor, but the city has made no provision for such persons. This is a standing reproach to this wealthy community, and its representatives cannot be too strongly urged to take a step either in the direction of themselves providing for this class of persons or making some arrangement with the county for their being provided for at the county building.

We cannot conclude this present ment without referring in terms of affectionate regard to the late John Moloney, whose urbanity during his long term of office was untailing. He was an official who had a just appreciation of the responsibilities of his office and was unceasing in fulfilling his duties to the best of his ability. We welcome as his successor Mr. George J. Sherry, a gentleman who having practised at the Bar for many years is fully competent to perform all the duties of his office, and who, we are assured, will be a worthy incumbent of the offices to which he has been appointed.

We have the honor to be,
Your obedient servants,
For the Grand Jury,
J. J. ——NNETT,
Foreman.

Grand Jury Room,
Court House, Peterborough,
December 15th, 1909.

His Honor, in replying, thanked the jury heartily and sincerely for the very kind references they had made to himself, and speaking of his residence in this city, said he had been most cordially received by the citizens generally. He was sure that Mr. Sherry also appreciated the remarks made concerning him. The judge congratulated the jury for the prompt manner in which they had transacted the business they had to perform. They were to be commended on the intelligent and careful manner in which they had made the presentment. He agreed with them in the matter of the inferior way the court house buildings were heated.

In speaking of the subject which is so regularly dealt with by Grand Juries, he emphasized the fact that people in the jail, whose only offence is their poverty and their helplessness, the judge said it was a crying shame and a blot on the civilization of the 20th century to keep them with common criminals.

Harry Mitchell Must Pay for Horse He Got from Carruthers

Judgment for the plaintiff was given by the jury in the case of W. H. Ruse & W. T. Carruthers vs. Harry Mitchell. The case arose over the sale of a horse by the plaintiffs to the defendant last August. The defendant bought the horse and next day found that it was not suitable for the work he had to do and he wished to return it. The plaintiff refused to accept it, claiming that Mitchell had inspected the animal before he bought it and was satisfied.

The argument for the defence was that the sale was not binding until the horse was inspected the next day. Mitchell refused to pay for it on those grounds.

The horse was sold in November at auction by Mr. John Haggart through an order from the court and $101 was realized for it. This money less the costs, amounting to $95, was paid into court.

The jury held that the defendant, when he bought the horse, had committed himself to the sale and therefore should pay. Their verdict was for the plaintiffs for the full amount, viz., $145 and costs. Defendant Mitchell will therefore have to pay $50 and costs.

The case occupied the full day at the December sessions and was only concluded before court adjourned last night. Messrs. Bennett & Goodwill appeared for the plaintiffs, and Mr. R. F. McWilliams for the defendant.

DECEMBER ON THE LAKES.

The terrors of winter navigation on the Great Lakes have been borne home to the public the past week with unprecedented emphasis. In one week the life losses on the lakes for 1909, already large, were almost doubled. The record now stands 114 lives lost; last year there were only 33. Every one of the 52 lives lost in the past week perished on Lake Erie, probably the most treacherous of the lakes. It is evident that December navigation on these lakes is most hazardous—more than is worth while It is also evident that arm-chair experts who sometimes talk about keeping up navigation throughout the winter, with the aid of ice-crushers, are entitled to scant attention. The bravery of men who risk these Decem ber perils is equal to any that has been praised in song or story, but civilization is cruel to exact a toll of such a quality. It would seem as if international legislation ought to step in to regulate late navigation.

THE WEATHER.

Northwesterly winds and a change to much colder.

DIVISION COURTS.

Notice Was Read Regarding Them at December Sessions.

The following notice was read at the December sessions by the clerk of the court, Mr. Geo. J. Sherry, in regard to the division courts of the county:

Public notice is hereby made and proclaimed in open court at the December sittings of the sessions of the Peace for the County of Peterborough, that application will be made to his honor the Judge of the County Court, the Sheriff, and the warden of the said county, and the Division Court inspector, to alter or rescind former resolutions, order, or orders, appointing the number, limits, and extent of every division of the Division Court in the said county, as at present existing, and to appoint and fix by resolution or order the number of limits and extent of all and every division of the said court, in the said county, on, from and after such date as may be named in every resolution, or order, by them made, for such alteration or recission.

NINE CANADIANS

Are Inmates of the Pasteur Institute in New York.

(Special to The Times.)

New York, Dec. 16.—Four men, three boys and a girl were brought to the Pasteur Institute last Wednesday from Galt, Ont. They were all bitten by a dog in that town on Dec. 8. After an examination by Dr. Randaud, of the institute, the course of treatment was commenced. All of them will stay at the institute for the full eighteen days, which is the prescribed length of time to complete the cure.

Dr. Walker, a physician in Glencoe, Ont., fifty miles from Galt, was bitten by his dog on Dec. 11 and arrived at the institute two days later. He, too, will remain for the full time The patients told the physicians that both dogs had been shot.

Dr. Reandaud announced tonight that there had been only three deaths out of the last 1,800 cases treated at the institute. All of the nine Canadians are getting along well.

RHEUMATISM

Zam-Buk ends its Agony.

The aching and the agony of rheumatism is relieved as soon as Zam-Buk's soothing ingredients reach the seat of the trouble. Just rub Zam. Buk well in over the muscles affected and get ease!

Mr. P. C. Wells, of 332 Ogden Street, Fort William, says:—

"I had rheumatism in both knees and in my left arm, and shoulder. The pain got so bad that I could no longer work and was under the doctor on three different occasions for several weeks.

"I seemed to get little, if any, better, no matter what I tried, and this was my state when Zam-Buk was recommended to me. I laid in a supply, and to my great joy it began to cure me. I rubbed it well in, every night, and when a few boxes had been used found I was free from the pain and stiffness of rheumatism.

Zam-Buk is just as good for sciatica, neuralgia, etc. When used as a balm it need not be rubbed in, but just applied. It heals cold sores, cuts, ulcers, abscesses, eczema, and all skin injuries and diseases. Fifty cents, all Druggists and Stores or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price.

FIRST GAME JAN. 14TH.

Will Hook Up With Belleville Here on January 14th.

Trenton, Ont., Dec. 16.—At a meeting of the clubs in No. 1 Group of the Intermediate O.H.A. series held in the Gilbert House here this afternoon the schedule for this district was drawn up. The three clubs in the district were represented, Belleville, by W. Allen; Peterborough, by W. J. Metheral, and Trenton, by J. Hynes. Rev. Mr. Armstrong of Trenton, the convener appointed for the district, presided. The following schedule was drawn up and agreed upon:

January 14—Belleville at Peterborough.
Jan. 17—Peterborough at Trenton.
Jan. 21—Peterborough at Belleville
Jan. 25—Belleville at Trenton.
Jan. 28—Trenton at Peterborough.
Jan. 31—Trenton at Belleville.

The following referees were decided upon—Dr. Gilbert, Sandy Burrowes, Belleville, Geo. Lynch and H. P. Morgan, Peterborough, and Charlie Croft, Trenton.

"PILLS LIKE A FILE.

So Harsh and Drastic are Many Pills as to Seriously Injure the Health.

In a letter written from his home in Valencia, Mr. Marsh Selwyn does service to thousands by drawing attention to the injuries inflicted upon delicate people by drastic purgative tive pills.

"For a long time I suffered from constipation. This condition compelled the use of pills. Like many another, I made the unwise choice of using pills that were lightning in their activity. I began to be filled with intestinal disturbances, constant rumblings, gas in the bowels and dirrhoea. I grew pale and emaciated. Then the doctor told me drastic irritating pills had caused catarrh of the bowels, an almost incurable disease. Explaining my situation to a friend, he advised a trial of Dr. Hamilton's Pills. I speedily experienced the healing and curative effect they exerted on the stomach, liver and bowels. The intestines, freed from irritating drugs, rapidly regained natural tone, the bowels acted as if nature and not Dr. Hamilton's Pills were at work. I knowit willbe of value to thousands to know that a pill as mild and curative as Dr. Hamilton's is avaflable to the ailing."

For bowel disorders, sick headache constipation, liver and stomach derangement, there is no pill so invariably sure to cure as Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Refuse a substitute. Sold in 25c. boxes. all dealers, or the Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

The West Bulging with Prosperity

Winnipeg, Dec. 16.—This Christmas season is showing such evidence of prosperity as the Canadian prairie West has never before known. It is manifest through one hundred lines of business activity in this city.

The great crop appears to have put money in everybody's pocket, and, moreover, they are willing to spend some of it. Most people, especially farmers are paying their debts. Loan companies, with their head Western offices in Winnipeg, are complaining that money is coming into them will stay at the institute for the full eighteen days, which is the prescribed length of time to complete the cure.

The Winnipeg bank clearings for the first eleven months of the year totalled over six hundred and seventy-five millions, as against six hundred and fourteen millions for the whole of last year. This is notwithstanding that the Winnipeg clearing house is now relieved by clearing houses at Edmonton, Calgary and Regina. As to the Christmas trade itself, it has been wonderful, and today a well-known local jobuse had to turn down rush orders for thousands of dollars' worth of Christmas goods from a country point, because all its Christmas stock was sold out The West wears a broad smile for Christmastide.

Pope Sends Letter to President Taft

London, Dec. 16.—In confirmation of recent despatches that the Pope is seeking to establish a diplomatic relation between the vatican and the United States Government, the London Globe's Rome correspondent today sends his paper the following:

"I am able to state that the Pope is exerting himself personally with a view to the institution of diplomatic relations between the United States ahe vatican. He recently took this and the vatican. He recently took this step, addressing an autograph letter very courteous in its nature to President Taft on the subject

The despatches referred to stated that the Pope had besides other steps, commissioned Cardinal Vincent Vannutelli to ask United States Ambassador Leishman to inform the United States Government that the Pope was anxious for the establishment of a United States legation at the vatican.

Great Railway Strike Feared in United States

(Special to The Times)

Chicago, Ill., Dec. 16.—Registered at the Lexington Hotel today are nearly all of the leading officials and members of the executive committees of the two powerful labor organizations, the Order of Railway Conductors and the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen. Tomorrow these officials are to hold a formal meeting to canvass the vote of the railway employes in the Eastern territory on the question of demanding wage increases and concessions as to hours of work, with the alternative of a general strike in the event of a refusal on the part of the railroads to comply with the demands.

That a demand for a general wage increase will be made is certain, and it is the general opinion among those well informed as to the situation that the railroad companies will refuse to comply with the demand. This does not mean, however, that a general strike will be declared at once. The demands of the employes will be in the shape of a thirty days' notice to open existing contracts, so that no conferences can be held with the railroad managers before January 20, at the earliest. If the managers should refuse a conference, or reject the demands, the laws of the two brotherhoods require that the matter be again submitted to a vote of the men, which the labor officials say would require at least fifteen days. When a strike vote has been taken another conference with the managers must be sought, so that it would probably be the beginning of March before any actual strike could take place.

Should the threatened strike take place it undoubtedly would become one of the greatest struggles in the history of the labor movement in America. All of the operating employe on the Eastern roads would be involved at the outset, except the engineers and firemen, who have organizations of their own. The strike would affect all of the thirty-two railroads east of Chicago and north of the line of the Chesapeake & Ohio.

The list of demands to be presented by the two brotherhoods comprise fifteen articles and various sub-divisions. The first nine articles relate to the details of pay for freight and passenger conductors, freight and passenger brakemen, baggagemen, and flagmen. These call for advances of from 10 to 30 per centf over the wages now paid. It is demanded that not over ten hours shall be paid for at pro-rata rates.

One of the demands that the railroads are almost certain to resist is that which stipulates that deadheading in freight or passenger service shall be paid for at full rates for the class or service in which the men are regularly engaged. This means that where a trainman or conductor ends his run at a point away from his point of departure and deadheads, as it is known in the service, back to his starting point, he shall receive the same wages for the run so made as he would be paid if he were on a light locomotive or a locomotive and caboose shall receive full wages.

Skips were Selected

A largely attended meeting of the skips of the Curling Club was held last night in the rink club rooms for the purpose of selecting the skips for the district and tankard games and for filling up the rinks for the local games. The latter is a large job and will not be completed for a day or two yet.

The tankard skips are Messrs. Geo. Gireaux and J. H. Connell, with R. M. Waddell as substitute.

The skips for the district cup are Messrs. H. Foote and J. E. A. Fitzgerald.

There was also considerable discussion on the rules and regulations governing the playing of games in the local bonspeils and contests and a few minor amendments were passed.

PRESENTATION TO F. E. KERR.

Last Night in St. Andrew's Sunday School Room.

The young ladies' Bible class of St. Andrew's Sunday school met and presented their teacher Mr. Frank E. Kerr with an appropriately worded address, acknowledging their gratitude and appreciation of his services as teacher of the class during the year and asking his acceptance of a very handsome signet ring with monogram F. E. K., inscribed thereon.

PICTURE SHOWS.

Toronto, Dec. 16.—Notices have been sent to the proprietors of moving picture shows all through the Province by Mr. Joseph Rogers, superintendent of the Provincial Police Department, informing them that it has come to the attention of the department that many of them are not obeying the regulations issued last spring in regard to moving picture shows. The latter states that the government officers have been informed to take action in every case where the regulations are not being obeyed, and to ask for the full penalty in cases where convictions are secured. The Government is determined that every moving picture show in the Province shall live up to the regulations set down in the Act passed at the last session of the legislature.

Mass Meeting Tonight.

A mass meeting will be held in the town hall, Ashburnham, tonight at eight o'clock, when Mr. H. S. McGee of Toronto, will address the meeting in the interests of local option.

Crew of 32 Have been Four Days in cold without Food

S. S. Wissahickon, of 4,062 Tons, Dashed on the Outer Duck Rocks Sunday Loss will be $1,200,000

Little Current, Dec. 16.—The immense steel lake freighter Wissahickon, of the Anchor Line, a new boat, is a complete wreck on Outer Duck Island, south of Manitoulin. She ran on the rocks during a ripping easterly gale and snowstorm on Sunday night. Her crew managed to get on shore, but they have been without food for four days, and are suffering greatly in their isolated and exposed position from the piercing winds. Tugs are being rushed from the Soo, and will soon have them off and comfortable. Indeed by this time the men may have been relieved.

TWO HEROIC FISHERMEN.

The first news of the wreck came from two men who yesterday succeeded in crossing from the Ducks to Manitoulin. They were brought by two nervy fishermen, who piloted the twelve miles of tempestuous seas in a small gasoline launch. Until yesterday the sea was too rough to make the attempt.

The fishermen's names are not given, but the two men from the ships were First Mate J. H. Cassey and Engineer John Faskenf Only two men could be taken on the launch, and the rest of the thirty-four men in the shipwrecked crew had to remain in their dreary comfortless position.

THROUGH SNOW AND WATER.

The rescued men had a hard time getting the news of the wreck to the world. After their risky ride in the launch they had to tramp eight more miles through snow and water over a rocky barren district to the nearest telephone station, which was Fernlee.

The ship is reported to be in a very bad way. The lower decks and stern are completely submerged, and there seems no hope for either ship or cargo. The vessel herself is worth half a million dollars, and the cargo of general merchandise is said to be valued at $700,000. It is likely the loss will not fall far short of $1,250,000.

NEAR OLD BELL BUOY.

Later details show that it was on Sunday night at 11.15 o'clock that the freighter, which really belongs to the Northern Railway Company, ran on the shoals. This was on the south end of Outer Duck Island, a quarter of a mile from shore. They are near where in summer a bell buoy marks the Jennie Graham shoal, and about two miles north of the N.N.W. course from the foot of Lake Huron to Mississagi Strait, and where the course changes fifty-two miles from Detour Passage.

The wreck happened in a blinding storm, one of the worst gales of the season, and the ship lies in the most exposed part of Lake Huron, where an easterly or southerly wind has the whole sweep of the lake against her.

At daylight their location was known to the crew, and their perilous position seen. The wind shifted southerly and blew a gale, making the launching of boats impossible. The steamer, however, was seen by five fishermen on Greater Duck Island, who remain there repairing their nets.

New Arrest in the Bathtub Murder Case

New York, Dec. 16.—Mrs. Caroline B. Martin, mother of Mrs. Ocey W. M. Snead, whose dead body was found in a bathtub in East Orange some two weeks ago and who was arrested last night in the Hotel Bayard at the request of the New Jersey authorities, charged with the murder of her daughter, reiterated when brought to police headquarters today that her daughter killed herself. She positively declined to explain two notes found in her room, which was seemingly written by Mrs. Snead, and stated she was going to kill herself. As soon as she arrived at headquarters she telegraphed Franklin W. Fort, jr., who is counsel for her sister, Miss Virginia Wardlaw, under arrest at Orange for murder, to come here at once and take care of her interests. After being "looked over" by the headquarters detectives, Mrs. Martin was photographed and her measurements taken for the gallery.

Questioned by Inspector McCafferty, she stated that she was born in the South, and that her father was a Methodist minister, who was kept moving from place to place. She stated that her late husband, Col. Martin, was a wealthy man at one time, and besides his private fortune he enjoyed an income of fourteen hundred dollars a year, but that he lost all of his money by speculation. She declared she had no idea where her daughter's husband was, but she thought he was dead. When she stated that Snead lost a fortune by the failure of the Knickerbocker Trust Company,

Time and again she insisted that her daughter killed herself, and declared that so far as the insurance she carried was concerned, it was all in endowment policies, which would be paid when Mrs. Snead was 40 years old, and that the family had planned to meet the premiums, and when they got the principal go South and start a private school. She became faint during the examination and murmured:

"So the end is death."

William Curtis.

The death occurred in Toronto Wednesday of Wm. Curtis, a former resident of Peterborough. Mr. D. Belleghem went to Toronto yesterday morning to bring the remains to the city.

The funeral will take place from the latter's establishment, Hunter street, at two o'clock this afternoon to the Little Lake cemetery.

To Cure the Pain in Ten Seconds and Get Instant Relief, Nothing Equals

NERVILINE.

Fifty years ago Nerviline was used from coast to coast and in thousands of houses this trusty liniment served the entire family, cured all their minor ills and kept the doctor's bill small. Today Nerviline still holds first rank in Canada among pain relieving remedies—scarcely a home you can find that doesn't use it.

TESTIMONIAL NO. 4398

From Port Hope, Ont., Mr. W. T. Greenaway of the Guide newspaper staff, writes: "For 20 years we have used Nerviline in our home, and not for the world would we be without it. As a remedy for all pain, earache, cramps, headache and disordered stomach, I know of no preparation so useful and quick to relieve as Nerviline."

Let every mother give Nerviline a trial; it's good for children, good for old folks—you can rub it on as a liniment or take it internally.

Wherever there is pain, Nerviline will cure it. Refuse anything but $1.00, all dealers or the Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

RUMORS OF WAR.

The story told by the London Mail's correspondent at Berlin, that the Kaiser is preparing for war with Great Britain, sounds improbable. Germany would not be likely to seek a quarrel at present, for the very simple reason that the German navy is far inferior to that of Great Britain. Germany has laid down an ambitious program of ship building, and hopes are doubtless entertained in Germany that at some future time Great Britain's supremacy of the seas can be challenged. But battles cannot be fought with programs. On the other hand, it is not likely that Great Britain contemplates an attack upon Germany. But it is possible that the Kaiser is contemplating some move upon the European chessboard which he fears may meet with opposition from Great Britain, and that he is considering the situation which may be thus developed. The death of the King of Belgium would create a situation in which the Kaiser would be keenly interested.

Irish Home Rule members can hardly be blamed for being entirely willing at this juncture to hold the balance of power in Parliament.

No chairman of a British political meeting calls the House to order before the Suffragettes have been removed, because he knows it will not come to order.

CATARRH CANNOT BE CURED with LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing Catarrh. Send for testimonials free.

THE BISHOP STAYED!

He Risked a Row, but Didn't Have to Leave His Bed.

The bishop of a southern diocese was once making a missionary journey through Arkansas and the Indian Territory, and on his arrival at Natchez he said to the landlord of a hotel, "I have been traveling for a week, day and night, in a mail wagon, and I want a comfortable room."

"Sorry," said the landlord, "but I don't believe there's a vacant room in Natchez. There's a horse race, a Methodist conference and a political convention in the city, and every house is full up. The only thing I can give you is a shakedown." Then, observing the bishop's tired face, he added: "The best room in my house is rented to a noted gambler, who usually remains out all night and seldom gets in before breakfast. If you will take the risk you shall have his room, but if he should come in there'll be a row, I'll promise you that."

The bishop decided to take the risk About 4 o'clock in the morning the gambler returned and promptly shook the bishop by the arm.

"Get out of here or I'll put you out!" he shouted.

The bishop, the gentlest of men, raised himself on one elbow so that it brought the muscles of his arm into full relief.

"My friend," he began quietly, "before you put me out will you have the kindness to feel of my arm?"

The gambler put his hand on the bishop's arm.

"Stranger," he then said respectfully, "you can stay."—Youth's Companion.

KEENLY INTERESTED.

Lincoln's Question After the Committeeman Had Finished.

Just after the second battle of Bull run the Boston chamber of commerce decided that President Lincoln was not prosecuting the war with enough alacrity to conserve the interests of business, and so it appointed a committee to go to Washington and remonstrate with him upon his dilatory tactics. The committee was headed by Mr Pierce.

"We found," he said, "a man who looked as if he had lost all the friends he ever had in the world, who invited us to take seats and inquired our business. As I was the spokesman, I opened our case, and as I proceeded the president's face relaxed. By and by he smiled and betrayed actual interest, and by the time I concluded he was almost in a broad grin. After I had finished he inquired if that was all I had to say, and on my saying that I thought it was he asked if some of the other gentlemen wouldn't like to say something. They replied that they thought I had fully covered the ground. And then," continued Mr. Pierce, "what do you suppose this solemn man did? Well, he just moved his chair over to mine, smoothed his trousers over his knee, then reached over and smoothed mine down, too, and then, with a queer look, which none of us will ever forget, he said, 'Mr. Pierce, did you ever notice what a difference there is in legs?'

"What did we do? We grabbed our hats and took the first train for Boston, and we never dared to report!"—Ladies' Home Journal.

The Carbuncle.

Carbuncles, to which the ancients attributed fantastic properties, were in reality rubies. They served, it was said, to give light to large serpents or dragons whose sight had been enfeebled by age. They bore them constantly between their teeth and laid them down only for eating and drinking. It was even claimed that the carbuncle emitted light in darkness and that the thickest clothing could not stop its rays. Without all the exaggeration of such legends it was believed for a long time that rubies contained luminous rays. The truth is that they have double refraction and send out the red rays with unequaled brilliancy. Traversed in a vacuum by an electric current, they are illuminated with a red fire of extreme intensity. The greatest heat does not change their form or their color.

Old Days on the Stage.

I have known a dress coat handed from one to another in the wings several times during a performance. It was a current idea that white cotton stockings assumed the appearance of silk from the front by making a heavy line of white chalk on the shin bone. A white tie was easily made from a strip of note paper, and even a shirt front could be managed from highly glazed note paper. White cotton gloves were de rigueur in place of the more expensive kid ones. A comedian, having no black stockings, once blacked his legs. After the show he asked the stage manager, "Do we play this place again?" "Yes; next week." "Oh, then I need not wash my legs."—From "Ramblings of an Old Mummer," by Russell Crauford.

Might Have Been Worse.

"Poor b'ye!" exclaimed O'Hara, consoling with Cassidy, who had been injured by a blast. "'Tis tough luck to har ye har hand blowed off."

"Och! Faith, it might 'ave bin worse," replied Cassidy. "Suppose I'd had me week's wages in it at the toime."

His Specialty.

"That clerk of yours seems to be a hard worker." "Yes, that's his specialty." "What — working?" "No seeming to."—Boston Transcript.

SHOPPING IN MEXICO

Women Get Plenty of Excitement In Making a Purchase.

BARGAINING AS A FINE ART.

The Descent From the Asking Price to the Last Price and From That to the Final Selling Price Works Out Something Like a Farce Comedy.

When a woman goes shopping in the City of Mexico, especially if she speaks Spanish, she gets far more excitement for her money in the course of an afternoon than she could hope to compass in a year's time in America.

In the Spanish and French dry goods houses, where the trade is almost exclusively feminine, the goods are marked with the "asking price," which is a mere mathematical figure of speech, and the first question that the experienced shopper always asks of the salesman is, "What is your last price?"

This "ultimo precio" is generally about 25 per cent less than the selling price with which the goods are tagged. It forms, however, a certain basis from which to start the bargaining, which thereafter is carried on with all the skill and fury that characterise such transactions everywhere throughout Latin America. The woman customer may wish to purchase a few yards of silk, for example. The marked price is, say, $2 a yard, and the "last price" is given as $1.50. The woman will look at the piece she desires with the same unconcerned scorn with which she regards everything else that is shown her. She will disparage it from every point of view and finally ask for something that is not likely to be in stock. At last she will sigh and look about in despair.

"Caramba, but I'm weary with this vain task of endeavoring to find something that I wish in this second class establishment! The prices are far higher than anywhere else, but I try to patronize this place because the proprietors are friends of my husband. Now, that rose silk is not the shade I wish, but I might be able to use it some time if I could buy it at a reasonable price."

The salesman, who has been listening with an assumed air of sympathy, responds with all the flowery eloquence that he can command and with a constant play of rapid gestures, his lighted cigarette in one hand describing a little arc of fire somewhat dimmer than the diamonds he wears on his fingers.

"Senorita, we place at your feet this establishment and all that it contains. It is your house, and you may do with it as you will. But the very last price at which I can offer you this silk is $1.25 a yard. I do this with a fear of losing my position, but with the hope that the proprietors will pardon my audacity when they learn that your husband is one of their personal friends."

"I thank you, senor," responds the shopper. "I appreciate your consideration, but I could not possibly accept the silk as a gift. Nevertheless I would be willing under the circumstances, so that you might make a reasonable profit, to give you 50 cents a yard for two yards."

At this the salesman drops on the floor the stub of the cigarette he has been smoking. This leaves both hands free, and if he is a master of the selling art as known in that country tears come to his eyes and he wrings his hands apparently in the depths of despair and chagrin. The Mexicans dearly love acting and dissimulation of all sorts, and this byplay of the clerk is but a part of the price of the goods. After frenzied ejaculations he puts the price down to $1 a yard, saying that that figure is the "last of the last prices." The lady has been gazing about indifferently and gathers up her pocketbook and other impediments as she rises to depart. As an afterthought and with condescension that amounts almost to pity she remarks:

"Sixty cents—no more. It is my last word. Adios, senor."

"One little moment, senorita. Do not depart in anger. Rather than let you go thus you may have the silk at 90 cents a yard, and I will make up the difference from my own pocket."

The lady hesitates, turns back as if indifferent, yet undecided. Then she again starts toward the door, speaking the phrase of pious farewell which is the Spanish equivalent of a final goodby.

"May you go with God, senor."

She almost has reached the portal when the salesman catches up with her. He has had time to light another cigarette to fortify himself for the final struggle, and, waving this in one hand, he begs her, almost on bended knees, to return and take the silk at 80 cents a yard. She looks languidly upon him. She has concluded that 80 cents would be about the right price and probably the best she can do. Yet she returns undaunted and in the softest of voices breathes the Spanish words which are the equivalent in that tongue for 70 cents. After ten minutes more of firmness on the shopper's part and every aspect of poignant grief by the salesman two yards of silk finally change hands at 75 cents.

The same furious bargaining is the rule in the grocery stores and in the sidewalk markets.—New York Press.

His Taste.

"Why does Julia feel that she must have a long coat at once?"

"Her husband has bought her a dress."—Harper's Bazar.

Simple diet is best, for many dishes bring many diseases.—Pliny.

Preventics, the new Candy Cold Cure Tablets, are said by Druggists to have four special specific advantages over all other remedies for a cold. First—They contain no Quinine, nothing harsh or sickening. Second—They give almost instant relief. Third—Pleasant to the taste, like candy. Fourth—A large box 48 Preventics—at 25 cents. Also fine for feverish children. Sold by all dealers.

WASHING HOUSE PLANTS.

How to Keep Them Healthy and Free From Insects.

If after taking flowers into the house you discover the troublesome mealy bugs, aphis, the torment of chrysanthemum; green flies and tiny red spiders, begin at once to kill them. The overwhelming development of these pests can be stopped only by using some strong solution that will kill the insects and destroy the eggs. If a small camel's hair brush is dipped into alcohol and the haunts of these pests are washed out with the solution, followed with a tobacco suds wash, clean plants will be insured. Do not permit this water to run into the earth, for alcohol will kill some plants. Have a piece of oilcloth, cut a hole in the centre and slit one side to the edge. This can be wrapped around the plant to prevent the water going into the crock. This is also an excellent method when cleaning flowers in the kitchen sink, for the dirt does not overflow when the crock is protected with the oilcloth covering.

The red spider can be killed with pure water, but this process requires that the entire plant be immersed. This is easily done, and the water should be changed a number of times. Do not leave one plant untouched, but clean all at the same time. Just a few insects will increase rapidly in numbers, and the aphis to-day would be a past generation to-morrow, so the accumulation of these little pests should be fought from the time flowers are taken into the house. No flower collects insects more rapidly than ivy. The fragile leaves and stems are alive with them, for which reason ivy should be kept out of the collection of rare plants. Flowers with large leaves should be washed. Buy a small soft brush and keep it for the purpose of washing the flower leaves. It cleans under the leaves and between the stems and stock.

IVY FOR HOME DECORATION.

How to Grow the English and German Varieties With Ease.

For a growing green which is beautifully decorative in the home in winter there is nothing more satisfactory than ivy. There are so many artistic ways of arranging the ivy, and the English variety particularly is so hardy that it cannot fail to grow. Artists have painted it and poets sung of it—the romantic ivy green.

With a pot containing the ivy standing on a table, floor or shelf the creeping branches may be trained in any direction about the room. Have the vine clamber up the window casing, and the green and leafy screen through which you can look out upon a wintry landscape will make it seem less bleak. Stand the jar containing the ivy on a bracket shelf at one end of the mantel and let it wander, with skillful training, up over mantel and walls, stray tendrils drooping gracefully over pictures and the like.

Ivy may be trained over the archway which divides rooms, and no portieres will be needed. There is also the more delicate German ivy, which requires greater handling. It will grow effectively without soil. I saw one growing in a large bowl of water—the kind of glass bowl used for small aquaria. The ivy grew over the sides of the bowl, festooning itself in tangled masses of vivid green, which gave a living beauty to the whole room.—Suburban Life.

No Influence.

During a municipal election in a town in the west of Scotland a young lady who was canvassing in behalf of one of the candidates called at a house, the door of which was opened by the good wife.

"I have called to solicit your vote on behalf of Mr. ——," said the young lady.

"But it's not me that's got the vote. It's ma man," replied the woman.

"Yes," said the young lady, "but I thought you might perhaps use your influence with him."

"Me influence him?" said the good wife. "I hiv nae influence wi' him. Only this morning I ask't him to wash the floor afore he went out, and he wadna dae it."

Quits.

A little girl was in the habit of telling "stretchers." Her auntie told her she could never believe her and, to warn her, related the tale of the boy who called "Wolf, wolf!" and how the wolf really did come one day and ate up all her sheep.

"Ate the sheep?" asked the child.

"Yes."

"All of them?"

"Yes; all of them," answered her auntie.

"Well," said the little one, "I don't believe you, and you don't believe me. So there!"

Woman's Preparation For the Street.

Nearly every man knows that it takes the average woman two hours to dress for the street, and they seem hurried at that, but few men know just why such preparations take so long. For the enlightenment of the latter is the explanation in boiled down form as given by an authoritative person:

Fitting on dress, forty minutes; buttoning same, ten minutes; arranging hair, twenty-five minutes; touching up face, fifteen minutes; setting hat, twenty minutes; mirror contemplation, ten minutes.

In Doubt.

"Prisoner," said the court, sternly, "are you guilty or not guilty?"

"Now, jedge," answered the defendant, "how kin I tell when I don't know what de evidence is gwine to be?"

Rack For Postcards.

For holding collections of postcards girls who are interested in amateur carpentering and cabinetmaking or, to use the more modern phrase, in manual training are now making very useful and at the same time ornamental racks which hold a large number of cards and keep those from different sections of the country separated. The racks are made of wood and have three bars at each side and two bars on the bottom. At the ends are square pieces of wood hollowed out at the bottom to form two ornamental feet sloped out at the top to make a more ornamental line and with oval holes cut in the center near the top, which form handles, by which the rack may be lifted. There are spaces cut in these solid wooden ends, through which the side and bottom bars are slipped. The two upper side bars are perforated with round holes at regular intervals. Through these perforations slender brass bars are slipped, and it is these brass bars which separate the different groups of cards.

"You needn't worry about that," replied the man with the close cropped head and strange pallor; "I wouldn't a been here now if it hadn't been for my good behavior in my last place."—Catholic Standard and Times.

MAINE SPOOKS.

A Ghost House, a Phantom Light and a Mystic Woodchuck.

Bowdoinham boasts a veritable ghost house where it is said the chairs refuse to stay quietly in their places, but in the middle of the night walk out and draw together in groups just as if guided by visible hands. Then there is a spirit cane that goes walking all by itself just at midnight, tapping its way along from room to room and finally taking up its abode in the chamber where a member of the family sleeps. That this statement is true is affirmed by those who have seen the phenomena and who are not at all afraid of ghosts.

At another house in the village is a phantom light that shines each night no matter whether it be moonlight or darkness just above the closet door in the upper chamber. For years this light has disturbed the people who at different times have occupied the room, and some have been much afraid of the flickering gleam. From time to time different explanations have been offered, but none has proved satisfactory. The light continues to shine, and no one can account for the mystery.

Down at Lazy O camp is a spook woodchuck which every evening, just at the sunset hour, comes out of an old family tomb, halfway between the camp and the home farm. There on the tomb he sits quietly, watching the sunset lights on the waters of Merrymeeting. Just as the sun sinks below the horizon he disappears. The tomb swallows him up, and he is seen no more until the sunset hour comes round again.—Kennebec Journal.

Arab Buttermaking.

Among the Arabs an interesting department of woman's duty is dairy work. This, like all other operations, is carried out on an old fashioned and patriarchal plan. To make butter, for instance, a small sheepskin is filled with milk and tied to a ring in the wall. The woman then sits flat on the floor and rocks it to and fro till little balls of butter begin to form within. These grow larger and larger and accumulate and are finally brought out as one big lump. The remaining milk is then boiled on the fire with bits of meat. The male members of the family now come together. A large dish of cooked rice is placed before them and the boiled milk poured over it. Then, making balls of the mixture with his hands, each member quickly swallows his share and rises to wash his hands. This done, the girls and mother sit down and eat what the men are pleased to leave.

Hats and Old Age.

In opening the services one Sunday recently the pastor of one of the fashionable churches said: "For three Sundays I have asked the women in this church to remove their hats during service. My appeal has been unheeded, and now I see wherein I was wrong. I was inconsiderate of the comforts of the aged and infirm, so I have made a new rule. Hereafter all women of forty years of age or over will be permitted to wear their hats during the service."

Within twenty seconds every woman in the church was bareheaded.—Ladies' Home Journal.

ADVENTURES IN CLOUDS

COUNT ZEPPELIN DESCRIBES HIS WORK IN THE AIR.

Great German Inventor Who Has Perfected the Dirigible Balloon Has Spent His Last Penny In His Fight to Fly—He Has Had Many Narrow Escapes From Death—Countess Has Helped Him.

If there is one thing which the world and his wife admire more than another, it is pluck and perseverance. For that reason it is not difficult to understand the enthusiasm aroused on the continent by the flying feats of Count Zeppelin. For fifty years he has been striving to solve aerial navigation. He has beggared himself, spent his whole fortune of $150,000, borne the gibes and ridicule poured upon him by sceptics, risked his life time after time, and yet never abandoned faith in his ideas.

In the following words he described his aims to an interviewer a short time ago:

"I intend to build a vessel which will be able to travel to places which cannot be approached or only with great difficulty — by other means of transport; to undeveloped coasts or interiors; in a straight line across land or water where ships are to be sought for; from one fleet station or army to another, carrying persons and despatches; for observation of the movements of hostile fleets or armies —not for active participation in actual warfare.

"My balloon must be able to travel several days without renewing provisions, fuel, or gas. It must travel quickly enough to reach a certain goal in a given number of days, and must possess sufficient rigidity and non-inflammability to ascend, travel, and descend under ordinary conditions."

And the count has succeeded to the extent of being able to remain in the air for many hours and travel hundreds of miles.

"But I am not satisfied," he remarked. "The German Government want an airship which will fulfil the following conditions: First, it must be able to manoeuvre in the air for twenty-four hours; secondly, it must be able to land without injury to itself either on water or earth; and in the last place must be able to ascend to such a height that it cannot be injured by bullet-fire. Stringent conditions? Yes, but very necessary if the navigable balloon is to prove of real service. Do I think I can manage to fulfil these conditions? That, of course, is impossible to say, but I am going to try."

And this wonderful master of the air spoke with that quiet earnestness which almost convinced one that he would succeed, in spite of the fact that he is over seventy years of age. He is a man who speaks little of the past. From others one learns of how at one time he became so poor that he had to live in a little cottage on an allowance made to him by his friends. When, at thirty years of age, the count married a lady belonging to one of the German aristocratic families, his friends and relatives, who had regarded him almost as a lunatic on account of his devotion to the task of inventing aerial machines, thought that his wife would wean him from his eccentric ways. But in this respect they were disappointed.

The marriage itself and the ensuing honeymoon interrupted for a time Count Zeppelin's devotion to his research work, but within a year of the wedding day he was again hard at work on the solution of the problem, aided and encouraged by his young wife. Year by year passed, and still the aristocratic mechanic continued to construct all sorts of flying contrivances that for the most part refused to fly. He and his wife, however, were fully agreed that he should devote his whole life to the task of teaching mankind how to fly.

The countess has followed with unwearying interest and self-sacrifice the scientific researches which involved the expenditure of their entire fortune, and Count Zeppelin is the first to admit how much he owes to the encouragement of his wife.

For over thirty years the count devoted himself to the construction of flying machines, "but," he remarked, "the risks were too great and the successes were too small to warrant the continuation of such experiments. On one occasion I fell from a height of forty feet, but happened to alight on some bushes, which broke my fall and saved my life, although I received a number of painful wounds. On another occasion I fell from a considerable height, but again had the good fortune to alight on soft earth without sustaining more than a broken leg. These were but two of a number of accidents which led me to finally abandon the flying machine for the navigable airship."

"But even they have their perils, count?"

"Yes; I suppose one of the narrowest escapes I had was when last year I fell asleep in the cabin of my airship. By some lucky chance I did not sleep for long, and only a few minutes after I awoke the airship was in flames. Had I remained asleep I should certainly have been burned to death."

The adventures of Count Zeppelin, however, would almost fill a volume, for, apart from his exciting experiences in connection with flying machines and balloons, he has had innumerable escapes. He fought in the Franco-German War, and is said to have been the first German soldier to cross the frontier into France.

Boiled Water In Ancient Times.

Now that the use of boiled drinking water has become common it is interesting to be reminded that a similar method of guarding against disease was practiced in ancient times. Herodotus tells how Cyrus had his drinking water boiled and carried in silver vessels, and Pliny the elder relates that Nero had water boiled and afterward cooled for drinking by placing it in glass flasks surrounded with snow.

COOK LOCATED IN SANITARIUM.

New York, Dec. 9.—Dr. Cook is in a private sanitarium in Philadelphia. This was learned positively by the Evening Mail today. It was also learned beyond the possibility of doubt that he is under an assumed name, and that the authorities of the institute had sworn themselves to secrecy as to his whereabouts.

There are three men in New York city who know the whereabouts of Cook. Cook is not hiding, but is suffering from a nervous breakdown, was the assurance given. The name and location of the sanitarium was withheld.

Copenhagen, Dec. 9.—A summary of the affidavits of persons claiming to have aided Dr. Cook in the preparations of his Polar d[illegible] published in London and New [illegible]day, was read here with [illegible]ent. Scientific circles are insu[illegible] be incredulous regarding the [illegible]arges and some persons, like Dr. [illegible]d Burrau, the astronomer, consider them so improbable that their effect will be to strengthen confidence in Dr. Cook.

Dr. Burrau said: "Passages in the story telegraphed here give one the impression that the matter is thoroughly untrustworthy. Take for instance, the statement about Capella. Capella neither rises nor sets in the Polar regions, but remains fixed over the horizon. In order to make observations at the North Pole, a more extended and a more detailed knowledge is necessary than is usually enjoyed by the average ship's captain. It will, however, be easy for the university to determine the truth regarding the charges."

The committee of six under the presidency of Prof. Elis Stromgren, the astronomer, which is to examine Dr. Cook's records on behalf of the University of Copenhagen, will begin its work at the end of the present week.

Coughs that are tight, or distressing tickling coughs, get quick and certain help from Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. On this account Druggists everywhere are favoring Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. And it is entirely free from Opium, Chloroform, or any other stupefying drug. The tender leaves of a harmless lung-healing mountainous shrub give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy its curative properties. Those leaves have the power to calm the most distressing Cough and to soothe and heal the most sensitive bronchial membrane. Mothers should, for safety's sake, alone, always demand Dr. Shoop's. It can with perfect freedom be given to even the youngest babes! Test it once yourself and see! Sold by all dealers.

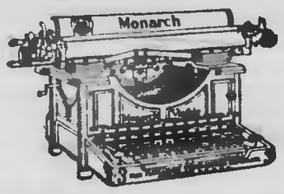
AN ALL PURPOSE TYPEWRITER



Every business requires a typewriter that writes all the office detail, letters, card records, special monthly or yearly reports, invoices and statements, this and that—everything.

There is but one machine that will do such work—one with a wide carriage.

But no typewriter with a long carriage that shifts up and down for capital letters is fitted for such duties. There is too much strain, too much wasted energy.

The MONARCH VISIBLE, with its new and common sense way of printing capitals, with its light, rigid, swiftly running carriage, is the ideal machine.

It's the best and most economical long carriage typewriter made.

If we had your address we would send you convincing literature.

Pincher Creek Oil

Mr. C. C. Cottrell,

22 King's Hall, Montreal, Quebec.

Dear Sir,—I am today forwarding you a supply of the Official Prospectus of the Pincher Creek Oil and Refining Company, Limited, which prospectus you will note is signed by the directors, filed and approved by the Registrar, Provincial Government of Alberta, so that its contents are according to facts.

The oil industry is perhaps new to you and your clients, but with the history of oil in the States to the south, you cannot afford to overlook Canada's richest resource and the one which is bound to make the greatest fortunes for her people.

The Directors are all personally known to me. They are Canadians and men of the highest commercial standing and business integrity.

Mr. Herron, M. P., President of the Company, accompanied Dr. Dawson when on his tour of inspection, and learned from that noted geologist the unlimited possibilities of oil in the Pincher Creek district, and Mr. Herron has ever since been enthusiastic over the developing of Canada's high grade oil industry.

Mr. J. E. Woods is the civil engineer who knows every foot of Southern Alberta and selected the valuable properties of the Western Coal and and Coke Company, whose oil lands adjoin this Company's property. It was owing to Mr. Wood's efforts that Pincher Creek Oil and Refining Company, Limited, have secured what is conceded to be the most valuable oil property—1,760 acres—of any of the seven large operating companies now in the Pincher Creek district.

Personally I have gathered oil from the big, crude oil seepage on the Pincher Creek Oil & Refining Co. property, only recently collecting a half barrel of this seepage oil in a short time.

I have seen oil pumped from the well on the immediate adjoining property.

I have taken oil from the well bored this summer on the Pincher Creek Oil & Refining Company's property, and oil can be seen oozing up around the casing and thoroughly saturating the soil. I believe this well when shot with nitroglycerine and a pump put into it will become a good producer.

A friend of mine proposes to spend $40,000 on his own hook boring for oil as near to this well as he can get as soon as Spring opens up.

Page 8, of the prospectus shows C.P.R. letter regarding shipments of Pincher Creek crude oil also a letter from a merchant of the town stating he has handled at least one hundred and fifty barrels and used kerosene and gasoline made from this oil and it gave the whitest light he ever saw.

Therefore we say we have oil on this property of 1760 acres and oil of the highest quality.

Our directors are local men, who know the district and how to obtain the best results at the smallest cost, and this I consider a great point. Directors should always be at the scene of operations.

Here is more of a guarantee than any business man has; more certain than silver or gold mining, for every time the Pincher Creek Oil and Refining Company, Limited, produce one hundred barrels the Canadian Government gives them a cheque for $52.50, "Petroleum bounty." Think what this means on a production of one thousand barrels per day—and single wells have produced twenty-five hundred barrels per day for three years—for one year; the Government would pay us $191,625, or about 40 per cent. dividends. Add to this a profit of only ten cents per gallon on the oil sold and there would be an additional $1,277,500, or 255 per cent., making a total of nearly 300 per cent. on a 1,000 barrel production. The property when thoroughly operated will produce that or it is practically worthless.

Now can you not see why the average advance in stocks of 120 Oil Companies in the United States has been over 2,000 per cent.?

Mr. Cottrell, I feel this will prove one of the very finest investments in Canada, and a proposition that you can conscientiously force your clients to accept as a bona-fide enterprise. Your clients having capital to invest can not do better than take up a block of this stock. As this stock is being offered simultaneously in various Eastern cities, how many shares will I reserve for you to place?

Sincerely Yours,

Signed MARCY D. COUCH,

Secretary Pincher Creek Oil and Refining Co.

GUARANTEED INVESTMENT

The Remarkable Offer Made by the Treasury Gold Mining and Milling Company of Fairview, Nevada

Guaranterd by a $1,000,000 Bank

SUPPOSE a million-dollar bank should offer you a gold bond, guaranteeing you against loss in an investment you desired to make, and providing that, whether the investment did or did not prove a profitable one, the bank would pay you back every dollar of your money at the end of twenty years, wouldn't that "look good" to you? And wouldn't you take it?

Wouldn't it look as though the bank itself, as well as the men behind the enterprise that formed the basis of the investment, had absolute confidence in it, and looked upon it as a safe and profitable venture?

Can you figure out any way in which you could possibly lose the money you put into an enterprise with that kind of backing? To be sure, you would run the risk of not receiving interest for that length of time on the emount of your investment, but you would also run the chance of multiplying it many times over in the way of dividends—and that is worth something, isn't it? In other words, you have opportunity to win, and not a single chance to lose.

Now, that is exactly what we, the officers and directors of Treasury Gold Mining and Milling Company, of Reno, Nevada, are offering for a short time to those who wish to take advantage of it, and we make this remarkable offer, first, because we know what we have in the way of a property, and, second, because we need a little more capital to erect a mill upon it and make it an extremely profitable producer in the shortest possible time.

This is the first time, to our personal knowledge, that an offer like this has ever been made with reference to any enterprise of a similar character, here or elsewhere.

Organization, Capitalization and Officers

Treasury Gold Mining and Milling Company is organized under the laws of the State of Nevada, with a capital stock of One Million Dollars ($1,000,000), divided into One Million (1,000,000) shares, of the par value of One Dollar ($1.00 each, full paid and non-assessable, and with no personal liability attaching to the stockholders. The number of shares in the treasury is Four Hundred Thousand (400,000).

The principal office of the company is at No. 336 Mill Street, Reno, Nevada, and the depository of the company is the Nixon National Bank, of the same city.

The officers are as follows: President, D. J. Kennedy, an old resident of Nevada, and one of the best known and most successful mining operators in the state; vice-president, F. W. Thomas, of the firm of John Breuner & Co., one of the largest mercantile establishments in the city; secretary, Donald Fraser, one of the proprietors of the Red Cross Drug Company, of Reno; treasurer, H. L. Burchell, mining operator, and manager of the most prominent of the leading law firms of the state.

Board of directors: D. J. Kennedy, F. W. Thomas, H. L. Burchell; Eugene Kelly, department manager with the Gray, Reid, Wright company, and Donald Fraser.

Location and Character of Properties

The holdings of Treasury Gold Mining and Milling Company include the following valuable properties in the famous Fairview district, in Churchill county, Nevada, traced by a fine wagon road from Fallon, the county seat:

By purchase outright—fully paid for and deed recorded at Fallon—valuable mining estates on both sides of the great Mizpah mine, on both of which properties rich ore has been found.

By purchase—paid for, deeded and recorded—the Treasury group of two full claims, amounting to 40 acres, to the north-east of the Mizpah mine, the rich ledge of which we have every reason to believe courses straight through our property for at least 2,000 feet. This we regard as a very valuable holding.

By purchase, an undivided one-half interest in seven claims, containing 100 acres, south-west of the Mizpah, with every indication that the Mizpah vein runs through our ground at least 1,500 feet. The deed for our one-half interest is recorded at Fallon, and we have an option for one year on the other one-half interest.

All the leasing rights and privileges of the Mizpah Milling and Leasing Company on twelve blocks of the celebrated Mizpah mine, for the term of five years. On this property, considerable quantities of fine shipping ore are already opened; drifting has been carried on for some distance on the 100-foot level, while the second level, at 175 feet depth, is now being driven on to catch the same ore body, when shipments will begin.

Values as Shown By Assays

Assays of ores taken from the various properties of the company show the following values:

From Treasury Group at the surface, gold and silver values	$139.50
" " " " " " " " "	346.80
" " " " " " " " "	77.42
From Kentucky Group, surface workings, gold and silver values	128.00
" " " " " " " " "	78.00
From Mizpah shafts, tunnels and upraises, gold and silver values	993.95
" " " " " " " " "	239.77
" " " " " " " " "	235.46
" " " " " " " " "	66.67
" " " " " " " " "	94.21

From the foregoing tests, it will be seen that, leaving out of the calculation our own extensive properties, all of which contain indications of remarkable richness, we are fully justified in expecting sufficient profits from the operation of our five-year lease on the great Mizpah mine alone, to pay enormous dividends to all our stockholders. But to operate them all, with the greatly increased facilities and equipment we intend to add, should give us a production equaled by few mining properties in the world.

We have already found very rich ore in the shallow workings of our Kentucky group to the west, and of our Treasury group to the east of the Mizpah, and we can see no reason why both of these properties should not prove fully as rich as the famous Mizpah mine itself. We are in a district noted for its immense bodies of gold and silver ores, and where deep workings open up vast treasure vaults of mineral wealth.

Additional Equipment Required

In order to more speedily place these splendid properties among the high class producers of the state, and to combine the maximum of production and profit with the minimum of cost, considerable additional equipment is required.

This includes a standard, modern mill, to reduce our ore to bullion and concentrates at the mine, thus saving the transportation and treatment charges of $20 to $30 a ton on the ore to the Salt Lake smelters. To be sure, the ore is of such a high grade character that there is a good profit in mining and shipping it even at these high rates, but it would be better business to save it and add that much more to the net profits, by treating it at our own mill, which, under the circumstances, thus becomes a necessity. With a 100-ton plant, we should easily be able to treat our ore at an expense not to exceed $2.50 per ton, and by adding another unit to its capacity, can still further reduce the cost, and thus save from $17.50 to $27.50 per ton on transportation ash treating charges alone—quite an item when figuring the net profits.

The first unit capacity of 100 tons daily, of a standard mill, modern in every way, including stamps, amalgamation, fine grinding, concentration and cyaniding, with a sampler in front, so that ore can be purchased from surrounding properties, and general custom work done if desired, will enable us to add one unit after another as may be required with increased development of the ore bodies. By thus adding to the capacity of the mill, we shall be in a position to treat an immense tonnage daily, and pay dividends accordingly.

We will therefore not only effect a great saving of our present expenditures, but earn a handsome revenue, practically all profit, from the large volume of custom work that would be brought to our mill for treatment and reduction.

We also want to sink a capacious double-compartment shaft into the permanent sulphide zone at once, first, in order to have the ore bodies opened up for the mill, and secondly, to aid in determining the proper methods of treatment; so that we may build a mill adapted to the character of the ores, and capable of giving the largest returns to the company in the extraction of the gold and silver values.

Novel Plan to Secure Funds

Now, we are quite willing to admit that equipment of the character already mentioned, which will put the properties in the best possible working shape, will cost more money than is available at present, unless we accept the alternative of sacrificing a small portion of our special stock, in order to begin operations on a profitable basis at once.

The officers and directors of the company have therefore decided to adopt this method, and, while limiting the sales to but one-fifth of the capitalization, to surround the sale of every share with a positive safeguard against any possible loss.

We do not know that such an offer has ever before been made, and we expect the amount offered to be over-subscribed several times when the terms of the offer are made known.

First, we limit the amount of stock that will be sold, in order to provide the finds for necessary equipment, to Two Hundred Thousand (200,000) shares, and this is to be positively the last as well as the first, allotment that will be sold at the present low price, of 20 cents a share, as we honestly believe the stock will be good for dividends of not less than one dollar per share annually, after we commence treating 100 tons daily at the mill.

Stock Guaranteed

In order to absolutely protect purchasers of these shares against the possibility of a loss, we have made arrangements with the Metropolis Trust and Savings Bank, of San Francisco, one of the strongest financial institutions in the United States, to guarantee every share of stock sold, and to issue to every purchaser a gold bond for the full amount of his investment, such bond being payable in twenty years, whether the mines pay or not. Therefore, even if the mines never paid a dollar—though we expect them to pay millions—the stockholders cannot possibly lose anything except the interest on their investment, while they stand to win fortunes from the amounts they put into these properties.

The shares offered on these unparalleled terms may be paid for either in cash or in five equal monthly payments, and the money derived there from will be used entirely for the further development and equipment of the properties. The shares will also be traded in on both the New York and Boston exchanges the moment we begin shipping and paying dividends.

The elements of industrial safety and of the speculative profits of gold mining under such extremely favorable conditions, are combined in this enterprise to a greater degree than in any other undertaking within our knowledge or experience, and will appeal with irresistible force to all sensible and conservative people as an opportunity without an equal. It is a case of "heads, you win! tails, you cannot lose." If the mines pay as we believe they will bring to every stockholder, in dividends, many times the amount of his investment. If they do not pay, he gets his money back.

PREVENTION OF FIRES.

How to Avoid Them by Taking Proper Precautions.

Avoid matches whose heads readily snap off. Scores of deaths and destroyed homes are traceable to this cause.

Liquid stove polishes of the kind sold by fakers are nearly always dangerous. Furniture polish should be used with great care too.

All cloths used in rubbing polished floors should be burned away from the house. Neither should they be thrown carelessly around at any time, as there is danger of spontaneous combustion.

Cleaning compounds are always dangerous. Never use benzine, gasoline or like fluids in any room where there is artificial light. These oils are extremely volatile, and their fumes catch fire at a great distance, the flames traveling back to the source. Explosions and scattered fire are the result.

Cleaning compounds are always dangerous. Never use benzine, gasoline or like fluids in any room where there is artificial light. These oils are extremely volatile, and their fumes catch fire at a great distance, the flames traveling back to the source. Explosions and scattered fire are the result.

Never drape a mantel near a gas jet or a stove. Be careful that no portieres or curtains are so hung that they can blow against the flame. Many fires are due to such carelessness.

When you retire for the night see that all the doors in the house are closed. Open doors create a draft. Danger from a dumb waiter may be minimized by seeing that it is tightly closed at night.

When open fireplaces are in use the bricks of the hearth should be imbedded in cement and should not rest on wood. Each hearth should have a fine wire screen shield to prevent sparks flying on rugs or carpets.

Bible In Every Known Language.

According to the 105th report of the British and Foreign Bible Society the Bible will soon be printed in every language and dialect known throughout the world. Complete Bibles or portions of the Bible were issued last year in 418 different languages. During the year six new translations were added to the list. Besides these languages there are complete Bibles or portions of the Scriptures made in embossed type for the blind in 31 different languages.

The number of Bibles issued by the society last year was nearly 6,000,000. Of complete Bibles there were 864,196; New Testaments, 1,116,674, and portions of Scripture, 3,933,842, making a total of 5,934,711.

The colporteurs employed in the work of distribution have an adventurous life. Last year some of them were arrested as spies in Nicaragua, robbed in Burma, stoned in the Philippines and beaten by Moslems in Baluchistan.

Rules on the Clermont.

At the head of regulations for the "North river steamboat" (Clermont) was this paragraph: "The rules which are made for order and neatness in the boat, are not to be abused. Judgment shall be according to the letter of the law. Gentlemen wishing well to fo public and useful and establishment, will fee the propriety of strict juftice, and the impropriety of the leaft impofition on the purfe or feelings of any individual."

One of the rules on the Clermont read: "It is not permitted for any person to lie down in a birth with their boots or shoes on under a penalty of one dollar and a half and a half dollar for every half hour they may offend against this rule."

Both Correct.

A schoolmaster in Liverpool one day asked the dunce of the school some very simple questions in arithmetic. He was surprised to find that he got the right answers, and when he had finished he said to the boy, "Correct, sit down."

"Now," said the schoolmaster, "see if you have sense enough to ask me some questions."

The boy pondered for a moment and then said, "Please, sir, what would three yards of calico cost if cotten was tuppence a reel?"

"I think you take me for a fool," said the schoolmaster.

"Correct; sit down!" returned the boy.—Liverpool Mercury.

Ancient Houses.

Chimneys were wholly unknown to the ancients, who had to let the smoke of their fires escape through an opening in the roof. Chimneys came into use in the fourteenth century. It was in the same century that glass for windows put in its appearance. At a much later date the home comforts were very scarce. Even in gentlemen's houses the second story—where there happened to be one—was approached from the outside, the walls were bare, without wainscot or plaster, their barrenness being, as a rule, unrelieved by picture or decoration.

House Names In Holland.

A recent traveler in that land of dikes and windmills has been at pains to make notes of the names bestowed by the Dutch merchants upon their country houses. Here are a few examples translated: "Our Contentment," "Joy and Peace," "Leisure and Happiness," "My Desire is Satisfied," "Friends and Quiet," "My Wife and I," "Not So Bad." To say the least, any one of these would seem to indicate more of the genuine sentiment of the householder than can possibly be expressed by the "Belle Vues" and "Cedars" of England.—London Mail.

The Roads of Norway.

A curious feature to travelers in the highroads of Norway is the great number of gates—upward of 10,000 in the whole country—which have to be opened. These gates, which either mark the boundaries of the farms or separate the home fields from the waste lands, constitute a considerable inconvenience and delay to the traveler, who has to stop his vehicle and get down to open them.

Bill's Sunbonnet

He Thought It Was Kate Who Wore It, but It Wasn't.

By BELLE MANIATES.

Copyright, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.

It was morning in Idaho, and the sun was beaming pleasantly upon Barry Vail as he rode alongside the big irrigating canal that he had been sent to inspect.

"Many settlers on the reservation, Jim?" he asked the foreman.

"They are coming now that they see the canal is a go. The nearest one is Judge Rand. His shack's up yonder. He's in luck. We go right through his ranch."

Judge Rand! Vail wondered if it could be the same man he had known long ago. He concluded it was not possible.

"Which way do I take to his ranch?" he asked.

"He's generally clearing sagebrush this time of day. Follow the canal and you'll likely run on him."

Vail rode on, tilting his sombrero back and humming a love tune. He was in a contemplative mood this morning, and the word "Rand" carried him back to the east, where he had been born and bred, but whose dust he had shaken from his feet five years before. At that time he had been in love with Kate Rand, an imperious, self willed girl. One fateful day she had announced her intention of going to a masquerade in the character and dress of a page. His young, conservative scruples were horrified. He objected, and when she persisted in carrying out her intention his dictatorial attitude moved him to break the engagement. Immediately afterward he secured an appointment as civil engineer in the west. Lately his love affair viewed at long range appeared a very boyish affair.

When he came upon the solitary figure digging doggedly at a resisting root he recognized the man who had come so near being his father-in-law. There were mutual recognitions of pleasure, and then the judge explained that he had been caught in the financial coil of Wall street and had lost all in worldly possessions.

"Just enough left," he said, "to make payment on 160 acres here, which I shall put to potatoes. The spirit of the west has caught me, Barry. I wouldn't go back into Wall street purgatory for any consideration."

After Vail had related his own experiences and inquired after the fortunes of mutual friends he asked almost sheepishly:

"Did Kate come out here with you?"

The judge was silent for a moment. Then he said, with a sigh:

"Can you picture Kate in the primitive life? She had an opportune invitation to accompany some relatives on a trip abroad."

"And you live out here alone?" exclaimed Vail pityingly.

"No. I have my helper, Bill. We are very comfortable—a little shack for a living room and dining room combined, two sleeping tents and an out door oven—a place for these parts."

But Vail was not listening. His attention was concentrated on a slender figure that was approaching in the distance. The figure was clad in khaki trousers, blue shirt, a red kerchief and a sunbonnet.

"Who in the world is that?" he asked. The judge turned hastily and looked confused.

"Oh, that's Bill! I want him to go to the next ranch on an errand for me. Excuse me a moment. I will be back."

He hastened toward the sunbonneted figure, and after a moment's conversation the figure turned and went the way from which it had come.

"Your Bill doesn't look equal to much hard work," observed Vail dryly.

"Bill's all right at farm work or ranch work," assured the judge. "He's very willing, enduring and, best of all, intensely interested in the development of the ranch."

"You see a good many queer sights in Idaho," remarked Vail, "but I'll swear I never saw a man or lad wearing a sunbonnet."

"Bill lost his one and only sombrero in a reckless ride last week. He went to the nearest ranch to buy or borrow one, but the only superfluous headgear he had was this sunbonnet, to which he is quite attached, as he is a little fearful of sunstrokes."

"Well, I must return to the canal. I intend to be neighborly, judge."

"Of course. Let me see. Come over tomorrow to dinner."

Vail chuckled softly as he rode away.

"I wonder if the judge thought he could string me that way. I have a very firm conviction that Bill is Kate, and, remembering my boyish horror of male attire, the judge headed her off. I suppose he thought he had deceived me with his evasive statement about her trip abroad and invited me tomorrow, when he will take pains to have Bill, alias Kate, absent. I know of no reason why we should not meet in friendly fashion. I know I admire her a thousand times more than I ever did for coming out here and wearing any kind of clothes for working purposes. I'll just go over tonight, whether I am welcome or not, and stay to supper. Fancy the sybarite Kate cooking!"

Late in the afternoon he rode up to the shack, and, as he expected, Bill, clad in feminine attire, was in the doorway. She was a different girl [illegible]

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

He was glad to begin acquaintance anew with this womanly Kate.

"You must stay to supper. That's what they call the meal out here. I shall prepare it myself tonight."

"Don't you generally prepare it?" he couldn't help asking.

"No," she said casually. "Bill, the help, cooks, but he is away."

Vail decided to accept the little fiction regarding Bill, and when the judge came home and was informed by his daughter that Bill had been called away for two weeks, which was just the length of time Vail was to be in the vicinity, he never changed expression.

"Ruth," said the judge in reply.

"Ruth!" interrupted Vail in surprise. She smiled.

"Father calls me by my middle name since we came out here. It was my mother's name, and he thinks I am growing to be like her."

After supper, when the judge and Vail had smoked and chatted, a neighbor came to talk planting to the judge.

Barry proposed to Ruth (as he now liked to think of her) that they ride down the course of the canal, and she readily accepted. He remembered how well she used to ride and how well her boyish slimness looked in the saddle. But never in city parks could they have had this glorious canter over the wind swept way on the open plains. They came back in the glory of a western moonlight. When near the shack Barry drew rein.

"Shall we," he asked earnestly, "begin all over again?"

"Yes," she replied in a low tone. "That was what I wanted to ask you to do."

For the next two weeks every moment he could snatch from his work Barry spent at the shack. Feeling that he was depriving the judge of Bill's help, he put in some effective work on the ranch. In his rides, walks and talks with Kate Ruth he felt a sense of intimacy he had never known when with the Kate of olden days.

"Darling," he said impetuously one night after a long silence, "can you forget the past and my boyish superiority? Can you learn to love me again, Kate?"

"Don't!" she cried breathless. "I am not Kate!"

He looked at her in bewilderment.

"I am Kate's younger sister. I was away at school when you knew her, but I used to love to hear about you from father. I didn't know at the first that you mistook me for her. Afterward—well, I was afraid you would not care for me, but you can't have her. She's engaged."

"Dear," he said gently, "I don't want Kate. I want you, whether you are Kate, Ruth or Bill."

"Bill?" she interrupted faintly.

"I knew," he laughed. "Bill's sunbonnet gave him away."

Stream of Life.

Life bears us on like the current of a mighty river. Our boat at first glides down the narrow channel, through the playful murmurings of the little brook and the windings of its grassy borders. The trees shed their blossoms over our young heads; the flowers on the brink seem to offer themselves to our young hands; we are happy in hope, and we grasp eagerly at the beauties around us, but the stream hurries on, and still our hands are empty. Our course in youth and manhood is along a wider and deeper flood, amid objects more striking and magnificent. We are animated by the moving pictures of enjoyment and industry passing before us; we are excited by some short lived disappointment. But our energy and our depression are both in vain. The stream bears us on, and our joys and griefs are alike left behind us.

We may be shipwrecked—we cannot be delayed. Whether rough or smooth the river hastens to its home till the roar of the ocean is in our ears and the tossing of the waves is beneath our feet, and the land lessens from our eyes, and the floods are lifted up around us, and we take our leave of earth and its inhabitants until of our further voyage there is no witness save the infinite and eternal.—Exchange.

Tapioca.

This elegant and delicate starch is the product of a plant that is cultivated very extensively in the Malay peninsula, where its culture is almost entirely in the hands of the Chinese. The tubers of the plant (Manihot utilissima), which weigh on an average from ten to twenty-five pounds, are first scraped and then carefully washed, after which they are reduced to a pulp by being passed between rollers. This pulp is carefully washed and shaken up with abundance of water until the feicula separates and passes through a very fine sieve into a tub placed beneath. The flour so obtained is repeatedly washed and then placed on mats and bleached by exposure to the sun and air. It is finally converted into the pearl tapioca of commerce by being placed in a crude shaped frame covered with canvas. It is slightly moistened and subjected to a rotary motion, by which means it is granulated. It is next dried in the sun and finally over the fire in an iron pan greased with vegetable tallow and is then ready for the market.

Out of Practice.

"Well, I've got a job at last. It begins tomorrow morning, and it's in a factory where there are a lot of girls. I'm more than half afraid to tackle it."

"Afraid of the girls?"

"Naw—of the work."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Consistent.

"At least, the scenery at the pole, from Dr. Cook's description, must be consistent if not picturesque."

"What do you mean?"

"Didn't you remark that he said all you could see with the naked eye was a bare expanse?"—Baltimore American.

New Skating Rink.

Manager Hartshine of the Auditorium Roller Rink intends to have ice skating there this winter, and will make a bid for the patronage of the skating and hockey public. Mr. Hartshine announces that he will have a big surface and seating accommodation for 800 people. He has made an offer to the City Hockey League to have that body play its matches on Auditorium ice and the City League will consider the matter at its next meeting which will likely be held early next week.

PILES

Mr. Alfred Brown, of Merriton, Ont., says :—"For six years I have not known what it was to be free from pain. No one ever suffered more from itching bleeding Piles than I did and I tried everything to get cured but failed. One day a friend of mine who had been cured with Zam-Buk gave me a part of a box to try, and the relief I got was marvellous. I then bought a supply and before I had used it all was completely cured."

Croup is most prevalent during the dry cold weather of the early winter months. Parents of young children should be prepared for it. All that is needed is a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Many mothers are never without it in their homes and it has never disappointed them.6

True Bills.

The Grand Jury at the sessions of the County Court yesterday morning brought in true bills against G. N. Graham and John T. Maunder on the charge of perjury. Both the accused will be tried at the present sessions.

Council Meeting.

A special meeting of the City Council was held yesterday afternoon at five o'clock for the purpose of making a change in the municipal election bylaw. The change was slight and in a day or two a full and complete revised list of the polling places and officers for the municipal elections on January 3rd, will be published in these columns.

Griffin—Kennedy.

A very pleasant event took place Wednesday night at the home of Mrs Edward Kennedy, Robinson street, Ashburnham, when her daughter, Rebecca, became the wife of Mr. Hector Cecil Griffin of Cannington.

The bride was charmingly attired in a beautiful white lustre gown, and carried a boquet of white carnations. Miss Mary Main of this city, acted as bridesmaid. The groom was supported by Mr. Arthur Juby, a brother of the bride.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. C. Riddiford of the Park street Baptist church, in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends.

The bride was the receipient of many beautiful and useful presents.

After a short honeymoon to Cannington and other points, Mr. and Mrs. Hector Griffin will reside on Robinson street.

Among those present were Rev. W. C. and Mrs. Riddiford, Mrs. Edward Kennedy, mother of the bride; Arthur and James Juby, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Pollock and Master Harold, Miss Mary Main, Viola Dopee, Bert Martin, A. Morrison, John Juby, Clara Garnde, Velma Murduff, Mr. R. J. and Mrs. Murduff, Harry Murduff, George Murduff, Mr. and Mrs. John Lloyd, Jessie Juby and others.

Holiday Resorts Take Their Popularity to Authors.

The most remarkable example of a book made town is Biskra the oasis in the Sahara that Robert Hichens immortalized under the name of Beni Mora in his novel of "The Garden of Allah."

Biskra, quite unknown to the great is now, thanks to Mr Hichens, a fashionable winter resort. It is rather odd that all the world should know that Biskra was meant by Beni Mora in "The Garden of Allah." There is a Beni Mora near Biskra, a slimy swamp, with a few mud huts and a palm or two sticking up out of the mud, but Biskra itself is never mentioned in the book.

Ilfracombe, the north Devon watering place, owes its renown to Charles Kingsley, who in his novel of "Westward Ho!" praises it

Stone Cake.

In very unusual seasons the people of Rajputan, in India, are deprived of seeds and succulent roots of grasses Under these very adverse condition the barks of trees and even ground up rocks are resorted to principally to give bulk to the scanty meal and thereby to stay the pangs of hunger for a longer time. A soft stone found on the Bikanir Marwar border of Jaipua is largely used in that part of the country to give bulk to the meager meal This stone is friable and easily ground into fine powder. It contains an oleaginous substance which has some nutrient qualities, and the people have found that when finely ground and used in proportions of about one-fourth to three-fourths of flour it does not impair digestion for a considerable time.

The old fashioned way of dosing a weak stomach, or stimulating the Heart or Kidneys is all wrong. Dr. Shoop first pointed out this error. This is why his prescription — Dr. Shoop's Restorative— is directed entirely to the cause of these ailments —the weak inside or controlling nerves. It isn't so difficult, says Dr. Shoop, to strengthen a weak Stomach, Heart or Kidneys, if one goes at it correctly. Each inside organ has its controlling or inside nerve. When these nerves fail then those organs must surely falter. These vital truths are leading druggists everywhere to dispense and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Test it a few days, and see! Improvement will promptly and surely follow. Sold by all dealers.

Tell Some Sick One

It Is Free If It Fails.

Will you do an act of Humanity?

Will you tell some sick friend of this, our remarkable offer?

Tell him or her, that you have learned of a medicine so certain that its maker dare say to the sick, "It is absolutely and unconditionally free if it fails."

And you, no doubt, already know of Dr. Shoop's Restorative and its popularity.

For 20 years it has been the standard remedy for Stomach, Kidney and Heart ailments everywhere in America.

When the "inside" or controlling nerves of these vital organs begin to fail, it is Dr. Shoop's Restorative that has quickly vitalized, and strengthened, and brought these nerves and organs back to health again.

I do not dose the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys—for that is all wrong.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes direct to the cause of these ailments—the failing, faltering, inside or controlling nerves. And herein lies the keynote to my success.

When these nerves are again made well and strong, then that is the certain end of all such sickness.

To me it is a great satisfaction that I am the only physician able to say to the dreading sick, "Take my prescription for full 30 days, and if it fails to help you, the entire expense is mine—not yours."

Then why should the sick take any chance on any other medicine, whose maker dare not back it just as I do by this remarkable offer?

I also have a Rheumatic Remedy—and that remedy is covered by the same identical "No help, no pay" protective plan.

Besides, you are free to consult me just as you would your home physician. My advice and the book below are yours—and without cost.

Perhaps a word or two from me will clear up some serious ailment. I have helped thousands upon thousands by my private prescription or personal advice plan. My best effort is surely worth your simple request.

So let me send you an order at once. Take the message to some sick friend.

A postal will bring the opportunity.

I will have an honest and trustworthy druggist to whom you can conveniently go for the 30 day test.

But first, ask me for the order, for all druggists are not authorized to give the 30 day test.

So write me now and save all delays. Remember that tomorrow never comes. Address Dr. Shoop, Box 12, Racine, Wis.

Maunder and Fowler were Dismissed but Carrol Appears Today

The perjury charges against Maunder of Lindsay, manager of the Central Hotel, and Victor Fowler, of this city, were disposed on Saturday afternoon. The two cases developed from the same trial in the police court in which Mr. Graham was charged with perjury and as the latter was honorably acquitted and as the evidence would be the same, viz. that of Police Constables Newhall and Meharry, the Crown attorney decided to produce no evidence His Honor Judge Huycke therefore, dismissed the case.

The case against Patrick Carroll will, however, come before his honor this morning. This case developed out of another police court case against the Oriental, and the principal witnesses for the Crown will be ex Alderman W. J. Johnston and P. C.'s Newhal, and Meharry.

It is alleged that Carroll served drinks through the rear bar door on Friday night, Nov. 19, after 11 o'clock p.m. Newhal and Meharry are alleged to have stood upon a box in the bar door way and looked over the transom. Ex-Ald. Johnston is said to have been with them.

Preliminary Inspection Tends to Discredit Dr. Cook

Copenhagen, Dec. 18.—The Associated Press is informed by a high authority that the committee of the University of Copenhagen in its preliminary examination of his records, failed to discover proof that Dr Frederick A. Cook reached the pole.

IN SECRET SESSION.

The consistory of the University of Copenhagen at a secret session today received a preliminary report covering the first stage of the work of the committee which is examining the north polar records of Dr. Frederick A. Cook. An excited discussion followed.

The report was presented by Rector Thorp, but its nature was carefully guarded from other than members of the consistory. The latter are pledged to secrecy. It was admitted, however, that the work thus far accomplished provoked an animated debate among the university officials.

To the newspaper men Rector Torp said: "The committee's work is not yet finished. I cannot tell how long it will continue, but I hope that the result can be made public before New Year's. Both the members of the consistory and the examining committee have been forbidden strictly to make public anything whatever regarding what has been accomplished thus far by the investigators."

The results of today's discussion was a request on the part of the consistory that the committee continue its work. The university body will leave to the investigators proper the manner of making public later the results of their inquiries.

In the meantime it is announced by an official of the university that the consistory will not make public any communication based upon information received orally from the committee at today's meeting.

SENTIMENT HAS CHANGED.

Popular opinion here appears, to have undergone a radical change From the beginning of the controversy the populace of Copenhagen has been decidedly pro-Cook. Patriotism has strengthened this sentiment. Recent development, however, have been disappointing and today the general impression prevails that Dr. Cook's papers as submitted do not constitute proof that he discovered the north pole.

INDOOR BASEBALL.

League to be Organized at the Armories This Week.

The officers of the military corps with headquarters in the new armories are preparing for the organization of an indoor baseball league, and it is probable that that event will take place this week. Several teams will be entered and as the apparatus is all here and everything is ready the game will be a popular one.

The tennis enthusiasts also have their arrangements underway. A court is marked out and as soon as the posts are put in the game will get started. Of course the bowling alleys and rifle ranges have been in full swing for a long time and they are used every night by the men of the regiment.

OUTSIDE BUYER.

Heavily Fined for Infraction of the Market Bylaw.

Wm. Fenwell, who claimed to represent J. A. McLean Produce Company of Toronto, was arrested by P. C. Meagher on Saturday morning on a charge of buying turkeys on the market before ten o'clock. Fennell appeared in the police court that afternoon and was fined $20 and costs.

Every citizen will heartily agree with that conviction, as the presence of Fennell on the market at an early hour boosted the price of turkeys up to a record figure and it was a small bird that could be secured for $2. Turkeys that formerly sold at $1.25 and $1.50 went up to $1.75 and $2. That put them out of the reach of the majority of those who pay taxes towards maintaining the market, and who are entitled to get the first choice and the lowest price. Many citizens who look forward to the Christmas turkey as the feature of the holiday dinner were disappointed because they could not afford the price this year. Fennell offered, right off the bat 18c. a pound and he paid as high as 20c.

Ald. Bradburn, chairman of the Market Committee and Ald. Buller were greatly interested in the trial and they will take steps to prevent foreign buyers interfering with the market hereafter.

DISTINGUISHED VISITORS

In Connection With the Local Option Campaign Here.

The Campaign Committee has arranged for the following noted speakers:

Tuesday, 3 p.m., in George street Methodist church school room, a mass meeting of women under the auspices of the W.C.T.U., when Mrs. Hitchcox of Toronto, will be the speaker. This talented lady will also speak at Knox church Tuesday night at eight o'clock.

Tuesday, 8 p.m., Rev. Dr. S. D. Chown, M.A., the superintendent of the Moral and Social Reform Board of the Methodist church, will address a public meeting in St. Paul's church.

Wednesday, in the Grand Opera House, the Hon. Seaborn Wright of Georgia, will give his eloquent and celebrated address on "The Regulation of the Liquor Traffic." The Opera House Orchestra will furnish the music. There will no doubt be a bumper house.

Saturday (Christmas night) in George street Methodist church at eight o'clock, Governor R. B. Glenn of South Carolina, will address a public meeting, and on Sunday after noon at 3.45 (Dec. 26) Governor Glenn will give the address.

GILMOUR STREET LIGHTS.

The Best Lighted Street in the City of Peterborough.

Gilmour St. is now the best lighted street in Peterboroughfar now. The Peterborough Light and Power Co. got all the new incandescent lights installed yesterday and last night they were lighted. To say that the people on street are delighted is putting it mild. The lights are on the south side and a lamp is string from every other pole with an extra one at the corner of Babb's Lane. As a result every part of that beautiful avenue from one end to the other is well light, almost brilliantly so. The lamps are high enough so that the tallest man cannot reach them yet they are low enough so that the light will shine on the north side of the street underneath the trees.

The Light & Power Co. made a special effort on this street to demonstrate to the people and to the council the superiority of the new incandescent lights over the old ones and over the are lamps for residential streets. Their demonstration has been most successful so far as Gilmour St. people are concerned and there is no doubt whatever but that everyone will agree with them.

IF SICK--WHY PAY

Unless Health First Returns.

Here is what should and can be done!

Now you would not willingly pay for food that was worthless—would you?

Then why pay for medicine until that medicine first proves to you its actual worth?

Positively knowing what Dr. Shoop's Restorative can do for the sick, I say to all "don't spend one cent unless health first returns". And I back my Restorative with a signed and sealed 30 day "No Pay, No pay" contract.

I positively appeal to the sick everywhere that "Dr. Shoop's Restorative is absolutely free if it fails". Let others do the same or else pass their prescriptions by.

If you need more strength, more vitality, more vigor or more vim, use my Restorative a few days and note the immediate improvement. When the stomach, Heart, or Kidneys are weak, then test Dr. Shoop's Restorative. I do not claim the Stomach nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys, for that is wrong. I say as I cast away that quack's idea in medicine. The books below will tell you how I am succeeding.

These books are full of a tiny hidden "white nerve," no larger than a silken thread. They tell how that nerve, until it fails, actually gives to the Heart its power, its tone, its never-ceasing action or impulse.

These books will open up new and helpful ideas to those who are not well. They tell how the Stomach, and Kidneys each have their "inside" or power nerves. They tell how the Restorative was especially made to reach and revitalize them when sick or failing inside nerves. All of them facts tell why I am able to say, "It is free if it fails".

This is why I say "take no chances on a medicine whose maker dare not back it just as I do by this remarkable offer".

So write me today for the order.

I have appointed honest and responsible druggists in nearly every community to loan me medicine to the sick.

But write me first for the order.

All druggists sell Dr. Shoop's Restorative but all are not authorized to give the 30 day test. So drop me a line please—and thus save disappointment and delays. Tell me also which book you need.

A postal will do.

Besides, you are free to consult me as you would your home physician. My advice and the book before are yours—and without cost.

Perhaps a word or two from me will clear up many serious ailments. I have helped thousands upon thousands by my private prescription or personal advice plan. My best effort is surely worth your simple request. So write now while you have it fresh in mind, for tomorrow never comes. Dr. Shoop, Box 12, Racine, Wis.

Geo. N. Graham Honorably Acquitted Charged with Committing Perjury

Strong Evidence for the Defence—Sensational Character Evidence Against the Two Police Officers, Newhall and Meharry—Judge Agreed with the Verdict

Mr. Geo N. Graham, proprietor of the Oriental Hotel, who was charged by the chief of police with having committed perjury while giving his testimony in the police court during a recent liquor case, was found "Not Guilty," by the jury on Saturday afternoon and was "Honorably acquitted" by His Honor Judge Huycke. In dismissing Mr. Graham his honor remarked.— The jury has found you not guilty and I heartily concur in their finding. It is quite right.

When the jury returned to the court room after having been out for 40 minutes there were two or three hundred spectators in the benches and when they heard the verdict it was noticeable that every one agreed with it and if a Canadian court would permit, there would have been a demonstration of approval. Those who heard the trial, or followed the evidence had little doubt of what the verdict would be. Still there is always a certain amount of anxiety while the jury is out and this case was no exception.

His Honor Judge Huycke, in charging the jury, did so in a very careful and thorough manner. He went over the important points in the evidence and pointed out the strong and the weak features. He referred with deep regret to the deplorable conditions as brought out by the defence, through the character evidence of the two police officers. He said that it was a serious matter and that it grieved him very much. In referring to the police he said; We owe the police a deep debt of gratitude for they protect our lives, property and families. We should assist them in every way possible. But if the varacity of the police is so generally considered bad it is a danger to the community. When one goes over the evidence it will be found that his honor was very fair and impartial in his charge and in the whole conduct of the case.

Mr. D. O'Connell, of O'Connell & Gordon, made a brilliant address to the jury in presenting the case on behalf of the defence. His arguments were very forceful and convincing, and after hearing him there could be no doubt left in the minds of the jurors as to the defendant's innocence.

County Crown Attorney R. E. Wood in presenting the case to the jury for the Crown, did so in a very strong manner. He brought out many important points and laid stress upon them and he was commended by his Honor the Judge.

The evidence for the defence was of a most sensational nature. It was character evidence and witness after witness went into the box and swore that they would not believe Newhall or Meharry on their oaths and many gave their reasons for forming such an opinion of the two police officers.

Mr. W. H. Denham, manager of the Quaker Oats: "Would you believe Newhall on oath?" "I could not say that I would."

Mr. Alf. Haskill, a resident of Peterborough for 25 years: "Would you believe Newhall on oath?" "No, I would not."

Mr. Jos. Stewart, License Inspector and ex police officer: "Have you watched the Oriental Hotel with Newhall?" "Yes, several times." "Did you see anything work?" "No, I did not." "Would you believe Newhall on his oath?" "No, I would not."

Fire Chief Howard: "What do you hear about Newhall's reputation for veracity?" "It is shady or slippery."

Richard Sheehy, contractor and resident of the city for the past 40 odd years: "Would you believe Newhall on oath?" "No, I would not."

Rev. Dr. Langfeldt, rector of St Luke's church. The reverend doctor before answering stated to the judge that he was present under protest. He would much prefer not to give evidence as he always wanted to help a man rather than injure any one. He had been called as a witness because of a remark he was heard to make, and could not get out of appearing.

Asked what he knew of Newhall the reverend doctor said he would not take Newhall's evidence without some other corroboration. He did not like Newhall's methods and considered that he often overstepped the mark in his ambition to get a conviction.

J. H. BURNHAM.

Mr. J. H. Burnham, editor of the Review, and a life long resident of the city: "What do you know of Meharry's reputation?" "It is bad." "Would you believe him on oath?" "No, most certainly not." Mr. Burnham then gave a description of Meharry's conversation before the late protest trial and during the trial and of his actual evidence in the witness box. He wound up with the statement in no uncertain terms, "I consider Meharry a first-class liar."

ERNEST BARTLETT.

Ernest Bartlett, night foreman at The Times:—"Would you believe Meharry on his oath?" "Certainly not." "Did he ever threaten you?" "Yes, last night when I was returning from lunch, Meharry asked me, 'What in ——— was I going to say against him?' He threatened to make it hot for me or any one else who gave evidence against him."

At this point Mr. O'Connell asked the judge to have Meharty arrested for threatening a witness in the case. His honor said it was a very improper thing to do and especially so for a police officer. He thought Mr. O'Connell might wait until after the trial.

Mr. P. J. Kennedy, a printer at The Times: "Would you believe Meharry on his oath?" "No, I would not."

Mr. G. N. Gordon was called to correct Newhall's evidence in reference to a conversation between Gordon and Newhall that morning when leaving the court room.

This closed the case for the defence and the counsel addressed the jury.

FIREMEN'S CHRISTMAS TREE.

Great Preparations Being Made — Many Contributions Received.

Great preparations are being made by the chief of the fire department and his men for the big Christmas tree and Christmas festivities on Wednesday afternoon next. The chief has received a great many letters from citizens all approving of the celebration and expressing confidence in the chief and his men to guard the city against serious fires. A great many have contributed towards the affair and there is not the least doubt in the world but that it will be one of the happiest occasions the city has experienced. The children will be more than delighted as the tree will be heavily ladened with toys and things which will interest and please them.

After the distribution of presents and an informal program, a supper will be served in the dormitories for the firemen, their wives, children and the invited guests. There will be some more music and good fellowship and then the party will disperse and seek their respective hay stacks.

PRESIDENT ZELAYA RESIGNS

Nicaraguan Dictator Decides to Get Out of Office.

Managua, Dec. 18.—President Zelaya has resigned. His action was probably inspired by the knowledge that his power was rapidly waning, and that many of his former adherents were only awaiting a favorable opportunity to turn and rend him. The recent defeat of the Government troops by the revolutionists gave back-bone to the waverers, and practically the whole population of the capital, with the dread of Zelaya's vengeance removed, assumed a defiant attitude to their whilom ruler. The presence of American warships, the news of the coming of others, and the publication of Secretary Knox's letter breaking off diplomatic relations with Nicaragua also had a most important effect in denuding Zelaya of supporters.

The wildest sort of rumors were in circulation, none of which could be verified, but all suspense was ended when the news spread like wildfire that the Director had finally decided that he had sent his formal resignation to the National Assembly. Action was immediately taken in the matter, the Assemble appointing a committee to prepare a bill providing for the acceptance of the resignation.

ACUTE DYSPEPSIA.

Restoration of Stomach Power Comes Quickly With the Right Medicine.

"My food seemed to decompose in my stomach," writes Mr. Ralph Clemmons, of Newbridge, P.O. "I had a stomach that failed in some way to perform its work. Digestion seemed more or less arrested and I grew thin, yellow, nervous. The stomach became distended and impended apparently the action of the heart, for often at night it would do great stunts. At times I would vomit a mucous mass, and at these times my head ached most terribly. A friend, who had been cured of a similar condition advised me to take Dr. Hamilton's Pills regularly, which I did. The result in my case was simply marvellous! Dr. Hamilton's Pills removed the cause, strengthened the stomach, excited the liver to normal action, the kidneys were relieved of excessive work. Health soon glowed within me. I can now eat, sleep and live like a live man."

Be advised—Used Dr. Hamilton's Pills—they are sure to do you good. 25c. per box, at all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kinkston, Ont.

Three Killed, 20 Hurt, in Cleveland Wreck

Cleveland, Ohio., Dec. 18.—Three people were killed, three probably fatally injured, and more than a score slightly hurt early today when train No. 1, on the Lake Shore, bound from New York to Chicago, was "side-swiped" by a switch engine in the yards at the foot of East 26th street.

The dead are

H. L. Adams, Collingwood, engineer passenger train; Frank Finlan, George Franks, brakeman.

Those most seriously injured include; Eddie Bocker of Madison, Ohio; Jacob Carrier, Buffalo, fireman of the passenger train; and William Burns, engineer of the switch train.

The passenger train which consisted of nine Pullman coaches and one day coach, was traveling at the rate of 20 miles an hour, and had a clear track ahead of it. The switch engine attempted to cross to the main track ahead of the passenger, yardmen say.

The switch engine was shattered and bits of it were strewn along the track for three blocks. The passenger engine turned over on its side, and the first three Pullmans left the track.

The crew of the passenger engine clung to their posts and the engineer was crushed to death. The fireman sustained a fractured skull. The crew of the switch engine jumped

RAILWAY TRAGEDY

Points to Murder—Woman Found Mangled by Train Near Paris.

Paris, Dec. 17.—The body of Mme Gouin, whose husband was the late Jules Edouard Gouin, governor of the Bank of France, was found mangled by a train near Paris today. The door of the compartment in which she was traveling was almost torn from its hinges, and there was a pool of blood on the floor. The relatives of Mme Gouin first believed that while trying to emerge from the train her dress became entangled in the door, throwing her under the wheels.

Now, however, the police believe they have found evidence of a crime. Rings and other jewelry were missing from her reticule. The curtain of the door of the compartment, covered with bloody finger marks, was found half a mile from the body.

The affair has created a sensation on account of the prominence of the woman, but no arrests have been made.

A Week of Fireworks in Election Campaign

Human Nature Finds it Hard to Stand Continued Excitement—Meetings All Over the Kingdom

London, Dec. 18. There are signs that the feverish rush of Messrs Lloyd George and Churchill is spending itself

This is inevitable, human nature being what it is. It has been a week of stupendous speech making.

Apart from thousands of smaller meetings in all parts of the three kingdoms there have been thirty-one big speeches from peers, who certainly proved amid excited heckling that they are not fools, knaves or cowards; thirteen from Unionist ex-cabinet ministers, twenty-four from Radical cabinet ministers—winding up last night with great splashes from Messrs. Lloyd George and John Burns.

If platform fireworks alone counted the ministers must win easily.

Nobody on the Unionist side compares with Lloyd George, Churchill or Burns in mob oratory, but it is significant to note that the shrewd-est Unionist election workers, remembering that the results after all lies with the residum of, say, 20 per cent of the quieter kind of middle class and workingmen, still express confidence in a Unionist victory.

Aunt of Murdered Woman Paid Mysterious Visit to Snead

St Catharines, Dec. 18.—It became known last night that Mrs. Caroline Martin, aunt of Mrs. Ocey W. H. Snead, the first Orange, N.J. bath victim, paid a secret six four days' visit to the city last June, and was closeted for a time with dear auth Fletcher W[illegible] the husband of the dead woman much of the time. The woman came here on Sunday, June 13, left on the afternoon of June 17.

When she reached the hotel the woman was dressed in black and was heavily veiled. She registered as Mrs. Ball, Cleveland, Ohio, and was assigned to a room on the second floor. Returning to the desk she said that she would prefer a much cheaper room, adding that she had private reasons for stopping at the New Murray. She was assigned to a room on the top floor and then in an undertone asked Clerk Richard G. Smith if there was a man working there by the name of John Lucas. Receiving an affirmative answer, she said that as soon as he could be allowed to leave his duties she would like to see him in her room. "I am his aunt," she explained.

From this time until she left the following Thursday afternoon Mrs. Ball and Lucas spent much time together in the former's room.

One of the hotel attaches yesterday showed Snead a picture of Mrs. Martin and exclaimed; "That's a good picture of your aunt, isn't it?" Snead replied that it was a good likeness, and when he took the paper in his hand and saw a picture of himself holding a boy on his knee, he burst into tears and sobbed bitterly.

When Snead recovered himself he was asked by a reporter if he would make a statement after reading his mother in law's statement that his wife was a victim of suicidal mania. He absolutely refused to do so. He was again visited at his room in the servants' quarters shortly before midnight. He was found reading a New York paper and the room was littered with papers. It contained enough to supply the reading room of a public library. Snead said he did not intend to leave the city and refused to answer questions

A BIG CONSPIRACY.

New York, Dec. 18.—Mrs. Caroline W. Martin raised her heavy veil today and suddenly became spokeswoman for the three silent sisters who must explain to the courts of New Jersey the death of Ocey Snead. Mrs. Martin, the victim's mother, Virginia Wardlaw, the aunt, and Mrs. Mary Snead, another aunt, are all charged with the murder of Ocey Snead.

"I am here," volunteered Mrs. Martin yesterday, "as the result of a conspiracy on the part of millionaires who want what little property I have left. Every newspaper in New York is subsidized by these millionaires who are persecuting me. I and my sisters have lived out of the way of the world, and things we say are easily twisted. The shock and injustice of my arrest have enfeebled a very old woman. If that is what my enemies want they need go no further.

"My daughter Ocey came to her death by her own hand. I did not see her do it. I did not know that it was done until Virginia was arrested, but I was not surprised."

Supposed Dead Man Yawned and Sat Up

Terre Haute, Ind., Dec. 17. As an undertaker started to prepare the body of Edward Murphy for burial the supposed dead man arose in bed and yawned. "I feel better after that long sleep," he said.

Murphy had been in a state of coma for ten hours. He had been an invalid for a long time. But the undertaker soon was recalled for Murphy really died yesterday after joking to the frightened embalmer about his "first death."

O.R.F.U. ANNUAL.

Dr. A. W. McPherson Was Elected to the Executive.

Toronto, Dec. 18.—The annual meeting of the O.R.F.U. was held in the King Edward this afternoon, with President A. R. Dennison in the chair.

The secretary-E. Livingston, in presenting his report, commended the clubs for the spurt they have shown during the past year and also scored the Aura Lee Club for their infringement of the rules. The financial statement showed a balance of $79.77, while the following officers were elected. President, A. R. Dennison; first vice-president, Father Carr; second vice-president, A. B. McGillivray; secretary, E. J. Livingstone; junior representatives, Percy Scott (London), James Brydon, Y.M.C.A.; senior representatives, Dr. A. W. McPherson (Peterborough), E. Ray Clarke, (T.A.A.C.), Dr. S. A. Weismiller (Parkdale).

President Dennison thanked the union for doing him the honor of re-electing him to office. He said he had played the game himself in his younger days, but there has been a great change in the style of play since then. He congratulated the clubs on the good sporting spirit displayed in all the matches. The showing made by Parkdale against the great Varsity team was a tribute to the strength of the union, besides furnishing a big surprise to the sideline critics. He also referred in the highest terms of praise to the St. Michael's College team, whose win of the Canadian junior championship was most creditable. He prophesied great things for the union next year.

The following amendments were passed:

That when the receipts are not sufficient to cover expenses of the competing teams, which shall be computed on a basis of six cent per mile one way per man for 15 men; the expenses shall be pooled and deficits shared equally between the two clubs.

It was also decided to send three representatives to the Canadian Rugby Union meet in Montreal next month, and that they be chosen from the following: Dr. Wisemiller, Ed. Livingstone, W. A. Hewitt, Father Carr, Dr. Wood, and A. R. Clark. These representatives will be allowed $15 each for expenses.

Missionary Sunday.

The three Methodist churches in the city celebrated the missionary anniversary yesterday and sermons appropriate to the occasion were delivered by Rev. Dr. Allen and Rev. Shore and Rev. W. Mortimore, B.A., a returned missionary from China.

The old, old story, told times without number, and repeated over and over again for the last 36 years, but it is always a welcome story to those in search of health—There is nothing in the world that cures coughs and colds as quickly as Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. 10

Horse's Leg Swelled

"I have had a long experience in treating horses, and I can safely say that I know of no liniment for strains, sprains, and swelling that is so useful around the stable as Nerviline." Thus writes Mr. Joshua E. Murchison, from his home, Crofts Hill, P.O. I had a fine young mare that wrenched her right fore leg, and from the shoulder down she was stiff, sore and swollen. I applied Nerviline, and it worked like a charm; in fact, that mare was in shape to work a day after I used Nerviline.

NERVILINE IS A TRUSTY LINIMENT

"We have used Nerviline on our farm for twenty-five years and never found it wanting. For man or beast it is a wonderful liniment."

We have received nearly five thousand letters recommending Nerviline as a general household liniment, as an all-round cure for aches and pians One million bottnles used each year. Try it yourself. Large 25c. bottles of Nerviline, five for $1.00. All dealers or The Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

Heaviness at Pit of the Stomach

A Feeling of Uneasiness Before and After Meals is Quickly Cured With Nerviline.

Nearly everyone gets an occasional attack of indigestion and knows just what that heavy feeling means in the stomach. "I was subject to stomach derangements and my health was seriously hampered on this account. After meals I belched gas, had a wiggly sensation in my stomach and over my left side. The first relief I got was from Nerviline—I used it three times a day and was cured. I continue to use Nerviline occasionally, and find it is a wonderful aid to the stomach and digestive organs." The above letter comes from Mrs. P. R. Stetson, wife of an important merchant in Brockton, and still further proof of the exceptional power of Nerviline is furnished by A. E. Rossman, the well-known upholsterer of Chester, who writes: "Let everyone with a bad stomach use 'Nerviline,' and I am sure there will be few sufferers left. I used to have cramps, rumbling noises, gas on my stomach and severe fits of indigestion. Nerviline was the only remedy that gave me relief, and I found it so entirely satisfactory that I would like to have my letter of recommendation published broadcast in order that others may profit by my experience."

A GLOWING TRIBUTE

Speaking at the manufacturers' banquet in Montreal a few days ago Sir Thomas Shaughnessy of the C.P.R., painted the following glowing picture of Canada of the future:—

"We can with a great deal of propriety and certainty look forward to the Canada of a not remote future, and view our country as it will be, productive, prosperous and populous with all the lines of transportation, necessary to connect the provinces and provide for their traffic, that our fields and forests and fisheries worked conservatively and intelligently, will yield handsome profits, with our minerals adding yearly to our national wealth; with our water powers harnessed and furnishing energy to our factories to handle the country's products; with our waterways deepened and improved and our ocean ports equipped to meet any traffic that may come to them; with an increased fleet of faster ships on the Pacific and faster ships on the Atlantic, and with the Dominion occupying a foremost place amongst the intelligent, refined peoples of the world. Because while this vast progress has been and is being carried on education is not being neglected, and literature and the arts have been encouraged. We can look forward to see Canada as a great nation, a powerful influence in the councils of the British people, unfailing in her devotion and fealty to the Motherland with an attachment which grows with her growth and strengthened as she has strengthened—a nation self-reliant and self-contained, honored and respected by all her fellow-dominions in the Empire, a most potent factor in Imperial affairs."

RACED WITH A KING.

Alfonso Was Persistent, and His Opponent Was Courteous.

Of the many residents of Baltimore who passed last summer in Europe probably none attained the distinction of Mr. Samuel C. Rowland, vice president of the International Trust company, who, while motoring in Spain, met King Alfonso of the land of Cervantes. In fact, he met the king three times.

The meetings occurred on the road from Biarritz to San Sebastian and, although interesting, were brief. The first time the king passed Mr. Rowland, then Mr. Rowland passed the king, and finally Alfonso passed Mr. Rowland. They did not speak as they passed by.

Asked yesterday to recite the details of his auto race with the monarch, Mr. Rowland smiled and said:

"I'm a little dubious of this king business," said Mr. Rowland deprecatingly. "First there's the danger of international complications, and then there's leze majesty to be considered."

"Your autos were going in the same direction?" was suggested.

"Yes," assented Mr Rowland.

"And which was ahead?"

"Well, we were ahead at first, but the king passed us. Then somehow we began to gain on him. Whether my son Harvey, who was driving, opened the throttle a little I am hardly prepared to say. At all events, we gained on him slowly and finally passed him."

"And then?"

"Most persistent king I ever saw," said Mr. Rowland seriously. "In the following mile his machine touched the ground only three times by actual count, and then he passed us."

"And who was ahead at the finish?"

"Well, noblesse oblige, you know, and we let Alfonso keep the lead."—Baltimore Sun.

Invention of the Automobile.

No one man can be said to have invented the automobile, says the Boston Globe. The machine as it is today is the product of many minds in many countries. Horseless vehicles date back almost to the time when steam became a motive power, and as long ago as 1802 Richard Trevithick, an Englishman, constructed a machine which made a trip of ninety miles over country roads. In 1863 Delamarre-Debouteville and Malandin of Paris invented a tricycle propelled by compressed gas and a year later used petroleum for generating power. Pinhard and Lerassar were the first to invent a really practical petroleum motor. This was in 1880, since which time the development of the various types of road motors has been rapid. Electricity as a motive power for road machines was first used in the early eighties, but it was not until about 1895 that it began to be looked upon as a rival of petroleum. Of late years gasoline and steam motors have been extensively used.

Removable Clock Dials.

An improvement in clock dials which makes repairing much more convenient has been designed by a New York man. This dial is made in two parts, which slide through grooves at the sides and meet in the middle of the face. Their action is absolutely independent of the hands, and the sections may be removed with ease without first taking off the hands, as was necessary formerly. Such a contrivance not only makes less work for the clock man when repairs are necessary, but because of the ease with which the face is removed and the works reached many a man will be able to make his own repairs where he would otherwise have hesitated to attempt it. Most clocks are adjusted from the back, but the difficulty often lies in a front part, which is difficult to reach from the rear, even by an expert on timepieces. With a clock that opens both back and front every bit of mechanism is conveniently accessible.—Chicago News.

Metal Cutting With Oxygen.

A recent improvement in the method of cutting metals by a jet of oxygen consists in keeping the metal round the place where the jet operates in a state of incandescence. This does away with the former trouble caused by the presence of iron oxide and by unsteady manipulation of the jet. Plates of steel twelve inches thick can be cut by the jet. In one recent case a slab of steel eight inches thick was cut into strips three-quarters of an inch wide, and the width of the cut made by the jet was only about a quarter of an inch. Circular cuts can be made, and instead of penetrating straight down from the face of the plate the cut can be made bevel.

A Two Ton Crystal.

Near Fang San, a low mountain some ten miles to the west of Hai-chow, a huge piece of crystal was recently unearthed. It is said to weigh 3,000 catties, is over four feet in diameter and five feet long. This is the second large crystal found at this place within two months. The crystal is a sort of flint. It is used in the making of Chinese spectacles and brings large prices. It is said that the owners were offered $25,000 for the piece.—Shanghai Times.

To Relieve Sore Throat.

At this season of the year, when sore throats, laryngitis and similar complaints are very prevalent in London, it may interest your readers to know of a very simple remedy which is recommended by the celebrated Dr Fauvel of Paris. He recommends a gargle of ordinary tea before going out in the morning and, if possible, on returning at night.—London Standard

A prize list may be obtained from the secretary, Mr. John R. Eastwood, at the Royal Bank, Hunter street.

FIFTY YEARS A WRITER

HOW MISS BRADDON CAME TO WRITE NOVELS.

Then a Girl, Popular Authoress Was Always Scribbling—Was Offered $50 For First Novel—Wrote First Instalment of Lady Audley's Secret Overnight — Has Retained First Rank Ever Since.

To have delighted the world for half a century with an unceasing stream of fiction; to have published a novel for every year of her long life; and to be able to entrance the grandson of to-day as she entranced their grandparents in the middle of last century is the proud record of Miss Braddon, who at seventy-two seems still to possess the secret of perennial youth.

Much water has run under the bridges of her beloved Thames since Mary Elizabeth Braddon laboriously wrote her first story by its banks at Chiswick in a child's round hand and between pencilled lines. The love of the pen was in the little one's blood; for her father, a London solicitor, had made "Rough Robin" famous in the world of sportsmen, and her mother was saturated with a passion for literature. And so Mary Elizabeth took to writing as naturally as a duck to the water.

As a schoolgirl, with her home still by the Thames at Barnes, she was always scribbling in her exercise books; and, under the eyes of her teachers, who furtively pencilled quite a long story, "The Old Armchair," which made her famous among her schoolfellows. But alas! for years she could not thaw the hard hearts of the editors. All the literary doves she sent out to them came back to her ark with the exasperating regularity of clockwork.

One day, however, when she was emancipated from the schoolroom, she awoke to find a letter awaiting her which revolutionized her world. It was from a Beverley printer, who had seen a sketch by her in a Yorkshire paper, and who offered her the sum of $50 to write a story for him, which should "combine the humor of Dickens with the plot-construction of G. W. M. Reynolds." It was a large order and a small guerdon, but the girl was transported with delight.

Before she was many days older she had transported herself and her mother to a Beverley farmhouse, and was reeling off the masterpiece of Dickens cum Reynolds at a thousand words an hour, weaving her plot as she rode about the Yorkshire lanes. She boldly christened her story, "Three Times Dead; or The Secret of the Heath"; and it was a very proud moment in her life when she handed the last sheets of the manuscript to the printer's boy. The book certainly did not make the printer's fortune, but renamed "The Trail of the Serpent," it had a new and vigorous lease of life.

Still fame refused to knock at her door, but not for long. A little later Mr. Maxwell, a publisher, projected a new magazine, the great feature of which was to be a serial for a famous writer. To his dismay, however, the serial, which had been extensively advertised, was not forthcoming at the proper time. Mr. Maxwell was in despair, until a letter came, signed "M. E. Braddon," offering to write a serial. "Too late," was his answer to the young authoress when she called on him. "But what is the latest play you can give me?" she persisted. "Well," said Mr. Maxwell, "if the manuscript of the opening chapters is on my breakfast-table to-morrow morning that would be in time."

Next morning Mr. Maxwell found the first chapters of "Lady Audley's Secret" among his correspondence, his venture was saved, and Miss Braddon was on the high road to fame and fortune. Such was the romantic genesis of one of the most popular books ever written.

Then followed in quick succession "Aurora Floyd," "Eleanor's Victory," and "Henry Dunbar," all eagerly welcomed by thousands of admiring readers; and Miss Braddon took her place, which she has ever since retained, in the foremost rank of the writers of fiction. Since these early triumphs there has been scarcely a year when she has not given the world at least one of her fascinating novels; in some years she has published two and in others three; until her fiction-children now number more than her own years.

And Miss Braddon's life has been as happy as it has been busy. For nearly forty years her home has been in a fine old Georgian house, once the abode of the Bishop of Lichfield, at Richmond—for nothing can wean her from the river she loves so well. Here, surrounded by her birds and dogs, and her wonderful collection of china and books, she has led an ideal life, writing her books in the peace of her beautiful garden or in her study, entertaining her friends with a charming hospitality, and devoted to her home and her three sons, all of whom have made a name in the world of letters.

In her younger days she might be seen almost every morning cantering in Richmond Park on Kaiser, her white-footed bay, her eyes sparkling and face flushed with health and exercise; and even to-day there are few horsewomen in England more graceful or expert. For the rest, she spends her leisure in gardening, music, and study, of all of which she is passionately fond. A simple, gracious life, spent in womanly ways remote from the glare of the limelight—that is what Miss Braddon loves, and it is this that has preserved her youth and powers unimpaired into the seventies.

As for her methods of work, she carefully maps out her books to the smallest details before putting pen to paper; then, with her writing-pad on her knees, she fills sheet after sheet with her small handwriting, clear as print, with a wonderful rapidity, never pausing for a word and rarely making a correction. From a thousand to fifteen hundred words an hour is her normal rate of production. She stops work at luncheon-time.

Preventics, the new Candy Cold Cure Tablets, are said by Druggists to have four special specific advantages over all other remedies for a cold. First—They contain no Quinine, nothing harsh or sickening. Second—They give almost instant relief. Third—Pleasant to the taste, like candy. Fourth—A large box 48 Preventics—at 25 cents. Also fine for feverish children. Sold by all dealers.

Mr. Ernest Bowson, who underwent an operation for appendicitis at Nicolls Hospital, has resumed his duties at the office of the Peterborough Lock Company. His many friends will be glad to hear of his recovery.

MODERN PEKIN.

Chinese Capital Now Brilliant With Electric Lights at Night.

Modern Pekin, China's great capital, has its telegraphs and telephones. Every official and prominent business man now has his own 'phone. The service is under the Government Board of Communication, and it is good. A few years ago the city had no street lamps, but candles placed inside a wooden framework backed with white paper. It was impossible to walk the streets after dark without a servant and a lantern, and the night life of the people was confined to their homes. At that time a story was current in the foreign quarters that the Government appropriated $40,000 a year for lighting the city, and that this sum was distributed as follows: The official in charge of the matter took $40,000 as his share and the other $40,000 was handed over to his chief lieutenant, who pocketed $20,000 and gave the balance to a third man, who made a similar division. The distribution went on until the sum was at last reduced to a few copper cash, which were given to coolies to buy oil and wicks to be placed in saucer-like lamps. They set the lamps on the street, where the beggars drank up the oil, and that was the end of the light appropriation.

However this may be, no real light was furnished and the new Pekin was created. To-day the city looks most beautiful at night. Its long wide streets shine with incandescent globes. There are thousands of lights about the gates of the palaces and of those which go through the walls. There are many street lamps, and one can find his way anywhere at any hour of the evening. The new electric light plant stands close to the wall of the Tartar city, and its smokestack is visible for miles over the country. In addition there is a plant which lights the palace, and for obvious reasons the legation city has a plant of its own.

Coloring a Meerschaum Pipe.

Ordinarily a meerschaum pipe is boiled for coloring in a preparation of wax, which is absorbed, and a thin coating of wax is had on the surface of the pipe and made to take a high polish. Under the wax is retained the oil of tobacco, which is absorbed by the pipe, and its hue grows darker in proportion to the tobacco used.

A meerschaum pipe at first should be smoked very slowly, and before a second bowlful is lighted the pipe should cool off. This is to keep the wax as far up the bowl as possible, and rapid smoking will overheat, driving the wax off and leaving the pipe dry and raw.

A new pipe should never be smoked outdoors in extremely cold weather. Fill the pipe and smoke down about one-third, or to the height to which you want color. Leave the remainder of the tobacco in the pipe, and do not empty or touch it for several weeks, or until the desired color is obtained. When smoking put fresh tobacco on the top and smoke to the same level.

When once colored the pipe cannot be satisfactorily colored unless the burned portion is removed and the surface again treated by the process by which meerschaum is prepared. The coloring is produced by the action of the smoke upon the oils and wax which are originally on the exterior of the pipe as they are applied in the same process of manufacture.

Europe's Highest Village.

"The highest village in Europe" is the inscription on a postcard which shows a group of wooden cottages on a bleak hill, with no sign of vegetation in sight save leaving as a background a range of ice-covered mountains. The name of the place is Cumeaz, in the Grison Wallis. It lies 2,047 meters above the sea level. "Where Mont Rose raises its gigantic head into the clouds." The village consists of four families, and the latest census gives it a population of twenty-six. "The storms of spring and fall and the cold of the winter months," says the sender of the card, "make life a dreary one, and still the people look happy, and doubtless they are so."

Old Time Butterscotch.

But three pounds of light brown sugar in an enameled kettle with three-fourths of a pound of butter. Place over a moderate fire to melt. Let it boil until thick, stirring all the while to prevent scorching. Take the kettle from the fire and pour the boiling hot liquid into buttered tins or upon a large flat meat platter. When stiff enough mark off into big squares and when cold break them apart and wrap each square in wax paper. But butterscotch carefully made will keep for months. It improves with age.

Man's Future.

A man is a bundle of relations, a knot of roots, whose flower and fruitage is the world. All his faculties refer to nature out of him. All his faculties point but the world he is to inhabit, as the fins of the fish foresee that water exists, or the wings of an egg presuppose a medium of light air. Insulate and you destroy him. He cannot live without a world.—Emerson.

A Walking Hotel.

After a visit to a famous entomologist whose wonderful microscopes have proved that there is always something being to be found preying on the least of the minutest creatures last seen an English writer turned to him and said:

"I cannot help believing myself to be an involuntary host. I am supplying myself to be a certain species."

LABOR IN AFRICA.

Recruiting Workers Among Natives a Hazardous Position.

The labor agent, the recruiting agent of some sort, leads a more ordinary enough life in other climes, but in Africa the game takes on the charm of adventure. For on the dark continent the labor agent's work, which consists of recruiting natives for work on the mines, is done in the midst of dangers other grades of society know not. [illegible] white settlers at Taveta, that the agent has a necessary part in his own [illegible].

Up to 10 years ago Stanley P. Hyatt, who [illegible] many years as labor agent for the big diamond mines of Kimberley and elsewhere, "a good many years ago, even in nominally British territories, were little more than slave raiders. I have met them going out with a dozen armed 'followers.' Their business it was to surprise a village after nightfall and capture all the likely looking men. In the Portuguese colonies the raids were carried out on an even larger scale by regular uniformed troops, though latterly the ugly temper of the natives themselves has made the business a risky one. I remember well an alarm in one of the big villages when within a couple of minutes there were over a hundred sturdy savages, armed with long bows and poisoned arrows, crouching in the jungle just beyond the huts, waiting for the raiders.

"On another occasion some Portuguese native soldiers tried to exploit what was to them a new district. I saw them going down, but never heard of their coming back, although I had to camp a few miles away. Months after I learned the story of their fate. They passed through a number of tiny, poverty stricken villages, where they found no one but women though everywhere they went, of the big krails on ahead down to the southeast, and so they trapped on right into the deadly thorn circle where the m'chopi, the 'archers' or 'bushmen,' are, and the latter killed them to the last man. It was a grim trick to play, but the old chief who told me the story liked over it. To him it evident was a fair one-sided."

Dainties For the King.

King Edward has recently enjoyed the delights of a lamprey-pie, which is what very few people have the opportunity of doing.

No one knows when the custom started, but for many, many years Gloucester has annually contributed a lamprey pie to His Majesty's table. The custom was temporarily dropped in 1836, when the corporation was abolished, but it was revived by permission of Queen Victoria in 1893.

Another delicacy which the King enjoys are the first plovers' eggs of the season. There is keen competition among all gardeners to be the first to send these eggs for the King's table.

If His Majesty is in London they are sent to Buckingham Palace, but at times they have been sent by special messenger to Biarritz when he was staying there. At the beginning of the season plovers' eggs often three shillings or four shillings apiece.

Preventics, the new Candy Cold Cure Tablets, are said by Druggists to have four special specific advantages over all other remedies for a cold. First—They contain no Quinine, nothing harsh or sickening. Second—They give almost instant relief. Third—Pleasant to the taste, like candy. Fourth—A large box 48 Preventics—at 25 cents. Also fine for feverish children. Sold by all dealers.

Synopsis of Canadian Northwest Land Regulations.

ANY PERSON WHO IS THE sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother, or sister of an intending homesteader.

Duties—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 30 acres, solely owned and occupied by him, or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties — Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

GUARANTEED INVESTMENT

The Remarkable Offer Made by the Treasury Gold Mining and Milling Company of Fairview, Nevada

Guaranterd by a $1,000,000 Bank

SUPPOSE a million-dollar bank should offer you a gold bond, guaranteeing you against loss in an investment you desired to make, and providing that, whether the investment did or did not prove a profitable one, the bank would pay you back every dollar of your money at the end of twenty years, wouldn't that "look good" to you? And wouldn't you take it?

Wouldn't it look as though the bank itself, as well as the men behind the enterprise that formed the basis of the investment, had absolute confidence in it, and looked upon it as a safe and profitable venture?

Can you figure out any way in which you could possibly lose the money you put into an enterprise with that kind of backing? To be sure, you would run the risk of not receiving interest for that length of time on the amount of your investment, but you would also run the chance of multiplying it many times over in the way of dividends—and that is worth something, isn't it? In other words, you have opportunity to win, and not a single chance to lose.

Now, that is exactly what we, the officers and directors of Treasury Gold Mining and Milling Company, of Reno, Nevada, are offering for a short time to those who wish to take advantage of it, and we make this remarkable offer, first, because we know what we have in the way of a property, and, second, because we need a little more capital to erect a mill upon it and make it an extremely profitable producer in the shortest possible time.

This is the first time, to our personal knowledge, that an offer like this has ever been made with reference to any enterprise of a similar character, here or elsewhere.

Organization, Capitalization and Officers

Treasury Gold Mining and Milling Company is organized under the laws of the State of Nevada, with a capital stock of One Million Dollars ($1,000,000), divided into One Million (1,000,000) shares, of the par value of One Dollar ($1.00 each, full paid and non-assessable, and with no personal liability attaching to the stockholders. The number of shares in the treasury is Four Hundred Thousand (400,000).

The principal office of the company is at No. 336 Mill Street, Reno, Nevada, and the depository of the company is the Nixon National Bank, of the same city.

The officers are as follows: President, D. J. Kennedy, an old resident of Nevada, and one of the best known and most successful mining operators in the state; vice-president, F. W. Thomas, of the firm of John Breuner & Co., one of the largest mercantile establishments in the city; secretary, Donald Fraser, one of the proprietors of the Red Cross Drug Company, of Reno; treasurer, H. L. Burchell, mining operator, and manager of the most prominent of the leading law firms of the state.

Board of directors: D. J. Kennedy, F. W. Thomas, H. L. Burchell; Eugene Kelly, department manager with the Gray, Reid, Wright company, and Donald Fraser.

Location and Character of Properties

The holdings of Treasury Gold Mining and Milling Company include the following valuable properties in the famous Fairview district, in Churchill county, Nevada, reached by a fine wagon road from Fallon, the county seat:

By purchase outright—fully paid for and deed recorded at Fallon—valuable mining estates on both sides of the great Mizpah mine, on both of which properties rich ore has been found.

By purchase—paid for, deeded and recorded—the Treasury group of two full claims, amounting to 40 acres, to the north-east of the Mizpah mine, the rich ledge of which we have every reason to believe courses straight through our property for at least 2,000 feet. This we regard as a very valuable holding.

By purchase, an undivided one-half interest in seven claims, containing 100 acres, southwest of the Mizpah, with every indication that the Mizpah vein runs through our ground at least 1,500 feet. The deed for our one-half interest is recorded at Fallon, and we have an option for one year on the other one-half interest.

All the leasing rights and privileges of the Mizpah Milling and Leasing Company on twelve blocks of the celebrated Mizpah mine, for the term of five years. On this property, considerable quantities of fine shipping ore are already opened; drifting has been carried on for some distance on the 100-foot level, while the second level, at 175 feet depth, is now being driven on to catch the same ore body, when shipments will begin.

Values as Shown By Assays

Assays of ores taken from the various properties of the company show the following values:

From Treasury Group at the surface, gold and silver values	$139.50
" " " " " " " "	346.90
" " " " " " " "	77.42
From Kentucky Group, surface workings, gold and silver values	128.00
" " " " " " " "	78.00
From Mizpah shafts, tunnels and upraises, gold and silver values	993.95
" " " " " " " "	239.77
" " " " " " " "	235.46
" " " " " " " "	86.67
" " " " " " " "	84.21

From the foregoing tests, it will be seen that, leaving out of the calculation our own extensive properties, all of which contain indications of remarkable richness, we are fully justified in expecting sufficient profits from the operation of our five-year lease on the great Mizpah mine alone, to pay enormous dividends to all our stockholders. But to operate them all, with the greatly increased facilities and equipment we intend to add, should give us a production equaled by few mining properties in the world.

We have already found very rich ore in the shallow workings of our Kentucky group to the west, and of our Treasury group to the east of the Mizpah, and we can see no reason why both of these properties should not prove fully as rich as the famous Mizpah mine itself. We are in a district noted for its immense bodies of gold and silver ores, and where deep workings open up vast treasure vaults of mineral wealth.

Additional Equipment Required

In order to more speedily place these splendid properties among the high class producers of the state, and to combine the maximum of production and profit with the minimum of cost, considerable additional equipment is required.

This includes a standard, modern mill, to reduce our ore to bullion and concentrates at the mine, thus saving the transportation and treatment charges of $20 to $30 a ton on the ore to the Salt Lake smelters. To be sure, the ore is of such a high grade character that there is a good profit in mining and shipping it even at these high rates, but it would be better business to save it and add that much more to the net profits, by treating it at our own mill, which, under the circumstances, thus becomes a necessity. With a 100-ton plant, we should easily be able to treat our ore at an expense not to exceed $2.50 per ton, and by adding another unit to its capacity, can still further reduce the cost, and thus save from $17.50 to $27.50 per ton on transportation and treating charges alone—quite an item when figuring the net profits.

The first unit capacity of 100 tons daily, of a standard mill, modern in every way, including stamps, amalgamation, fine grinding, concentration and cyaniding, with a sampler in front, so that ore can be purchased from surrounding properties, and general custom work done if desired, will enable us to add one unit after another as may be required with increased development of the ore bodies. By thus adding to the capacity of the mill, we shall be in a position to treat an immense tonnage daily, and pay dividends accordingly.

We will therefore not only effect a great saving of our present expenditures, but earn a handsome revenue, practically all profit, from the large volume of custom work that would be brought to our mill for treatment and reduction.

We also want to sink a capacious double-compartment shaft into the permanent sulphide zone at once, first, in order to have the ore bodies opened up for the mill, and secondly, to aid in determining the proper methods of treatment; so that we may build a mill adapted to the character of the ores, and capable of giving the largest returns to the company in the extraction of the gold and silver values.

Novel Plan to Secure Funds

Now, we are quite willing to admit that equipment of the character already mentioned, which will put the properties in the best possible working shape, will cost more money than is available at present, unless we accept the alternative of sacrificing a small portion of our special stock, in order to begin operations on a profitable basis at once.

The officers and directors of the company have therefore decided to adopt this method, and, while limiting the sales to but one-fifth of the capitalization, to surround the sale of every share with a positive safeguard against any possible loss.

We do not know that such an offer has ever before been made, and we expect the amount offered to be over-subscribed several times when the terms of the offer are made known.

First, we limit the amount of stock that will be sold, in order to provide the funds for necessary equipment, to Two Hundred Thousand (200,000) shares, and this is to be positively the last as well as the first, allotment that will be sold at the present low price, of 20 cents a share, as we honestly believe the stock will be good for dividends of not less than one dollar per share annually, after we commence treating 100 tons daily at the mill.

Stock Guaranteed

In order to absolutely protect purchasers of these shares against the possibility of a loss, we have made arrangements with the Metropolis Trust and Savings Bank, of San Francisco, one of the strongest financial institutions in the United States, to guarantee every share of stock sold, and to issue to every purchaser a gold bond for the full amount of his investment, such bond being payable in twenty years, whether the mines pay or not. Therefore, even if the mines never paid a dollar—though we expect them to pay millions—the stockholders cannot possibly lose anything except the interest on their investment, while they stand to win fortunes from the amounts they put into these properties.

The shares offered on these unparalleled terms may be paid for either in cash or in five equal monthly payments, and the money derived there from will be used entirely for the further development and equipment of the properties. The shares will also be traded in on both the New York and Boston exchanges the moment we begin shipping and paying dividends.

The elements of industrial safety and of the speculative profits of gold mining under such extremely favorable conditions, are combined in this enterprise to a greater degree than in any other undertaking within our knowledge or experience, and will appeal with irresistible force to all sensible and conservative people as an opportunity without an equal. It is a case of "heads, you win! tails, you cannot lose." If the mines pay as we believe they will bring to every stockholder, in dividends, many times the amount of his investment. If they do not pay, he gets his money back.

ADVENTURES IN CLOUDS

COUNT ZEPPELIN DESCRIBES HIS WORK IN THE AIR.

Great German Inventor Who Has Perfected the Dirigible Balloon Has Spent His Last Penny In His Fight to Fly—He Has Had Many Narrow Escapes From Death—Countess Has Helped Him.

If there is one thing which the world and his wife admire more than another, it is pluck and perseverance. For that reason it is not difficult to understand the enthusiasm aroused on the continent by the flying feats of Count Zeppelin. For fifty years he has been striving to solve aerial navigation. He has beggared himself, spent his whole fortune of $150,000, borne the gibes and ridicule poured upon him by sceptics, risked his life time after time, and yet never abandoned faith in his ideas.

In the following words he described his aims to an interviewer a short time ago:

"I intend to build a vessel which will be able to travel to places which cannot be approached or only with great difficulty — by other means of transport; to undiscovered coasts or interiors; in a straight line across land or water where ships are to be sought for; from one fleet station or army to another, carrying persons and despatches; for observation of the movements of hostile fleets or armies —not for active participation in actual warfare.

"My balloon must be able to travel several days without renewing provisions, fuel, or gas. It must travel quickly enough to reach a certain goal in a given number of days, and must possess sufficient rigidity and non-inflammability to ascend, travel, and descend under ordinary conditions."

And the count has succeeded to the extent of being able to remain in the air for many hours and travel hundreds of miles.

"But I am not satisfied," he remarked. "The German Government want an airship which will fulfil the following conditions: First, it must be able to manoeuvre in the air for twenty-four hours; secondly, it must be able to land without injury to itself either on water or earth; and in the last place must be able to ascend to such a height that it cannot be injured by bullet fire. Stringent conditions? Yes, but very necessary if the navigable balloon is to prove of real service. Do I think I can manage to fulfil these conditions? That, of course, is impossible to say, but I am going to try."

And this wonderful master of the air spoke with that quiet earnestness which almost convinced one that he would succeed, in spite of the fact that he is over seventy years of age. He is a man who speaks little of the past. From others one learns of how at one time he became so poor that he had to live in a little cottage on an allowance made to him by his friends. When, at thirty years of age, the count married a lady belonging to one of the German aristocratic families, his friends and relatives, who had regarded him almost as a lunatic on account of his devotion to the task of inventing aerial machines, thought that his wife would wean him from his eccentric ways. But in this respect they were disappointed.

The marriage itself and the ensuing honeymoon interrupted for a time Count Zeppelin's devotion to his research work, but within a year of the wedding day he was again hard at work on the solution of the problem, aided and encouraged by his young wife. Year by year passed, and still the aristocratic mechanic continued to construct all sorts of flying contrivances that for the most part refused to fly. He and his wife, however, were fully agreed that he should devote his whole life to the task of teaching mankind how to fly.

The countess has followed with unwearying interest and self-sacrifice the scientific researches which involved the expenditure of their entire fortune, and Count Zeppelin is the first to admit how much he owes to the encouragement of his wife.

For over thirty years the count devoted himself to the construction of flying machines, "but," he remarked, "the risks were too great and the successes were too small to warrant the continuation of such experiments. On one occasion I fell from a height of forty feet, but happened to alight on some bushes, which broke my fall and saved my life, although I received a number of painful wounds. On another occasion I fell from a considerable height, but again had the good fortune to alight on soft earth without sustaining more than a broken leg. There were but two of a number of accidents which led me to finally abandon the flying machine for the navigable airship."

"But even they have their perils, count?"

"Yes; I suppose one of the narrowest escapes I had was when last year I fell asleep in the cabin of my airship. By some lucky chance I did not sleep for long, and only a few minutes after I awoke the airship was in flames. Had I remained asleep I should certainly have been burned to death."

The adventures of Count Zeppelin, however, would almost fill a volume, for, apart from his exciting experiences in connection with flying machines and balloons, he has had innumerable escapes. He fought in the Franco-German War, and is said to have been the first German soldier to cross the frontier into France.

Boiled Water In Ancient Times.

Now that the use of boiled drinking water has become common it is interesting to be reminded that a similar method of guarding against disease was practiced in ancient times. Herodotus tells how Cyrus had his drinking water boiled and carried in silver vessels, and Pliny the elder relates that Nero had water boiled and afterward cooled for drinking by placing it in glass flasks surrounded with snow.

THE BISHOP STAYED.

He Risked a Row, but Didn't Have to Leave His Bed.

The bishop of a southern diocese was once making a missionary journey through Arkansas and the Indian Territory, and on his arrival at Natchez he said to the landlord of a hotel, "I have been traveling for a week, day and night, in a mail wagon, and I want a comfortable room."

"Sorry," said the landlord, "but I don't believe there's a vacant room in Natchez. There's a horse race, a Methodist conference and a politica convention in the city, and every house is full up. The only thing I can give you is a shakedown." Then observing the bishop's tired face, he added: "The best room in my house is rented to a noted gambler, who usually remains out all night and seldom gets in before breakfast. If you will take the risk you shall have his room, but if he should come in there'll be a row, I'll promise you that."

The bishop decided to take the risk and about 4 o'clock in the morning the gambler returned and promptly shook the bishop by the arm.

"Get out of here or I'll put you out!" he shouted.

The bishop, the gentlest of men, raised himself on one elbow so that he might the muscles of his arm into full relief.

"My friend," he began quietly, "before you put me out will you have the kindness to feel of my arm?"

The gambler put his hand on the bishop's arm.

"Stranger," he then said respectfully, "you can stay."—Youth's Companion.

KEENLY INTERESTED.

Lincoln's Question After the Committeeman Had Finished.

Just after the second battle of Bull Run the Boston chamber of commerce decided that President Lincoln was not prosecuting the war with enough celerity to conserve the interests of business, and so it appointed a committee to go to Washington and remonstrate with him upon his dilatory tactics. The committee was headed by a Mr. Pierce.

"We found," he said, "a man who looked as if he had lost all the friends he ever had in the world, who invited us to take seats and inquired our business. As I was the spokesman, I opened our case, and as I proceeded the president's face relaxed. By and by he smiled and betrayed actual interest, and by the time I concluded he was almost in a broad grin. After I had finished he inquired if that was all I had to say, and on my saying that I thought it was he asked if some of the other gentlemen wouldn't like to say something. They replied that they thought I had fully covered the ground. And then," continued Mr. Pierce, "what do you suppose this solemn man did? Well, he just moved his chair over to mine, smoothed his trousers over his knee, then reached over and smoothed mine down, too, and then, with a queer look, which none of us will ever forget, he said, 'Mr. Pierce, did you ever notice what a difference there is in legs?'

"What did we do? We grabbed our hats and took the first train for Boston, and we never dared to report!"—Ladies' Home Journal.

The Carbuncle.

Carbuncles, to which the ancients attributed fantastic properties, were in reality rubies. They reflected, it was said, to give light to large serpents or dragons whose sight had been enfeebled by age. They were then constantly between their teeth and laid them down only for eating and drinking. It was even claimed that the carbuncle emitted light in darkness and that the thickest clothing could not stop its rays. Without all the exaggeration of such legends it was believed for a long time that rubies contained luminous rays. The truth is that they have double refraction and send out the red rays with unequaled brilliancy. Traversed in a vacuum by an electric current, they are illuminated with a red fire of extreme intensity. The greatest heat does not change their form or their color.

Old Days on the Stage

I have known a dress coat skimmed from one to another of the wings several times during a performance. It was a current idea that white cotton stockings assumed the appearance of silk from the front by means of a heavy line of white [illegible] done. A white tie was manufactured from a strip of note paper and even a shirt front could be managed from highly glazed note paper. White cotton gloves were de rigueur in place of the more expensive kid ones. A gentleman having no black stockings once blacked his legs. After the show he asked the stage manager, "Do we play this piece again?" "Yes; next week." "Oh, then I need not wash my legs."

Might Have Been Worse.

"Poor b'ye" ex-Alderman O'Hara, condoling with Cassidy, who had been injured by a blast, "it's tough luck to have yer hand blowed off."

"Och! Faith, it might have bin worse," replied Cassidy. "Suppose Ol'd had me week's wages in it at the toime."

His Specialty.

"That clerk of yours seems to be a hard worker." "Yes, that's his specialty." "What — working?" "No. Seeming to."—Boston Transcript.

PREVENTION OF FIRES.

How to Avoid Them by Taking Proper Precautions.

Avoid matches whose heads readily snap off. Scores of deaths and destroyed homes are traceable to this cause.

Liquid stove polishes of the kind sold by fakers are nearly always dangerous. Furniture polish should be used with great care too.

All cloths used in rubbing polished floors should be burned away from the house. Neither should they be thrown carelessly around at any time, as there is danger of spontaneous combustion.

Cleaning compounds are always dangerous. Never use benzine, gasoline or like fluids in any room where there is artificial light. These oils are extremely volatile, and their fumes catch fire at a great distance, the flames traveling back to the source. Explosions and scattered fire are the result.

Cleaning compounds are always dangerous. Never use benzine, gasoline or like fluids in any room where there is artificial light. These oils are extremely volatile, and their fumes catch fire at a great distance, the flames traveling back to the source. Explosions and scattered fire are the result.

Never drape a mantel near a gas jet or a stove. Be careful that no portieres or curtains are so hung that they can blow against the flame. Many fires are due to such carelessness.

When you retire for the night see that all the doors in the house are closed. Open doors create a draft. Danger from a dumb waiter may be minimized by seeing that it is tightly closed at night.

When open fireplaces are in use the bricks of the hearth should be imbedded in cement and should not rest on wood. Each hearth should have a fine wire screen shield to prevent sparks flying on rugs or carpets.

Bible In Every Known Language.

According to the 105th report of the British and Foreign Bible Society the Bible will soon be printed in every language and dialect known throughout the world. Complete Bibles or portions of the Bible were issued last year in 418 different languages. During the year six new translations were added to the list. Besides these languages there are complete Bibles or portions of the Scriptures made in embossed type for the blind in 21 different languages.

The number of Bibles issued by the society last year was nearly 6,000,000. Of complete Bibles there were 884,195; New Testaments, 1,116,674, and portions of Scripture, 3,833,842, making a total of 5,934,711.

The colporteurs employed in the work of distribution have an adventurous life. Last year some of them were arrested as spies in Nicaragua, robbed in Burma, stoned in the Philippines and beaten by Moslems in Baluchistan.

Rules on the Clermont.

At the head of regulations for the "North river steamboat" (Clermont) was this paragraph: "The rules which are made for order and neatness in the boat, are not to be abated. Judgment shall be according to the letter of the law. Gentlemen wishing well to the public and useful and establishment, will see the propriety of strict justice, and the impropriety of the least impolition on the purse or feelings of any individual."

One of the rules on the Clermont read: "It is not permitted for any person to lie down in a birth with their boots or shoes on under a penalty of one dollar and a half and a half dollar for every half hour they may offend against this rule."

Both Correct.

A schoolmaster in Liverpool one day asked the dunce of the school some very simple questions in arithmetic. He was surprised to find that he got the right answers, and when he had finished he said to the boy, "Correct, sit down."

"Now," said the schoolmaster, "see if you have sense enough to ask me some questions."

The boy pondered for a moment and then said, "Please, sir, what would three yards of calico cost if cotton was tuppence a reel?"

"I think you take me for a fool," said the schoolmaster.

"Correct; sit down!" returned the boy.—Liverpool Mercury.

Ancient Houses.

Chimneys were wholly unknown to the ancients, who had to let the smoke of their fires escape through an opening in the roof. Chimneys came into use in the fourteenth century. It was in the same century that glass for windows put in its appearance. At a much later date the home comforts were very scarce. Even in gentlemen's houses the second story—where there happened to be one—was approached from the outside, the walls were bare, without wainscot or plaster, their barrenness being, as a rule, unrelieved by picture or decoration.

House Names In Holland.

A recent traveler in that land of dikes and windmills has been at pains to make notes of the names bestowed by the Dutch merchants upon their country houses. Here are a few examples translated. "Our Contentment," "Joy and Peace," "Leisure and Happiness," "My Desire in Satisfied," "Friends and Quiet," "My Wife and I," "Not So Bad." To say the least, any one of these would seem to indicate more of the genuine sentiment of the householder than can possibly be expressed by the "Belle Vues" and "Cedars" of England.—London Mail.

The Roads of Norway.

A curious feature to travelers in the highroads of Norway is the great number of gates—upward of 10,000 in the whole country—which have to be opened. These gates, which either mark the boundaries of the farms or separate the home fields from the waste lands, constitute a considerable inconvenience and delay to the traveler, who has to stop his vehicle and get down to open them.

New Skating Rink.

Manager Hurtubise of the Auditorium Roller Rink intends to have ice skating there this winter, and will make a bid for the patronage of the skating and hockey public. Mr. Hurtubise announces that he will have a big surface and seating accommodation for 800 people. He has made an offer to the City Hockey League to have that body play its matches on Auditorium ice and the City League will consider the matter at its next meeting which will likely be held early next week.

NEWS OF THE CITY

Local Events Gathered by Times' Reporters.

Annual S.S. Tea.

The annual Sunday school tea and concert in connection with St. Andrew's school will be held on Tuesday evening, Dec. 28.

Voters' Lists.

His Honor Judge Huycke will hold a Court of Revision on the voters' lists on Tuesday, Dec. 21st. This will complete the lists for the municipal elections on January 3rd.

To Be Open Evenings.

The dry goods stores of the city will be kept open in the evenings four days next week, that is, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday before Christmas.

A sprained ankle will usually disable the injured person for three or four weeks. This is due to lack of proper treatment. When Chamberlain's Liniment is applied a cure may be effected in three or four days. This liniment is one of the best and most remarkable preparations in use. 12

York County Loan Cheques.

There are still nearly one hundred cheques in the Bank of Ottawa payable to shareholders in the York County Loan & Savings Company for the first dividend, which have not yet been called for.

Chimney Fire.

The fire brigade was called to Mr. Eastman's on George street Saturday night and put out a chimney fire. On Sunday afternoon they were called to 213 Bethune street to extinguish another fire. No damage was done in either case.

The greatest danger from influenza is of its resulting in pneumonia. This can be obviated by using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, as it not only cures influenza, but counteracts any tendency of the disease towards pneumonia. 11

Big Crowd.

One of the largest crowds that have been in the city for a long time was here on Saturday. Most of the visitors were farmers who came to the Christmas market. As a result all the merchants did a good days' business and it helped the Christmas trade receipts a whole lot. There are only a few more days left in which to do holiday shopping and they are likely to be heavy ones.

A Correction.

The impression has gone abroad throughout the county that the visit of the gypsies to the county last summer cost the ratepayers $167. It is true the cost was that amount but it must be remembered that $125 in fines was paid into the county treasury, so that it really cost the county only $42.

The old fashioned way of dosing a weak stomach, or stimulating the Heart or Kidneys is all wrong. Dr. Shoop first pointed out this error. This is why his prescription — Dr. Shoop's Restorative— is directed entirely to the cause of these ailments —the weak inside or controlling nerves. It isn't so difficult, says Dr. Shoop, to strengthen a weak Stomach, Heart or Kidneys, if one goes at it correctly. Each inside organ has its controlling or inside nerve. Patrick Carrol was Acquitted, The Jury Found Him Not Guilty

More Sensational Evidence Produced in the Carroll Perjury Case Yesterday.

Very Popular Verdict

Ex-Alderman Johnston Scored by the Judge—Clever Address of Mr. Daniel O'Connell to the Jury.

Patrick J. Carroll was honorably acquitted of the charge of perjury laid against him as a result of his evidence in the Oriental liquor case heard in the police court. The jury was out of the court room for 11 minutes and when they made known their verdict His Honor Judge Huycke stated. "Patrick Carroll I have much pleasure in discharging you. You may go now.

The verdict was a popular one and there was no mistaking the feelings of all in the court room.

The court was then discharged

The jury was then discharged and the court adjourned.

The December sessions of the county court are over and probably in all the history of Peterborough a more sensational sitting of that court was never held. Six perjury cases were on the docket. Of the lot only one conviction was made, three of the accused were honorably acquitted and two cases were dropped for the want of evidence.

Messrs. O'Connell & Gordon defended Graham and Carroll and they were successful in producing a line of evidence that broke down every threa evidence that broke down every thread of the evidence for the Crown and the Crown's witnesses were discredited in the eyes of the court.

The last case heard was that of Patrick Carroll, a bar tender in the Oriental Hotel. The chief witnesses against him were ex-Ald. W. J. Johnston, Police Officers Newhall and Meharry. The evidence of these three men did not agree in many details and the defence riddled their stories thoroughly. It was shown that Johnston got out of his bed about midnight, dressed himself and went down town and spied on the the Oriental Hotel in an effort to catch Fire Chief Howard for the purpose of lowering the respect for him in the city. His evidence was discredited by his own actions and by the testimony of Messrs. Patterson, McIlroy and Denham, as well as contradicted by the other witnesses. The stories of the police officers was not taken very seriously on account of their many divergencies from facts, and on account of their own differences in detail.

The case began first thing yesterday morning and lasted until nearly eleven o'clock last night. The Crown occupied all morning and the defence took up the afternoon. At the night session the jury was addressed by counsel and by the judge.

Ex-Ald. Johnston was the first witness for the prosecution. He told of seeing Patterson, McIlroy and Denham go into the Oriental Hotel and going to the office. Then they went back and disappeared from view. He was standing in a doorway across the street. He also saw Carroll serve drinks to a bell boy.

On cross-examination Johnston admitted that he got up and went down for the purpose of catching Chief Howard drinking in a barroom after hours.

The evidence of P. C. Newhall was next taken and he told of calling P. C. Meharry from the station. Of their watching from a big box and from the sidewalk; of seeing beer pumps used and seeing men drinking behind the frosted glass of the rear bar door.

P. C. Meharry gave evidence similar to that of P. C. Newhall.

Court then adjourned.

E. G. PATTERSON.

Mr. E. G. Patterson, manager of the Canadian General Electric Works for the past ten years. He spoke of going home with Mr. W. H. Denham and Wm. McIlroy on Nov. 19th. They went into the Oriental to talk to Mr. Graham, who was at the counter. He said that if Mr. Johnston said that he disappeared from view he told a deliberate lie. He did not see Mr Lawrence get a drink or did not see the bell boy get a drink and he had none himself.

To Mr. Wood; witness said that in his opinion Mr. Johnston did lie if he said that he (witness) disappeared from view.

WM. McILROY.

Mr. Wm. McIlroy was sworn and to Mr. O'Connell told of going home with Messrs. Denham and Patterson They went to the front counter and the desk. They did not go back of the desk, and if Mr. Johnston said they went back he was telling a lie. They never moved out of the rotunda. Johnston could have seen them at any rate by a slight movement on his part.

W. H. DENHAM.

Mr. W. H. Denham was sworn and to Mr. O'Connell, told of going past the Oriental Hotel. He explained how it was that he was going home that night at that time. Asked if he left the desk on disappearing from view, he said he did not. If Johnston, or anyone else, said he did, it was an unqualified lie. He then repeated that he would not believe Newhall on oath.

To Mr. Wood the witness said he would not believe Newhall for the past year and a half.

ERNEST LAWRENCE.

Ernest Lawrence was next called, and to Mr. O'Connell he said he was in the Oriental Hotel on Friday night, Nov. 19th, but he did not have a drink there. He said the police were wrong. He saw Chief Howard there.

To Mr. Wood witness said he did not know whether the chief or Fowler went back in the little rooms or not.

CHIEF W. A. HOWARD.

Chief W. A. Howard to Mr. O'Connell, said he was at the Oriental Hotel on Nov. 19th, once at a quarter to eleven and once a quarter past twelve. He was there about half or three-quarters of an hour. Witness bought a quarter's worth of cigars and stood and sat in front of the big windows on the west side and smoked two cigars. Once he went to the lavatory where he remained about a minute and then went to the front of the hotel. He had no drink there that night. He did not go back with Lawrence or anyone else. If anyone said he did otherwise they told what was not true.

He knew ex.-Ald. Johnston, but had no animosity against him. That morning Johnston called him up by machine telephone at 20 minutes to two o'clock. Witness was in bed and asleep at the time. He repeated that Newhall's reputation for veracity was not very good.

G. N. GRAHAM.

Mr. G. N. Graham, proprietor of the Oriental Hotel, was sworn. He said Carroll had been in his employ for many years and his reputation for veracity was of the very best. He did not believe he would commit perjury. He remembered the night of Nov. 19th. The transom over the bar door was closed by him about eleven o'clock.

To Mr. Wood witness said it was his custom to always close the transom. He always closed the bar door himself. That night he got some drinks from Carroll that night for his family between 11.30 and 12 o'clock. Carroll was in the bar cleaning up and witness was in the bar and got them

J. H. LARMONTH

Mr. J. H. Larmonth was called He is manager of the Peterborough Light & Power Company To Mr O'Connell he said he supplied light to the Oriental Hotel He said that it was not possible for the bar lights to get dim unless all the lights went out altogether

HARRY STINSON.

Mr. Harry Stinson, a bar tender at the Oriental Hotel, and he said that it was the practice to close all the doors and transoms every night. It was closed that night because he opened it next morning.

JOSEPH STEWART.

License Inspector Jos. Stewart was called, and to Mr O'Connell he said it was his duty to watch the hotels. He has watched the Oriental, but he has not yet been able to find any infraction. He knew Carroll and only knew and heard what is good of him

Mr Stewart was asked what he knew of P. C. Newhall and he said he would not believe him on oath

J. H. BURNHAM.

Mr J. H. Burnham was sworn. He knew Meharry's reputation for veracity as being very bad. He would not believe him on oath.

RICHARD SHEEHY.

Richard Sheehy said he would not believe Newhall on oath

VICTOR FOWLER.

Victor Fowler was called. He was in the Oriental on the night of Nov. 19th. He saw Lawrence there and had no drink and did not see any one else have a drink.

C. G. GRAHAM

Chris. G. Graham sworn, said he was manager of the hotel He identified a couple of taps that were shown.

FRANK CONROY.

Frank Conroy said he was sworn. He had lived here all his life. On Saturday night at 8.30 he made observations at the Oriental. He tried to see if he could see anyone behind the glass in the bar door at the back He could see a shadow but could not distinguish the features.

FRED O'CONNOR.

Fred O'Connor was sworn. He also made some observations at the Oriental, and corroborated the evidence of the last two witnesses.

JAMES BOGUE.

Mr. Jas. Bogue was called He also made observations at the bar window. He only knew Newhall by reputation and it was very poor. He would not believe Newhall on oath unless there was good corroboration. He also knew Carroll and always found him a first-class, honest young fellow. He also had his own opinion of ex.-Ald. Johnston, and his word would not be sufficient to corroborate Newhall's evidence.

A. A. HASKILL.

Mr. Haskill was called and he again said he would not believe Newhall on oath.

ERNEST BARTLETT.

Ernest Bartlett was called and he again said he would not believe Meharry on oath.

P. J. KENNEDY.

P. J. Kennedy again, said he would not believe Meharry on oath.

THOS BARRIE.

Mr. Thos. Barrie, furrier and men's furnisher, was sworn. Was in business here all his life. He had always considered Carroll very truthful and honest.

ADAM HALL.

Mr. Adam Hall was sworn He has carried on an extensive business for many years. He knew Carroll for 15 or 20 years. He has always found him an honorable, honest and truthful man.

JAMES LYNCH.

Mr. James Lynch, druggist, was sworn. He has known Carroll 15 or 20 years, and has always found him truthful and honest and heard no one else say anything to the contrary.

Mr. James Storey always found Carroll upright and honest.

Mr. Wm. Blackwell, architect, was called. He produced plans of the bar room, the front and the back.

A box of the same dimensions as the one described by the police was brought into court and Mr. O'Connell demonstrated to the jury the position the box would be in if partly on the bar step and partly on the sidewalk. It would not stand at all without a support. The object was to show that a man could not stand on the top of it.

At this point Mr. O'Connell asked the court's permission to take the jury down to the Oriental and let them see the box placed in the doorway in the same position as the police had described it.

This request was granted, but Mr. Wood asked that the two policemen be present at the time. The visit, however, was adjourned until the police could be called as they were in bed.

In the meantime Patrick Carroll, the defendant, was put in the box on his own behalf. He served no drinks to anyone but Mr. Graham He served a pitcher of ice water and an empty glass to a bell boy. He did not see Lawrence. Chief Howard, Fowler or Perry there that night after eleven o'clock and served them no liquor.

Evening Session

Mr. D. O'Connell began his address to the jury at ten minutes after eight o'clock, after the Crown Attorney had been refused an opportunity to open up the case to produce more evidence in reference to the height of the blind in the bar window.

In opening Mr. O'Connell pointed out the seriousness of the charge of perjury and he pointed out how strict the law was in protecting a prisoner from a charge of perjury. It is necessary that the Crown prove that the accused committed perjury willfully and knowing that it be false.

Mr. O'Connell then took up the evidence produced and pointed out the improbability of the stories told by the Crown witnesses; such as illegally selling liquor after hours with all the lights turned on and the blinds in front of the bar down so that everybody could see them. Next he took up the box incident and pointed out the ridiculousness of that story. Then while standing on that big box Newhall said he saw Lawrence and Fowler's shadows on the frosted glass in the rear of the bar. Meharry who had the same opportunity to see says he only saw Lawrence drinking and did not see Fowler at all. Meharry said the lights went down in the bar room while they remained bright in the back room while such an occurrence is an impossibility.

Next, both police officers tell of different kinds of beer pumps and as a matter of fact there had been no beer pumps of any kind in the bar room for eight or ten years. Mr. O'Connell then scathingly arranged what he termed "a spy, a tell tale, yet a man who goes out with bitter hatred in his heart, joins himself with the police officers and went there that night for the unholy design of catching the chief of the fire brigade, drinking in a bar room after hours, so he could make his position in this city less secure. Mr. O'Connell then severely condemned the witness Johnston who followed his victim and sneaked after him in a way that no man would think of. Johnston's evidence was riddled in every particular. He then took up the character evidence against Newhall and Meharry, which was produced by some of the most eminently respectable citizens of Peterborough.

Mr. O'Connell closed with a most eloquent appeal to the jury to consider the evidence seriously and to send this young man out a free man to enjoy this happy Christmas season with his family.

Crown Attorney R. E. Wood opened up his address by stating to the jury that as citizens we have a duty to perform and we must perform that duty irrespective of our sympathy. He charged the jury to find their verdict on the evidence produced Mr. Wood then took up the evidence produced by the Crown and pointed out the strong features. He referred at some length to the attack, uncalled for, he said, made against the two police officers. He closed by asking the jury to cast aside all prejudice and find a verdict upon the evidence.

JUDGE'S CHARGE

His Honor Judge Huycke made a very strong charge to the jury, and told them that they were at liberty to use the circumstances surrounding the hotel which they saw this evening in connection with the sworn verbal evidence given in the witness box. His honor went thoroughly over the evidence and pointed out the important features produced by the two sides. His honor's charge was quite favorable to the accused.

The matter was handed to the jury at 10 minutes past 10 o'clock.

His honor severly censured Ex-Ald. Johnston for his action in getting out of his bed and trying to catch Fire Chief Howard. The judge said it was utter folly for Mr. Johnston to say that he had no grudge against the fire chief. His actions speak louder than words.

The jury returned to the court room at nine minutes to eleven o'clock, after an absence of 41 minutes. They answered to their names and stated that they had found the prisoner "not guilty."

His Honor notified Patrick Carroll that the jury had found him not guilty and he had pleasure in discharging him.

The jury was then discharged and the court adjourned.

DO YOU VALUE HEALTH.

Regulate and Cleanse Your System.

Spring cleaning does not answer the bodyf The prime element in the maintenance or in the recovery of health is activity of liver, kidneys and skin. Not occasionally but only by weekly stimulation of these functions can poisons, waste matter, and accumulations within the body be drawn out so that the blood and inward parts be purified and kept wholesome. Dr. Hamilton's Pills are the mildest laxative medicine known; they purify the blood, fortify the activity of liver and kidneys, increase the eliminating power of the skin and create a general feeling of well being —the outcome of wholesale conditions within. Dr. Hamilton's Pills are a general tonic to the digestive system; they restore functional effectiveness to all the organs of secretion and contribute in this way enormously to the stability of health.

For general family use in all cases of biliousness, bad blood, indigestion and disorders of the stomach, Dr. Hamilton's Pills have no equal. Sold in yellow boxes, 25c. all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Canada.

At St. Paul's Tonight.

The Rev. Ifr. Chown, superintendent of the Social and Moral Reform Board of the Methodist Church in Canada will address a public meeting in the interests of local option in St. Paul's church.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

POLICE COMMISSIONERS.

Will Investigate the Characters of Police Officers.

His Honor Judge Huycke is authority for the statement that the cases of P. C. Newhall and P. C. Meharry will be brought before the Board of Police Commissioners, of which he is chairman, early after the New Year The commission is composed of Judge Huycke, Magistrate Dumble and the Mayor of the city. The reason for not bringing the matter before the board sooner is out of respect to his Worship Mayor Rush, who is retiring from public life at the end of the year, and it was thought that he would not care to deal with a matter of that nature during the last days of his office.

The public generally are well acquainted with the evidence that has been given by responsible citizens in the recent criminal proceedings. The evidence was heard by his Honor Judge Huycke and he feels it his duty to have the matter investigated.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. S. J. Kilpatrick.

On Friday night Mrs. S. J. Kilpatrick of Kingston, died at the residence of his son-in-law, Mr. E. S. Goodwill, 309 Boswell avenue. Mrs. Kilpatrick has been in Peterborough for the past six or seven months, and her chronic ailment gave little hope of cure, and death was not unexpected. The deceased lady was a native of Belleville, her maiden name having been Miss Harold. The remains were taken to Kingston yesterday morning for interment

H. B. Archer.

Campbellford, Dec. 19 After an illness extending over the past year the death occurred today of Wm H. Archer, aged 65 years. Deceased was probably the most prominent man in town, being for many years chairman of the School Board, Reeve of the town, and postmaster since 1874. He was in J. M. Ferris & Co's mercantile business for 50 years. He leaves a wife and three sons, one of whom is Rev. Dr. Archer, now in India, Mr. Fred Archer, with W. R. Brock & Co., Calgary, and Jas. P. Archer, with J. B. Ferris & Co., Campbellford; also three daughters, Miss Alice, a nurse in New York city; Miss Edith, at home, and Mrs. J. F. Gowan of Toronto.

The following clipping which is taken from the Delano, Cal., Record of Nov. 18, refers to the death of Robert J. Green, who passed away at that place. He was a brother of Mr. Edward Green, Water street, and many years ago resided in Peterborough. It is 40 years since Mr. Green of this city saw his brother.

Last Monday afternoon witnessed the death of an old pioneer, Robt. J. Green, who lived about seven miles west of Delano. Mr. Green, up to within a few days of his demise, had been doing his usual day's work on his ranch. About five days previous to his death erysipelas set in on his right forearm followed by gangrene. On Sunday Dr. J. B. Rosen of Tulare, was called in attendance, but the disease had made such inroads upon the vitality of the man that medical assistance was of no avail.

Robert J. Green was a native of Ireland, and died at the age of 79 years, ten months and ten days. He came to Canada when a young man and for a number of years was a resident of Canada and the State of Minnesota before coming to California he made his residence at San Luis Obispo, but for the past twelve years had made his home at his ranch near Delano.

Mr. Green was one of our substantial citizens, having through hard work accumulated an estate of no mean proportions. He has been married for 57 years and his widow now survives him. There are no direct descendants of the deceased, and the only one to mourn his demise, besides his widow and a host of close friends, is an adopted daughter, who is residing in San Francisco.

The funeral services were held Wednesday at one o'clock in the Methodist church, Rev. E. Menley, pastor of the church officiating. The remains were followed to their last resting place in Delano cemetery, by a large concourse of friends.

Tully Farm Sold.

The farm of the late Andrew Tully was sold by auction at the Munro House yesterday by John Hagan. It finally went to James Middleton real estate agent, for $5,550

Good Stallion for Ennismore.

Mr. Al E. Crough of Ennismore, was in the city yesterday on business. While in the city Mr. Crough purchased a recently imported stallion from Mr R. D. Dundas, of Springvale, Ont., named Craig, ica. Ronald. This pedigreed stallion is a big upstanding horse with lots of bone, substance and feather and will be a great acquisition to the horse trade of this district. The horse is a bright bay. It was alleged that this valuable horse was insured for a large sum with the Yorkshire Live Stock Insurance Co. The stallion is worth about $1000

Women's Meeting.

Mrs. Owen Hitchcock of Toronto, will address the women's mass meeting in George street Methodist church this afternoon at three o'clock. The members of the W.C.T.U. will join in this meeting. Mrs. Hitchcox will address a mass meeting in Knox church tonight at eight o'clock. This meeting is open to all.

A Labor Famine is Possible in 1910

Association Reports Demand Coming from All Parts of Canada—Many Trades in which Skilled Operators are Wanted

Toronto, Dec. 20. "A labor famine is among the possibilities of the coming year, according to reports received at this office during the past week," says the official organ of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

"To obtain an estimate of the labor market the Canadian Manufacturers' Association has circulated to its members, asking for particulars as to the situation now and the outlook for the near future.

"The replies indicate that all along the line industry is swinging into its old stride, that the depleted ranks of employes are filling up, machines which have lain idle since the depression of two years ago are coming into operation, and generally that we are on the threshold of an era of prosperity which will advance far beyond all records which the country has yet enjoyed.

"Out of a total of 163 manufacturers from whom replies have been so far received, 156 are already in need of more help. This is a remarkable showing, in view of the fact that with the approach of winter and the ceasing of outdoor work there is ordinarily a big influx of men into factory towns, and in consequence an abundance of labor. The need of help on the part of 32 per cent. of the manufacturers heard from indicates that at least among skilled workmen there will be no lack of employment for the year to come.

"These 156 manufacturers say they require 5,962 employes 2,254 male and 3,708 female. Of the 156 employers that need labor, one is in British Columbia, 4 in Manitoba, 2 in New Brunswick, 3 in Nova Scotia, 30 in Quebec, and 116 in Ontario. Of the employes needed, 150 are wanted in British Columbia, 42 in Manitoba, 20 in New Brunswick, 32 in Nova Scotia, 2,216 in Quebec, are 3,502 in Ontario.

C. P. R.'S Scheme is Proving Popular

London, Dec. 20. Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, interviewed prior to his departure for Paris, said his visit in England had been much interrupted by the vast amount of correspondence he received with reference to his statement that the Canadian Pacific intended to develop an emigration policy. Large numbers of people had written wishing to take advantage of the scheme to settle people on cleared and sown land. At present the matter was in its early stages. Mr. Peterson, the agricultural director of the Canadian Pacific was now studying the subject Nothing would be finally decided until Sir Thomas returns from Paris

A Terrible Fire in London, England

London, Dec. 20. It is feared that heavy loss of life has occurred in the burning of the big store of Arding and Hobbs, at Clapham suburb. Three hundred persons were in the store when the fire broke out, and many of them are unaccounted for.

Many of the girl clerks and a few of the patrons jumped from the third and fourth storey windows to the street, and were terribly injured Otherae

Others jumped from the inside balcony of the building to the blazing floor beneath, and are believed to have been incinerated.

It has been impossible as yet to more than guess at the casualities.

Five dead have already been removed and fifty injured taken to the hospitals. The firemen were unable to reach the top floor of the building, and the clerks and the customers there had no other recourse but to jump, many of them landing in the flames.

The entire block is now burning. The huge dome of the Arding and Hobbs building collapsed, covering adjoining stores with a mass of burning debris.

The fire resulted from the fusing of electric wires.

HAVEN'T SEARCHED YET.

The Arding and Hobbs building was stocked with flimsy Christmas goods, and the fire spread with incredible rapidity, shutting off the escape of many customers and employes. Shrieking and helpless girls at the upper windows presented a terrible picture. The firemen have done but little as yet in the way of searching the ruins, as their efforts have been needed to prevent the spreading of the flames. It is believed that several of the buildings in the block will be saved.

OBITUARY.

HARRY NEIL.

It will be learned with general regret that Harry Neil, manager for many years of the Calcutt Brewing Co., passed away at his home on Burnham street yesterday afternoon about four o'clock, after only being confined to his bed for the past week. The late Mr. Neil was, however, a sufferer for some time, but he did not have to leave his duties until about a week ago He was one of the prominent business men of the city and for years has been considered as such. He was known by nearly everyone and was highly respected by all. He was always straight forward and honorable and his demise will be greatly regretted and to the family will be extended sincere sympathy. He was 48 years of age and lived here all his life. He was a member and a supporter of St Luke's church. The funeral will be held on Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock. Services will be held in St Luke's church, and interment will take place in Little Lake cemetery.

INSPECTOR POOLE.

Home From Saskatchewan on a Short Visit.

Inspector B. R Poole of the Dominion Veterinary Department, who left Peterborough some months ago for Saskatchewan to take a good position under the Government in that Province, arrived in the city yesterday to spend Christmas and New Year's with Mrs. Poole and his family. Inspector Poole has a large section of country to cover and does the farmers and ranchers of the Province great good by his expert knowledge and up-to-date treatment of horses and cattle. In conversation with The Times yesterday Mr. Poole, in reply to the question "How does that part of Canada compare with Peterborough County?" remarked "There is no comparison. The years I spent in Peterborough were practically lost time. Saskatchewan is the country for the young man particularly. Any young man that can get out there, can take up land, get a couple of oxen and break up prairie soil. In a very few years, especially if a railroad passes near his property the young man can, if he cares to unload at an immense profit. Mr. Poole says they get it 38 degrees below zero where he is located, and that there is no use in anyone saying people out there do not feel the cold. One feels the cold proportionately just as much as here.

Inspector Poole remarked that the country around Regina is being largely populated by German-American farmers, settlers from the United States. He says they are not only progressive, wide-awake citizens but a kind-hearted, generous, manly lot of men.

Mr. Poole will return to Saskatchewan on the 12th of next month. His family will follow him later.

Rutherford Bros. Erect Public Library.

In The Times Industrial edition this was issued yesterday, appeared a writeup of Messrs Rutherford Bros., the well known local contractors. In the writeup an unfortunate oversight, a complete, though short paragraph was omitted Whilst the omission and its import was of some importance, compared with the general achievements of this firm, still The Industrial, when describing the buildings erected by the firm should have included the Public Library The omit paragraph referred to, was descriptive of the splendid new building and the good work done by Messrs Rutherford Bros. This Public library is one of the handsomest buildings in this section of Ontario and will be a standing monument to the good work done by Rutherford Bros. The fine wholesale grocery warehouse of Messrs T. Kinnear & Co. on George street, near the C.P.R. station is also another of the buildings put up by this firm Paper Hangers and Decorators are now busy fixing up the city officials offices which were damaged by the recent fire. When completed they look a great deal more cheerful and it will not be like going into an undertaker's warerooms when going into the city treasurer's office.

Deathly Cramps, Stomach was Bloated

A Bad Case That Proves Cramps and Stomach Disorders are Cured Fast By Nerviline.

"The distress I suffered from cramps last summer was so severe I thought it meant death," writes P. R. Emerson, of Guys Hill P. O. "I was doubled up with pain and in such bad shape I couldn't walk a hundred feet. I remembered having Nerviline on hand and took half a teaspoonful in sweetened water. In five minutes I was well and my stomach derangements disappeared entirely."

For cramps, flatulence, diarrhoea and disorders of the stomach and bowels, Nerviline knows no equal—one million bottles used every year—fifty years on the market, that's proof enough of its merit. Large 25c. bottles, five for $1.00. All dealers or the Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

A RUSH OF BUSINESS.

It Came Just at the Time He Wanted to Sell His Place.

One of the leading men of Louisville, reported to be one of the richest, got a bad start in business. He began by being a photographer, but found that the business didn't come up to expectations. He therefore wisely decided to sell out and start at something else. He finally interested some people in the proposition and appointed a time when they should come and look things over.

He now has the reputation of being shrewd, and that this is not a complimentary designation only is indicated by what happened then. He inserted an advertisement in the daily papers in small enough type not to attract everybody's attention and yet conspicuously enough to win consideration from those who make a point of looking for bargains, announcing that on a certain day he would take pictures free of charge. By a coincidence the day he set was the day when the prospective purchasers of his business were to be there.

The ad., as usual, paid, and that afternoon his gallery was crowded with visitors. They thronged in and out, and he could not take care of them rapidly enough, even with the aid of several assistants. When the folks he intended to do business with came he greeted them with a crown of disappointment, explaining that he was simply so busy that he couldn't see them then and asked them to come back in the morning, when things would likely have slackened up. They agreed and went away duly impressed.

He sold out to them next day, and it is perhaps superfluous to add that he got more for his outfit than he would have done if it hadn't been for the modest little advertisement.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

HOW INSECTS BREATHE.

System of Tubes That Run the Length of Their Bodies.

Landlubber animals have lungs, and sea creatures have gills. But insects have neither one nor the other. They have a complex system of tubes running throughout the whole length of the body by means of which air is conveyed to every part of the system. As they are destined to contain nothing but air, they are strongly supported to guard against collapse from pressure.

This support is furnished by means of a fine thread running spirally within the walls of the tube, much in the same way that a garden hose is protected with wire. There are generally two of these tubes which run the whole length of the insect's body.

Many flies, as larvæ, live in the water. Arranged along each side of their bodies is a series of exceedingly thin plates, into each of which runs a series of blood vessels. These plates act and absorb the oxygen contained in the water. The tail ends in three feather-like protections. By means of these the larva causes currents of water to flow over the gills, and thus their efficiency is increased.

The gnat also lives in the water as a larva. But it has no gills; therefore it cannot breathe the oxygen in the water, but must breathe air. This is done by means of a spiracle situated at the tip of its tail. Indeed, the tail is prolonged into a little tube. The larva floats along head downward in the water with this tube just above the surface to enable it to breathe. After some time it is provided with two little tubes, which act in the same manner.—Chicago Tribune.

STEALING CHILDREN.

Women Who For Various Reasons Carry Off Little Ones.

Perhaps the most amazing feature of the kidnapping cases which have engaged the attention of the police in England recently is that, in a number of instances where women were the culprits, the real cause of the offence has been traced, not to any desire on the part of the kidnapper to injure the stolen child, gain money, or seek revenge on the parents, but merely to the fact that they had been so attracted by the youngster as to be unable to resist the temptation of taking it away.

The theory has been advanced that it was such feelings which prompted the woman kidnapper in the recent South end baby theft; but that, becoming alarmed on account of the sensation she had caused, she abandoned the child in order to escape the consequences of her act. It certainly seems a feasible explanation in the light of other cases.

One day two years ago a poor woman, seated with her child, a pretty girl of two years of age, on one of the seats in Hyde Park, was accosted by a young woman, whose manners and dress stamped her as rich and well born. The lady spoke of her admiration of the child, gave her sweets, and asked the mother to meet her next day at the same spot, and she would bring the girl a pretty frock. The appointment was kept, and it was the first of several meetings between the poor woman and the society lady, who seemed enraptured with the child.

Eventually the lady asked the mother to let her take the child to her home, giving her a certain address. The mother was reluctant to part with the child at first, but ultimately gave way, and agreed to call the next day at the address given for the youngster. She did so, but judge of her amazement and grief when she found that the address was that of an empty house. The police were communicated with, and two weeks later traced the lady and the child to an hotel at Brighton.

The child was perfectly well, and seemed happy with the many beautiful things the lady had bought for her, but she recognized her mother instantly when the two were brought face to face through the medium of the hotel proprietor, whose suspicions had been aroused by seeing a description and photograph of the missing child in the newspapers. On account of the high position of the lady, who kidnapped this child simply because of her affection for it, the matter was hushed up as much as possible.

A Titled Innkeeper.

Lord Townshend, the wild and dissolute viceroy—who signalized himself once by bringing his pack of foxhounds with him into the Council Chamber in Dublin Castle—while on a progress to the West was compelled by the breaking down of his equipage to spend the night in Kilbeggan.

Much to his surprise and gratification he was served with an excellent meal and with claret of most choice bouquet and flavor, for in these days most innkeepers, even of the smaller country inns, had a store of good wine laid by for special occasions. Lord Townshend, according to his wont, did full justice to the vintage, and finished with what he had drunk insisted on summoning the landlord into his presence. He compelled the worthy man to kneel down before him, and despite the remonstrances of the more sober among his suite he struck him with his sword, exclaiming, "Rise up, Sir Thomas Cuffe, prince of innkeepers!"

The next morning, on being reminded of his exploit, of which he was himself totally oblivious, he felt some dismay, and called for the newly-made knight. "We were guilty of some follies last night," he said to him, "but I trust you understand that what passed was a joke and nothing more." "For my part, my lord, I do not care," returned mine host, "but I must consult my wife on the matter." Her reply was, "I never looked to find myself a lady, but since fortune has made me one, such I'll remain." And Sir Thomas and Lady Cuffe they were all the days of their lives, though by no means above attending to the duties of their calling.

Nature's Silence Preferred.

To the pathfinder on the frontier line in the West the habit of speech becomes almost a lost art. Whether it is the vastness and the loneliness, or perhaps the close contact with nature's wonders of plain and mountain unsullied by the works of man, the cowboy and the prospector are noted for extreme taciturnity. To illustrate which, R. E. Young, of the Department of the Interior, tells this story: Two Alberta cowboys, turned prospectors, as so many of their fellows did during the mining excitement of '98, had been working for some months as partners in the hills of Southern Kootenay. At noon one day, one of them was sipping his tea meditatively. "Tea's too darned strong," he said. The other silently passed him the hot water kettle. After a moment's consideration of the effect of the dilution — "Fire's too darned hot—tea's boiled!" he said. The meal was concluded in the usual profound silence. Next morning the silent partner was up first and was silently packing his blankets. "What's up?" asked the other. "Goin' t'light out! Too much talk around here f'me. . . ."

Kept Him Busy.

Sir Arthur Fanshawe, who has held so many high appointments in India, recently related an amusing story of a Mohammedan servant who, when asked his religion, replied: "Beg pardon, sar, I'm a heathen." His master then asked him what he meant by a heathen, and the man answered: "Beg pardon, sar, a worshipper of steeks and stones." "Confound it," remarked the master, "I can't keep a man like that in my service." To which came the immediate rejoinder: "Beg pardon, sar, in your highness' service no time to worship anything."

An Old English Law.

A NOBLEMAN'S WEALTH.

How the Duke of Buccleuch Came by His Money.

There are not wanting those who assert that the "Bold Buccleuch," the founder of the wealth owned by the family to-day, was a "bad Buccleuch"; in fact, that he was nothing more or less than a raider, who acquired cattle and land by might, without a thought of right. They were stirring times in which he lived, however, and he was no worse, if no better, than hundreds of other English and Scottish noblemen who made sacrifices to uphold their King by warfare, and obtained rewards as best they could.

This much can be said for the founder of the family—he never lacked pluck and a bold front. As Sir Walter Scott he carried on a predatory warfare against the English, and on the conclusion of a peaceful arrangement between Queen Elizabeth and James he was sent to England as a hostage by the latter. When brought before the haughty Queen Bess, she imperiously demanded of him how he had dared to kill so many of her soldiers. But for once the proud Queen met her match, for the ready answer came, "What is there that a man dare not do?" Struck by the reply, she turned to a lord-in-waiting and said, "With ten thousand such men our brother of Scotland might shake the firmest throne in Europe." The "brother" alluded to, of course, was James VI., who, on becoming James I. of Great Britain, lost little time in making Sir Walter Lord Scott of Buccleuch for his gallant deeds.

This was in 1606, and it was the first of a long list of titles which was subsequently to come to the Buccleuchs. Much land had been acquired by the bold Buccleuch in Haddington, Berwick, Selkirk, and Dumfries, but it was not until 1663 that the head of the family was created a duke. The story of how this honor came to him makes interesting reading. In 1651 Francis of Buccleuch died leaving two daughters, Mary and Anna, Mary being the elder by four years. The latter died, however, and Anna, who as heiress to the Buccleuch estate was regarded as a great matrimonial prize, was married to an illegitimate son of Charles I., who had created him Duke of Monmouth.

Immediately after the marriage the King created the Duke of Monmouth Duke of Buccleuch, with the Earldom of Dalkeith, and although he was afterwards executed for rebellion the titles were unaffected, being held jointly by his wife, and came to her descendants.

It was by the marriage of Francis, second Duke of Buccleuch, to the daughter and heiress of the Duke of Queensberry that the immense estates of Dumfries, amounting at the present time to 253,514 acres, were acquired by the Buccleuch family. Other acres were acquired by fortunate marriages, until the total swelled to close on 460,000, which is the number of acres owned by the Duke of Buccleuch at the present time. The annual rental of his estates is £338,401, of which amount £43,630 is derived from the English estates.

PICTURE FRAMING.

A Most Important Point to Consider in House Furnishing.

When will people learn that it isn't necessary to have a liberal art education and to understand all the principals of chiaroscuro and composition to use some discretion and taste in the selection and framing of pictures?

In the average home the collection of pictures seems to bear a striking resemblance to the history of Topsy, who "jes' growed."

The pictures that hang on a certain wall are there not because the owner consciously wishes them there, but because the mysterious ways of chance have put them there.

Worse than the misfortune of a heterogeneous collection of pictures are the evils of poor framing.

Frank Alvah Parsons, the director of the New York Art school, is quoted as saying:

"The way pictures are framed has an immense deal to do with the effect. Period pictures should have period frames—that is, the frame and picture should be of the same period instead of as is seen in so many wealthy homes. French pictures in Florentine frames, old Italian masters in Louis XV. frames, rococo frames around simple colonial maidens and mixed atrocities around other pictures.

"When a picture is not a period picture," says Mr. Parsons, "its color, size and action must be studied and the frame chosen with reference to these.

"Pictures showing large objects, vivid colors, lively action, require wide, deep frames. Rosa Bonheur's 'Horse Fair' would look silly in a narrow little frame. Quiet pictures take inconspicuous frames. Many an oil painting that has an elaborate gilt frame shouting around it would look better in a frame of wood stained to a color that harmonizes with the tones of the picture.

"Every picture has its special color, like every woman. There are some people who look stunning in blue, but will look positively hideous in red. Others appear to best advantage in brown. In the same way picture frames must harmonize with the pictures they inclose or the picture appears to bad advantage. Just as the complexion of an individual dictates the color of the clothes that the individual shall wear, so the color of the picture indicates the tone of the frame that it needs. Harmony may be secured by making the tone of the frame fit the darkest general mass in the picture. This does not necessarily mean the darkest tone, but the darkest tone that is general. The color of the frame should be more neutral than the picture mass.

"The wall or the wall covering rather is what kills the picture in many houses. People who will have intense figured wall coverings," says Mr. Parsons, "should keep their pictures in portfolios. The wall should be the unassertive background—nothing more."

Preventics, the new Candy Cold Cure Tablets, are said by Druggists to have four special specific advantages over all other remedies for a cold. First—They contain no Quinine, nothing harsh or sickening. Second—They give almost instant relief. Third—Pleasant to the taste, like candy. Fourth—A large box 48 Preventics—at 25 cents. Also fine for feverish children. Sold by all dealers.

Mrs. R. S. Short and Miss Short will not receive Thursday and not again until third Thursday in January.

A LADY'S MEMOIRS.

Countess of Cardigan's Book Causes a Sensation.

No book of recent years has created such a sensation in London as the "Recollections" of the Countess of Cardigan, which have just been published. It is the main topic of conversation in the boudoirs of Mayfair and the West end clubs. It has been characterized as a "volume of blazing indiscretion," and consternation reigns among the elite on account of her ladyship's very frank revelations concerning members of their families. There is no attempt to disguise names, and the annoyance and pain which have been caused by the piquant character of the stories told by the countess have led to many protests against the manner in which she has raised the veil and exposed the immoralities and wickedness of "high society."

"I repent emphatically," says a writer in The World, "that this is a shameless book. I cannot conceive that the authorities are so feeble and so indifferent as to permit of this book remaining on sale. I call upon them instantly to withdraw it from circulation."

Meantime, while the storm of indignation is raging, the countess has retired into the country to enjoy the sensation she has caused. As a matter of fact, it was her original intention, it is said, to make the book even more outspoken than it is. In the heyday of her charms she counted among her followers royal as well as aristocratic admirers. From these she received countless love-letters, which she treasures as souvenirs of bygone triumphs. It was her intention, so the report goes, to include in her book facsimiles of billets-doux from high-born personages, some of whom are still living. When an inkling of her proposal leaked out, however, strong representations were made to the countess from very high quarters, and in the end she consented to omit certain names.

Here are some extracts from a book which will be talked about for a long time.

The countess resided in Mayfair at a time when, as she wittily puts it, "Society was composed of brilliant men and witty women, beauties and dandies, who held sway without puffing paragraphs in the newspapers."

On one occasion the countess stayed with Lord and Lady Wilton at Melton Mowbray. His lordship's free and easy life had gained for him the sobriquet of "The Wicked Earl." One Sunday the countess and Lady Wilton went to church, unaccompanied by his lordship.

"I saw the clerk look at us as we entered the church," says the countess, "and he evidently noticed Lord Wilton's absence, but I was not prepared for what followed. The vicar duly commenced, 'When the wicked ——,' but he was stopped by the clerk, who turned round, looking across at Lord Wilton's vacant seat, said, in a loud voice, 'Please, sir, his lordship's not come yet.'"

On the journey back to town the countess travelled with the old Duchess of Cambridge. "Directly the train started she drew out a German sausage, which she devoured with great relish, cutting bits off it with a silver knife, which she transferred the whole time."

In the same chapter a story is told of Lord Ward, who had very curly hair, which could never be induced to lie smoothly on his head. One day his valet went into his master's bedroom and saw him sitting in his bath with his hat on. He thought his lordship had gone mad and promptly left, although Lord Ward only wore his hat to try and keep his rebellious curls in order.

There is an amusing story, too, concerning Lord Ernest Bruce, who had a great weakness for leave-takings. "He always loved to speed the parting guest," says the countess, "and invariably went through the same ceremony whenever he said good-bye. This consisted of kissing everybody, and then, with a great show of generosity, he would present the porter with sixpence." The countess had invited a small party for a yachting cruise, which included his lordship's son, Robert Bruce. "When old Lord Ernest was preparing to say good-bye to us, Robert called out 'Now, father, kiss the porter and give me the sixpence,' greatly to Lord Ernest's annoyance."

Quits.

A little girl was in the habit of calling "strawberries." Her auntie told her she could come home and to warn her, related the tale of the boy who called "Wolf, wolf!" and how the wolf really did come one day and ate up all her sheep.

"Ate the sheep?" asked the child.

"Yes."

"All of them?"

"Yes; all of them," answered her auntie.

"Well," said the little one, "I don't believe you, and you don't believe me. So there!"

Woman's Preparation For the Street

Nearly every man knows that it takes the average woman two hours to dress for the street and they seem hurried at that, but few men know just why such preparations take so long. For the enlightenment of the latter is the selection in boiled down form as given by an authoritative person:

Fitting on dress, forty minutes; buttoning same, ten minutes; arranging hair, twenty-five minutes; touching up face, fifteen minutes; setting hat, twenty minutes; mirror contemplation, ten minutes.

FOR THE HOUSEWIFE.

A few shreds of candied orange peel will give a delicious flavor to a bread pudding.

Always use lard to grease your cake pans, as the salt in the butter causes it to stick to the pans.

It is better to wipe oven meat with a wet cloth than to immerse it in water or let water run over it.

A sponging with a solution of one part ammonia to ten parts of water is said to brighten the colors in a faded carpet.

Don't light the kitchen fire unless there is water in the boiler. If not, the rush of cold water is liable to crack the boiler.

If you want to keep your desserts on the top of the ice place a newspaper over the ice and your dishes never slip off or tip over.

Select a dozen or so of the smoothest and largest splints from the new broom and lay them away to use in testing cake when it is baking.

Don't fill an oil or any other kind of stove or lamp when it is lighted. This seems superfluous advice, but with the coming of cool weather cannot be too often repeated.

When one's foot is slightly injured and the bedclothes add to the discomfort a small hatbox placed in the bed is found useful. The foot can be slipped into it, and the box supports the weight of the covers.

To disinfect a room dissolve gum tragacanth in water, put strips of paper into it and strip all places where the fumes are liable to escape. Water quickly dissolves this glue, making it easy to remove the paper afterward. Possibly muslin strips would prove much better for the purpose.

Cod, haddock, or, in fact, almost any small cold fish, except coarse fish, such as salt cod, may be utilized in a salad, seasoned with plenty of salad dressing, the slices of young onions and minced parsley. Serve upon a bed of lettuce. Cold peas and any leftover vegetables may be used to advantage in such a salad if they are cut into small dice.

"Peace-at-Any-Price" Writer.

Maurice Hewlett, the novelist, is a warm advocate of peace. "I am a peace-at-any-price man," he recently wrote. "The use of murder and homicide as a means of deciding international difficulties seems to me inconceivable. I do not, however, believe that we shall make any real advance until war is commonly spoken of in the terms we now apply to drunkenness or gluttony, as degrading and disgusting.

Flies and Bacteria.

A fly bacteriologically examined has been found to carry something like 100,000 bacteria.

Not Much by the Day.

Lady What! Thirty-eight cents a dozen for eggs! Why, that's more than 3 cents for one egg. Grocer Well, mum, you must remember that one egg is a whole day's work for one hen.—Cleveland Leader.

Synopsis of Canadian Northwest Land Regulations.

ANY PERSON WHO IS THE sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother, or sister of an intending homesteader.

Duties—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, solely owned and occupied by him, or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

FIFTY YEARS A WRITER

HOW MISS BRADDON CAME TO WRITE NOVELS.

Now Old, Popular Authoress Was Almost Forbidding—Was Offered $60 for First Novel—Wrote First Instalment of Lady Audley's Secret Overnight — Has Retained First Rank Ever Since.

She have delighted the world for half a century with an unceasing stream of fiction; to have published a novel for every year of her long life, and to be able to entrance the readers of to-day as she entranced their grandparents in the middle of last century is the proud record of Miss Braddon, who at seventy-five remains still in possess the secret of perpetual youth.

Much water has run under the bridges of her beloved Thames since Mary Elizabeth Braddon laboriously wrote her first story by its banks on blotting paper in a child's round hand between pencilled lines. The pen of the pen was in the little one's mind, for her father, a London solicitor, had made "Rough Robin" famous in the world of sportsmen, and her mother was saturated with a passion for literature. And so Mary Elizabeth took to writing as naturally as a duck to the water.

At a schoolgirl, with her home still by the Thames at Barnes, she was already scribbling in her examples books; and under the eyes of her teachers, who tactfully pencilled quite a long story, "The Old Armchair," which was her first attempt among her schoolfellows. Real ideal for young she could not show the hard hearts of the editors. All the literary doors she sent her tales to them came back to her ark with the unspending regularity of a clock.

One day, however, when she was grandmother from the schoolroom, she picked up from a letter awaiting her which revolutionized her world. It was from a Beverley printer, who had seen a sketch by her in a Yorkshire paper, and who offered her the sum of £60 to write a story for him, which should "combine the humor of Dickens with the plot-construction of G. W. M. Reynolds." It was a huge offer and a small guardian, but Miss Braddon was transported with delight. Before she was many days older she had consented herself and her mother to a Beverley farmhouse, and was reading all the masterpieces of Reynolds at a thousand words an hour, weaving her plot as she went about the Yorkshire lanes. She hastily christened her story, "Three Times Dead; or The Secret of the Heath," and it was a very proud moment in her life when she handed the last sheets of the manuscript to the printer's boy. The book certainly did not make the printer's fortune, but it remained "The Trail of the Serpent." It had a new and vigorous lease of life.

Still fame refused to knock at her door, but not for long. A little later Mr. Maxwell, a publisher, projected a new magazine, the great feature of which was to be a serial for a famous author. To his dismay, however, the author, which had been extensively advertised, was not forthcoming at the appointed time. Mr. Maxwell was in despair, until a letter came, signed "M. E. Braddon," offering to write a serial. "Too late," was his answer to the young authoress when she called on him. "But what is the latest thing you can give me?" she persisted. "Well," said Mr. Maxwell, "if the commencement of the opening chapters be on my breakfast-table to-morrow morning that would be in time."

Next morning Mr. Maxwell found the first chapters of "Lady Audley's Secret" among his correspondence. His venture was saved, and Miss Braddon was on the high road to fame and fortune. Such was the romantic genesis of one of the most popular books ever written.

Then followed in quick succession "Aurora Floyd," "Eleanor's Victory," and "Henry Dunbar," all eagerly welcomed by thousands of admiring readers; and Miss Braddon took her place, which she has ever since retained, in the foremost rank of the writers of fiction. Since those early triumphs there has been scarcely a year when she has not given the world at least one of her fascinating novels; in some years she has published two and in others three; until her fiction-children now number more than her years.

And Miss Braddon's life has been as happy as it has been busy. For nearly forty years her home has been in a fine old Georgian house, once the abode of the Bishop of Lichfield, at Richmond—for nothing can wean her from the river she loves so well. There, surrounded by her birds and dogs, and her wonderful collection of china and books, she has led an ideal life, writing her books in the peace of her beautiful garden or in her study, entertaining her friends with a charming hospitality, and devoted to her home and her three sons, all of whom have made a name in the world of letters.

In her younger days she might be seen almost every morning cantering in Richmond Park on Kaiser, her white-footed bay, her eyes sparkling and face flushed with health and exercise; and even to-day there are few horsewomen in England more graceful or expert. For the rest, she spends her leisure in gardening, music, and study, of all of which she is passionately fond. A simple, gracious life, spent in womanly ways remote from the glare of the limelight—that is what Miss Braddon loves, and it is this that has preserved her youth and powers unimpaired into the 'seventies.

As for her methods of work, she carefully maps out her books to the smallest details before putting pen to paper; then, with her writing-pad on her knee, she fills sheet after sheet with her small handwriting, clear as print, with a wonderful rapidity, never pausing for a word and rarely making a correction. From a thousand to fifteen hundred words an hour is her normal rate of production. She stops work at luncheon-time.

WHERE WOMEN WILL RULE.

Colony to Be Founded in Australia Where Mere Man Will Not Count.

English bachelors and benedicts are watching with a good deal of sardonic interest for the outcome of an experiment about to be tried in Australia. It is a colony where no man will be allowed to hold a rood of land. The whole thing will be of women, by women and for women. Mrs Emily Crawford, president of the Householders' League of England, is one of the leading spirits in the movement, and another is a woman doctor, Miss Hetty Sawyer. Mrs. Crawford, by the way, was one of the judges of women's work at the Chicago World's fair.

The new colony has a fine situation, on high ground facing the sea, about forty miles from Albany. There is a small lake on the land, and there are mineral springs of much local repute for rheumatism and gout. The women are going to establish a resort after the plan of the German "Bad," only no gambling will be allowed. They count on making this a paying thing, and a "Bad" owned, run and inhabited by women ought to be attractive to bachelors with gout and large pocketbooks.

Some one asked Mrs. Crawford why she and her colleagues went away to Australia to try their experiment.

"It's merely a question of the parliamentary vote," she said. "In England there's no security for women's financial enterprises. We pitch our tents in Australia because there women have the franchise. We want the protection and advantage which this affords."

Even women with husbands are excluded from ownership, though they may live in the colony if they like and bring their husbands and also their children, for whom, by the way, there will be schools. To the everlasting confusion of those who say that the enfranchisement of women would be a deathblow to domesticity, schools for teaching girls household arts will be in the majority.

THE ROSARY.

This Song of Nevin's a Favorite of Mme. Schumann-Heink.

I will not set myself up as a judge of poetry, says Schumann-Heink in Bohemia Magazine, but the writer of "The Rosary" furnished the material for a great song. He made his picture clear, told his story with strength and directness. His first verse is narrative, the second contemplative, and then comes the climax. He moves toward it surely and strongly, reaching an impassioned height in that agonizing cry "Sweetheart!" That is a poem to wake an echo in every heart that has suffered the pain of loss. And what human heart is without that wound?

The song is so familiar I need not describe how Nevin has expressed this story of an aching heart in music. But if you study the melodic outline of the song it may surprise you to discover the connection that exists between the poet's imagery and the musical form. All of us do not "tell our beads," as the saying is, but we know that the rosary is a string of small beads, with a larger bead strung between each set of ten smaller ones. Now notice the composer's phrase, how it slips along in eight notes, just as the small beads would slip through our fingers. And at the end of every such phrase comes a long note and a pause. This is repeated over and over after the manner of the pious devotees of the rosary. Now observe the melodic outline of the climax on the line "To kiss the cross—sweetheart—to kiss the cross." The first part is sung on one note. The voice goes up and then down on the word "sweetheart," and the concluding phrase is sung on one note, as was the beginning. The composer has actually made the sign of the cross in his notation to convey the idea of the crucifix, which the devotee of the rosary kisses in concluding his devotion.

I had sung the song a great deal before I noticed this, and I have often wondered since how many of those who hear the song are conscious of it.

Has Cupid Met His Death?

Girls of the marriageable age are "entirely selfish"—at least, that is what a French scientist, Leon de Nerville, declares. He bases his conclusion upon the answers to 300 letters which he sent to as many girls, asking them if they desired marriage—if so, why so; if not, why not.

"Almost without exception," says the professor tragically, "they ignored the idea of love in their answers. It is surprising, repellent. Girls of the age for men to love are entirely selfish."

Twenty-six of the girls who said they wanted to get married wanted it that they might have greater freedom and go unchaperoned. Seventeen thought husbands would give them a chance to travel. One hundred and six wanted their own homes. Eleven wanted to escape their fathers' homes. Eight said if they had husbands they would be free to amuse themselves. Just three looked forward to having children. Two gave love as a reason for wishing marriage. Of the six who did not want marriage three gave ill health as a reason. Two hated men, and one wanted a career.

The 300 letters were evenly divided among French, English, German and American girls. Not one French girl used the word love; to them marriage was a means of escaping chaperonage. The English, too, furnished a large plurality of those who saw in marriage a chance for freedom and pleasure.

RACED WITH A KING.

Alfonso Was Persistent, and His Opponent Was Courteous.

Of the many residents of Baltimore who passed last summer in Europe probably none attained the distinction of Mr. Samuel C. Rowland, vice president of the International Trust company, who, while motoring in Spain, met King Alfonso of the land of Cervantes. In fact, he met the king three times.

The meetings occurred on the road from Biarritz to San Sebastian and, although interesting, were brief. The first time the king passed Mr. Rowland, then Mr. Rowland passed the king, and finally Alfonso passed Mr. Rowland. They did not speak as they passed by.

Asked yesterday to recite the details of his auto race with the monarch, Mr. Rowland smiled and said:

"I'm a little dubious of this king business," said Mr. Rowland democratically. "First there's the danger of international complications, and then there's less majesty to be considered."

"Your autos were going in the same direction?" was suggested.

"Yes," assented Mr. Rowland.

"And which was ahead?"

"Well, we were ahead at first, but the king passed us. Then somehow we began to gain on him. Whether my son Harvey, who was driving, opened the throttle a little I am hardly prepared to say. At all events, we gained on him slowly and finally passed him."

"And then?"

"Most persistent king I ever saw," said Mr. Rowland seriously. "In the following mile his machine touched the ground only three times by actual count, and then he passed us."

"And who was ahead at the finish?"

"Well, noblesse oblige, you know, and we let Alfonso keep the lead."—Baltimore Sun.

Invention of the Automobile.

No one man can be said to have invented the automobile, says the Boston Globe. The machine as it is today is the product of many minds in many countries. Horseless vehicles date back almost to the time when steam became a motive power, and as long ago as 1802 Richard Trevithick, an Englishman, constructed a machine which made a trip of ninety miles over country roads. In 1863 Delamare-Debouteville and Malandin of Paris invented a tricycle propelled by compressed gas and a year later used petroleum for generating power. Panhard and Levassor were the first to invent a really practical petroleum motor. This was in 1890, since which time the development of the various types of road motors has been rapid. Electricity as a motive power for road machines was first used in the early eighties, but it was not until about 1898 that it began to be looked upon as a rival of petroleum. Of late years gasoline and steam motors have been extensively used.

Removable Clock Dials.

An improvement in clock dials which makes repairing much more convenient has been designed by a New York man. This dial is made in two parts, which slide through grooves at the sides and meet in the middle of the face. Their action is absolutely independent of the hands, and the sections may be removed with ease without first taking off the hands, as was necessary formerly. Such a contrivance not only makes less work for the clock man when repairs are necessary, but because of the ease with which the face is removed and the works reached many a man will be able to make his own repairs where he would otherwise have hesitated to attempt it. Most clocks are adjusted from the back, but the difficulty often lies in a front part, which is difficult to reach from the rear, even by an expert on timepieces. With a clock that opens both back and front every bit of mechanism is conveniently accessible.—Chicago News.

Metal Cutting With Oxygen.

A recent improvement in the method of cutting metals by a jet of oxygen consists in keeping the metal round the place where the jet operates in a state of incandescence. This does away with the former trouble caused by the presence of iron oxide, and by unsteady manipulation of the jet. Plates of steel twelve inches thick can be cut by the jet. In one recent case a slab of steel eight inches thick was cut into strips three-quarters of an inch wide, and the width of the cut made by the jet was only about a quarter of an inch. Circular cuts can be made, and instead of penetrating straight down from the face of the plate the cut can be made bevel.

A Two Ton Crystal.

Near Fang Hsu, a low mountain some ten miles to the west of Hsi-hsow, a huge piece of crystal was recently unearthed. It is said to weigh 2,000 catties, is over four feet in diameter and five feet long. This is the second large crystal found at this place within two months. The crystal is a sort of flint. It is used in the making of Chinese spectacles and brings large prices. It is said that the owners were offered $25,000 for the piece.—Shanghai Times.

To Relieve Sore Throat.

At this season of the year, when sore throats, laryngitis and similar complaints are very prevalent in London, it may interest your readers to know of a very simple remedy which is recommended by the celebrated Dr Fauvel of Paris. He recommends a gargle of ordinary tea before going out in the morning and, if possible, on returning at night.—London Standard.

GUARANTEED INVESTMENT

The Remarkable Offer Made by the Treasury Gold Mining and Milling Company of Fairview, Nevada

Guaranterd by a $1,000,000 Bank

SUPPOSE a million-dollar bank should offer you a gold bond, guaranteeing you against loss in an investment you desired to make, and providing that, whether the investment did or did not prove a profitable one, the bank would pay you back every dollar of your money at the end of twenty years, wouldn't that "look good" to you? And wouldn't you take it?

Wouldn't it look as though the bank itself, as well as the men behind the enterprise that formed the basis of the investment, had absolute confidence in it, and looked upon it as a safe and profitable venture?

Can you figure out any way in which you could possibly lose the money you put into an enterprise with that kind of backing? To be sure, you would run the risk of not receiving interest for that length of time on the amount of your investment, but you would also run the chance of multiplying it many times over in the way of dividends—and that is worth something, isn't it? In other words, you have opportunity to win, and not a single chance to lose.

Now, that is exactly what we, the officers and directors of Treasury Gold Mining and Milling Company, of Reno, Nevada, are offering for a short time to those who wish to take advantage of it, and we make this remarkable offer, first, because we know what we have in the way of a property, and, second, because we need a little more capital to erect a mill upon it and make it an extremely profitable producer in the shortest possible time.

This is the first time, to our personal knowledge, that an offer like this has ever been made with reference to any enterprise of a similar character, here or elsewhere.

Organization, Capitalization and Officers

Treasury Gold Mining and Milling Company is organized under the laws of the State of Nevada, with a capital stock of One Million Dollars ($1,000,000), divided into One Million (1,000,000) shares, of the par value of One Dollar ($1.00 each, full paid and non-assessable, and with no personal liability attaching to the stockholders. The number of shares in the treasury is Four Hundred Thousand (400,000).

The principal office of the company is at No. 336 Mill Street, Reno, Nevada, and the depository of the company is the Nixon National Bank, of the same city.

The officers are as follows: President, D. J. Kennedy, as old resident of Nevada, and one of the best known and most successful mining operators in the state; vice-president, F. W. Thomas, of the firm of John Breuner & Co., one of the largest mercantile establishments in the city; secretary, Donald Fraser, one of the proprietors of the Red Cross Drug Company, of Reno; treasurer, H. L. Burchell, mining operator, and manager of the most prominent of the leading law firms of the state.

Board of directors: D. J. Kennedy, F. W. Thomas, H. L. Burchell; Eugene Kelly, department manager with the Gray, Reid, Wright company, and Donald Fraser.

Location and Character of Properties

The holdings of Treasury Gold Mining and Milling Company include the following valuable properties in the famous Fairview district, in Churchill county, Nevada, reached by a fine wagon road from Fallon, the county seat:

By purchase outright—fully paid for and deed recorded at Fallon—valuable mining estates on both sides of the great Mizpah mine, on both of which properties rich ore has been found.

By purchase—paid for, deeded and recorded—the Treasury group of two full claims, amounting to 40 acres, to the north-east of the Mizpah mine, the rich ledge of which we have every reason to believe courses straight through our property for at least 2,000 feet. This we regard as a very valuable holding.

By purchase, an undivided one-half interest in seven claims, containing 100 acres, southwest of the Mizpah, with every indication that the Mizpah vein runs through our ground at least 1,500 feet. The deed for our one-half interest is recorded at Fallon, and we have an option for one year on the other one-half interest.

All the leasing rights and privileges of the Mizpah Milling and Leasing Company on twelve blocks of the celebrated Mizpah mine, for the term of five years. On this property, considerable quantities of fine shipping ore are already opened; drifting has been carried on for some distance on the 100-foot level, while the second level, at 175 feet depth, is now being driven on to catch the same ore body, when shipments will begin.

Values as Shown By Assays

Assays of ores taken from the various properties of the company show the following values:

From Treasury Group at the surface, gold and silver values	$130.50
" " " " " " " " " "	346.80
" " " " " " " " " "	77.42
From Kentucky Group, surface workings, gold and silver values	126.00
" " " " " " " " " "	78.00
From Mizpah shafts, tunnels and upraises, gold and silver values	993.95
" " " " " " " " " "	230.77
" " " " " " " " " "	235.46
" " " " " " " " " "	66.57
" " " " " " " " " "	84.21

From the foregoing tests, it will be seen that, leaving out of the calculation our own extensive properties, all of which contain indications of remarkable richness, we are fully justified in expecting sufficient profits from the operation of our five-year lease on the great Mizpah mine alone, to pay enormous dividends to all our stockholders. But to operate them all, with the greatly increased facilities and equipment we intend to add, should give us a production equaled by few mining properties in the world.

We have already found very rich ore in the shallow workings of our Kentucky group to the west, and of our Treasury group to the east of the Mizpah, and we can see no reason why both of these properties should not prove fully as rich as the famous Mizpah mine itself. We are in a district noted for its immense bodies of gold and silver ores, and where deep workings open up vast treasure vaults of mineral wealth.

Additional Equipment Required

In order to more speedily place these splendid properties among the high class producers of the state, and to combine the maximum of production and profit with the minimum of cost, considerable additional equipment is required.

This includes a standard, modern mill, to reduce our ore to bullion and concentrates at the mine, thus saving the transportation and treatment charges of $20 to $30 a ton on the ore to the Salt Lake smelters. To be sure, the ore is of such a high grade character that there is a good profit in mining and shipping it even at these high rates, but it would be better business to save it and add that much more to the net profits, by treating it at our own mill, which, under the circumstances, thus becomes a necessity. With a 100-ton plant, we should easily be able to treat our ore at an expense not to exceed $2.50 per ton, and by adding another unit to its capacity, can still further reduce the cost, and thus save from $17.50 to $27.50 per ton on transportation and treating charges alone—quite an item when figuring the net profits.

The first unit capacity of 100 tons daily, of a standard mill, modern in every way, including stamps, amalgamators, tube grinding, concentration and cyaniding, with a sampler in front, so that ore can be purchased from surrounding properties, and general custom work done if desired, will enable us to add one unit after another as may be required with increased development of the ore bodies. By thus adding to the capacity of the mill, we shall be in a position to treat an immense tonnage daily, and pay dividends accordingly.

We will therefore not only effect a great saving of our present expenditures, but earn a handsome revenue, practically all profit, from the large volume of custom work that would be brought to our mill for treatment and reduction.

We also want to sink a capacious double-compartment shaft into the permanent sulphide zone at once, first, in order to have the ore bodies opened up for the mill, and secondly, ... and in determining the proper methods of treatment; so that we may build a mill adapted ... the character of the ores, and capable of giving the largest returns to the company in the extraction of the gold and silver values.

Novel Plan to Secure Funds

Now, we are quite willing to admit that equipment of the character already mentioned, which will put the properties in the best possible working shape, will cost more money than is available at present, unless we accept the alternative of sacrificing a small portion of our special stock, in order to begin operations on a profitable basis at once.

The officers and directors of the company have therefore decided to adopt this method, and, while limiting the sales to but one-fifth of the capitalization, to surround the sale of every share with a positive safeguard against any possible loss.

We do not know that such an offer has ever before been made, and we expect the amount offered to be over-subscribed several times when the terms of the offer are made known.

First, we limit the amount of stock that will be sold, in order to provide the finds for necessary equipment, to Two Hundred Thousand (200,000) shares, and this is to be positively the last as well as the first, allotment that will be sold at the present low price, of 20 cents a share, as we honestly believe the stock will be good for dividends of not less than one dollar per share annually, after we commence treating 100 tons daily at the mill.

Stock Guaranteed

In order to absolutely protect purchasers of these shares against the possibility of a loss, we have made arrangements with the Metropolis Trust and Savings Bank, of San Francisco, one of the strongest financial institutions in the United States, to guarantee every share of stock sold, and to issue to every purchaser a gold bond for the full amount of his investment, such bond being payable in twenty years, whether the mines pay or not. Therefore, even if the mines never paid a dollar—though we expect them to pay millions—the stockholders cannot possibly lose anything except the interest on their investment, while they stand to win fortunes from the amounts they put into these properties.

The shares offered on these unparalleled terms may be paid for either in cash or in five equal monthly payments, and the money derived there from will be used entirely for the further development and equipment of the properties. The shares will also be traded in on both the New York and Boston exchanges the moment we begin shipping and paying dividends.

The elements of industrial safety and of the speculative profits of gold mining under such extremely favorable conditions, are combined in this enterprise to a greater degree than in any other undertaking within our knowledge or experience, and will appeal with irresistible force to all sensible and conservative people as an opportunity without an equal. It is a case of "heads, you win! tails, you cannot lose." If the mines pay as we believe they will bring to every stockholder, in dividends, many times the amount of his investment. If they do not pay, he gets his money back.

By-Law No. . .

A By-Law to authorise the execution of an agreement with the Peterborough Light and Power Company (Limited) for the right to use the streets of the City of Peterborough as therein mentioned.

Passed the day of 19

WHEREAS the Peterborough Light and Power Company (Limited), has applied to the Council of the City of Peterborough for the right to use the streets of the said city for the period of thirty years from the first day of January, 1910, for placing and maintaining poles, wires and other appliances there on for that period, for the purposes of their business as a light and power company and the council and company have agreed on the terms and conditions on which, in the opinion of the council, the said right should be given; which terms and conditions have been reduced to writing and are fully set out herein, and it is necessary that the said terms and conditions and the period for which such right is to be granted, should be submitted to the votes of the electors of the municipality in the manner provided in The Consolidated Municipal Act 1903 with respect to by-laws requiring the assent of the electors.

THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF PETERBOROUGH BY THE COUNCIL THEREOF THEREFORE ENACTS AS FOLLOWS:—

1. This by-law shall take effect on the final passing thereof.

2. The Council of the City of Peterborough are hereby authorized to enter into an agreement with the Peterborough Light and Power Company (Limited) in the words and figures following, namely:—

This agreement, made this day of one thousand nine hundred and nine.

BETWEEN—

THE PETERBOROUGH LIGHT AND POWER COMPANY (Limited), (hereinafter called the Company), of the first part;

AND—

THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF PETERBOROUGH, (hereinafter called the Corporation), of the second part:

In this agreement, the word "City" shall mean the City of Peterborough, the word "Council" shall mean the Council of the City of Peterborough, the word "Pole" or "Poles" shall mean and include in addition to poles, wires, guy or stay wires and all appliances and apparatus used in the erection and maintenance of a pole line on the streets and lanes of the said City of Peterborough for stringing wires. The word "Streets" shall mean and include all streets and public lanes in the city. The word "Engineer" shall mean the corporation engineer, or any engineer appointed by the Council. The word "Board" shall mean the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board or any other body hereafter authorized by the Ontario Legislature to exercise the powers now vested in the said Ontario Railway and Municipal Board. "Commercial Lighting" shall mean and include supplying ... for business, trade or manufacturing purposes. "Domestic Lighting" shall mean and include all lighting except commercial or street lighting, and the word "Company," shall, unless the context requires a different construct, include the successors and assigns of such company.

Whereas the company has applied to the Corporation for the right to use the streets in the municipality for the period of thirty years from the first day of January, 1910, for the purpose of placing and maintaining poles and wires for transmitting electric current or energy to the customers of the said company and the Council of the Corporation has agreed to grant such request on the terms and conditions hereinafter set out, provided a by-law authorizing the same is duly passed by the ratepayers of the said City authorized to vote thereon.

THIS INDENTURE THEREFORE WITNESSETH that in pursuance of the premises and in consideration of the agreement on behalf of the corporation hereinafter contained, the said company, provided the said by-law is approved of by the ratepayers of the said city voting thereon and is finally passed by the council hereby covenants and agrees with the corporation as follows:—

1. That the said company will as soon as possible after the execution hereof by the said corporation and before the first day of June, 1910, remove from ... George street any poles that can in the opinion of the engineer be dispensed with or are not necessary for the present operation of the company's business and will before the said date replace all necessary poles with straight and neat poles of uniform height and size and of as attractive appearance as possible and place same flush with the curb.

2. That the said company in replacing any of said poles or placing any additional poles on the streets will replace place and locate the same in such manner as not to interfere with the existing poles now or then on the streets and will do all work subject to the approval, under the control and to the satisfaction of the engineer or such other person as may be designated by the Council for that purpose and in doing said work will not unnecessarily incumber or obstruct any of the said streets and after any work on same is done will at once restore the said streets to the same condition that they were in before such work was commenced or and will not cut, trim, injure or destroy any shade or ornamental trees without the express consent of the Council, nor will they fasten any guy wires to any shade or ornamental trees, and will remove any guy wires now fastened on such trees.

3. That the said company will not place any poles on any of the streets without the written consent of the engineer.

4. That the said company will at its own expense on the written requisition of the engineer change the location of any poles now or hereafter placed on the said streets, provided however that the engineer shall not be entitled to require the Company to remove more than five per cent of the then existing poles in any year and no poles shall be required to be moved between the first day of December in any year and the first day of April in any succeeding year.

5. That the said company will permit the said corporation to use any of its poles that the corporation may desire for the purpose of stringing wires thereon for street lighting, fire alarm system or other like corporation purposes (but not for domestic or commercial lighting or power purposes) at such rental as may be mutually agreed on, and if the said rental cannot be agreed on the same shall be fixed by the said board.

6. That the said Company will also upon the written request of the Engineer permit any other Company which now has or may hereafter obtain the right to the use of the streets for placing poles and wires thereon the use of its poles to carry the wires of the said other Company at such rental as may be mutually agreed on and if not mutually agreed on such rental shall be fixed by the said Board, and the said Company will also if the approval of the said Board is first obtained allow more than one Company the use of its poles for the purposes and upon the terms and conditions aforesaid, and the City will endeavour if possible to secure the Company from such other Company or Companies similar privileges.

7. That if the Corporation should hereafter construct or allow the construction of conduits on any of the streets within an area bounded on the north by the north side of McDonnel Street, on the south by the south side of Sherbrooke Street, on the east by the east side of Water Street, and on the west by the west side of Aylmer Street, and should desire to rent the use of same to the Company, the Company will, after the first day of January 1914, rent the use of said conduits from the Corporation at a rental and under such terms and conditions as may be mutually agreed on and if said rental and terms and conditions cannot be mutually agreed on the same shall be fixed by the said Board and the said Company will within twelve months from the granting of such use remove its poles from any streets or parts of streets within said area on which conduits are constructed the use of which conduits are leased to it by the Corporation, and the Company further agrees that when the population of the City of Peterborough reaches 35,000 as shown by the assessment returns that the Company will, if the Board should on application made to it by the Corporation decide that it is reasonable for the Company to be required to do so, and the Corporation desires to rent the same or any of them to the Company, rent the use of any conduits constructed or allowed to be constructed by the Corporation on any other streets or parts of streets, at a rental and on the terms and conditions to be agreed on or fixed in the manner above mentioned and will within twelve months from the granting of such use remove its poles from said streets or parts of streets.

8. That the said Company will in all street work done and maintain in good condition the most modern appliances and apparatus designed to secure freedom from danger or accidents to person and property by reason or on account of the operations of the Company or the transmission of electricity over its system and will keep indemnified and harmless the said Corporation from and against all loss, costs, damages and expenses and from and against all actions, proceedings, claims and demands whatsoever occasioned by or arising out of the erection, placing, repairing, operating or maintaining the poles of the Company or in any way connected with relating to or resulting from the same or the operations of the Company or by reason or on account of any matter or thing done or omitted to be done by the Company or its employees, or by reason of any failure, neglect or omission of the Company or its employees to do or perform anything which the Company is by law or under the provisions of this agreement or any By-law of the Corporation or otherwise required to do or perform or because of any negligence or of any omission or commission on the part of the Company or its employees in the erection, placing, repairing, operating or maintenance of such poles or the transmission of electricity thereon, however the same may be caused or occur.

9. That the Company will pay to the Corporation for the balance of the said terms of thirty years, commencing from the termination of the existing street lighting agreement between the parties hereto on the first day of January 1... the following sums per year for the poles erected and maintained by it, namely, for the first 200 poles the sum of $1.00 per pole and for each additional pole over 200, the sum of 50 cents per pole, and the same shall be paid so long as such poles remain on the streets whether used or not, (provided however that the said Company shall pay at least a minimum price of four hundred dollars per year). such annual sums to be payable to the Treasurer of the Corporation in equal quarterly payments on the last days of the months of March, June, September and December in each year, the first payment to be made on the thirty first day of March 1911 and the Company shall in the meantime up to the said first day of January 1914, continue to pay the rental payable under the said existing agreement.

10. That the said Company at the expiration of the said term of Thirty years for which the said Company is to have the right to use the streets for the purposes aforesaid, will on demand of the Corporation remove its poles from all or any of the said streets and will after such removal repair and make good any damage or injury to the streets caused by such removal, and at the expiration of the said term of Thirty years the right or authority given to the Company to erect or maintain poles on any of the streets shall absolutely cease unless such time is extended by the By-laws of the Corporation and in event of the refusal or neglect of the said Company to remove the said poles the same may be removed by an officer of the Corporation and the cost of such removal shall be paid by the said Company.

11. That the said Company will during the said term supply and instal meters and transformers for installations up to fifteen horse power, free of charge to those customers using same and will not charge for the use of said meters or transformers.

12. That the said Company will during the said term charge rates to customers not exceeding the following, subject to the provisions hereinafter set out.

(a) For Domestic Lighting, ten cents per one thousand watts, and will allow a discount of thirty per cent if payment is made within ten days from the mailing or delivery to the customer of the account provided that the minimum net rate per year shall not be less than nine dollars.

(b) For Commercial Lighting, twelve and one-half cents per one thousand watts, and will allow a discount of twenty per cent if payment is made within ten days from the mailing or delivery to the customer of the account or a flat rate of four dollars per year on the basis of a sixteen candle power lamp and a proportionate rate for lamps of less or more candle power of twenty-five cents per year per candle power and will allow in all cases where a flat rate is charged a discount of twenty five per cent if payment is made within ten days from the mailing or delivery to the customer of the account.

(c) For power purposes with a twenty-four hour service, for from 1 to 4 horse power $60.00 per year, or at the same rate as the ordinary domestic lighting meter rate, at the option of the customer.

For from 5 to 9 horse power $30.00 per year or 3 cents per horse power hour.

For from 10 to 19 horse power $25.00 per year or two cents per horse power hour.

For 20 horse power or over $20.00 per year or 1½ cents per horse power hour.

The quantity of power to be measured at the point the Company's wires enter the premises of the customer, and the above-mentioned prices for power are only to apply to power generated within the City of Peterborough, which power shall amount to at least 2000 Horse Power for manufacturing purposes, exclusive of power used by the Quaker Oats Company or its successors.

13. AND IT IS HEREBY PROVIDED that such rates shall remain in force until the first day of January 1915 and shall not thereafter be increased by the Company during the term hereby granted, but it is hereby further agreed by the said Company that if reduced rates cannot be mutually agreed on for the five years of said term commencing with the first day of January 1915 that the Corporation shall be at liberty to make an application to the said Board for a reduction in any or all of said rates for the five years commencing with the said first day of January 1915, and that the said Board shall have full power and authority to reduce the rates to be charged for the said ensuing five years, and the said Company agrees that the rates so agreed upon or fixed shall be the rates to be charged and paid in lieu of the rates above mentioned until the expiration of the said term hereby granted, unless re-adjusted as hereinafter mentioned or by agreement between the parties hereto: it being agreed between the Company and the Corporation that for each ensuing five year term, commencing with the first day of January in the years 1920, 1925, 1930 and 1935, either the said Corporation or Company shall be at liberty to make application to the said Board for re-adjustment of all or any of the said rates for such ensuing five year term, provided such application is made prior to the fifteenth day of April, in any of the years 1920, 1925, 1930 and 1935 respectively, and that the said Board shall have full power and authority to re-adjust the said rates provided however that none of said rates shall be increased or made higher than the rates provided for and fixed in the twelfth clause of this agreement and that the rates so agreed on or fixed shall be the rates to be charged and paid until the end of the term hereby granted, unless further re-adjusted as above provided, and the said Company hereby agrees and undertakes to obey, abide by and carry out any order or direction of the said Board, in respect to said rates.

14. And the said Company hereby in consideration hereof further covenants, agrees and undertakes with the said Corporation that nothing herein contained nor the granting or enjoyment of the rights hereby conferred shall be deemed or taken to limit, interfere with or affect the rights of the Corporation in any respect nor any rights or privileges which it now has or may hereafter acquire or have conferred on it to generate, transmit deliver, receive, rent, lease, use, supply, sell and distribute electrical power or energy for any purpose nor to limit, interfere with or affect the control of the streets by the Corporation under the Municipal Act or any By-law or agreement now in force or hereafter passed or entered into with regard to the placing of poles on the streets nor the right of the said Corporation to place poles on the streets or to engage in Municipal, Domestic and Commercial Lighting or the supply of electricity for lighting, power and other purposes nor the right to grant to any person or Company the right or license to use the said streets for any purpose within the authority of the Corporation and no delay dealing, or acquiescence on the part of the Corporation shall be deemed or taken to have the effect of limiting, interfering with or in any way altering any rights or privileges which the Corporation has hereunder or now has or may hereafter acquire or have conferred on it, nor of conferring any right to the use of the streets by the Company after the right to do so has expired under the terms hereof, but this clause shall not be deemed to affect the rights hereby granted to the Company for and during the term hereby provided for.

15. And the said Company hereby in consideration hereof further covenants, agrees and undertakes with the Corporation that should the Corporation hereafter purchase or take proceedings under any Act then in force to acquire the works and property of the Company or any part or parts thereof that in determining the price to be paid therefor, either by arbitration or otherwise, nothing shall be taken into account or allowed to the Company for prospective profits or because of the granting to or enjoyment by the Company of the rights or any of the rights hereby granted or conferred on the Company.

16. And it hereby further agreed by and between the parties hereto that in any cases where under the terms hereof, any questions, matter or thing may be referred to and determined by the Board that the said questions, matter or thing may, at the option and will of the Council, be determined by arbitration under the provisions of The Arbitration Act and that the arbitrator or arbitrators appointed to hear and determine the said question matter or thing, and undertaking the reference, shall have and exercise the same powers and authorities as are herein conferred on the said Board, and that the Company shall and will conform to, abide by and carry out any award, decision, direction or order from time to time made by the arbitrator or arbitrators in all respects and in as full and ample a manner as if the same was made by and was a direction or order of the Board, under the terms hereof; and this Agreement to submit any such question, matter or thing, to arbitration, shall, if and as soon as the said Council exercises its option to have the same so referred to arbitration instead of to the said Board and passes a resolution to that effect, be deemed and taken in each case, as if, may arise, to be a submission under the provisions of The Arbitration Act of the said question, matter or thing and all the provisions of the said Act applicable thereto shall apply to any such submission, arbitration and award or other decision or direction of the said Arbitrator or Arbitrators.

17. AND THIS INDENTURE FURTHER WITNESSETH that the said Corporation in pursuance and consideration of the premises hereby agree with the said Company, that provided the said Company performs, fulfils and keeps the covenants and agreements herein contained on its part to be observed, performed and kept, and strictly observes the terms and conditions herein contained, that the Company may for a period of thirty years from the first day of January 1910, use the said streets for the purpose of placing and maintaining in, upon, over or under the same, poles, wires and other appliances necessary for the transmission thereby of electric current for energy for its operations as a lighting and power company, provided, and so long only as the same are placed and maintained according to the provisions hereof.

In WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties hereto have hereunto caused their respective Corporate Seals to be affixed, attested by the hands of their proper officials.

3. The Mayor and Clerk are authorized to execute the said agreement in duplicate under their hands and the Corporate Seal provided the same is executed by the said Peterborough Light and Power Company (Limited) either prior to or at the time it is executed on behalf of the Corporation.

4. The votes of the electors of the said City of Peterborough will be taken on the by-law on the third day of January 1910 being the same day as the next annual election of the Municipal Council for the said City is being held and the polls will be held at the same hour on said day, at the same places and by the same Deputy Returning Officers and Poll Clerks as are appointed and fixed for the said Municipal Election.

5. The fourth day of January 1910 at the hour of twelve o'clock noon, at the City Clerk's Office are hereby fixed as the time when and the place where the Clerk will sum up the number of votes given for and against the by-law.

6. The thirty-first day of December 1909 and the hour of twelve o'clock noon, and the Office of the City Clerk are hereby fixed as the time and place for the appointment of persons to attend at the various polling places and at the final summing up of the votes by the Clerk respectively, on behalf of the persons interested in and promoting or opposing the passing of the By-Law respectively.

DISTINGUISHED VISITORS

In Connection With the Local Option Campaign Here.

The Campaign Committee has arranged for the following noted speakers:

Tuesday, 3 p.m., in George street Methodist church school room, a mass meeting of women under the auspices of the W.C.T.U., when Mrs. Hitchcox of Toronto, will be the speaker. This talented lady will also speak at Knox church Tuesday night at eight o'clock.

Tuesday, 8 p.m., Rev. Dr. S. D. Chown, M.A., the superintendent of the Moral and Social Reform Board of the Methodist church, will address a public meeting in St. Paul's church.

Wednesday, in the Grand Opera House, the Hon. Seaborn Wright of Georgia, will give his eloquent and celebrated address on "The Regulation of the Liquor Traffic." The Opera House Orchestra will furnish the music. There will no doubt be a bumper house.

Saturday (Christmas night) in George street Methodist church at eight o'clock, Governor R. B. Glenn of South Carolina, will address a public meeting, and on Sunday after noon at 3.45 (Dec. 26) Governor Glenn will give the address.

FIREMEN'S CHRISTMAS TREE.

Great Preparations Being Made — Many Contributions Received.

Great preparations are being made by the chief of the fire department and his men for the big Christmas tree and Christmas festivities on Wednesday afternoon next. The chief has received a great many letters from citizens all approving of the celebration and expressing confidence in the chief and his men to guard the city against serious fires. A great many have contributed towards the affair and there is not the least doubt in the world but that it will be one of the happiest occasions the city has experienced. The children will be more than delighted as the tree will be heavily ladened with toys and things which will interest and please them.

After the distribution of presents and an informal program, a supper will be served in the dormitories for the firemen, their wives, children and the invited guests. There will be some more music and good fellowship and then the party will disperse and seek their respective hay stacks.

New Skating Rink.

Manager Hurtubise of the Auditorium Roller Rink intends to have ice skating there this winter, and will make a bid for the patronage of the skating and hockey public. Mr. Hurtubise announces that he will have a big surface and seating accommodation for 800 people. He has made an offer to the City Hockey League to have that body play its matches on Auditorium ice and the City League will consider the matter at its next meeting which will likely be held early next week.

The old fashioned way of dosing a weak stomach, or stimulating the Heart or Kidneys is all wrong. Dr. Shoop first pointed out this error. This is why his prescription — Dr. Shoop's Restorative— is directed entirely to the cause of these ailments —the weak inside or controlling nerves. It isn't so difficult, says Dr. Shoop, to strengthen a weak Stomach, Heart or Kidneys, if one goes at it correctly. Each inside organ has its controlling or inside nerve. When these nerves fail then those organs must surely falter. These vital truths are leading druggists everywhere to dispense and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Test it a few days, and see! Improvement will promptly and surely follow. Sold by all dealers.

If Sick

Don't risk even one single penny!

And I will tell you why I say this.

In his pamphlet every sentence of Dr. Shoop's medicines is absolutely Free & It Tells.

No one need risk even one single penny.

Just think what this means to the suffering sick!

In this pamphlet, nothing whatever the best health in all the world, for 35 full days, and without the risk of a single penny, you can tell which of my two remedies—Dr. Shoop's Restorative or Dr. Shoop's Blood Tablets—is recommended to you.

Why risk your one chance to be cured?

Why purchase any medicine when another does not back it just as I do by this remarkable offer?

And besides, I am no stranger to you.

My "No Relief—No Pay" offer has made Dr. Shoop's Restorative and Dr. Shoop's Blood Tablets household words in this land. They are sold on my say-so. We take no chances when we offer.

For twenty years Dr. Shoop's medicines have become thoroughly established all over America.

And I have thousands upon thousands of voluntary letters from people in every section, telling of results. Please remember this when you write me. Let me tell you of cases like your own, of cures I have made. Then tell me if you will dare to accept my offer and make the risk—and the entire risk is mine alone.

Just write me first for an order.

I have an agent in almost every community—but all druggists are not authorized to accept the 35 day test.

So drop me a line, please—and then save all dissatisfaction and delays.

Besides, you are free to consult me by letter as you would your home physician. So no fear and delay—if you desire. My advice and the book I have are yours—and without cost. Perhaps a word or two from me will clear up some strange ailment. I have helped thousands upon thousands by my private prescription or personal advice plan.

Besides, the books will open up new and helpful ideas to you. They tell of my 20 years experience at the sick-bed of home and in Hospitals. All phases of Nervous and rebel are told of there. They tell of Dr. Shoop's Health Coffee for better health. And all that given by the Heart in tablets. How the Stomach and Kidneys each have their inside or power nerve. How these organs surely falter when these controlling or master nerves begin to fail. How Dr. Shoop's restorative nerve action helps failing nerves and rebuilds, positively restores the lost tone and power. I can surely help you—if it is within the power of medicine to do so. My best effort is merely worth your simple request. So write now, while it is fresh in mind, for tomorrow never comes. Dr. Shoop, Box 12, Racine, Wis.

Voters' List Court.

The revision of the voters' list for 1910, will be commenced at the court house this morning at eight o'clock before his honor Judge Hayden. Much interest centers in the court as about four hundred appeals are to be heard. Subpoenas have been served on those whose presence is required.

New Postmaster.

Mr. J. W. White of South Monaghan, has been appointed post master in place of Mr. Simpson, resigned. This appointment will bring back to South Monaghan the post office which has been for the past few years on the Cavan side of the road.

To Be Ordained.

An interesting ceremony will take place at St. Peter's cathedral this morning at eight o'clock when Rev. James Tower will be ordained to the priesthood by his honor, Bishop O'Connor. Rev. Father Tower is a native of County Louth, Ireland, and commenced his studies for the priesthood there. Coming to America eight years ago, he entered a seminary at Buffalo where he studied for some time. He completed his course at Montreal. He will likely be attached to the cathedral staff here.

New Faces at the Princess.

This week Mr. Ernest Hanna, proprietor of the favorite Ec. theatorium, the Princess, has broken away from former conditions in Peterborough. This means that in this city the people have got tired of seeing the same faces of actors or actresses in the picture characters. Mr. Hanna has inaugurated an entirely new series of films, so that this patrons will see not only the best class of pictures but new actors and actresses filling the various bills. This new service is the best yet and Mr. Hanna is to be congratulated on his enterprise.

The chairman of the evening will be Mr. L. M. Hayes, and the speakers will be his Honor Judge Hayden, Dr. Macpherson, Rev. J. R. Webb and Inspector Mowat. A musical program will be given including selections by the school orchestra, Mr. Herbert Morphet and Miss Kathleen Wallis. There will be no admission fee and the public is cordially invited.

TELEPHONING TO THE COUNTRY

THE City and the Country are bound together by the telephone line.

The farmer and his family use the rural telephone constantly, calling up each other and the market town on all sorts of matters and for all sorts of supplies and information.

City people also find the rural telephone of great advantage. A traveller from his room in the hotel talks with the farm folk miles away. Without the telephone he could not reach them.

The farmer himself may travel far and still talk home over the Long Distance Lines of the Bell System.

Application To Parliament

NOTICE is hereby given that an application will be made by the Corporation of the City of Peterborough to the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Ontario at its next session for an Act for the following purposes:—

1. To confirm and declare legal and valid the following By-Laws of the said Corporation, namely:—

By-Law Number 1482 intituled "A By-Law to amend the By-Law to aid The Colonial Weaving Company (Limited) which said By-Law so amended was confirmed by Chapter 104 of the Statutes of the Province of Ontario passed in the year 1908; and By-Law Number 1491 intituled "A By-Law to fix the assessment of The William Hamilton Company (Limited)" by which the assessment of the said Company is fixed at the sum of $10,000 for ten years.

2. To authorize the Council of the Corporation to finally pass a By-Law intituled "A By-Law to aid Purity Ware (Limited)" which By-Law provides for a loan of $50,000, the payment of the cost of land for the said Company, exemption from taxes for ten years except School taxes and local improvement rates and other matters in said By-Law set out, which By-Law was submitted to and received the assent of the majority of the freeholders voting thereon, but not of a sufficient number to carry the same and to declare the said By-Law when so passed legal and valid.

3. To amend section One of Chapter 104 of the Statutes of the Province of Ontario passed in the year 1908 intituled "An Act respecting the City of Peterborough" for the purpose of making further provisions as to the election of Aldermen, filling vacancies in the Council and other similar matters.

Dated at Peterborough this 16th day of December A. D. 1909.

Oil Rush to Southern Alberta WILL BE GREATER THAN YUKON

It is only of recent years that we have awakened to the great possibilities and the wonderful wealth represented in the natural resources of the Dominion of Canada.

Prominent in the mineral areas is crude oil or petroleum, and quite recently Southern Alberta Oil Fields have experienced considerable activity.

If you were to turn to the map recently issued by the Geological Department of the Dominion Government showing the petroleum deposits, you would find that that district close to and immediately southwest of Pincher Creek, in Southern Alberta, is, as the district most clearly defines, a country of great petroleum wealth.

We are offering for immediate sale a block of 25,000 shares in the Chicago-Alberta Oil Fields Company, Limited, at 25c each, which shares have a par value of one dollar each, and are non-assessable since the company is a limited liability corporation, operating under a charter issued by the Government of the Province of Alberta.

The Chicago-Alberta Oil Fields Company Limited, control an area of oil lands to the extent of 5,760 acres in the heart of the Pincher Creek district.

We have at our office here considerable quantity of crude oil taken from the oil seepages which appear at different points on the Company's property.

The Company owns one of the largest two-rig drilling equipment ever imported into Canada. This plant was shipped direct from the centre of the oil industry, Pennsylvania, to the Company's property, and is now being set up ready for drilling.

We have every reason to believe, since we know the property thoroughly, that those who are fortunate enough to secure a holding in this Company at the present price of twenty-five cents per share are in the pathway of big profits on their investment. Quite recently a vein of finest grade of bituminous coal was unearthed on the Company's property. The seam is ten feet deep, and was full length of the property. It is a most valuable asset.

Those who were fortunate enough to buy in on the ground floor of the big American oil company have become independently wealthy.

TWO THOUSAND PER CENT, is the average advance of the stock of thirty oil companies in the United States. The following are a few samples:

THE HOME OIL CO., which was started with a cash capital of only $45.00 and ten acres of land, paid eight millions in dividends. The San Francisco Petroleum Co. has paid over twenty-seven millions in dividends. The Pacific Coast Oil Co. has paid over fourteen millions, and the Standard Oil Co. pays upwards of forty millions annually in dividends.

OIL LANDS and lands adjacent to them bring fabulous prices. One-eighth of an acre of oil land in Texas was sold for $80,000.00, and acre-plots three to five miles away were sold for $27,000.00 and $33,000.00 respectively, whereas before the discovery of oil this same ground could have been bought for 50 cents per acre, and it is not unreasonable to suppose that the lands of the Chicago-Alberta Oil Fields Co. may increase similarly in value.

We reproduce herewith a letter which was written to Mr. Black, Superintendent of the Chicago-Alberta Oil Fields Co., Limited, by John W. Warren, who personally visited and inspected property controlled by the Company. It is certainly a most unconditional endorsement of the district, and in particular the quality of petroleum taken from the same:

LETTER.

TESTIMONY OF JOHN W. WARREN.

(Expert Analyst, Inventor and Proprietor of Warren's Waterless Process for Refining Gasoline.
Elgin, Ill., July 21, 1908.

Mr. David Black,
Pincher Creek, Alberta, Canada.

Dear Sir:

In reply to yours of recent date, I will say that I went to the oil fields of Alberta, Canada, and saw oil oozing out of the rocks and ground, and floating away on small creeks. I went to the last "seepage" and saw the oil running down the rocks for at least 300 feet. I saw a great many oil springs. I gathered some of the oil in a bottle and brought it home, some I caught flowing from a well 750 feet deep. I took my small still, hydrometer, and other things necessary to make a test with me. I found it,

40 degrees Baume
.8235 specific gravity
6 88-100 lbs. weight per gallon, wine measure.

It contains 20 to 25 per cent. gasoline. I distilled and refined some gasoline and did it without sulphuric acid or lead. It was very fine, in fact the finest I ever saw. I made some axle grease out of the Alberta oil just as it came from the well near Pincher Creek. We greased a buggy, 2 wheels on one side with this axle grease, and the other 2 wheels with pure castor oil. The axle grease ran twice as long as the castor oil and without gum. Further, I have treated oils from New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Texas, Kansas, California and Eastern Canada. I consider Alberta Oil to be the best of all in gasoline and lubricating oil. It contains less sulphur than any oil I have treated. Any man can see that there is a great demand in Canada for Alberta oil, for five-sixths of the oil used there comes from the United States. You ask my opinion. I think the oil fields of Alberta are as good as ever the Pennsylvania were.

I remain yours,
JOHN W. WARREN.

We will not accept applications for less than one hundred shares, and, when the whole sum of $25 is paid, certificate will be issued at once.

Shares may be secured, however, on terms: 10c per share cash, balance 5c per share per month.

We shall be pleased to forward those at a distance complete information concerning this proposition, and answer all inquiries.

Our office is open daily from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. Remember that the price of 25c per share is good only until Friday evening at nine o'clock, December 24th. Any and no application received by mail after this date will be withdrawn from the market, and no stock will be offered at any future date for less than thirty or thirty-five cents. Once drilling commences you may expect to see considerable activity in the shares of this Company, and, by the time the drills are down to the oil level (a matter of sixty or ninety days), there is every indication that the stock will be selling at par.

Our Address is Suite 8, Imperial Chambers, 32-34 Adelaide Street East.

Cosgrave's Beer

Words of praise have ever proved fatal to advertising "copy." That a producer should wax enthusiastic over his own wares is but human. But it's the praise of the consumer that counts—and it is to a discriminating and critical public that "Cosgrave's" refers you.

It is safe to say that no product of any kind enjoys a more enviable reputation than does the same Cosgrave Beer of Toronto in markets where it is offered.

Its self-evident honesty of purpose, purity, brilliancy, body and every other attribute that goes to make a perfect beer are ever in evidence.

Dr. Cook Fails to Prove Claim that He Reached North Pole

His Own Friends at Copenhagen Reject His Story—Evidence Submitted was Vague and Trifling

Copenhagen, Dec. 21. The University of Copenhagen, the first institution of learning to recognize Dr. Frederick A. Cook as the discoverer of the North Pole, solemnly declared that the explorer had failed to establish the claims upon which his high honors had been based.

The committee appointed by the University to examine Cook's records recently presented its report to the Consistory of the University which reviewed the deductions of the expert with the greatest care and discussed the findings from every standpoint. That both the committee and the Consistory were disappointed was soon known.

This morning the Consistory met and adopted a written report to the effect that the alleged records submitted for examination by Dr. Cook failed to proved his claim that he had reached the North Pole.

The report of the committee, of which Prof. Stromgren was chairman, as presented to the Consistory, states that Cook's papers are without any value; that his report to the University is practically the same as that published in the New York Herald upon his return from his Arctic expedition. The copies of his note books submitted says the committee, contain no original calculation of observations, but only results thereof. Accordingly the committee concludes that he affords no proof of having reached the Pole.

"GOLD-BRICK! I TOLD YOU SO."

Washington, Dec. 21.—Commander Robert E. Peary, when shown the despatch from Copenhagen regarding the report of the Cook Investigating Committee made the following statement to your correspondent.

"Three months ago, from the far Labrador coast, I sounded an explicit and deliberately worded warning to the world, based upon complete and accurate information in regard to the Cook claims.

"In doing so, I accepted the responsibility developing upon me and fulfilled my duty to myself and the world."

The warning to which Peary refers was his cablegram from Battle Harbor as follows:

"Cook has not been to the Pole. April 21, 1908, or any other date.

"He has simply handed the public a gold brick."

Rev. Father Toner Ordained to Priesthood

A most impressive and interesting ceremony took place at St. Peter's Cathedral yesterday morning when Rev. Father Toner, of Aghameen, Parish of Lordship, County Louth, Ireland, was ordained into the priesthood by his Lordship Right Reverend Bishop O'Connor. The church was filled to overflowing and the spirit of the occasion was entered into by the very large congregation as they followed the solemn proceedings of the ceremony. His Lordship Bishop O'Connor was assisted by Rev. Father McColl and Rev. Father P. J. Kelly, while Rev. M. J. O'Brien, D. D., of the Church of the Sacred Heart, was master of ceremonies. In addition there were other members of the clergy of the district including Rev. Father V. G. McFadden, and and Rev. Father W. P. Meagher, curates of St. Peter's Cathedral, Rev. Father Fitzpatrick of Ennismore, Rev. Father Scanlan of Grafton, and Rev. Father Quinn of Tweed.

After the ceremony of ordination took place at eight o'clock his Lordship exorted the congregation to pray for the success of the young priest, and then asked the faithful to come forward and receive Rev. Father Toner's first blessing. It is usually the custom for a newly ordained priest to give his first blessing to his father and mother, but Rev. Father Toner's parents are in Aghameen, Ireland. His first blessing was given to Rev. Dr. O'Brien, rector of the Church of the Sacred Heart.

Immediately after the ceremony, however, Rev. Father Toner sent a cablegram to his parents in Ireland, telling them of his ordination.

Rev. Father Toner received his early education in the National School in Aghameen, Ireland, and pursued his classical studies in Buffalo, N.Y. Coming to Canada his philosophical and theological training was completed in Montreal, and he received his orders as far as deaconship in Quebec.

Rev. Father Toner will celebrate his first mass in St. Peter's Cathedral tomorrow morning, and his first solemn high mass in St. Peter's on Sunday morning next.

It is probable that the young priest will be attached to the staff of St. Peter's Cathedral, and if so he will undoubtedly be most popular in the diocese.

Said to Have Used Knife in Quarrel

A warrant was sworn out yesterday morning for the arrest of Nicola Renzetti, the proprietor of a boarding house, near the Waterworks dam, as the result of an alleged assault upon Nicola Lamorgia, one of the boarders. The affair, according to the information, took place last night the information, took place Monday night and Renzetti is said to have used a long knife, although he didn't get within striking distance, thanks to some of the other boarders, who intervened.

Lamorgia returned to the boarding house from work and after a while Renzetti informed him that the bed he had been occupying was taken last night and he would have to sleep on another. Renzetti showed him the bed he intended for him and an old man was then sleeping on it. Lamorgia refused to use it if the old man was to be a bedfellow and Renzetti, it is claimed, became angry and told him he could get out of the house. Lamorgia suggested that he might as well keep cool, as he would pay his bill and leave the place. Renzetti is said to have become enraged and picked up a long knife and started towards Lamorgia. Fortunately several of the boarders took hold of Renzetti and prevented the possibility of what the information stated might have been a serious occurrence.

County Constable Cochrane left with the warrant yesterday afternoon to apprehend Renzetti and to bring him before Magistrate Edmison for a preliminary hearing.

New Concrete Dam built on Horse Lake

The Department of Railways and Canals has just completed a splendid new concrete dam on Horseshoe Lake in the County of Victoria. This new dam will prove to be of substantial benefit in conserving the waters on the Gull River, for reservoir purposes. Horseshoe Lake is a fine large body of water, and is situated in the Township of Minden. The lake has an area of 578 acres and a nine foot head will be maintained at this dam, so that it is evident that the completion of the new dam will substantially enhance the reservoir value of the Gull River waters.

The building of the new dam at Horseshoe Lake was a piece of work of no mean proportion. It was 150 feet long, and the structure being of concrete, necessitated the hauling of concrete for some distance from the nearest railway station. Mr. Alex. Richardson was the foreman on this work, which was supervised by Overseer Mr. Clegg.

APPOINTED LOCAL MANAGER.

Mr. Ernest Bruce Promoted by Bell Telephone Co.—Goes to Collingwood.

Mr. Ernest Bruce, who is in charge of the trouble department of the local office of the Bell Telephone Company at the present time, has received word that he has been appointed local manager at Collingwood, and will leave early in January to take up his new duties. Mr. Bruce has been connected with the Bell Company here for the past three and a half years, and during that time has made a large number of friends in Peterborough. They will be sorry to hear of his departure from the city, but at the same time will be delighted to hear of his promotion.

The House of Lords and Law Making

The Hon Rodolphe Lemieux, postmaster general of Canada, was in the House of Lords when the vote on the Lansdowne amendment to the budget was taken. He says that, instead of being a decrepit lot of men, the Upper House represents the greatest aggregation of intellect, wealth and oratory the world has ever seen. Mr. Lemieux would naturally form his judgment upon the speeches he heard, and some admirable speeches were made. But, unfortunately, the men who speak and who take a continuous interest in the affairs of the nation do not predominate in the House of Lords. The fatal defect in the House of Lords is the hereditary principle, which confers the power of making or unmaking legislation upon men who bive no evidence of capacity, or even of inclination for public duty, and whose only qualification is the inheritance of title and lands.

The presence of a comparatively small body of experienced statesmen like Morely and Lansdowne does not cure the defect, though it may help to conceal it. Morely and Lansdowne were not trained in the House of Lords. Lansdowne was traiped in Canada and in India, and in his work as a minister of the Crown, which associated him with those who are really managing the affairs of the empire. Morley received his training in journalism and in the House of Commons. But in a division the vote of Morley or Lansdowne counts for no more than that of a idler who knows and cares nothing about public affairs and does not even take the trouble to listen to the debates.

Usually, when their own interests are not at stake, and their class and partisan feeling are not aroused, the bulk of the peers do not even vote. Mr. Winston Churchill recently analyzed the divisions of the House of Lords. It was found that on an average only 110 out of 600 voted in forty years.

It is true that stupid or idle men may obtain access to the House of Commons also. But the people may get rid of these when their incapacity is demonstrated. In the House of Lords there is no remedy but death, and even that is not complete for the useless peer may leave an equally useless heir to legislate for a greatempire.

Steamship "Prince Rupert" is Launched.

The Grand Trunk Pacific Railway are in receipt of a cable message announcing the successful launching yesterday at Wallsend-on-Tyne, England of the steamship "Prince Rupert," the first of the Grand Trunk Pacific steamers at present under construction for service on the Pacific Coast between Prince Rupert, Vancouver, Victoria and other Puget Sound ports. Upon the completion of the steamer within the next sixty days she will be sent via Cape Horn to the Pacific Coast and will go into commission next season. The companion ship, "Prince George" is also under construction and will be sent to the coast as soon as completed. These fine steamships will inaugurate the commencement of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway in the coast trade of the Pacific, are being constructed on the most modern designs and will be models of comfort in every particular.

Judge Huycke's Position

His Honor Judge Huycke made the following statement in open court yesterday morning. It will explain itself and will no doubt create not a little thinking among the citizens generally:—

There is one matter, after some consideration, I have decided to refer to, and it is not with reference particularly to what has been taking place during the past week or it is not particularly referrable to any one case or any one person, but I wish to make a statement publicly in open court. During the term of my residence in Peterborough, some four months or more, not once but many times, comparatively a good number of times, I have been approached either personally or by letter, by not one person, but different persons, regarding not one case, but different cases. I have answered none of them, and ignored them all. I simply wish to state here in open court that, in my opinion, such a course is highly improper, whether the people who do it are well meaning or ill meaning or, as in my judgment mostly people with no meaning at all. I consider it highly improper and some Judges have said it is an unwarranted impertinence. I wish to have it publicly known I do not wish such interference. If such takes place, as it has taken place, I desire to say it does not influence my attitude. If it would influence me, at all, it would rather influence me against the people who make these efforts with reference either to prisoners, litigants or witnesses. Therefore I do not want anything of this kind to occur from any person or persons or body of persons in the future. That, however, does not apply with respect to people who have been already convicted. As to them I am always glad to have any representations or information regarding the antecedents character or circumstances of the person convicted.

Collegiate Institute Commencement Exercises

The Collegiate Institute commencement exercises for 1909 have now passed into history and in years to come those who participated in the event which took place last night will look back upon the occasion as one of the brightest spots in their lives. The exercises were marked by particularly bright, elevating and inspiring addresses by some of the leading professional men of the city. The pupils could not help but be benefitted and assisted to aspire to a higher standard in life. The parents present could not help but feel to a greater extent the immensity of the responsibility vested in them as guardians of their home and their offspring. The main feature of the addresses was to impose upon the parents more strongly their duty to their children and to the schools. Education depends even more upon home training than upon the training received in the schools. Mr. Mowatt quoted as a definition of education "The development of personality." Mr. O'Connell gave it as the development of character. Character is life itself. A person's character is himself, his very life, and his whole life. The foundation of character must be founded in the home. If not the teachers in the schools have nothing upon which to build, they have nothing to develop and therefore can not develop it. It rests with the parents and with the guardians to begin the young lives aright, and to keep a guiding hand upon them during the tender years and to stand by the schools and the teachers.

His Honor Judge Huycke, delighted the gathering with a splendid talk directed especially to the boys and girls in whom he has always taken a great interest, not only in their class rooms but in the athletic field and in their homes. He is an old collegiate master and he loves youth. He urged the boys to possess lofty ideals; to be straight and honest and upright. He pictured to the girls the beauty and honor and worth of pure and good womanhood.

Mr. L. M. Hayes, K.C., chairman of the Board of Education, presided at the exercises and he expressed his pride in being connected with such a creditable institution as the schools of Peterborough.

The program was a somewhat lengthy one, but nevertheless a most enjoyable one. Musical numbers, vocal and instrumental, interspersed the addresses and the Collegiate orchestra rendered several beautiful selections.

Miss Venney read the valedictory with credit to herself and her school.

Dr. A. W. McPherson, the mainspring in Peterborough's sports presented the prizes and medals that were won on the athletic field. In doing so he referred to the importance of a good physique in making a success of life.

Mr. Mowatt presented the prizes to the first six pupils of last year's entrance class and to the winners of the five prizes for penmanship.

Rev. J. R. Webb presented the Normal entrance scholarships and addressed the audience on "The duty of the parents towards the school."

His Honor Judge Huycke presented the entrance scholarships.

Mr. D. O'Connell presented the junior and honor matriculation scholarships.

After a number of musical selections the evening was closed with the National Anthem.

King Edward Annoyed Over Use of His Name in Election Campaign

London, Dec. 21. The Unionist cause rests in such a special way upon Mr. Balfour that something like consternation spread through the Unionist clubs last night when the news came through that he had been forbidden by the doctors to go an hour's journey from his house at Whittinghame to make a short speech in Edinburgh. Miss Balfour, who devotes her life to her bachelor brother, has been inundated at Whittinghame today with messages of inquiry. Everyone following the opinion of medical men expected that when Mr. Balfour left London last Friday week, that ten days' rest would banish the pulmonary catarrh which had kept him to his bed for the best part of a week. He received a set back by his insistence, against the doctors' wishes, on going to the Commons on the fateful date when Mr. Asquith moved his anti-Lords resolution, but now the doctors and Miss Balfour have him together better in hand and decline to let him make any public speeches until after the New Year. The Unionists refuse to contemplate the confusion and dismay that would result should Mr. Balfour fail to lead the campaign next month. If Mr. Asquith fell behind, at least five men, including Sir Edward Grey, Mr. Lloyd-George and Mr. Churchill could take his place at the front of the fight, but, now that Mr. Chamberlain is disabled, Mr. Balfour stands alone, as the only possible Unionist leader. However, today's reports from Whittinghame encourage the belief that, with extreme care, Mr. Balfour may throw off the attack, and be ready for the platform the second week in January, if not the first one.

KING EDWARD ANNOYED.

A man in a position to know says that the King greatly resents the use that is being made of his name in the present conflict. Particularly offensive, it is reported, was the incident at Newcastle meeting yesterday, when Arthur Henderson, chairman of the Labor party, with a strange disregard of the elementary fact of the British Constitution, said "This is a grave business. Let me read the King's speech proroguing Parliament: 'I regret,' said his Majesty, 'that your provision for necessary supplies proved unavailing.' This showed that someone besides Liberal and Labor men regretted the loss of the Budget."

THE USE OF THE KING'S NAME

Sir Edward Grey and the Duke of Northumberland also got into a conflict over the use of the King's name. The duke accused the minister of wanting in respect to the Crown, of wanting of not having proper sense of decency, saying something which none of his Grey's forefathers would have said. Sir Edward Grey replied as follows: "The Crown is recognized in the perfectly well-understood position of the head of our Constitution, of which it is an integral part. When any reference is made to the constitution position of the Crown, it is made without reference to the person or the personality of the King himself. I made my reference impersonally, in the way it is generally done, but the Duke of Northumberland has thought it fitting to constitute himself a champion of the King's personality. That is certainly most unusual and undesirable, much more wanting in respect and decency than anything I said.

RECOGNIZES THE KING

"I suggest to the duke that he and his party have quite enough to do in challenging the rights of the Commons without raising any question about what has been the constitutional practice acted on by the Crown and recognized by the people for at least two hundred years. The hereditary principle, as far as the Monarchy is concerned, holds our respect and affection, but that is no reason why the hereditary principle in the House of Lords should have a hold upon the affections of the people."

Out on Suspended Sentence

George W. Martin, found guilty of having committed perjury, by a jury in the December sessions of the County Court on Wednesday last, came before his Honor Judge Huycke for sentence yesterday morning. Crown Attorney H. E. Wood and Mr. D. O'Connell on behalf of Mr. W. A. Henderson of Toronto, counsel for the defendant, were present. Martin was allowed to go on suspended sentence.

In passing this sentence, his Honor's remarks to the prisoner were in part.

"You have been tried on two charges of perjury. In one you were found "not guilty," and in the other you were convicted. Many representations have been made to me on behalf of you. I understand you have been very sober during the past few months, although your previous conduct was not of the best. Your crime is a serious one and I hope you realize the enormity of it. No good object is to be served in shutting you up in jail. I am taking a very merciful view of your case and allowing you to go on suspended sentence. However, if you misbehave, you will be brought before me and sentenced on this charge.

One Dead and Two Injured in big Hotel Fire in Winnipeg

Three Children of Proprietor Saved by Being Thrown Out of a Window Into a Sheet

(Special to The Times.)

Winnipeg, Dec. 21. As the result of a fire, which started at 2.45 o'clock this morning in the Metropole Hotel, 45 Ross avenue, John Alcock, clerk in the freight department of the C.P.R. is dead.

George Baxter, who jumped out of the third storey window to the sidewalk, was taken to the hospital in an ambulance, badly injured. Miss Hilda Brown, a dining room waitress, who also jumped out of a window, is badly hurt.

All the rest of the employes, as well as the guests and proprietor and his family escaped. The fire broke out in the kitchen, which is situated in the back part of the hotel, the building being almost immediately filled with smoke. An alarm was given by the night porter.

The proprietor, Arthur Cook and Mrs. Cook, escaped down the permanent fire ladder on the side of the building, after having thrown their three children out of a window into a sheet. There were forty people in the house when the fire started. Alcock was smothered to death by smoke. The structure was gutted. The loss is not definitely known.

Sixty-Five Sailors Mutiny on British Cruiser Leviathan

Plymouth, Eng., Dec. 21. A full fledged mutiny, which has occurred on the English cruiser Leviathan, Admiral Fatquhar's flagship, is the sensation of all England today.

The Leviathan, one of the finest ships in his Majesty's navy, arrived here today from Gibraltar, and it is said that during the cruise 65 of the sailors mutinied, declaring that they were overworked.

The mutineers threatened their officers. Loyal members of the crew were summoned to arms and cowed the rebels, who were placed in irons.

A summary court martial was held and the ringleaders were dishonorably dismissed and sentenced to two years at hard labor.

Garrison Athletic Association was Organized

The Garrison Athletic Association was organized last night at a meeting in the officers' quarters. This association will have charge of all the games to be conducted in the new armories. It is evident that many kinds of sport will flourish during the evenings.

The officers elected were as follows:

Hon. Pres.—Lt.-Col. Stevenson.
President—Capt. Cluxton.
1st Vice—Major Young.
2nd Vice—Capt. Medd.
Sec.-Treas.—Capt. McWilliams.
Executive Committee—The officers and Lieuts. Higgins and Clarke and Capt. McPherson.

Lieut. Higgins will generally supervise the indoor baseball, Lieut. Clark the bowling, and Capt. McPherson the tennis.

All the members of the 57th Regiment, 3rd Dragoons, and 24th Field Battery, who have been duly enlisted and served during the past year are eligible for membership in the athletic association.

The bowling alleyes are almost in constant use and a diamond and court have been laid out in the drill hall for baseball and tennis.

Meetings are being called for organization of individual companies of the regiment as well as the cavalry and artillery.

Evidence Enough to Obtain Indictment?

New York, Dec. 21. "I believe I have evidence enough to obtain three indictments," was Prosecutor Mott's declaration today when marshalling his witnesses for the presentation of the facts concerning Mrs. Oecy's Snead's death to the jury in Essex county, New Jersey.

Mr. Mott said he had evidence not only to connect Miss Virginia Wardlaw, maiden aunt of the bath tub victim with the crime, but to establish the presence of Mrs. Caroline B. Martin, the young woman's mother, on the scene of the tragedy shortly before its discovery. Miss Wardlaw reported the death to the East Orange police on November 29. On that day Mr. Mott asserts Mrs. Martin was seen by two persons on an East Orange street. A veil, which he says Mrs. Martin dropped in her haste, and which the prosecutor states he has in his possession, was expected to figure as an exhibit before the Grand Jury.

The alleged discovery that a quarrel occurred between the sisters, and that Mrs. Martin hurriedly left the East Orange house of death, is another point the prosecutor was said to intend calling to the Grand Jury's attention.

Just what evidence is in the hands of the New Jersey authorities to warrant their asking that Mrs. Mary Snead be formally charged with complicity in the crime, Prosecutor Mott declined to state in advance of the presentation of the case to the Grand Jury.

STARVATION AMID PLENTY.

Not Uncommon Today—The Reason is Explained.

"For a period last summer the thought of food excited feelings of nausea," writes Mrs. C. A. Dodges, of Bloomsbury. "The heat had made me listless and the distaste for food reduced me to a condition of semi-starvation and brought me to the verge of nervous collapse. Tonics were useless to restore an active desire for food. The doctors told me my liver and kidneys were both at fault, but the medicines they gave me were too severe and reduced my strength so that I had to abandon them. At the suggestion of a friend who had been cured of blood and skin trouble, I began the use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills. The difference I first noticed was, that while they cleansed the system, instead of feeling weaker I felt better after taking them. Indeed their activity was so mild it was easy to forget I had taken them at all; they seemed to go right to the liver, and in a very brief time not only did all source of nausea disappear but I began to crave food and I digested it reasonably well. Then I began to put on weight until within three months I was brought to a condition of good health. I urge Dr. Hamilton's Pills for all who are in poor health."

Get this best of all medicines today and refuse a substitute for Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut. Look for the yellow box. Sold by all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont., at 25c. per box.

"Nerviline" Cures Rheumatism

And Here is the Proof—A Solemn Statement from a Four-years' Cripple, Who Says "Nerviline" Did It.

"If I had lived through my sufferings another year it would have been a miracle." This is the opening sentence of the declaration made by Mr. J. Boles Squires, member of one of the best-known families for twenty miles round Sydney. "My hands were drawn out of shape, even my fingers were gnarled and crooked—my lameness, stiffness and inability to get about all showed the havoc Rheumatism made with my health. The blessing of it all is that I have heard of Nerviline, and now I am able to tell and advise others how they get well, too. My system was so weakened that I had to build up with a good tonic, so I took Ferrozone at meals. But I never stopped rubbing on Nerviline—it had a magic influence on my stiff, painful joints, and bottle after bottle was rubbed on the painful parts. Nerviline cured me. I am well to-day—have been well for 4½ years.'

CURED 4 1-2 YEARS.

You also can cure rheumatism, lumbago, sciatica, neuralgia or any pain or stiffness in the muscles or joints—to do so use Nerviline. Don't let your druggist substitute. Get Nerviline only; large bottles, 25c., or five for $1.00; sold everywhere, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

WEDNESDAY, DEC. 22, 1909.

A MODEL RAILWAY.

The Intercolonial Railway, which has so long been a national white elephant on wheels, is, says the Peterborough Examiner, fast advancing to the status of a model railway. The Liberal Government improved it in a great many ways. It extended the railway to Montreal, and it brought it on one occasion, at least, to the point of earning something over expenses. The Government placed the railway under a board of management who were required to apply business principles to the management, irrespective of political consideration, which are claimed to have been in great demand—back to the road's prosperity since its construction. This the Board has done. A commission, appointed under the Lemieux Act to investigate complaints of employees, found, amongst other things, that contrary to what had been charged, reduction of staff in the interests of economy had been influenced by political considerations. Another step forward is the legislation now pending and certain to pass giving the Government authority to lease other railways as feeders, and so place the national railway on a level with other trunk systems. What will appeal to many as the crowning feature of improvement in Intercolonial prospects is a fact brought out yesterday in the House. Dr. Black, of Hants, before the House, went into Supply, brought up the matter of the supply of drinking water for use on the trains of the railway. He said the water for drinking was obtained at Montreal, and that this water for drinking was obtained at Montreal, and that this water was so laden and supercharged with diphtheria bacilli that passengers were stricken with the disease. The water was described as so bad that, while boiling might make it harmless, as well as insipid, for drinking purposes dishes washed in water not heated to the boiling point, left enough colon bacilli upon the dishes to poison the persons who ate the food from them. Dr. Black said that while Montreal might drink as much of its poisonous water as it liked, that he objected to passengers on the Government railway being compelled to injure, or risk injury to their health, and injure, or risk injury to their health, and contraction of disease, by its use. The reply of Hon. Mr. Graham, Minister of Railways, was that the matter was a most important one especially as passengers on the Government railway had nothing but water to drink—they could get access to nothing to dilute the strong beverage Dr. Black had described. According to this the International dining coaches and other coaches are water wagons, and give to the railway an unique distinction in these days when the principle represented by the term water wagon has such an intense vogue.

By-Law No.

A By-Law to provide for the election of Aldermen of the City of Peterborough in each Ward thereof.

Passed the day of 19

THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF PETERBOROUGH BY THE COUNCIL THEREOF ENACTS AS FOLLOWS:—

1. Commencing with the annual Municipal Election of Members of the Council of the City of Peterborough for the year 1911 the Aldermen shall be elected for each Ward of the City, instead of by general vote.

2. The votes of the electors of the said City of Peterborough will be taken on the By-Law on the third day of January 1910 being the same day as the next annual election of the Municipal Council for the said City is being held and the polls will be held at the same hour and—on said day, at the same places and by the same Deputy Returning Officers and Poll Clerks as are appointed and fixed for the said Municipal Election.

3. The fourth day of January 1910 at the hour of twelve o'clock noon, and the City Clerk's office are hereby fixed as the time when and the place where the Clerk will sum up the number of votes given for and against the By-Law.

4. The thirty-first day of December 1909 and the hour of twelve o'clock noon, and the Office of the City Clerk are hereby fixed as the time and place for the appointment of persons to attend at the various polling places and at the final summing up of the votes by the Clerk respectively, on behalf of the persons interested in and promoting or opposing the passing of the By-Law respectively.

Mayor.

Clerk.

NOTICE

Take notice that the foregoing is a true copy of a proposed By-Law which has been taken into consideration and which will be finally passed by the Council of the City of Peterborough (in the event of the assent of the electors being obtained thereto) after one month from the first publication hereof in the Morning Times newspaper, the date of which first publication is the eight day of December, 1909, and that at the hour, day and places therein fixed for taking the votes of the electors the polls will be held.

BOOK MADE TOWNS.

Holiday Resorts That Owe Their Popularity to Authors.

The most remarkable example of a book made town is Biskra, the oasis in the Sahara that Robert Hichens idealized under the name of Beni Mora in his novel of "The Garden of Allah."

Biskra, quite unknown in the past, is now, thanks to Mr Hichens, a fashionable winter resort. It is rather odd that all the world should know that Biskra was meant by Beni Mora in "The Garden of Allah." There is a Beni Mora near Biskra, a kind of swamp, with a few clay huts and a palm or two sticking up out of the mud, but Biskra itself is never mentioned in the book.

Ilfracombe, the north Devon watering place, owes its renown to Charles Kingsley, who in his novel of "Westward Ho!" praises it.

Two other Devon watering places, Lynton and Lynmouth, are book made. Blackmore's novel of "Lorna Doone" first drew the public to them.

Pierri Loti in "Pecheur d'Islande" described very beautifully the Breton seaport of Paimpol. Many persons in consequence have visited Paimpol in the hope of passing the summer there. Vain hope! Paimpol, with its muddy, smelly tidal river, is not quite an ideal holiday resort.—Exchange.

EXPENSIVE STEAK.

Ten Pounds of Beef That Sold For $48 a Pound.

The highest price ever paid for beefsteak so far as is known was at Circle City, Alaska. The first beefsteak that ever reached that town sold for $48 a pound, according to the newspapers of the time.

Too Fancy.

"They tell me your village fire company is getting fancy these days?" interrogated the starch drummer.

"Too blamed fancy," grumbled the citizen of Bacon Ridge. "They've even got openwork hose, and that's the reason they can't put out any fires, by gum!"—Chicago News.

Result in Doubt.

"Just one kiss," he pleaded, "only one."

"No," she replied heroically; "it isn't right to kiss till one is engaged."

"Then I'll engage you for one."—Boston Herald.

Won the Bet.

"Bet you ain't got nuthin' like our subway," boasted the New Yorker.

"In my section," retorted the visitor from the cyclone belt, "we have individual subways."—Louisville Courier Journal.

SHOPPING IN MEXICO

Women Get Plenty of Excitement In Making a Purchase.

BARGAINING AS A FINE ART.

The Descent From the Asking Price to the Last Price and From That to the Final Selling Price Works Out Something Like a Farce Comedy.

When a woman goes shopping in the City of Mexico, especially if she speaks Spanish, she gets far more excitement for her money in the course of an afternoon than she could hope to compass in a year's time in America.

In the Spanish and French dry goods houses, where the trade is almost exclusively feminine, the goods are marked with the "asking price," which is a mere mathematical figure of speech, and the first question that the experienced shopper always asks of the salesman is, "What is your last price?"

This "ultimo precio" is generally about 25 per cent less than the selling price with which the goods are tagged. It forms, however a certain basis from which to start the bargaining, which thereafter is carried on with all the skill and fury that characterise such transactions everywhere throughout Latin America. The woman customer may wish to purchase a few yards of silk, for example. The marked price is, say, $2 a yard, and the "last price" is given as $1.50. The woman will look at the piece she desires with the same unconcerned scorn with which she regards everything else that is shown her. She will disparage it from every point of view and finally ask for something that is not likely to be in stock. At last she will sigh and look about in despair.

"Caramba, but I'm weary with this vain task of endeavoring to find something that I wish in this second class establishment! The prices are far higher than anywhere else, but I try to patronize this place because the proprietors are friends of my husband. Now, that rose silk is not the shade I wish, but I might be able to use it some time if I could buy it at a reasonable price."

The salesman, who has been listening with an assumed air of sympathy, responds with all the flowery eloquence that he can command and with a constant play of rapid gestures, his lighted cigarette in one hand describing a little arc of fire somewhat dimmer than the diamonds he wears on his fingers.

"Senorita, we place at your feet this establishment and all that it contains. It is your house, and you may do with it as you will. But the very last price at which I can offer you this silk is $1.25 a yard. I do this with a fear of losing my position but with the hope that the proprietors will pardon my audacity when they learn that your husband is one of their personal friends."

"I thank you, senor," responds the shopper. "I appreciate your consideration, but I could not possibly accept the silk as a gift. Nevertheless I would be willing under the circumstances, so that you might make a reasonable profit, to give you 50 cents a yard for two yards."

At this the salesman drops on the floor the stub of the cigarette he has been smoking. This leaves both hands free, and if he is a master of the selling art as known in that country tears come to his eyes and he wrings his hands apparently in the depths of despair and chagrin. The Mexicans dearly love acting and dissimulation of all sorts, and this byplay of the clerk is but a part of the price of the goods. After frenzied ejaculations he puts the price down to $1 a yard, saying that that figure is the "last of the last prices." The lady has been gazing about indifferently and gathers up her pocketbook and other impediments as she rises to depart. As an afterthought and with condescension that amounts almost to pity she remarks:

"Sixty cents—no more. It is my last word. Adios, senor."

"One little moment, senorita. Do not depart in anger. Rather than let you go thus you may have the silk at 90 cents a yard, and I will make up the difference from my own pocket."

The lady hesitates, turns back as if indifferent, yet undecided. Then she again starts toward the door, speaking the phrase of pious farewell which is the Spanish equivalent of a final goodby.

"May you go with God, senor."

She almost has reached the portal when the salesman catches up with her. He has had time to light another cigarette to fortify himself for the final struggle, and, waving this in one hand, he begs her, almost on bended knees, to return and take the silk at 80 cents a yard. She looks languidly upon him. She has concluded that 80 cents would be about the right price and probably the best she can do. Yet she returns undaunted and in the softest of voices breathes the Spanish words which are the equivalent in that tongue for 70 cents. After ten minutes more of firmness on the shopper's part and every aspect of poignant grief by the salesman two yards of silk finally change hands at 75 cents.

The same furious bargaining is the rule in the grocery stores and in the sidewalk markets.—New York Press.

His Taste.

"Why does Julia feel that she must have a long coat at once?"

"Her husband has bought her a dress."—Harper's Bazar.

Simple diet is best, for many dishes bring many diseases.—Flay.

Preventics, the new Candy Cold Cure Tablets, are said by Druggists to have four special specific advantages over all other remedies for a cold. First—They contain no Quinine, nothing harsh or sickening. Second—They give almost instant relief. Third—Pleasant to the taste, like candy. Fourth—A large box 48 Preventics—at 25 cents. Also fine for feverish children. Sold by all dealers.

PREVENTION OF FIRES.

How to Avoid Them by Taking Proper Precautions.

Avoid matches whose heads readily snap off. Scores of deaths and destroyed homes are traceable to this cause.

Liquid stove polishes of the kind sold by fakers are nearly always dangerous. Furniture polish should be used with great care too.

All cloths used in rubbing polished floors should be burned away from the house. Neither should they be thrown carelessly around at any time, as there is danger of spontaneous combustion.

Cleaning compounds are always dangerous. Never use benzine, gasoline or like fluids in any room where there is artificial light. These oils are extremely volatile, and their fumes catch fire at a great distance, the flames traveling back to the source. Explosions and scattered fire are the result.

Cleaning compounds are always dangerous. Never use benzine, gasoline or like fluids in any room where there is artificial light. These oils are extremely volatile, and their fumes catch fire at a great distance, the flames traveling back to the source. Explosions and scattered fire are the result.

Never drape a mantel near a gas jet or a stove. Be careful that no portieres or curtains are so hung that they can blow against the flame. Many fires are due to such carelessness.

When you retire for the night see that all the doors in the house are closed. Open doors create a draft. Danger from a dumb waiter may be minimized by seeing that it is tightly closed at night.

When open fireplaces are in use the bricks of the hearth should be imbedded in cement and should not rest on wood. Each hearth should have a fine wire screen shield to prevent sparks flying on rugs or carpets.

Bible In Every Known Language.

According to the 105th report of the British and Foreign Bible Society the Bible will soon be printed in every language and dialect known throughout the world. Complete Bibles or portions of the Bible were issued last year in 418 different languages. During the year six new translations were added to the list. Besides these languages there are complete Bibles or portions of the Scriptures made in embossed type for the blind in 31 different languages.

The number of Bibles issued by the society last year was nearly 6,000,000. Of complete Bibles there were 894,195; New Testaments, 1,116,674, and portions of Scripture, 3,933,842, making a total of 5,934,711.

The colporteurs employed in the work of distribution have an adventurous life. Last year some of them were arrested as spies in Nicaragua, robbed in Burma, stoned in the Philippines and beaten by Moslems in Baluchistan.

Rules on the Clermont.

At the head of regulations for the "North river steamboat" (Clermont) was this paragraph: "The rules which are made for order and neatness in the boat, are not to be abused. Judgment shall be according to the letter of the law. Gentlemen withing well to to public and useful and eftablifhment, will fee the propriety of ftrict juftice, and the impropriety of the leaft impofition on the parts or feelings of any individual."

One of the rules on the Clermont read: "It is not permitted for any person to lie down in a birth with their boots or shoes on under a penalty of one dollar and a half and a half dollar for every half hour they may offend against this rule."

Both Correct.

A schoolmaster in Liverpool one day asked the dunce of the school some very simple questions in arithmetic. He was surprised to find that he got the right answers, and when he had finished he said to the boy, "Correct, sit down."

"Now," said the schoolmaster, "see if you have sense enough to ask me some questions."

The boy pondered for a moment and then said, "Please, sir, what would three yards of calico cost if cotton was tuppence a reel?"

"I think you take me for a fool," said the schoolmaster.

"Correct; sit down!" returned the boy.—Liverpool Mercury.

Ancient Houses.

Chimneys were wholly unknown to the ancients, who had to let the smoke of their fires escape through an opening in the roof. Chimneys came into use in the fourteenth century. It was in the same century that glass for windows put in its appearance. At a much later date the home comforts were very scarce. Even in gentlemen's houses the second story—where there happened to be one—was approached from the outside, the walls were bare, without wainscot or plaster, their barrenness being, as a rule, unrelieved by picture or decoration.

House Names In Holland.

A recent traveler in that land of dikes and windmills has been at pains to make notes of the names bestowed by the Dutch merchants upon their country houses. Here are a few examples translated: "Our Contentment," "Joy and Peace," "Leisure and Happiness," "My Desire is Satisfied," "Friends and Quiet," "My Wife and I," "Not So Bad." To say the least, any one of these would seem to indicate more of the genuine sentiment of the householder than can possibly be expressed by the "Belle Vues" and "Cedars" of England.—London Mail.

The Roads of Norway.

A curious feature to travelers in the highroads of Norway is the great number of gates—upward of 10,000 in the whole country—which have to be opened. These gates, which either mark the boundaries of the farms or seperate the home fields from the waste lands, constitute a considerable inconvenience and delay to the traveler, who has to stop his vehicle and get down to open them.

A MODEL RAILWAY.

The Intercolonial Railway, which has so long been a national white elephant on wheels, is, says the Peterborough Examiner, fast advancing to the status of a model railway. The Liberal Government improved it in a great many ways. It extended the railway to Montreal, and it brought it on one occasion, at least, to the point of earning something over expenses. The Government placed the railway under a board of management who were required to apply business principles to the management, irrespective of political consideration, which are claimed to have been in great demand—back to the road's prosperity since its construction. This the Board has done. A commission, appointed under the Lemieux Act to investigate complaints of employees, found, amongst other things, that contrary to what had been charged, reduction of staff in the interests of economy had been influenced by political considerations. Another step forward is the legislation now pending and certain to pass giving the Government authority to lease other railways as feeders, and so place the national railway on a level with other trunk systems. What will appeal to many as the crowning feature of improvement in Intercolonial prospects is a fact brought out yesterday in the House. Dr. Black, of Hunts, before the House, went into Supply, brought up the matter of the supply of drinking water for use on the trains of the railway. He said the water for drinking was obtained at Montreal, and that this water for drinking was obtained at Montreal, and that this water was so laden and supercharged with diptheria bacilli that passengers were stricken with the disease. The water was described as so bad that, while boiling might make it harmless, as well as insipid, for drinking purposes dishes washed in water not heated to the boiling point, left enough colon bacilli upon the dishes to poison the persons who ate the food from them. Dr. Black said that while Montreal might drink as much of its poisonous water as it liked, that he objected to passengers on the Government railway being compelled to injure, or risk injury to their health, and injure, or risk injury to their health, and contraction of disease, by its use. The reply of Hon. Mr. Graham, Minister of Railways, was that the matter was a most important one especially as passengers on the Government railway had nothing but water to drink—they could get access to nothing to dilute the strong beverage Dr. Black had described. According to this the International dining coaches and other coaches are water wagons, and give to the railway an unique distinction in these days when the principle represented by the term water wagon has such an intense vogue.

LOCAL OPTION AND THE T.A.S.

The widespread character of the present prohibition movement, and its growing strength with all classes of the community, is well exemplified by some significant facts which are discussed in the Keystone Citizen. Here is an extract showing the attitude of increasing hostility which leading Catholic clergymen and laymen are adopting in relation to the bar-room peril.

The growth of the Catholic Total Abstince Society and its wonderful influence, not only over its own membership, but upon society in general, needs to be mentioned as one of the indications of the growth of the temperance cause. Numerous Catholic clergymen, ranging from Cardinal Gibbons, through archbishop, bishops and priests, have pronounced not only against drunkenness, but for the kind of temperance that is opposed to the saloon system.

Were it simply a question of individual habit, no doubt many of these, especially those of foreign birth, would still be inclined to tolerate the traffic, but when the saloon became a center of lawlessness and debauchery, when it undertook to control legislation and government, when it sought to be king in the field of politics, then the Catholic Church began to divorce itself from any complicity with this unholy traffic.

In many local option elections Catholic priests and laymen are standing side by side with members of other denominations in opposition to the liquor traffic. Our Catholic brethren will soon put some others to shame in the race of the people of God to overthrow the liquor traffic.

Oil Rush to Southern Alberta WILL BE GREATER THAN YUKON

It is only of recent years that we have awakened to the great possibilities and the wonderful wealth represented in the natural resources of the Dominion of Canada.

Prominent in the mineral areas is crude oil or petroleum, and quite recently Southern Alberta Oil Fields have experienced considerable activity.

If you were to turn to the map recently issued by the Geological Department of the Dominion Government showing the petroleum deposits, you would find that that district close to and immediately southwest of Pincher Creek, in Southern Alberta, is, as the district most clearly defines, a country of great petroleum wealth.

We are offering for immediate sale a block of 25,000 shares in the Chicago-Alberta Oil Fields Company, Limited, at 25c each, which shares have a par value of one dollar each, and are non-assessable since the company is a limited liability corporation, operating under a charter issued by the Government of the Province of Alberta.

The Chicago-Alberta Oil Fields Company Limited, control an area of oil lands to the extent of 5,760 acres in the heart of the Pincher Creek district.

We have at our office here considerable quantity of crude oil taken from the oil seepages which appear at different points on the Company's property.

The Company owns one of the largest two-rig drilling equipment ever imported into Canada. This plant was shipped direct from the centre of the oil industry, Pennsylvania, to the Company's property, and is now being set up ready for drilling.

We have every reason to believe, since we know the property thoroughly, that those who are fortunate enough to secure a holding in this Company at the present price of twenty-five cents per share are in the pathway of big profits on their investment. Quite recently a vein of finest grade of bituminous coal was unearthed on the Company's property. The seam is ten feet deep, and was full length of the property. It is a most valuable asset.

Those who were fortunate enough to buy in on the ground floor of the big American oil company have become independently wealthy.

TWO THOUSAND PER CENT, is the average advance of the stock of thirty oil companies in the United States. The following are a few samples :

THE HOME OIL CO., which was started with a cash capital of only $45.00 and ten acres of land, paid eight millions in dividends. The San Francisco Petroleum Co. has paid over twenty-seven millions in dividends. The Pacific Coast Oil Co. has paid over fourteen millions, and the Standard Oil Co. pays upwards of forty millions annually in dividends.

OIL LANDS and lands adjacent to them bring fabulous prices. One-eighth of an acre of oil land in Texas was sold for $80,000.00, and acre-plots three to five miles away were sold for $27,000.00 and $33,000.00 respectively, whereas before the discovery of oil this same ground could have been bought for 50 cents per acre, and it is not unreasonable to suppose that the lands of the Chicago-Alberta Oil Fields Co. may increase similarly in value.

We reproduce herewith a letter which was written to Mr. Black, Superintendent of the Chicago-Alberta Oil Fields Co., Limited, by John W. Warren, who personally visited and inspected property controlled by the Company. It is certainly a most unconditional endorsement of the district, and in particular the quality of petroleum taken from the same :

LETTER.

TESTIMONY OF JOHN W. WARREN.

(Expert Analyst, Inventor and Proprietor of Warren's Waterless Process for Refining Gasoline.
Elgin, Ill., July 21, 1908.

Mr. David Black,
Pincher Creek, Alberta, Canada.

Dear Sir :

In reply to yours of recent date, I will say that I went to the oil fields of Alberta, Canada, and saw oil oozing out of the rocks and ground, and floating away on small creeks. I went to the last "seepage" and saw the oil running down the rocks for at least 300 feet. I saw a great many oil springs. I gathered some of the oil in a bottle and brought it home, some I caught flowing from a well 750 feet deep. I took my small still, hydrometer, and other things necessary to make a test with me—I found it,

40 degrees Baume
.8235 specific gravity
6 86-100 lbs. weight per gallon, wine measure.

It contains 20 to 25 per cent. gasoline. I distilled and refined some gasoline and did it without sulphuric acid or lead. It was very fine, in fact the finest I ever saw. I made some axle grease out of the Alberta oil just as it came from the well near Pincher Creek. We greased a buggy, 2 wheels on one side with this axle grease, and the other 2 wheels with pure castor oil. The axle grease ran twice as long as the castor oil and without gum. Further, I have treated oils from New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Texas, Kansas, California and Eastern Canada. I consider Alberta Oil to be the best of all in gasoline and lubricating oil. It contains less sulphur than any oil I have treated. Any man can see that there is a great demand in Canada for Alberta oil, for five-sixths of the oil used there comes from the United States. You ask my opinion. I think the oil fields of Alberta are as good as ever the Pennsylvania were.

I remain yours,
JOHN W. WARREN.

We will not accept applications for less than one hundred shares, and, when the whole sum of $25 is paid, certificate will be issued at once.

Shares may be secured, however, on terms : 10c per share cash, balance 5c per share per month.

We shall be pleased to forward those at a distance complete information concerning this proposition, and answer all inquiries.

Our office is open daily from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. Remember that the price of 25c per share is good only until Friday evening at nine o'clock, December 24th. Any one desiring shares that we may have on hands after this date will be withdrawn from the market, and no stock will be offered at any future date for less than thirty or thirty-five cents. Once drilling commences you may expect to see considerable activity in the shares of this Company, and, by the time the drills are down to the oil level (a matter of sixty or ninety days), there is every indication that the stock will be selling at par.

Our Address is Suite 8, Imperial Chambers, 32-34 Adelaide Street East. Next Door to Post Office

CARE OF GLOVES.

How to Keep Them and Lengthen Their Lives.

Snugly fitting gloves unless properly cared for and with a view to let a stitch in time save nine generally begin to show gaps at the seams, particularly between and at the tips of the fingers, in a short time. As glove seams are invariably sewed with an external buttonhole stitch they should be mended with the same stitch and a corresponding quality of thread or silk.

When such mending is done it is best to strip the glove on your hand and, while wearing the right hand glove, let some one ply the needle for you. With the glove stretched snugly on your hand uneven drawing or ruffling of the kid is not possible.

Should the kid split in the palm of your hand because of too much tension, instead of sewing up the rent seamwise insert an angle of kid from some other glove of which you may have lost the mate. Fold under the ends of the rent above the patch about one-sixteenth of an inch, and sew down close to the edge at least two times with the machine.

When kid gloves begin to wear out uniformly, growing thin and tattered through much contact, it doesn't pay to waste time or thread in improving them. But where the thumb or forefinger wears out ahead of the rest one may prolong their use by cutting out the worn portion, turning the finger inside out and setting a small piece of kid against the gap with liquid glue.

Most housekeepers discover a handy article in a soft, worn and weathered glove as a protection for the hands on cleaning day or in overnight cures of tan and freckles.

When kid gloves begin to look shabby an application of glycerine or the thinned part of the white of an egg rubbed on sparsely and allowed to dry without wiping will revive a certain luster.

Silk gloves, unless they are getting threadbare, should be submitted to some one who has special skill with a darning needle. Suede and chamois gloves are more durable than kid and get shabby before they show holes. They must be sent to the cleaners frequently, but if you would avoid the expense you will find this simple method most effective:

Saturate thoroughly with gasoline, rub until stains and soiled spots disappear, then put them on and allow fifteen minutes to evaporate. When thoroughly dry brush vigorously with cornmeal if your gloves are of a light shade. Use an unused brush when you are ready to completely brush off the powder. The cornmeal adds freshness and eliminates odor.

Poetry and Parents.

"You never can tell whether poetry is loaded or not," said a professor, descanting upon the Muse, "and what a poet writes in the moments of his fine frenzy rolling may be susceptible of changes which would make him curse the pen did he but know whence it pointed. Now, listen to this couplet:

"'Help us to save free conscience from the paw
Of hireling wolves whose gospel is their maw.'

"It sounds like some kind of a family poem, doesn't it, with paw and maw coming in to make the rhyme? Do you imagine the poet when he wrote the lines ever thought of the parents represented in such a homely way, and how the meaning of the whole thing could be changed by changing the meaning of the end words of the two lines? Was he a beginner? Oh, no, he was not a beginner. He had written several very classy things. He was John Milton. You remember he wrote 'Paradise Lost' and two or three other pieces of considerable merit, though he never quite got into the 'six best sellers' list, and these two lines I have quoted close his sonnet to Lord Protector Cromwell, written in 1652."

Easily Explained.

An illiterate Polish servant girl thought to conceal her ignorance of the rudiments by always taking her prayer book with her when she attended services, although she knew all the prayers at heart. One day another girl looked over her shoulder and remarked in a surprised tone:

"Why, what's the matter? You're holding your book upside down!"

"Oh, that's all right," answered the other, quite unembarrassed. "I always read that way. I'm left handed."

HEALTH AND BEAUTY.

Women who walk with no heels make a mistake. The heel preserves the arch of the foot and prevents it from becoming flat. It keeps the ankle round and is a help to the spine.

The first thing a plain woman must do is give her figure careful attention. A stylish or even well rounded body will nine times out of ten carry one through far better than a pretty face.

The skin should be carefully massaged before applying plaster to smooth out wrinkles. Before putting on the strips the flesh should be stretched—that is, made smooth—and then the plaster is supposed to hold it flat.

In the West ladies a lemon bath is almost a daily luxury. Three or four limes or lemons are sliced into the water and allowed to lie for half an hour in order that the juice may be extracted. A remarkable sense of freshness and cleanliness is given to the skin.

If the hair is a dull dead black it can be made to shine by rinsing it in many waters and drying it well. It is then brushed with a brush over which the palm of the hand has been rubbed. Into the palm there has been massaged a very little oil. This merely suggests oil to the hair and makes it shine a little without making it greasy.

Here is an excellent mixture for bleaching the neck: Take fresh strained cucumber juice, boil it for five minutes and for every five ounces of juice add pulverized borax, five and one-half ounces; acetate of soda, three ounces; tincture of quillaja, two and one-half ounces; tincture of benzoin, four drams; rosewater, one pint. Mix thoroughly and apply two or three times a day until the stain is removed.

Larry Was Prepared.

"Well, Larry," said the genial manufacturer, "I hear that you are much interested in aerial sports these days."

"Yes, sor," responded the coachman with the big volume under his arm; "that is why I bought this book."

"Ah! You want to learn how to go up in an airship?"

"No; I want to learn how to come down. That is why I bought 'The Descent of Man,' sor."—Detroit Free Press.

One of "The Devil's Own."

Sir Lees Knowles, who is retiring from the 7th Battalion Lancashire Fusiliers, has divided most of his enthusiasm between volunteering and sport. There is hardly a game or sport in which Sir Lees does not excel, and at Rugby and Cambridge he was distinguished by his brilliancy in athletics. He was called to the Bar twenty-seven years ago, and on entering Lincoln's Inn at once joined the Inns of Court Corps, commonly known as "The Devil's Own"—a title given to them by one of the Georges, who, during a review, asked what the men were. "Lawyers, your Majesty," was the reply. "Then," said the genial monarch, "call them 'The [illegible]'"

Preventics, the new Candy Cold Cure Tablets, are said by druggists to have four special specific advantages over all other remedies for a cold. First—They contain no Quinine nothing harsh or sickening. Second—They give almost instant relief. Third—Pleasant to the taste, like candy. Fourth—A large box—48 Preventics—at 25 cents. Also fine for feverish children. Sold by all dealers.

THE PRUDENTIAL, ONE OF THE WORLD'S GREATEST LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES, OPENS A BRANCH OFFICE IN THIS CITY.

Almost every one has heard of or knows something of The Prudential Insurance Company of America, Home Office, Newark, N. J., often called the Gibraltar life insurance company, because of its use of the Rock of Gibraltar as a trade-mark.

This big company has established a branch office in this city and is conducting business in both branches of insurance, Industrial and Ordinary.

About thirty-four years ago Industrial insurance was unknown in the United States. It is to this investment by John F. Dryden, founder and present chief executive of The Prudential, the Industrial plan at once found favor with the public.

This life insurance is applicable to every member of the family, from one year of age to seventy.

The premiums are collected weekly from the homes of the insured and are from three cents per week upward, according to the amount insured for, thus bringing the benefits of life insurance protection within the means of the wage-earning population.

Much of the thrift and economy of this same wage-earning population may be traced to Industrial insurance. The habit of saving required to meet the weekly premiums unconsciously, but surely, inculcates similar habits of thrift and saving in other directions.

In the Ordinary branch all the popular forms of Life and Endowment policies are issued, in amounts from $1,000 up, and the cost is the lowest consistent with the liberal provisions of the policy and the high grade of life insurance afforded. As an investment a Prudential policy offers superior advantages.

The high standing of The Prudential makes it possible to do business satisfactorily, because there can be no doubt of a Prudential promise.

The Prudential has seven and three-quarter millions of policies in force, representing nearly a billion and a half of insurance.

In extending its field of operations to this city The Prudential offers a splendid opportunity for our young men to obtain profitable employment. Progress and promotion will be quick if hustle and ability are shown. Any young man desirous of making money and building up a most useful future should consult The Prudential's representative here.

Prudential Agents will be glad to furnish full and complete information concerning the plans of The Prudential to any one. You should take an interest in life insurance, for it may make a big difference in your family's happiness some day.

GUARANTEED INVESTMENT

The Remarkable Offer Made by the Treasury Gold Mining and Milling Company of Fairview, Nevada

Guaranterd by a $1,000,000 Bank

SUPPOSE a million-dollar bank should offer you a gold bond, guaranteeing you against loss in an investment you desired to make, and providing that, whether the investment did or did not prove a profitable one, the bank would pay you back every dollar of your money at the end of twenty years, wouldn't that "look good" to you? And wouldn't you take it?

Wouldn't it look as though the bank itself, as well as the men behind the enterprise that formed the basis of the investment, had absolute confidence in it, and looked upon it as a safe and profitable venture?

Can you figure out any way in which you could possibly lose the money you put into an enterprise with that kind of backing? To be sure, you would run the risk of not receiving interest for that length of time on the amount of your investment, but you would also run the chance of multiplying it many times over in the way of dividends—and that is worth something, isn't it? In other words, you have opportunity to win, and not a single chance to lose.

Now, that is exactly what we, the officers and directors of Treasury Gold Mining and Milling Company, of Reno, Nevada, are offering for a short time to those who wish to take advantage of it, and we make this remarkable offer, first, because we know what we have in the way of a property, and, second, because we need a little more capital to erect a mill upon it and make it an extremely profitable producer in the shortest possible time.

This is the first time, to our personal knowledge, that an offer like this has ever been made with reference to any enterprise of a similar character, here or elsewhere.

Organization, Capitalization and Officers

Treasury Gold Mining and Milling Company is organized under the laws of the State of Nevada, with a capital stock of One Million Dollars ($1,000,000), divided into One Million (1,000,000) shares, of the par value of One Dollar ($1.00 each, full paid and non-assessable, and with no personal liability attaching to the stockholders. The number of shares in the treasury is Four Hundred Thousand (400,000).

The principal office of the company is at No. 336 Mill Street, Reno, Nevada, and the depository of the company is the Nixon National Bank, of the same city.

The officers are as follows: President, D. J. Kennedy, as old resident of Nevada, and one of the best known and most successful mining operators in the state; vice-president, F. W. Thomas, of the firm of John Breuner & Co., one of the largest mercantile establishments in the city; secretary, Donald Fraser, one of the proprietors of the Red Cross Drug Company, of Reno; treasurer, H. L. Burchell, mining operator, and manager of the most prominent of the leading law firms of the state.

Board of directors: D. J. Kennedy, F. W. Thomas, H. L. Burchell; Eugene Kelly, department manager with the Gray, Reid, Wright company, and Donald Fraser.

Location and Character of Properties

The holdings of Treasury Gold Mining and Milling Company include the following valuable properties in the famous Fairview district, in Churchill county, Nevada, reached by a fine wagon road from Fallon, the county seat:

By purchase outright—fully paid for and deed recorded at Fallon—valuable mining estates on both sides of the great Mizpah mine, on both of which properties rich ore has been found.

By purchase—paid for, deeded and recorded—the Treasury group of two full claims, amounting to 40 acres, to the north-east of the Mizpah mine, the rich ledge of which we have every reason to believe courses straight through our property for at least 2,000 feet. This we regard as a very valuable holding.

By purchase, an undivided one-half interest in seven claims, containing 100 acres, southwest of the Mizpah, with every indication that the Mizpah vein runs through our ground at least 1,500 feet. The deed for our one-half interest is recorded at Fallon, and we have an option for one year on the other one-half interest.

All the leasing rights and privileges of the Mizpah Milling and Leasing Company on twelve blocks of the celebrated Mizpah mine, for the term of five years. On this property, considerable quantities of fine shipping ore are already opened; drifting has been carried on for some distance on the 100-foot level, while the second level, at 175 feet depth, is now being driven on to catch the same ore body, when shipments will begin.

Values as Shown By Assays

Assays of ores taken from the various properties of the company show the following values:

From Treasury Group at the surface, gold and silver values	$139.50
" " " " " " " " " "	846.80
" " " " " " " " " "	77.62
From Kentucky Group, surface workings, gold and silver values	128.00
" " " " " " " " " "	78.00
From Mizpah shafts, tunnels and upraises, gold and silver values	903.95
" " " " " " " " " "	239.77
" " " " " " " " " "	235.40
" " " " " " " " " "	66.87
" " " " " " " " " "	34.21

From the foregoing tests, it will be seen that, leaving out of the calculation our own extensive properties, all of which contain indications of remarkable richness, we are fully justified in expecting sufficient profits from the operation of our five-year lease on the great Mizpah mine alone, to pay enormous dividends to all our stockholders. But to operate them all, with the greatly increased facilities and equipment we intend to add, should give us a production equaled by few mining properties in the world.

We have already found very rich ore in the shallow workings of our Kentucky group to the west, and of our Treasury group to the east of the Mizpah, and we can see no reason why both of these properties should not prove fully as rich as the famous Mizpah mine itself. We are in a district noted for its immense bodies of gold and silver ores, and where deep workings open up vast treasure vaults of mineral wealth.

Additional Equipment Required

In order to more speedily place these splendid properties among the high class producers of the state, and to combine the maximum of production and profit with the minimum of cost, considerable additional equipment is required.

This includes a standard, modern mill, to reduce our ore to bullion and concentrates at the mine, thus saving the transportation and treatment charges of $20 to $30 a ton on the ore to the Salt Lake smelters. To be sure, the ore is of such a high grade character that there is a good profit in mining and shipping it even at these high rates, but it would be better business to save it and add that much more to the net profits, by treating it at our own mill, which, under the circumstances, thus becomes a necessity. With a 100-ton plant, we should easily be able to treat our ore at an expense not to exceed $2.50 per ton, and by adding another unit to its capacity, can still further reduce the cost, and thus save from $17.50 to $27.50 per ton on transportation and treating charges alone—quite an item when figuring the net profits.

The first unit capacity of 100 tons daily, of a standard mill, modern in every way, including stamps, amalgamation, fine grinding, concentration and cyaniding, with a sampler in front, so that ore can be purchased from surrounding properties, and general custom work done if desired, will enable us to add one unit after another as may be required with increased development of the ore bodies. By thus adding to the capacity of the mill, we shall be in a position to treat an immense tonnage daily, and pay dividends accordingly.

We will therefore not only effect a great saving of our present expenditures, but earn a handsome revenue, practically all profit, from the large volume of custom work that would be brought to our mill for treatment and reduction.

We also want to sink a capacious double-compartment shaft in to the permanent sulphide zone at once, first, in order to have the ore bodies opened up for the mill, and secondly, to aid in determining the proper methods of treatment; so that we may build a mill adapted to the character of the ores, and capable of giving the largest returns to the company in the extraction of the gold and silver values.

Novel Plan to Secure Funds

Now, we are quite willing to admit that equipment of the character already mentioned, which will put the properties in the best possible working shape, will cost more money than is available at present, unless we accept the alternative of sacrificing a small portion of our special stock, in order to begin operations on a profitable basis at once.

The officers and directors of the company have therefore decided to adopt this method, and, while limiting the sales to but one-fifth of the capitalization, to surround the sale of every share with a positive safeguard against any possible loss.

We do not know that such an offer has ever before been made, and we expect the amount offered to be over-subscribed several times when the terms of the offer are made known.

First, we limit the amount of stock that will be sold, in order to provide the finds for necessary equipment, to Two Hundred Thousand (200,000) shares, and this is to be positively the last as well as the first, allotment that will be sold at the present low price, of 20 cents a share, as we honestly believe the stock will be good for dividends of not less than one dollar per share annually, after we commence treating 100 tons daily at the mill.

Stock Guaranteed

In order to absolutely protect purchasers of these shares against the possibility of a loss, we have made arrangements with the Metropolis Trust and Savings Bank, of San Francisco, one of the strongest financial institutions in the United States, to guarantee every share of stock sold, and to issue to every purchaser a gold bond for the full amount of his investment, such bond being payable in twenty years, whether the mines pay or not. Therefore, even if the mines never paid a dollar—though we expect them to pay millions—the stockholders cannot possibly lose anything except the interest on their investment, while they stand to win fortunes from the amounts they put into these properties.

The shares offered on these unparalleled terms may be paid for either in cash or in five equal monthly payments, and the money derived therefrom will be used entirely for the further development and equipment of the properties. The shares will also be traded in on both the New York and Boston exchanges the moment we begin shipping and paying dividends.

The elements of industrial safety and of the speculative profits of gold mining under such extremely favorable conditions, are combined in this enterprise to a greater degree than in any other undertaking within our knowledge or experience, and will appeal with irresistible force to all sensible and conservative people as an opportunity without an equal. It is a case of "heads, you win! tails, you cannot lose." If the mines pay as we believe they will bring to every stockholder, in dividends, many times the amount of his investment. If they do not pay, he gets his money back.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES

By-Law No. . .

A By-Law to authorize the execution of an agreement with the Peterborough Light and Power Company (Limited) for the right to use the streets of the City of Peterborough as therein mentioned.

Passed the day of 19

WHEREAS the Peterborough Light and Power Company (Limited), has applied to the Council of the City of Peterborough for the right to use the streets of the said city for the period of thirty years from the first day of January, 1919, for placing and maintaining poles, wires and other appliances there on for that period, for the purposes of their business as a light and power company and the council and company have agreed on the terms and conditions on which, in the opinion of the council, the said right should be given; which terms and conditions have been reduced to writing and are fully set out herein, and it is necessary that the said terms and conditions and the period for which such right is to be granted should be submitted to the vote of the electors of the municipality in the manner provided in The Consolidated Municipal Act 1903 with respect to by-laws requiring the assent of the electors.

THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF PETERBOROUGH BY THE COUNCIL THEREOF THEREFORE ENACTS AS FOLLOWS:—

1. This by-law shall take effect on the final passing thereof.

2. The Council of the City of Peterborough are hereby authorized to enter into an agreement with the Peterborough Light and Power Company (Limited) in the words and figures following, namely.—

This agreement, made this day of one thousand nine hundred and nine.

BETWEEN—

THE PETERBOROUGH LIGHT AND POWER COMPANY (Limited), (hereinafter called the Company), of the first part.

AND—

THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF PETERBOROUGH, (hereinafter called the Corporation), of the second part:

In this agreement, the word "City" shall mean the City of Peterborough, the word "Council" shall mean the Council of the City of Peterborough, the word "Pole" or "Poles" shall mean and include in addition to poles, wires, guy or stay wires and all appliances and apparatus used in the erection and maintenance of a pole line on the streets and lanes of the said City of Peterborough for stringing wires. The word "Streets" shall mean and include all streets and public lanes in the city. The word "Engineer" shall mean the corporation engineer, or any engineer appointed by the Council. The word "Board" shall mean the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board or any other body hereinafter authorized by the Ontario Legislature to exercise the powers now vested in the said Ontario Railway and Municipal Board. "Commercial Lighting" shall mean and include supplying for business, trade or manufacturing purposes. "Domestic Lighting" shall mean and include all lighting except commercial or street lighting, and the word "Company" shall, unless the context requires a different construct, include the successors and assigns of such company.

Whereas the company has applied to the Corporation for the right to use the streets in the municipality for the period of thirty years from the first day of January, 1919, for the purpose of placing and maintaining poles and wires for transmitting electric current or energy to the customers of the said company and the Council of the Corporation has agreed to grant such request on the terms and conditions hereinafter set out, provided a by-law authorizing the same is duly passed by the ratepayers of the said City authorized to vote thereon.

THIS INDENTURE THEREFORE WITNESSETH that in pursuance of the premises and in consideration of the agreement on behalf of the corporation hereinafter contained, the said company, provided the said by-law is approved of by the ratepayers of the said city voting thereon and is finally passed by the council hereby covenants and agrees with the corporation as follows:—

1. That the said company will as soon as possible after the execution hereof by the said corporation and before the first day of June, 1919, remove from George street any poles that in the opinion of the engineer be dispensed with, or are not necessary for the present operation of the company's business and will before the said date replace all necessary poles with straight and neat poles of uniform height and size and of as attractive appearance as possible and place same flush with the curb.

2. That the said company in replacing any of said poles or placing any additional poles on the streets will replace place and locate the same in such manner as not to interfere with the existing poles now or then on the streets and will do all work subject to the approval, under the control and to the satisfaction of the engineer or such other person as may be designated by the Council for that purpose and in doing said work will not unnecessarily incommode or obstruct any of the said streets and for any work on same is done will at once restore the said streets to the same condition that they were in before such work was commenced and will not cut, trim, injure or destroy any shade or ornamental trees without the express consent of the Council, but will they fasten any guy wires to any shade or ornamental tree, and will remove any guy wires now fastened on such trees.

3. That the said company will not place any poles on any of the streets without the written consent of the engineer.

4. That the said company will at its own expense on the written requisition of the engineer change the location of any poles now or hereafter placed on the said streets, provided however that the engineer shall not be entitled to require the Company to remove more than five per cent of the then existing poles in any year and no poles shall be required to be removed between the First day of December in any year and the First day of April in any succeeding year.

5. That the said company will permit the said corporation to use any of its poles that the corporation may desire for the purpose of stringing wires thereon for street lighting, fire alarm system or other like corporation purposes (but not for the electric or commercial lighting or power purposes) at such rental as may be mutually agreed on, and if the said rental cannot be agreed on the same shall be fixed by the said board.

6. That the said Company will also upon the written request of the engineer permit any other Company whose acts or any hereafter obtain the right to the use of the streets for placing poles and wires thereon the use of its poles to carry the wires of the said other Company at such rental as may be mutually agreed on and if not mutually agreed on such rental shall be fixed by the said Board, and the said Company will also if the approval of the said Board so first obtained enlove more than one Company the use of its poles for the purposes and upon the terms and conditions aforesaid, and the City will endeavour if possible to secure the Company from such other Company or Companies similar privileges.

7. That if the Corporation should hereafter construct or allow the construction of conduits on any of the streets within an area bounded on the north by the north side of McDonnel Street, on the south by the south side of Sherbrooke Street, on the east by the east side of Water Street, and on the west by the west side of Aylmer Street, and should desire to rent the use of same to the Company, the Company will, after the first day of January 1916, rent the use of said conduits from the Corporation at a rental and under such terms and conditions as may be mutually agreed on and if said rental and terms and conditions cannot be mutually agreed on the same shall be fixed by the said Board and the said Company will within twelve months from the granting of such use remove its poles from any streets or parts of streets within said area on which conduits are constructed the use of which conduits are leased to it by the Corporation, and the Company further agrees that when the population of the City of Peterborough reaches 20,000 as shown by the ascertained returns that the Company will, if the Board should on application made to it by the Corporation decide that it is reasonable for the Company to be required to do so, and the Corporation desires to rent the same or any of them to the Company, rent the use of any conduits constructed or allowed to be constructed by the Corporation on any other streets or parts of streets, at a rental and on the terms and conditions to be agreed on or fixed in the manner above mentioned, said will within twelve months from the granting of such use remove its poles from said streets or parts of streets.

8. That the said Company will in all street work use and maintain in good condition the most modern appliances and apparatus designed to secure freedom from danger or accidents to persons and property by reason of or on account of the operations of the Company or the transmission of electricity over its systems and will keep indemnified and harmless the said Corporation from and against all loss, costs, damages and expenses and from and against all actions, proceedings, claims and demands whatsoever occasioned by or arising out of the erection, placing, repairing, operating or maintaining the poles of the Company or in any way connected with, relating to or resulting from the same or the operations of the Company or by reason or on account of any matter or thing done or omitted to be done by the Company or its employees, or by reason of any failure, neglect or omission of the Company or its employees to do or perform anything which the Company is by law or under the provisions of this agreement or any By-law of the Corporation or otherwise required to do or perform or because of any negligence or of any omission or commission on the part of the Company or its employees in the erection, placing, repairing, operating or maintenance of such poles or the transmission of electricity thereon, however the same may be caused or occur.

9. That the Company will pay to the Corporation for the balance of the said term of thirty years, commencing from the termination of the existing street lighting agreement between the parties hereto on the first day of January 1919, the following sums per year for the poles erected and maintained by it, namely, for the first 200 poles the sum of $1.00 per pole and for each additional pole over 200, the sum of 50 cents per pole, and the same shall be paid so long as such poles remain on the streets whether used or not, (provided however that the said Company shall pay at least a minimum price of four hundred dollars per year), such annual sums to be payable to the Treasurer of the Corporation in equal quarterly payments on the last days of the months of March, June, September and December in each year, the first payment to be made on the thirty first day of March 1914 and the Company shall in the mean time up to the said first day of January 1919, continue to pay the rental payable under the said existing agreement.

10. That the said Company at the expiration of the said term of thirty years for which the said Company is to have the right to use the streets for the purposes aforesaid, will, on demand, of the Corporation remove the poles from all or any of the said streets and will after such removal repair and make good any damage or injury to the streets caused by such removal—and at the expiration of the said term of thirty years the right or authority given to the Company to erect or maintain poles on any of the streets shall absolutely cease unless such time is extended by the By-law of the Corporation and in event of the refusal or neglect of the said Company to remove the said poles the same may be removed by an officer of the Corporation and the cost of such removal shall be paid by the said Company.

11. That the said Company will during the said term supply and install meters and transformers for installations up to fifteen horse power, free of charge to those custom ers using same and will not charge for the use of said meters or transformers.

12. That the said Company will during the said term charge rates to customers not exceeding the following, subject to the provision hereinafter set out:

(a) For Domestic Lighting, ten cents per one thousand watts, and will allow a discount of twenty per cent if payment is made within ten days from the mailing or delivery to the customer of the account provided that the minimum net rate per year shall not be less than nine dollars.

(b) For Commercial Lighting, twelve and one half cents per one thousand watts, and will allow a discount of twenty per cent if payment is made within ten days from the mailing or delivery to the customer of the account or a flat rate of four dollars per year on the basis of a sixteen candle power lamp and a proportionate rate for lamps of less or more candle power of twenty-five cents per year per candle power and will allow in all cases where a flat rate is charged a discount of twenty five per cent if payment is made within ten days from the mailing or delivery to the customer of the account.

(c) For power purposes with a twenty four hour service, for from 1 to 4 horse power $60.00 per year, or at the same rate as the ordinary domestic lighting meter rate, at the option of the customer.

For from 5 to 9 horse power $50.00 per year or 5 cents per horse power hour.

For from 10 to 19 horse power $45.00 per year or two cents per horse power hour.

For 20 horse power or over $40.00 per year or 1½ cents per horse power hour.

The quantity of power to be measured at the point the Company's wires enter the premises of the customer, and the above mentioned prices for power are only to apply to power generated within the City of Peterborough, which power shall amount to at least 200 Horse Power for manufacturing purposes, exclusive of power used by the Quaker Oats Company or its successors.

13. AND IT IS HEREBY PROVIDED that such rates shall remain in force until the first day of January 1915 and shall not thereafter be increased by the Company during the term hereby granted, but it is hereby further agreed by the said Company that if reduced rates cannot be mutually agreed on for the five years of said term commencing with the first day of January next the Corporation shall be at liberty to make an application to the said Board for a reduction in any or all of said rates for the five years commencing with the said first day of January 1915, and that the said Board shall have full power and authority to reduce the rates to be charged for the said ensuing five years, and the said Company agrees that the rates so agreed upon or fixed shall be the rates to be charged and paid in lieu of the rates above mentioned until the expiration of the said term hereby granted, unless re-adjusted as hereinafter mentioned or by agreement between the parties hereto, it being agreed between the Company and the Corporation that for each ensuing five year term, commencing with the first day of January in the years 1920, 1925, 1930 and 1935, either the said Corporation or Company shall be at liberty to make application to the said Board for re-adjustment of all or any of the said rates for such ensuing five year term, provided such application is made prior to the fifteenth day of April, in any of the years 1920, 1925, 1930 and 1935 respectively, and that the said Board shall have full power and authority to re-adjust the said rates provided however that none of said rates shall be increased or made higher than the rates provided for and fixed in the twelfth clause of this agreement and that the rates so agreed on or fixed shall be the rates to be charged and paid until the end of the term hereby granted, unless further re-adjusted as above provided, and the said Company hereby agrees and undertakes to obey, abide by and carry out any order or direction of the said Board, in respect to said rates.

14. And the said Company hereby in consideration hereof further covenants, agrees and undertakes with the said Corporation that nothing herein contained nor the granting or enjoyment of the rights hereby conferred shall be deemed or taken to limit, interfere with or affect the rights of the Corporation in any respect nor any rights or privileges which it now has or may hereafter acquire or have conferred on it to generate, transmit deliver, receive, rent, lease, sell, supply, sell and distribute electrical power or energy for any purpose nor to limit, interfere with or affect the control of the streets by the Corporation under the Municipal Act or any By-law or agreement now in force or hereafter passed or entered into with regard to the placing of poles on the streets near the right of the said Corporation to place poles on the streets or to engage in Municipal, Domestic and Commercial Lighting or the supply of electricity for lighting, power and other purposes nor the right so to grant to any person or Company the right or licence to use the said streets for any purpose within the authority of the Corporation and so delay dealing, or acquiescence on the part of the Corporation shall be deemed or taken to have the effect of limiting, interfering with or in any way altering any rights or privileges which the Corporation has heretofore or now has or may hereafter acquire or have conferred on it, nor of conferring any right to the use of the streets by the Company after the right to do so has expired under the terms hereof, but this clause shall not be deemed to affect the rights hereby granted to the Company for and during the term hereby provided for.

15. And the said Company hereby in consideration hereof further covenants, agrees and undertakes with the Corporation that should the Corporation hereafter purchase or take proceedings under any Act then in force to acquire the works and property of the Company or any part or parts thereof that in determining the price to be paid therefor, either by arbitration or otherwise, nothing shall be taken into account or allowed to the Company for prospective profits or because of the granting to or enjoyment by the Company of the rights or any of the rights hereby granted or conferred on the Company.

16. And it hereby further agreed by and between the parties hereto that in any case where under the terms hereof, any question, matter or thing may be referred to and determined by the Board that the said questions, matter or thing may, at the option and will of the Council, be determined by arbitration under the provisions of The Arbitration Act and that the arbitrator or arbitrators appointed to hear and determine the said question matter or thing, and undertaking the reference, shall have and exercise the same powers and authorities as are hereby conferred on the said Board and that the Company shall and will conform to, abide by and carry out any award, decision, direction or order from time to time made by the arbitrator or arbitrators in all respects and to do full and ample justice as if the same were made by and were a direction or order of the Board, under the terms hereof; and this Agreement to submit any such question, matter or thing, to arbitration, shall, if and so soon as the said Council exercises its option to have the same so referred to arbitration instead of to the said Board and passes a resolution to that effect, be deemed and taken in each case, as it may arise, to be a submission under the provisions of The Arbitration Act of the said question, matter or thing and all the provisions of the said Act applicable thereto shall apply to any such submission, arbitration and award or other decision or direction of the said Arbitrator or Arbitrators.

17. AND THIS INDENTURE FURTHER WITNESSETH that the said Corporation in pursuance and consideration of the premises hereby agrees with the said Company, that provided the said Company performs, fulfils and keeps the covenants and agreements herein contained on its part to be observed, performed and kept, and strictly observes the terms and conditions herein contained, that the Company may for a period of thirty years from the first day of January 1919, use the said streets for the purpose of placing and maintaining in, upon, over or under the same, poles, wires and other appliances necessary for the transmission thereby of electric current or energy for its operations as a lighting and power company, provided, and so long only as the same are placed and maintained according to the provisions hereof.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties hereto have hereunto caused their respective Corporate Seals to be affixed, attested by the hands of their proper officials.

3. The Mayor and Clerk are authorized to execute the said agreement in duplicate under their hands and the Corporate Seal provided the same is executed by the said Peterborough Light and Power Company (Limited) either prior to or at the time it is executed on behalf of the Corporation.

4. The votes of the electors of the said City of Peterborough will be taken on this By-law on the third day of January 1919 being the same day as the next annual election of the Municipal Council for the said City as being held and the polls will be held at the same hour on said day, at the same places and by the same Deputy Returning Officers and Poll Clerks as are appointed and fixed for the said Municipal Election.

5. The fourth day of January 1919 at the hour of twelve o'clock noon, and the City Clerk's Office are hereby fixed as the time when and the place where the Clerk will sum up the number of votes given for and against the by-law.

6. The thirty-first day of December 1918 and the hour of twelve o'clock noon, and the Office of the City Clerk are hereby fixed as the time and place for the appointment of persons to attend at the various polling places and at the final summing up of the votes by the Clerk respectively, on behalf of the persons interested in and promoting or opposing the passing of the By-Law respectively.

Mayor.
Clerk.

NOTICE

The notice that the foregoing is a true copy of a proposed By law which has been taken into consideration and which will be finally passed by the Council of the City of Peterborough (in the event of the assent of the electors being obtained thereto) after one month from the first publication hereof in the Morning Times newspaper, the date of which first publication is the second day of December, 1918, and that at the hour, day and places therein fixed for taking the votes of the electors the polls will be held.

WASHING HOUSE PLANTS.

How to Keep Them Healthy and Free From Insects.

If after taking flowers into the house you discover the troublesome meal bugs, aphis, the torment of chrysanthemum; green flies and tiny red spiders, begin at once to kill them. The overwhelming development of these pests can be stopped only by using some strong solution that will kill the insects and destroy the eggs. If a small camel's hair brush is dipped into alcohol and the haunts of these pests are washed out with the solution, followed with a tobacco suds wash, clean plants will be insured. Do not permit this water to run into the earth, for alcohol will kill some plants. Have a piece of oilcloth, cut a hole in the centre and slit one side to the edge. This can be wrapped around the plant to prevent the water going into the crock. This is also an excellent method when cleaning flowers in the kitchen sink, for the dirt does not overflow when the crock is protected with the oilcloth covering.

The red spider can be killed with pure water, but this process requires that the entire plant be immersed. This is easily done, and the water should be changed a number of times. Do not leave one plant untouched, but clean all at the same time. Just a few insects will increase rapidly in numbers, and the aphis to-day would be a past generation to-morrow, so the accumulation of these little pests should be fought from the time flowers are taken into the house. No flower collects insects more rapidly than ivy. The fragile leaves and stems are alive with them, for which reason ivy should be kept out of the collection of rare plants. Flowers with large leaves should be washed. Buy a small soft brush and keep it for the purpose of washing the flower leaves. It cleans under the leaves and between the stems and stock.

IVY FOR HOME DECORATION.

How to Grow the English and German Varieties With Ease.

For a growing green which is beautifully decorative in the home in winter there is nothing more satisfactory than ivy. There are so many artistic ways of arranging the ivy, and the English variety particularly is so hardy that it cannot fail to grow. Artists have painted it and poets sung of it the romantic ivy green.

With a pot containing the ivy standing on a table, floor or shelf the creeping branches may be trained in any direction about the room. Have the vine clamber up the window casing, and the green and leafy screen through which you can look out upon a wintry landscape will make it seem less bleak. Stand the jar containing the ivy on a bracket shelf at one end of the mantel and let it wander, with skillful training, up over mantel and walls, stray tendrils drooping gracefully over pictures and the like.

Ivy may be trained over the archway which divides rooms, and no portieres will be needed. There is also the more delicate German ivy, which requires gentler handling. It will grow effectively without soil. I saw one growing in a large bowl of water the kind of glass bowl used for small aquaria. The ivy grew over the sides of the bowl, festooning itself in tangled masses of vivid green, which gave a living beauty to the whole room.—Suburban Life.

The old fashioned way of dosing a weak stomach, or stimulating the Heart or Kidneys is all wrong. Dr Shoop first pointed out this error. This is why his prescription—Dr Shoop's Restorative—is directed entirely to the cause of these ailments—the weak inside or controlling nerves. It isn't so difficult, says Dr. Shoop, to strengthen a weak Stomach, Heart, or Kidneys if one goes at it correctly. Each inside organ has its controlling or inside nerve. When these nerves fail, then those organs must surely falter. These vital truths are leading druggists everywhere to dispense and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Test it a few days, and see if improvement will promptly and surely follow. Sold by all dealers.

New Faces at the Princess.

This week Mr. Ernest Hanna, proprietor of the favorite Ge. theatorium, the Princess, has broken away from former conditions in Peterborough. This means that in this city the people have got tired of seeing the same faces of actors or actresses in the picture characters. Mr. Hanna has inaugurated an entirely new series of films, so that the patrons will see not only the best class of pictures but new actors and actresses filling the various bills. This new service is the best yet and Mr. Hanna is to be congratulated on this enterprise.

Severe Criticism and Good Advice

Under the heading "Should Be Above Suspicion" the Toronto Globe of yesterday editorially says:—

It is well for the administration of justice in Ontario and for public confidence in the officers of the Crown that cases such as that recently ventilated in Peterborough are rare. A man has been fined by the magistrate for illegal liquor-selling, and two men whose evidence contradicted that of the police were indicted for perjury. Evidently the magistrate concluded that the men whose evidence was contradicted by that of the police were perjurers. At the trial the chief witness for the Crown under cross-examination appeared in so damaging a light that he was not believed. Character evidence was damaging to the police. The judge declared himself pained to hear charges against the veracity of the police, and he also condemned one of the officers for having made threats against a witness who was to appear against him. The perjury charges failed, and the accused were honorably acquitted.

Such cases are fortunately rare, and public sentiment must be sufficiently strong and true in Ontario to make them impossible. The officers of the Crown must maintain a standard of character and conduct that will justify the fullest public confidence in them. This condition can be secured and maintained by judicious selection in making appointments and by continued vigilance on the part of magistrates and the public. In this case there was a conflict of testimony that showed perjury was being committed. For a magistrate to conclude without thorough investigation that it was on the part of those who contradicted the police, was a course not calculated to correct developing abuses. The crime of perjury should be punished, but care should be taken to discover the guilty. If innocent men have been put on trial in Peterborough, it is the duty of the Crown to discover the real criminals.

Where carelessness in such matters has continued, society has found itself menaced by those who are supposed to defend it as well as by those who attack it. Whenever any such case arises it should be thoroughly ventilated that officers of the Crown may be made quick to check every tendency toward the abuse of authority. The ready confidence of the magistrate in the evidence of police officers is in accordance with standards of integrity that should always be maintained. But such standards can be maintained only by official vigilance and a healthy and active public opinion.

Get Well First

Don't risk even a penny—until health first returns.

And I mean just exactly that.
I am the one physician who says to the sick "I will, out of my own pocket, pay for your medicine if it fails to bring you help."
And for 20 years Dr. Shoop's medicines have been used and recommended in every city and hamlet in America. They are positively staple and in every community—and everywhere. Then why pay the cash, and as your risk, for other unrecognized and uncertain medicines? Thousands upon thousands have in the most appreciative way used Dr. Shoop's Restorative. When the Stomach nerves, or the Heart or Kidney nerves fail, these sick ones know how quickly Dr. Shoop's Restorative will bring them back to health again. But best of all, they positively take no money risk whatever. They know that when health fails to return, Dr. Shoop will himself gladly pay the druggist for that first and full 25 day treatment is freely promised. Just write me first for an order. This will save delay and disappointment.
All druggists sell Dr. Shoop's Restorative and Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy, but all are not authorized to give the 25 day test. So drop me a line or better for I have appointed an honest and reliable druggist in almost every community to serve my medicines to the people which book you need. The books below will surely open up new and helpful ideas to those who are not well. Besides you are perfectly free to consult me just as you would your home physician. My advice and the book I select are yours—and without cost.
Perhaps a word or two from me will clear up some serious ailment. I have helped thousands upon thousands by my private personal advice and my best efforts is surely worth your simple request. So write me now while you have it fresh in mind. Sign no promise never owned. Dr. Shoop, Box 12, Racine, Wis.

Men were Arrested on Murder Charge

Two Arrests Made—Men Who Scuffled with Dyson, the Telegraph Operator, are in Custody

North Bay., Ont., Dec. 22.— Two sectionmen named Morin and Cornish were arrested by Provincial Constables Fred and Jerry Lefebvre last night, charged with the murder of W. J. Dyson, the T. and N. O. Railway night operator at Redwater.

The prisoners were brought to North Bay on a special train early this morning, together with the body of Dyson.

Cornish's story of the tragedy is that he had words with Dyson over orders given by the latter to unload a car of coal. The quarrel resulted in a fight, and Dyson threw Cornish on the floor and was pounding him when Morin rushed in with a heavy club and struck Dyson repeatedly over the head until he rolled unconscious and bleeding on the floor. Cornish and Morin then returned to their shack, where they remained until arrested.

Morin does not deny using the club, and states that he was only helping his chum, with no thought of causing death.

Both prisoners are young men, Morin being only 21 years old, while Cornish is 25. An inquest is being held today before Coroner McMurchy and the preliminary trial of the prisoners begin tomorrow.

Freight Conductor Nixon, whose train was at Redwater when the tragedy occurred, was an eye-witness of the crime, but states that it was done so quickly he was unable to interfere. The operator being dead, Nixon was unable to get running orders, and had to flag his train slowly to Diver, sixteen miles away, where the news of the tragedy was wired to North Bay.

The despatcher at North Bay reports a peculiar incident as happening at 5.33 p.m., which must have been about the time Dyson was assaulted. A queer jumble of letters half formed and incoherent came over the wire, which the operator was unable to piece together, but found afterwards that Dyson's key at Redwater had been opened and remained open two hours afterwards, so that the Redwater key must have been the one which attracted his attention, suggesting that Dyson must have crawled to his key in an endeavor to warn his chief of his condition, but his brain refused to respond to the call, and death came before he could report the tragedy.

Dyson, the dead operator, has relatives in Guelph.

Firemen's Christmas Tree a Big Success

One of the happiest events which ever came off in Peterborough was the first annual Christmas tree in the fire hall yesterday afternoon and evening. The event was especially for the firemen, their wives and families, but a few friends were invited to participate in the festivities. To Chief Howard is due the credit for suggesting the affair and largely for the success achieved. The firemen, nearly all married men, with young children, are bound to remain on duty Christmas eve and Christmas day. They are thus deprived of those old, but ever popular Christmas jollifications in their own homes. The affair yesterday took its place. All the firemen and their families joined together and had one big Christmas tree and one big afternoon and evening and a big dinner. It was an occasion of joy and good fellowship from beginning to end. Everybody was happy from the smallest babe with its comfort to the grey-haired grandfather.

The firemen were all up early yesterday morning and began the work of decorating and preparing for their friends and guests. The whole interior of the handsome hall was beautifully trimmed with flags, bunting, greens, holly and Christmas mottoes and it presented a most attractive and inviting appearance. It was truely a holiday hall. Even the horses were not forgotten. They received an extra cleaning and their stalls were scrubbed and they appeared to enjoy the visitors quite as much as the men.

The festivities were devoted to the large dormitory at the south end of the hall. The tree was placed at the east end on a platform and it was very prettily trimmed, while the greater number of the presents were placed on tables at each side. The first part of the afternoon was devoted to music and a couple of speeches. Mr. Halpany's orchestra contributed the music as an expression of their appreciation of the services of the brigade, and it was thoroughly enjoyed. Mr. John King rendered several very fine vocal selections. Chief Howard occupied the chair, and Rev. Mr. Riddiford opened the proceedings with prayer.

Short addresses were delivered by the chief, Dr. Greer and Rev. Mr. Riddiford. That, however, was not what the children came there for. They wanted to see Santa Claus and to ascertain what he had for them. Old Santa did appear for a few minutes to the delight of all.

Then came the all important feature, viz., the distribution of prizes, and in this the chairman invited Mrs. (Dr.) Greer and Mrs. R. J. Kingan to assist. There were presents for everybody, and lots of them. The youngsters were loaded with toys and sweets and the older ones more substantial gifts. Then, too, there were some booby prizes. Some one put a large juicy lemon on the throne for ex-Ald. Johnston. There was a musical baton for P. C. Newhall. Ald. Phelan was presented with a bouquet in the form of a cabbage trimmed with flags and Ald. Buller got a scuttle of coal and an onion.

Amid all the laughter and the noise of the youngsters with their new toys the ladies got busy and helped the men spread the tables for the big meal. When it was ready 75 sat down to a menu that was choice in the extreme. There were turkeys, geese and all the good things one could wish for and the young firemen with all the enthusiasm of childhood were soon busy punishing the eatables. Chief Howard occupied the head of the table with Dr. Greer on his right and Judge Huyeke on his left. A second table had to be laid for the firemen and about 20 others.

After supper addresses were given by Ald. J. J. Turner, Judge Huyke Ald. Buller, Ald. Phelan, Mr Kingan and Mr. Miller of the Quaker Oats. A most enjoyable evening was spent until about half-past ten o'clock.

Governor Seaborn Wright Talks on Local Option in Georgia

Eloquent Speaker Delighted a Large Audience—He Told of the Success of Local Option in His State—It Can be Enforced if the People Want It

Governor Seaborn Wright is without exception the most wonderful orator that has visited Peterborough since the local option campaign began. He is in a class all by himself. He carries conviction and makes votes for the abolition of the saloon while the others are making a laugh. He talks like one with authority and he fills his hearers with a feeling that they dare not go against his teachings for their own good, to say nothing of the welfare of the generations still unborn.

Governor Wright does speak with authority and there is probably no one on the American continent who has more right to speak. He led the fight for the boys against the saloon in his State of Georgia and he has since been in close touch with the movement, and has helped to make it a success, for a success it has been.

The Governor of the State of Georgia, arrived at the Opera House in company with Rev. J. G. Potter about 8.30. He began his address a few minutes afterwards and continued until shortly after ten o'clock. During the whole of that time he held the immense audience spellbound. There was no funny jokes, no blood and thunder and damnation in his address. It was too serious and too earnest to permit of any such thing and even when the audience applauded occasionally they did so in a sort of apologetic way for interrupting the speaker. Governor Wright held his audience as in a vice while for an hour and a half he drove home truth after truth and clinched it in the minds of those present. He was in earnest himself and he compelled earnestness from all who heard him.

In opening the Hon. Seaborn Wright said, The movement in which we are engaged is by no means a local one. Men who do not post themselves on such matters are too likely to take only a local view of it. But, there is not a government in the civilized world today that is not being agitated by this same thing. In the Southern States in the past three years 22,000 saloons have been outlawed. One half of the great Republic is today dry. In the present British election one of the great issues is the fight against the liquor trust.

You all are here in Peterborough is not upon any man, whether it is the man who drinks, or the man who keeps the saloon, or against any other man. You have no right to attempt to interfere with a man's habit if that habit affects the man only. If the saloon only affected the man who drinks in it the speaker said he would abandon the platform at once. If a man drinks or keeps hotel that is his own lookout. The trouble is with the law which has created a system that is entirely wrong, and which outrages all justice and decency. It is this system that you are fighting and nothing else. There is not a drinking man in this city who would not break loose from the chains of drink if only he could. You are fighting to help men against a horrible system which you people who are voters and your ancestors have created. You passed the law which makes that all ruining business legitimate. You asked the hotel men to come in and you made only one condition and that was that they pay you a percentage of the profits.

What you people want to get in your heads is "I want to get out of this awful business myself I have helped to ruin millions and I have not helped to advance a living soul. Let me get out of it." Every man woman and child in this city is in the liquor business so long as the present system exists and so long as you take $5000 a year out of the saloon keepers' profits. That is the most horrible part of the whole business. You are everyone in the liquor business and sharing in the profits.

Hon. Mr Wright, a son of a slave holder in the South, said that in those days they put the slaves on the block and sold their bodies to the highest bidder. You men and women who take the profits of the liquor traffic, place your boys, flesh of your flesh and blood of your blood on the block and put them up at auction. After a while all the saloon keepers club together and offer $5,000,000 for the lot and you knock them down to them.

In closing the speaker made a wonderful appeal for every man and woman in Peterborough to vote out the saloon and wash their own hands of that iniquitous business and save the unborn generations from the awful temptations to which you have been subjected yourselves.

UNION BANK

Had a Most Prosperous Year During 1909.

At the annual meeting of the Union Bank of Canada, held in Quebec, on Saturday, the president, the Hon. John Sharples, made the statement that the past year's business had been very gratifying, and that the net profits for the twelve months ended November 30 last, after deducting expenses for management, interest due depositors, reserving for interest and exchange and making provision for bad and doubtful debts, amounted to $407,541. After paying four quarterly dividends at the rate of 7 percent per annum to the amount of $224,126, and transferring to rest account $100,000, together with $100,000 written off bank premises and a $10,000 contribution to the officers' pension fund, the balance of profits carried forward was $28,676.

Deposits, not bearing and bearing interest, show the large amount of $34,222,820. This is an indication of the widespread prosperity in all parts of Canada. The rest account is now placed at $1,900,000 as against the paid up capital of $3,202,070. The call and short loans on stocks and bonds show a total of $1,282,083, while other loans and bills discounted current, amounted to $26,167,159.

The rest of the report showed equally gratifying increases, and, altogether, the Union Bank finds itself in a very strong and prosperous conditions, and the usual vote of thanks was passed to those in charge of affairs.

OBITUARY.

Yesterday morning at 10.30 o'clock death came to a venerable and beloved parish priest who has been associated with the religious life and activities of this county for the past generation. Rev. Father W. J. Keilty passed away at the parsonage of St. Joseph's church, Douro, after an illness which has long threatened his life. Some dozen years ago Rev. Father Keilty was afflicted with a severe illness which his physicians said must have a fatal ending in a year or two; but the fatal stroke was withheld till yesterday morning. For all that time victim as he was to an incurable and weakening disease, he still faithfully fulfilled the duties of his sacred office with a cheerfulness and fidelity which spoke volumes for his pious zeal and devotion to duty.

Rev. William J. Keilty was born in Prescott, on the bank of the St. Lawrence, sixty-four years ago in 1846. He received his literary education, which was of an unusually liberal order, and his theological education at Regiopoles College, Kingston, and the Grand Seminary, Quebec respectively. His first duties after his ordination which took place under Rt. Rev. Bishop Hiran in 1869 were at Kingston where for some time he was chaplain to the penitentiary. He was subsequently parish priest at Kitley in Leeds county and about thirty years ago was promoted to be parish priest of Enniskmore, where he ministered faithfully. He was the first resident priest of the parish, his predecessors having been Rev. Fathers Coyle and Hogan. During Father Keilty's incumbency, the church of St. Martin's was erected and also the commodious rectory. In 1880 he was transferred to St. Joseph's parish, Douro, exchanging churches with the late Father Dan O'Connell. Here he has been the faithful parish priest for a score of years.

Rev. Father Keilty has had a large place in the religious life of Peterborough county for the past thirty years and held a warm place not only in the hearts of his parishioners, but in the affection and esteem of the general public, for his warm Irish heart, his genialty of disposition and cheery bonhommie, made him persona grata to, and popular with all classes of the community, both within and without the pale of his sacerdotal influence. He passed away, conscious to the last moment, surrounded by all his living relatives and strengthened for the journey into the unknown by undreaded beyond by the last rites of Holy Mother church and after a life of fruitful and devoted service in the interest of his fellowmen and the Church, of which he was a venerated and zealous priest.

Rev. Father Keilty is survived by a brother and a sister. The brother, Mr. Marsh Keilty, is Bursar of the Mimico Asylum, Toronto, and the sister is Sister Mary of the Nativity of the House of Providence, Kingston.

A solemn requiem high mass for the repose of the soul of the departed priest will be celebrated at St. Joseph's church this morning at 9 o'clock, after which the remains will be escorted to Indian River and placed upon the midday C.P.R. express for conveyance to Prescott where the funeral service will be conducted and interment take place on Friday.

Thus passes to his reward "Father Keilty" as he has been familiarly called for the past generation by the people of Peterborough, and not only the adherents of the faith he at once championed and adorned, but thousands of others will join in the prayers.

Chief Howard Caned by the Department

During the festivities at the fire hall yesterday afternoon the firemen took occasion to show their appreciation of Chief Howard's kindness to them and interest in them, and presented him with an address and a handsome gold headed cane inscribed with his name, the date and from whom it was received. The chief was taken completely by surprise. He was very proud of the gift and was most happy that the men appreciated what he had been able to do for them. The address was as follows:—

Peterborough, Dec. 22, '09.

W. A. Howard, Esq.,
Chief Fire Department,
Peterborough, Ont.

Dear Chief,—At this festive occasion when everyone is extending the good hand of fellowship, and all are appreciating that joy which in boyhood days filled the heart, we the firemen under your command wish to extend to you and yours our heartiest good wishes, for a Merry Christmas, and a Happy and prosperous New Year.

At the same time we wish to express our loyalty to you and our confidence in you as chief of the Peterborough Fire Department.

You have shown many times your great interest in our welfare, both as a department and individually, and we desire to express our appreciation in doing so allow us to take the opportunity to present to you this stick, and may you be spared very many years to lean your weight upon it.

Once more, chief, allow us to wish you and Mrs. Howard and Clifford, a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Signed on behalf of the firemen.

The Tragedy of Christmas Gift

Guelph, Dec. 22.—Last night Mr. Wm. Dyson, a market gardener, who lives just on the outskirts of Guelph, expressed a parcel of Christmas presents to his son at Redwater New Ontario. This morning when he was in the express office again a friend read to him an account in one of the morning papers of the murder of his son, to whom he had sent the Christmas remembrances. This was the first intimation Mr. Dyson had of the death of his boy and he was greatly affected.

The early accounts of the affair stated that young Dyson was a Toronto boy, but this was a mistake, as he had only lived in Toronto long enough to learn telegraphy. He had been operator on the T. and N. O. at Redrater since last spring.

Beside his father and mother, who are well known and highly respected, he has a brother in Hamilton.

Mr. Dyson wired this morning to have the body of his son sent home to Guelph.

Adam Beck Is in Mayoralty Fight

London, Dec. 22.—A last minute surprise in connection with today's nominations was the acceptance of the mayoralty candidature by Mr. Adam Beck. He did this as a result of the request signed by prominent business men. The general impression here is that Mr. Beck will make every effort to remove the unsatisfactory conditions that have prevailed in the council here for months, and which caused talk of a Royal Commission investigation.

The fight for the mayoralty will be a three-cornered one. Mr. Beck having as his opponents, Ald. Beattie, a Conservative, and bitter opponent of Mr. Beck's Niagara power project, and Ald. Ferguson, Liberal. There is no doubt of Mr. Beck's election, but the legality of his holding his position on the Niagara Power Commission, and acting as Mayor may result in legal proceedings.

The friends of Mr. Porter White of the firm of White & Gillespie, will regret to learn that he is confined to his room with an acute attack of illness.

Great Sensation in India Three Assassinated

THREE ASSASSINATIONS

INDIA—A. M. T. Jackson, governor of an important city, shot dead by native in sensational manner in Bombay.

RUSSIA—Col. Karpoff, chief of Russia's dreaded secret police in St. Petersburg, blown to pieces by a bomb.

KOREA—Yi Wan Yung, prime minister, stabbed to death for yielding to Japanese influence.

ROUMANIA—Premier of country, shot and seriously wounded by an anarchist.

Bombay, India, Dec. 22.—The police are working today on the theory that the assassination last night of A. M. T. Jackson, administrative head of the important city of Nasik, who was shot to death in the lobby of a theater here, was the direct result of a widespread plot to murder English officials one by one. The assassin made no attempt to escape, but willingly submitted to arrest, and boasts of his deed.

The assassination of Jackson was fully as thrilling as the recent murder in London, of Col. Wyllie, a British officer from India, who was shot to death in a crowded lecture hall by an Indian student as a result of the same plot to kill English officials whenever possible.

Jackson was entering the lobby of the theater, walking between two young women, with one on either arm. The lobby was crowded with Englishmen in evening dress and Indians in all their Oriental finery, when a native approached Jackson. Without a word he began firing. The young women sought to shield the doomed man, but to no avail.

The murder of Col. Wyllie and the story told by his slayer on the gallows, showed that a society of natives had been formed, which recognized the impossibility of an insurrection against British rule, but had determined to kill British officials by assassination.

Lord Minto, Viceroy of India, and his wife were the targets for a bomb thrown at them in the streets of Ahmedbad on Nov. 13. Attempts have also been made to kill Lord Kitchener, Sir Andrew Fraser, Lt. Governor of Bengal, and other high officials. Last February a bomb was thrown at a train at Barrackapore. It later developed that the assassins believed Lord Minto was a passenger on the train.

Yi was bitterly opposed to Japanese domination in Corea, but submitted to it. When the Japanese influence became so great in Corea that the Japanese were virtually naming Cabinet members and controlling them, Yi sought to resign. Marquis Ito, however, refused to let him leave the cabinet. Though he knew Yi was an enemy of Japan, he believed he was conscientious, and wanted him to remain at the head of the government. So great was Yi's antipathy to Japan that he refused to present a petition to the Emperor, begging him to allow Japan to annex Corea. The natives, however, have been incensed at Yi, believing that as an enemy of Japan, he should resign and aid in the fight of Japanese influence, instead of remaining in a Cabinet that was under Japanese domination.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 22.—Col. Karpoff, chief of the St. Petersburg secret police, was blown to piece at an early hour today by a bomb.

Hiss assassination, following closely upon that of Capt Melikoff, at Tiflis, has convinced the authorities that another terrorist reign is being inaugurated.

The murder of Col Karpoff was one of the cleverest assassination plots in Russian murder history. The man responsible for the crime is under arrest. According to his passports he is Michael Vosskressensky and the police are endeavoring to establish his identity and locate any accomplices.

DISGUISED AS OLD MAN.

Vosskressensky recently rented a flat in the Viborg district. Late last night an elderly man, accompanied by one servant, called at the flat. To the doorkeeper he stated that he was the uncle of the tenant, and was shown at once to Vosskressensky's apartments. The latter, who was apparently awaiting his visitor, met him at the top of the stairs, and a moment later there was a fearful explosion. The entire front of the building was blown out, and the old man was simply blown to pieces, while his servant was fatally wounded.

The noise of the explosion attracted the police and as they ran to the scene they were met by Vosskressensky, who with his clothing, torn and with blood streaming from a number of lacerations of his face and hands, was running away from the demolished buildings. As the police tried to shoot him he drew an automatic revolver, but before he could use it, it was knocked from his hands and he was captured.

The police were mystified for a time, but finally the servant, who is fatally injured at the hospital, recovered sufficiently to tell them that the man who had been blown to pieces, and whose identity had not been established, was Karpoff, the dreaded head of the secret police.

MAN SHORN OF STRENGTH.

Weak Liver So Undermined His Vitality That He Almost Died.

"Early manhood vigor easily led me to view irregularities of my system as incapable of affecting my strength. I am a barrister," writes a well known legal light, "and there are times in our professional work so exciting and exhausting that any weakness reveals itself in all its naked awfulness. Pressure of work prompted me to ignore some of the distressing symptoms of impaired liver activity—sour stomach, fulness after eating and dulness of intellectual activity. It was not until after a severe attack of sleeplessness following an exacting session of court, and a nervous excitability that later developed, that I realized fully my condition. My physician ordered complete change and rest, but my engagements rendered impossible this course.

"To correct the system I began using Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and to my delight not only did they establish regularity, but the liver activity of y earlier days returned. The solution of my health problem was immediate, digestion improved, appetite became active, and my nerves were speedily up to my old fighting mark. Please head me as a Dr. Hamilton Pill man."

No medicine so valuable for those leading a sedentary life as Dr. Hamilton's Pills, sold in yellow boxes, 25c., all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Canada.

Steamship "Prince Rupert" Is Launched.

The Grand Trunk Pacific Railway are in receipt of a cable message announcing the successful launching yesterday at Wallsend-on-Tyne, England of the steamship "Prince Rupert," the first of the Grand Trunk Pacific steamers at present under construction for service on the Pacific Coast between Prince Rupert, Vancouver, Victoria and other Puget Sound ports. Upon the completion of the steamer within the next sixty days she will be sent via Cape Horn to the Pacific Coast and will go into commission next season. The companion ship, "Prince George" is also under construction and will be sent to the coast as soon as completed. These fine steamships will inaugurate the commencement of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway in the coast trade of the Pacific, are being constructed on the most modern designs and will be models of comfort in every particular.

DOMESTIC SCIENCE.

Berlin, Dec. 22.—All German girls will be forced, by a system of conscription, to undergo a period of training in domestic science, if the German Evangelical Women's League succeeds in the campaign that it started today.

The league proposes that just as German men are compelled to serve in the army, so should all German girls be compelled by law to serve for a minimum period in the kitchen and in other household work.

An elaborate system of registration and police supervision is proposed, in order to enforce the compulsory household and kitchen service.

A boon to Stock Raisers

To Know How to Cure Colic, Distemper, Colds, Swellings, Etc.—Saves Thousands Each Year.

It is a matter of vital importance to every farmer, horse-owner and stock-raiser to know exactly what to do when one of his animals is taken suddenly sick.

The letter of Mr. Frank F. Fullerton, which we print below, gives information of inestimable value, and tells of his experience in curing ailing stock during the past thirty-eight years:

SAVED $1,000 BY NERVILINE

"Several years ago when my horses took colic I used to give them Cayenne Pepper in a few cases only did it help, and because I had no proper means at hand I lost several valuable animals. Some one told me of the success Mr. Wendling, of Brockville, Ont., had in his racing stables with "Nerviline," so I laid in a supply. It wasn't very long before Nerviline saved the life of a valuable stallion of mine, which was worth at least $1,000.00. This horse was taken with colic, and would have died, had it not been for Nerviline. I have used Nerviline for reducing swellings, for taking out distemper lumps, and easing a bad cough, and always found it worked well. I recommend every man who owns horses or cattle to keep Nerviline on hand.

Mr. Fullerton is one of the best known residents of Stormont, and his recommendation as an experienced and practical horseman proved beyond question how valuable Nerviline really is.

Give Nerviline a trial. It's good for man or beast, internally or externally. 25c per bottle or five for $1.00. At all dealers or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

BOOK MADE TOWNS.

Holiday Resorts That Owe Their Popularity to Authors.

The most remarkable example of a book made town is Biskra, the oasis in the Sahara that Robert Hichens idealized under the name of Beni Mora in his novel of "The Garden of Allah."

Biskra, quite unknown in the past, is now, thanks to Mr Hichens, a fashionable winter resort. It is rather odd that all the world should know that Biskra was meant by Beni Mora in "The Garden of Allah." There is a Beni Mora near Biskra, a kind of swamp, with a few clay huts and a palm or two sticking up out of the mud, but Biskra itself is never mentioned in the book.

Ilfracombe, the north Devon watering place, owes its renown to Charles Kingsley, who in his novel of "Westward Ho!" praises it.

Two other Devon watering places, Lynton and Lynmouth, are book made. Blackmore's novel of "Lorna Doone" first drew the public to them.

Pierri Loti in "Pecheur d'Islande" described very beautifully the Breton seaport of Paimpol. Many persons in consequence have visited Paimpol in the hope of passing the summer there. Vain hope! Paimpol, with its muddy, smelly tidal river, is not quite an ideal holiday resort.—Exchange.

EXPENSIVE STEAK.

Ten Pounds of Beef That Sold For $48 a Pound.

The highest price ever paid for beefsteak so far as is known was at Circle City, Alaska. The first beefsteak that ever reached that town sold for $48 a pound, according to the newspapers of the time.

Coughs that are tight, or distressing tickling coughs, get quick and certain help from Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. On this account Druggists everywhere are favoring Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. And it is entirely free from Opium, Chloroform, or any other stupefying drug. The tender leaves of a harmless lung-healing mountainous shrub give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy its curative properties. Those leaves have the power to calm the most distressing Cough, and to soothe, and heal the most sensitive bronchial membranes. Mothers should, for safety's sake alone, always demand Dr. Shoop's. It can with perfect freedom be given to even the youngest babes. Test it once yourself, and see! Sold by all dealers.

• Bill's • Sunbonnet

He Thought It Was Kate Who Wore It, but It Wasn't.

By BELLE MANIATES.

Copyright, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.

It was morning in Idaho, and the sun was beaming pleasantly upon Barry Vail as he rode alongside the big irrigating canal that he had been sent to inspect.

"Many settlers on the reservation, Jim?" he asked the foreman.

"They are coming now that they see the canal is a go. The nearest one is Judge Rand. His shack's up yonder. He's in luck. We go right through his ranch."

Judge Rand! Vail wondered if it could be the same man he had known long ago. He concluded it was not possible.

"Which way do I take to his ranch?" he asked.

"He's generally clearing sagebrush this time of day. Follow the canal and you'll likely run on him."

Vail rode on, tilting his sombrero back and humming a love tune. He was in a contemplative mood this morning, and the word "Rand" carried him back to the east, where he had been born and bred, but whose dust he had shaken from his feet five years before. At that time he had been in love with Kate Rand, an imperious, self willed girl. One fateful day she had announced her intention of going to a masquerade in the character and dress of a page. His young, conservative scruples were horrified. He objected, and when she persisted in carrying out her intention his dictatorial attitude moved him to break the engagement. Immediately afterward he secured an appointment as civil engineer in the west. Lately his love affair viewed at long range appeared a very boyish affair.

When he came upon the solitary figure digging doggedly at a resisting root he recognized the man who had come so near being his father-in-law. There were mutual recognitions of pleasure, and then the judge explained that he had been caught in the financial coil of Wall street and had lost all his worldly possessions.

"Just enough left," he said, "to make a payment on 160 acres here, which I shall put to potatoes. The spirit of the west has caught me, Barry. I wouldn't go back into Wall street purgatory for any consideration."

After Vail had related his own experiences and inquired after the fortunes of mutual friends he asked almost sheepishly:

"Did Kate come out here with you?"

The judge was silent for a moment. Then he said, with a sigh:

"Can you picture Kate in the primitive life? She had an opportune invitation to accompany some relatives on a trip abroad."

"And you live out here alone?" exclaimed Vail pityingly.

"No. I have my helper, Bill. We are very comfortable—a little shack for a living room and dining room combined, two sleeping tents and an out of door oven—a place for these parts."

But Vail was not listening. His attention was concentrated on a slender figure that was approaching in the distance. The figure was clad in khaki trousers, blue shirt, a red kerchief and a sunbonnet.

"Who in the world is that?" he asked.

The judge turned hastily and looked confused.

"Oh, that's Bill! I want him to go to the next ranch on an errand for me. Excuse me a moment. I will be back."

He hastened toward the sunbonneted figure, and after a moment's conversation the figure turned and went the way from which it had come.

"Your Bill doesn't look equal to much hard work," observed Vail dryly.

"Bill's all right at farm work or housework," assured the judge. "He's wiry, willing, enduring and, best of all, intensely interested in the development of the ranch."

"You see a good many queer sights in Idaho," remarked Vail, "but I'll swear I never saw a man or lad wearing a sunbonnet."

"Bill lost his one and only sombrero in a reckless ride last week. He went to the nearest ranch to buy or borrow one, but the only superfluous headgear it had was this sunbonnet, to which he is quite attached, as he is a little fearful of sunstrokes."

"Well, I must return to the canal. I intend to be neighborly, judge."

"Of course. Let me see. Come over tomorrow to dinner."

Vail chuckled softly as he rode away.

"I wonder if the judge thought he could string me that way. I have a very firm conviction that Bill is Kate, and, remembering my boyish horror of male attire, the judge headed her off. I suppose he thought he had deceived me with his evasive statement about her trip abroad and invited me tomorrow, when he will take pains to have Bill, alias Kate, absent. I know of no reason why we should not meet in friendly fashion. I know I admire her a thousand times more than I ever did for coming out here and wearing any kind of clothes for working purposes. I'll just go over tonight, whether I am welcome or not, and stay to supper. Fancy the sybarite Kate cooking!"

Late in the afternoon he rode up to the shack, and, as he expected, Bill, clad in feminine attire, was in the doorway. She was a different girl [illegible] to begin acquaintance anew with this womanly Kate.

"You must stay to supper. That's what they call the meal out here. I shall prepare it myself tonight."

"Don't you generally prepare it?" he couldn't help asking.

"No," she said casually. "Bill, the help, cooks, but he is away."

Vail decided to accept the little fiction regarding Bill, and when the judge came home and was informed by his daughter that Bill had been called away for two weeks, which was just the length of time Vail was to be in the vicinity, he never changed expression.

"Ruth," said the judge to resolve

"Ruth!" interrupted Vail in surprise. She smiled.

"Father calls me by my middle name since we came out here. It was my mother's name, and he thinks I am growing to be like her."

After supper, when the judge and Vail had smoked and chatted, a neighbor came to talk planting to the judge.

Barry proposed to Ruth (as he now liked to think of her) that they ride down the course of the canal, and she readily accepted. He remembered how well she used to ride and how well her boyish slimness looked in the saddle. But never in city parks could they have had this glorious canter over the wind swept way on the open plains. They came back in the glory of a western moonlight. When near the shack Barry drew rein.

"Shall we," he asked earnestly, "begin all over again?"

"Yes," she replied in a low tone. "That was what I wanted to ask you to do."

For the next two weeks every moment he could snatch from his work Barry spent at the shack. Feeling that he was depriving the judge of Bill's help, he put in some effective work on the ranch. In his rides, walks and talks with Bill—Ruth he felt a sense of intimacy he had never known when with the Kate of seven days.

"Darling," he said impetuously one night after a long silence, "can you forget the past and my foolish superiority? Can you learn to love me again, Kate?"

"Don't!" she cried breathlessly. "I am not Kate!"

He looked at her in bewilderment.

"I am Kate's younger sister. I was away at school when you knew her, but I used to love to hear about you from father. I didn't know at the first that you mistook me for her. Afterward—well, I was afraid you would not care for me, but you can't have her. She's engaged."

"Dear," he said gently, "I don't want Kate. I want you, whether you are Kate, Ruth or Bill."

"Bill?" she interrupted faintly.

"I knew," he laughed. "Bill's sunbonnet gave him away."

Stream of Life.

Life bears us on like the current of a mighty river. Our boat at first glides down the narrow channel, through the playful murmurings of the little brook and the windings of its grassy borders. The trees shed their blossoms over our young heads; the flowers on the brink seem to offer themselves to our young hands; we are happy in hope, and we grasp eagerly at the beauties around us, but the stream hurries on, and still our hands are empty. Our course in youth and manhood is along a wider and deeper flood, amid objects more striking and magnificent. We are animated by the moving pictures of enjoyment and industry passing before us; we are excited by some short lived disappointment. But our energy and our depression are both in vain. The stream bears us on, and our joys and griefs are alike left behind us.

We may be shipwrecked—we cannot be delayed. Whether rough or smooth the river hastens to its home till the roar of the ocean is in our ears and the tossing of the waves is beneath our feet, and the land lessens from our eyes, and the floods are lifted up around us, and we take our leave of earth and its inhabitants until of our further voyage there is no witness save the infinite and eternal.—Exchange.

Tapioca.

This elegant and delicate starch is the product of a plant that is cultivated very extensively in the Malay peninsula, where its culture is almost entirely in the hands of the Chinese. The tubers of the plant (Manihot utilissima), which weigh on an average from ten to twenty-five pounds, are first scraped and then carefully washed, after which they are reduced to a pulp by being passed between rollers. This pulp is carefully washed and shaken up with abundance of water until the feicula separates and passes through a very fine sieve into a tub placed beneath. The flour so obtained is repeatedly washed and then placed on mats and bleached by exposure to the sun and air. It is finally converted into the pearl tapioca of commerce by being placed in a crude shaped frame covered with canvas. It is slightly moistened and subjected to a rotary motion, by which means it is granulated. It is next dried in the sun and finally over the fire in an iron pan greased with vegetable tallow and is then ready for the market.

Hedgehogs For Pets.

Women of fashion in England have taken to hedgehogs as pets. The hedgehogs is common to Europe and western Asia and is easily tamed. The Countess of Craven, who was Miss Bradley-Martin, of New York, has a dozen pet hedgehogs in her country place in England, and the queer little animals answer her call and eat from her hand. She has five young hedgehogs, hardly bigger than mice. These animals roll in a ball, showing nothing except their spines, when strangers cross their path, but they are quick to make friends. One of the daughters of Premier Asquith has two pet hedgehogs. The girl the other day ruffled the dignity of a visiting diplomat by walking into the drawing-room of the official residence in Downing street with the two bristling little fellows at her heels.

Telling the Age of a Fish.

The age of a fish can be determined with accuracy by inspection of the otoliths, or bony concretions which are found in the auditory apparatus. These otoliths increase in size during the entire life of the fish, each year adding two layers, a light colored layer formed in summer and a dark layer formed in autumn and winter. The alternate layers are sharply contrasted and very distinct, so that there is no difficulty in counting them. The number of pairs of layers is equal to the number of years the fish has lived.

Preventies, the new Candy Cold Cure Tablets, are said by Druggists to have four special specific advantages over all other remedies for a cold. First—They contain no Quinine, nothing harsh or sickening. Second—They give almost instant relief. Third—Pleasant to the taste, like candy. Fourth—A large box 48 Preventies—at 25 cents. Also fine for feverish children. Sold by all dealers.

Closing sale of all china and glassware, useful and fancy articles at genuine bargains. Store open every night. Times Bookstore.

PICTURE FRAMING.

A Most Important Point to Consider In House Furnishing.

When will people learn that it isn't necessary to have a liberal art education and to understand all the principals of chiaroscuro and composition to use some discretion and taste in the selection and framing of pictures?

In the average home the collection of pictures seems to bear a striking resemblance to the history of Topsy, who "jes growed."

The pictures that hang on a certain wall are there not because the owner consciously wishes them there, but because the mysterious ways of chance have put them there.

Worse than the misfortune of a heterogeneous collection of pictures are the evils of poor framing.

Frank Alvah Parsons, the director of the New York Art school, is quoted as saying:

"The way pictures are framed has an immense deal to do with the effect. Period pictures should have period frames that is the frame and picture should be of the same period instead of as is seen in so many wealthy homes, French pictures in Florentine frames, old Italian masters in Louis XV. frames, russo frames around simple colonial maidens and mixed atrocities around other pictures.

"When a picture is not a period picture," says Mr. Parsons, "its color, size and action must be studied and the frame chosen with reference to these.

"Pictures showing large objects, vivid colors, lively action, require wide, deep frames. Rosa Bonheur's 'Horse Fair' would look silly in a narrow little frame. Quiet pictures take inconspicuous frames. Many an oil painting that has an elaborate gilt frame shouting around it would look better in a frame of wood stained to a color that harmonizes with the tones of the picture.

"Every picture has its special color, like every woman. There are some people who look stunning in blue, but will look positively hideous in red. Others appear to best advantage in browns. In the same way picture frames must harmonize with the pictures they inclose or the picture appears to bad advantage. Just as the complexion of an individual dictates the color of the clothes that the individual shall wear, so the color of the picture indicates the tone of the frame that it needs. Harmony may be secured by making the tone of the frame fit the darkest general mass in the picture. This does not necessarily mean the darkest tone, but the darkest tone that is general. The color of the frame should be more neutral than the picture mass.

"The wall or the wall covering rather is what kills the picture in many houses. People who will have intense figured wall coverings," says Mr. Parsons, "should keep their pictures in portfolios. The wall should be the unassertive background—nothing more."

Tribesmen Active.

The Indian Northwest frontier is presently in an unsettled state, owing to the activity of the Khostwal tribesmen. The border police have been strengthened as the Khostwal men recently made an attack on Batoshai in the Kurram, and lost several men killed and wounded in the fray. Owing to their reverse they have apparently collected in some numbers, and are bent on revenge. The disturbed conditions in the neighborhood of Bannu still continue. As bands of the Khostwals hang about, the Tochi road to Miranshah has to be picketed, whenever officers are traveling to or from Bannu, and escorts have to be provided for officers of the militia journeying from post to post. A sense of insecurity is felt also in British territory since the mail runga for Kohat was attacked fifteen miles from Bannu. On that occasion the Naib Tahsildar of Miranshah was carried off, but released by the raiders owing to the hot pursuit of the border military police. The tonga was carrying English mails, but fortunately none of the bags were taken. Only one bag of Indian letters was stolen, and this was recovered.

Getting Rich in Australia.

What thrift and energy may do even for the farm laborer in Australia is well illustrated by a case which recently came before the Wragga Land Board. One of the applicants for a selection was a lad between 18 and 19 years of age. It was shown in evidence that while working as a farm laborer the applicant had saved sufficient money to buy farm horses, costing in the aggregate $350, and that he still had $300 cash in hand. During harvest time he had received $1 per week and his keep for driving five horses in a stripper; while ploughing he received $6.25, and for the rest of the year $5 per week and keep. A member of the board remarked that if the Premier would have a report of this case printed and circulated in England, there would be no difficulty in securing desirable young men of the farm-laboring class as immigrants; the trouble would then be to keep them away. One resident of the district intimates that he could place at once ten young men of this type at $6.25 per week.

Her First Part.

Miss Wynne-Matthison, who is taking a leading part in the new Adelphi piece, "The Great Divide," found her first efforts to gain a footing on the ladder of theatrical fame in London far from encouraging. It is true that she recited and acted as an amateur in Shakespearean and other roles from the age of ten, but when she came to seek for professional engagements she found she could get nothing but a one-week part in a musical comedy; that was fourteen years ago. Since then Miss Matthison, who in private life is Mrs. Charles Rann Kennedy, has achieved much, and holds the distinction of being Sir Henry Irving's last leading lady. She is probably the last woman to whom he ever spoke, for she was playing Fair Rosamond to his Henry II. the night of his fatal attack.

Stingy Men Take Heed!

Crosby had always been inclined to conservatism in household expenses, especially in the matter of his wife's dress bills. His wife went so far as to say that he was penurious.

She had been in need of a new boa for a long time, and after she hinted that her happiness would never be quite complete till she had one, he at last consented to make the purchase. He went into a store and picked out two, one of which was a cheap imitation affair, and the other a fine expensive one. Taking them to his office before going home, he changed the price marks, the expensive tag on the cheap boa and vice versa.

His wife examined them for a long time very seriously indeed, and then said: "Now, dear, the expensive boa is a beauty, and it is very good of you to allow me my choice. Some women would take it without a word; but really I don't think we can afford the more costly one, and besides, dear, I think the cheap one the more stylish, too. Why, Cros, dear, what's the matter? Are you ill?"

But dear old Cros had made his getaway into the night where he could kick himself as hard as he felt he deserved. But what he would like to know is this: Did his wife happen on the more expensive boa by pure accident, or——

Are Tall Men Stupid?

Dr. I. Popper, an eminent German physician, has been making some interesting observations regarding the stature of individuals and the relation that exists between height and talent and genius. The doctor finds that not only persons with considerable talent but the geniuses of the world have all been and are of medium size or less.

Among statesmen he points out Attila, Cromwell, Frederick II., Napoleon, Gambetta, Thiers—all of whom were of very small stature. Jesus Christ, too, the doctor says, according to the Talmud, was built in small proportions; so was Paul. Among the great artists the short men were Raphael, Michael Angelo, Titian, Leonardo da Vinci, and Mensel.

Wills in Ancient Greece.

Wills were introduced into Athens by Solon, though in many other parts of Greece they were discountenanced. Diogenes Laertius gives copies of the wills of several celebrated men, such as Plato, Aristotle and others. Before Solon's law no man was allowed to make a will, the wealth of the deceased belonging in certain proportions to the members of his family, and even after Solon only an Athenian citizen had the privilege of bequest, the estates of both slaves and foreigners being confiscated for the use of the public.

Preventics, the new Candy Cold Cure Tablets, are said by druggists to have four special specific advantages over all other remedies for a cold. First—They contain no Quinine nothing harsh or sickening. Second—They give almost instant relief. Third—Pleasant to the taste, like candy. Fourth—A large box—48 Preventics—at 25 cents. Synopsis of Canadian Northwest Land Regulations.

ANY PERSON WHO IS THE sole head of a family, or any male over 16 years old, may homestead land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughters, brother, or sister of an intending homesteader.

Duties—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 30 acres, solely owned and occupied by him, or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

THE PRUDENTIAL, ONE OF THE WORLD'S GREATEST LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES, OPENS A BRANCH OFFICE IN THIS CITY.

Almost every one has heard of or known something of The Prudential Insurance Company of America, Home Office, Newark, N.J., often called the Gibraltar life insurance company, because of its use of the Rock of Gibraltar as a trade-mark. This big company has established a branch office in this city and is conducting business in both branches of insurance, Industrial and Ordinary.

About thirty-four years ago Industrial insurance was unknown in the United States. It was introduced on this continent by John F. Dryden founder and present chief executive of The Prudential, the Industrial plan at once found favor with the public.

This life insurance is applicable to every member of the family, from one year of age to seventy. The premiums are collected weekly from the homes of the insured and are from three cents per week upward, according to the amount insured for, thus bringing the benefits of life insurance protection within the means of the wage-earning population.

Much of the thrift and economy of this same wage-earning population may be traced to Industrial insurance. The habit of saving required to meet the weekly premiums unconsciously, but surely, inculcates similar habits of thrift and saving in other directions.

In the Ordinary branch all the popular forms of Life and Endowment policies are issued, in amounts from $1,000 up, and the cost is the lowest consistent with the liberal provisions of the policy and the high grade of life insurance afforded. As an investment a Prudential policy offers superior advantages.

The high standing of The Prudential makes it possible to do business satisfactorily, because there can be no doubt of a Prudential promise.

The Prudential has seven and three-quarter millions of policies in force, representing nearly a billion and a half of insurance.

In extending its field of operations to this city The Prudential offers a splendid opportunity for our young men to obtain profitable employment. Progress and promotion will be made if health and ability are shown. Any young man desirous of making money and laying up a competence for future should consult The Prudential's representative here.

Prudential Agents will be glad to furnish full and complete information concerning the plans of The Prudential to any one. You should take an interest in life insurance, for it may make a big difference in your family's happiness some day.
